William F. Albright Biography Collection

(Collection 100)

Scope and Content

William Foxwell Albright (May 24, 1891 to Sep 20, 1971) was an American archaeologist, biblical scholar, linguist and expert on ceramics. From the early twentieth century until his death, he was the “dean” of biblical archaeologists and the universally acknowledged founder of the Biblical archaeology movement (excerpt from Wikipedia).

One of Albright’s graduate students at Johns Hopkins University was Leona G. Running, a long time professor of Biblical Languages at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan. She also worked closely as an editorial assistant with Albright in the latter six years of his life preparing his last articles and books.

This collection mainly contains Leona Running’s materials used to write her book, William Foxwell Albright: A 20th Century Genius. The book was co-authored with David Noel Freedman, another graduate student of Albright, and an internationally leading figure in the study of the Bible and the ancient Near East.

Materials included in this collection include numerous published works and article drafts with handwritten corrections by Albright dating from 1910 to 1970’s; tapes and transcriptions of interviews with Albright’s family members, friends, colleagues and former students conducted by Running, Freedman, and one of Freedman’s student. There are also nine original letters signed by Albright, plus dozens of copies of Albright’s letters to his family members in his early years and some of his correspondence with others. There are also photographs of Albright and his family. The manuscript of Running’s book, William Foxwell Albright, is also included.

Arrangement

The arrangement was done partly by Running and partly by the Center. The folder titles in the Interview series of the collection are what Running used.

Provenance

Leona G. Running donated the bulk of this collection in August 1983. Some additional material was added in 2000 which related to the second edition of the book published in 1991.

Use

All users of this collection will complete the “Application to Use Unpublished Records,” and observe the regulation specified in the “Patron’s Agreement” and “Researcher’s Code of Conduct.” All records in this collection are open and available for research. Suggested citation for this collection:
