Caleb and Joshua Club Outlines Basic Principles

About two years ago Dr. E. A. Sutherland, President Emeritus of Madison College, began to give a series of lessons in Christian democracy and the great principles which underlie Christian education, especially as regards the work which should be accomplished during the time which remains to us before the coming of the Lord.

From this notable series of lessons by this distinguished educator the idea of a Caleb and Joshua Club was born, dedicated to the proposition that "we can do it." The basic principles of the club as formulated by a competent committee and passed on by the assembled club members follow:

1. Scholarship: We believe that we should build toward full accreditation.
2. Objectives: It should be our policy to train for lay workers only.
3. Work Education: Every work department should be a training laboratory.
4. Short Courses: Practical, intensive short courses should be given, in addition to our regular course work.
5. Affiliation with Units: There should be close affiliation with the units and self-supporting institutions, to help them and to train our students in practical unit work.
6. Management: There should be much authority and responsibility within departments, centering in a Finance Committee composed of representatives from all departments.
7. Self-Support: We should operate all departments on a self-supporting basis, each department operating within its own budget. The over-all operation of the institution should provide for a reserve fund to meet emergencies and for expansion and development. Any outside contributions should be used for expansion only.
8. Wages: Worker and student wages should be equitably balanced with changing costs of living.
9. Efficiency and Production: There should be room for no barnacles—no leeches. Only producers should have a place in a self-supporting institution.
10. Conference Relations: We are first of all loyal Seventh-day Adventists. We will cooperate fully with the organized work, supplementing it by uniting in all its

Spanish Students Visit Scarritt College

At the invitation of the Spanish Club of Scarritt College the Spanish-speaking students attending the different colleges and universities in the area of Nashville and vicinity met for an evening of entertainment on Saturday, February 21.

The group from Madison College included Betty and Harold Concepcion, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Quevedo, Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Quiñones, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Solar, Nayade and Emmanuel Cabrera, Maria Alfonso, Maria Sanchez, Jose Rodriguez, Hector Villanueva, Antonio Rivera, Nydia and Carlos Reyes, Luz Journet, Mr. and Mrs. Jesús Vega, and Mr. Gerardo Barón.

There were students from South America, Central America, Mexico, Cuba, and Puerto Rico. The national anthems of the different countries represented were played as the respective flags were raised, and each group sat under the flag of its own country. As the Puerto Rican group did not have a flag, its representatives sat under the flag of the United States.

The program included indoor games and four short plays presented by the Spanish teachers and several Scarritt students wearing Spanish costumes. Refreshments were served after the program.

FILE APRIL 23 SELECTIVE TEST APPLICATION NOW

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1953 should file applications at once for the April 23 administration, Selective Service National Headquarters advised today.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any Selective Service local board. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 9, 1953. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

set for Virginia-Gene Shankel-Rittenhouse's appearance in Nashville has been postponed until next fall.

Here is something to look forward to—the college choir has recently begun work on the cantata, "Esther," to be presented in full costume next quarter. From what we have heard of the music, we can truthfully say that it is beautiful. Professor Mitzelfelt says he conducted this cantata here at Madison about twenty years ago. Does anyone remember it?

We are hearing talk of a choir trip to Houston, Texas, during the spring vacation. It sounds interesting, doesn't it? Thus far, this school year, the choir has made a trip north to Evansville, Indiana. Now it looks as though it may go south. To paraphrase a well-known slogan, we might say, "Join the choir and see the United States."

Carlos Reyes is now the proud possessor of his own violin purchased recently. Ali Kavlak is in the market for a violin, too. However, when he went to Nashville last week to look at violins, he ended up by buying a bicycle. What happened, Ali?

After attending a flute recital at Peabody College, Eva Jo Aldrich's only comment was, "Now I know how a flute should sound." Eva Jo is our up-and-coming young flutist in the college band and orchestra.

We still can't forget Harry Mayden's smile as he talked on the phone to Joyce Christensen the other day. Is it that serious, Harry?

