

THE MADISONIAN

College Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Christman, Local Officials Speak

Madison College celebrated its Golden Anniversary on Thursday, October 7, at which time many guests were entertained on the campus. Among those present were prominent men from Nashville, officials from various parts of the Southern Union Conference, and friends from all over the United States.

The celebration services began at 2:00 p.m. Thursday afternoon with a short concert from the college band and a capella choir, under the baton of Professor Harold E. Mitzelfelt.

Dr. J. C. Gant, Master of Ceremonies, introduced to the audience Judge Cecil Sims, who in his opening remarks stated: "A nation that does not honor its founders will no longer exist." It is also true that a school that does not honor its founders need not exist.

Madison College has contributed much to the educational field of this part of Tennessee. Chancellor Harvie Branscomb from Vanderbilt University of Nashville said that he would like to congratulate Madison College on its educational philosophy because of what was gained by putting work and study together.

The work of the Sanitarium and Hospital was discussed by Dr. John J. Lentz, Public Health Director of Davidson County. "I can remember the time when the people of this community were sick and we needed help; so I came and appealed to the Madison Sanitarium and Dr. Sutherland. They came to our aid. Since then this institution has been carrying on that same kind of work. I am thinking of the help that has been given to your community friends." The aim of this Sanitarium and Hospital is to help those in need as the Good Samaritan did in as Bible times.

"Remove not the landmarks in which thy ancient ancestors have sat." These were the opening words by the speaker of the day, Elder H. K. Christman, from the Pacific Press, Mountain View, California.

Elder H. K. Christman gives the afternoon address. On the outdoor platform on the left are Dr. E. A. Sutherland and Mrs. Sutherland, Dr. Frances Dittes and Mrs. A. A. Jaspersen. Seated behind them are W. F. Roche, Mrs. Roche, and Mrs. Olive Wheeler. In front on the right are school attorney Cecil Sims, President A. A. Jaspersen, Dr. John Lentz, and Elder V. G. Anderson. Behind them are Dean W. C. Sandborn, Elder Wesley A. Amundsen, Judge Beverly Biley, Representative J. Percy Priest, and Herbert White.

God's messenger was one of the ancient ancestors of Madison College; so if her landmarks were moved, God's plan itself would be destroyed.

The students caught a new glimpse of the work of their school that afternoon. They now see more clearly the plan of God for them. So as Mrs. J. M. Ackerman sang Harris's beautiful "Give Thanks and Sing," all bowed their heads in thanks to God that He had sent them to train for their life service for Him in this Christian school—their school. They thank God that His landmark to them was not removed.

Alumni Present Pageant

Climaxing the day celebrating the founding of the Madison school was the pageant, "Fifty Golden Years," given at 7:30 p.m. on October 7. In this pageant were presented highlights in the history of the college and sanitarium. The program was given before an overflow audience. After chairs had been brought in, many still crowded about the exits to see as much as they could.

The pageant, in three parts, presented the inception and birth of the Madison idea in 1894, when President Sutherland moved from Walla Walla to begin the school at Battle Creek and later the school at Berrien Springs. Then came the message from Sister White for Professors Sutherland and Magan to begin the work in the Southland and at Madison. In this part were scenes depicting the founding of Madison and episodes from the early days.

Part three was a Parade of Stars—leading educators, public officials who have visited Madison, editors of magazines and newspapers who have written about Madison, early pioneers, and faculty and workers from 1920 to 1935.

A choir, garbed in the dress of fifty years ago, provided the music for the different scenes. Professor Mitzelfelt, also much changed in appearance, directed the choir.

The audience witnessed, throughout the pageant, the strong faith in God