There is diligent practicing among music students these days. A student recital is just around the corner. In fact it is next Saturday night, March 7. The program promises to be a varied one including both vocal and instrumental numbers.

Signs of Spring? Or Indigestion?

A picnic this time of year? Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? But it really happened, and everybody had a wonderful time. Bill Grover, George Thornton, and others in X-ray just couldn't wait until next summer to have a picnic, so the whole crew took off for Shelby Park on a recent Thursday evening. They had previously arranged for the use of the lodge, and there was a cozy log fire blazing in the fireplace when they arrived.

Due to a misunderstanding the Veja-Links, buns, and all the trimmings were left behind, making a hasty return trip to the campus necessary. When the food finally arrived, there soon followed what we believe to be an all-time high in picnic-food consumption. Yum! We can still taste those delicious vegetarian weiners . . . and the onions!

The new nurses seem to have bad after-effects from autopsies, especially Jessie Mae Gray, who upset her bed lamp during a nightmare. As for the senior nurses, they are busy concentrating on tests.

Mrs. Zeigler was quite astonished when Mr. Gwendyl Brown, class president, stood up in the middle of class and said, "The freshman nurses have something special planned for class today, Mrs. Zeigler." Then out walked Mary Jo Carney, parliamentarian, with a beautifully-wrapped package, and cake and punch were served. The little "party" showed Mrs. Zeigler how much the class appreciates her.

The buzz of the sewing machine seems to be common lately—Kee Weegar must be expecting a special guest.

We are always glad to have visitors with us. This week we were privileged to have the following guests with us: Joe Bishop, Elmo Lundy, Logan Sturgis, Charles Allred, and Warren Cantarutti.

Our Friday evening worship periods always prove interesting. Last week the pre-nurses joined us, and with them they brought a trio—Jo Ann Gibbons, Lillian Azevedo, and Virginia Lewis—who presented some special music. I know they all enjoyed coming in the downpour of "liquid" sunshine.

Edythe Faust, who taught you how to use a pressure cooker? Mrs. Zollinger's ceiling has a slight discoloration now since the cooker blew its top!

Beulah Vickers acted as dean in the absence of our dean recently. She was also hostess at a supper served in the dean's apartment.

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT—? Muriel Durham's trials and tribulations. The hot water faucet being fixed. The floors being sanded. The occupants of room 15 moving to 17.

Betty Jo Allred's new inhaler (does it use benzoin!!)

The alarm clock that rings every hour without being set.

Mrs. Gill's apparel when she washes. The parlor's new occupants in the afternoon.

The girls of Williams Hall were pleased to have as their recent guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Sabo and their little daughter Jellinda from Los Angeles, California. They are the parents of Alice Sabo. Their visit was a surprise to Alice but she seemed to survive the shock.

We were sorry to hear of the death in Frances Woolbright's family which called her home for a few days. Our sincere sympathy is with you, Frances.

It seems as if Jo Bragg's glasses aren't doing their job. Look out for those water puddles, Jo, especially when you are wearing a white coat.

Money must be growing on trees somewhere in Florida. If you are looking for a similar tree, contact Virginia Lewis and Laura Egger, our Williams Hall Floridians, who are spending money quite freely these days.

Cupid seems to be playing an active part lately! What about it, Pat Justus and Jeanne Prindle?

We all thought Pediatrics is for the care of young children. What was Wanda Thomas doing there? ?? Kid-ding aside, we were all sorry to know of your recent illness. Hurry and get well.

Williams Hall Colors Fly High

From the cafeteria to the top floor of Williams Hall, renovating, painting, and adding of new features may be seen.

Visitors are being greeted in the lobby by a receptionist, who will be on duty until ten o'clock at night. The staff of receptionists includes Roberta Null, La Zerine Weaver, Hilda Schneider, and Jeannie Prindle. Plans to have a telephone extension and a public address system at the receptionist's desk are nearing completion. The complete redecoration of the lobby, including paint and new floor covering, will make the renovation complete.

The painting crew has been doing a beautiful job of repainting the dean's apartment, second and third floor parlors, and halls. The plans are to sand all floors and paint the walls of the girls' rooms. While this painting is progressing, Mrs. Zollinger is making new drapes for the parlors and dean's apartment.

The cafeteria, the best-known meeting place anywhere on the campus, has recently undergone renovation. The freshly painted wall, the sanded and varnished floors, the new dark green drapes, and the potted plants all add beauty to the atmosphere a dining room should have. The music recorded has also added pleasure to the meals. Mrs. Wilson, director of the cafeteria, to whom credit is due for many new features in this department, has new plans for making the meal hour more profitable socially. The hostess will now vary the seating arrangement from meal to meal so that all will become acquainted with one another and have a host of friends, instead of the "same old six and seven."

San News Notes

★ The Doctors Horsley entertained the oriental students at a dinner on February 21. The guests present were Nell Arashiro, Alice Yun, Purvis Orso, Mrs. Orso, Motoi Kataoka, Hideo Hamano, Rikiji Kawase, Charles Tan Tran, Charles Wang, Kenneth Su, and Mary Leung.

★ The number of adult patients in the Sanitarium and Hospital on February 24 was 183, compared to 164 adults one year ago. In addition to the 183 adults, there were twelve babies in the nursery. The highest number of patients this year, including both adults and babies, was 211 on January 28.

★ The other morning a strange sight met the eyes of the patients as they answered the knock at their doors—Dr. Pitman selling papers. How much commission do you give her, Tui?

★ Miss Johanna Stougaard, who has just finished her course in anesthesia, has gone to her home in North Dakota to be with her mother, who is ill. Jo is now a member of the A.A.N.A.

★ The pre-nurses have occasionally commented on the fact that there are no boys in the class of this year. However, Hershel Hensen and Don Fisher are seriously considering the nurses' course. Their interest in the physiology and anatomy class has led them to turn their thoughts toward nursing and later, anesthesia.

Have you ever wondered what it is that makes a person great, what makes him well liked, what makes him get ahead? Have you ever wanted to get ahead?

The person who gets ahead does so only because he has done his tasks the best he can. He unselfishly endeavors to make the most of what he has to do—not only in what other people will see, but in minute details also.

Others may have more abilities than you, but if they do not exercise their abilities to the utmost, they will not get ahead. If you have lived an honest, true life, have done your very best, you will be outstanding.

Make sure you are not just "getting by," but make yourself a real asset in the world.

Village Girls Elect New Officers

The Village Girls' Club met on Tuesday evening, February 24, to re-elect officers for the club. The officers going out of office were president and chaplain, Teddy Noble; vice-president and sergeant-at-arms, Alma Morris; secretary and treasurer, Bernita Scheffeld.

The new officers voted in are president and chaplain, Patsy Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Lois Miller. The new social committee is composed of the three trailer court girls—Beverly Britton, Eva Jo Aldrich, and Alma Morris.

Donna and Gwen Guier, two of the club's faithful members, have had to drop out of the club because they have moved into the dormitory.

February 27 was Lois Ann Miller's birthday; she is seventeen now, which enables her to join the Village Girls' Club. The other members extend her a hearty welcome.

High School News Notes

★ The Senior Class held its last meeting on Friday, February 27, in the Demonstration Building. Further plans were made for the graduation. Keep watching for the big events coming to the Senior Class.

★ Basketball is still going strong with the fellows of the high school, and equally popular are the ping pong games. The only thing to stop these activities would be . . . no balls!

★ The high school was well represented in the chapel program February 26, as the Courtesy Year was introduced. Mr. W. H. Wilson conducted a round table discussion, in which several academy and college students took part.

★ Madison College High School would like to recognize a new member in the student body. He is Joe Hardin, from Madison, Tennessee. The juniors are especially happy to have him with them, for he has added much to their class.

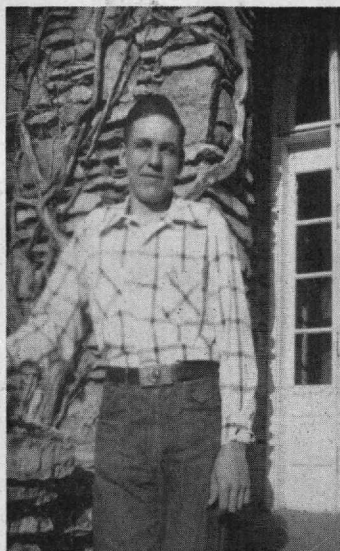

★ The film, "Shades of Gray," was shown to the high school students on February 24. Thank you, Mrs. Saphiloff, for securing it.

★ The high school is behind the Annual campaign 100%, and is confident that the goal will be reached.

Academy Sees Film Helpful Henry

The high school students enjoyed a very entertaining film in chapel recently. It was about a city dude who went to work on his uncle's farm during the summer. He had some very radical theories about running the farm. On the farm he met the farmer's daughter who was very efficient and could run the farm as well as any man. Trying to outdo her, he ran into many difficulties, such as driving the tractor, running a hayloader, encountering a billy-goat, and finally, being chased by the bees.

He finally awoke to the fact that he didn't know anything about farming and running a farm. The farmer's daughter proceeded to teach him. She must have done a very good job, because by the end of the summer he had planned to buy a farm for himself and get married to the farmer's daughter, of course.

SENIOR SKETCHES

GLEN QUARNSTROM

We would like for you to meet Glen Quarnstrom, who was born on January 20, 1935, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Quarnstrom. Glen was born in Dogget, Michigan, but when he was only four months old, he went with his parents to Alaska.

During his four high school years he attended four different academies: two in Alaska, Highland Academy, and now Madison College Academy, where he is looking forward to graduation.

Glen is living on the campus with his parents and his sister, Janice.

As you can see from his enthusiasm for basketball and football, he likes any kind of sports. His hobby (besides eating) is building model railroads; so you can see why his ambition is to be a civil engineer.

It's no wonder that the Senior Class chose an "Alaskan Husky" as their sergeant-at-arms.

Classes Can Be Fun

Not to be outdone by all the extra-curricular activities that have been going on lately, the high school teachers have really been giving the students treats! Or do you call going to court and then to jail a treat? According to the American Government class, "it's fun." Mr. Wilson, the teacher, took them to Nashville to see the city government in action. After seeing a couple of court sessions, they visited the jail where they were shown from top to bottom. Maurice Culpepper laughed when Jo Ann Gibbons, Carol Jean Johnson, Carole Cantrell, and Ramona Kinsey were shut in a padded cell, but the girls noticed that he didn't offer

Seniors Meet, Choose New Officers

The Senior Class was called to order by the vice-president, Anne Jensen, on the evening of February 17. Because of vacancies in two offices, those of president and sergeant-at-arms, formerly held by Donald Blewett and Skip Devlin, it was necessary to elect new officers for these positions. The vote was unanimous to make Anne Jensen president, Roy Allen, vice-president, and Glen Quarnstrom, sergeant-at-arms.

In harmony with their class colors, gray and green, the class decided to get gray gowns and caps with green tassels, and Laura Taylor was appointed to take the measurements for them.

The chemistry students had a real jolt the other day. When Mr. Morris said that they were going to have to take some tests, one of the students begged him not to give the tests. Everyone burst out laughing when they found out that the tests were experiments—not exams! What's the matter, class, is the day after the night before too much?

The chemistry class really did have two treats though—a film on crystal ware, and one on silverware.

What's this we hear about Mr. Wilson's turning into a photographer? Or is he just so proud of his Bible Doctrines class that he let them out of class early to take their picture?
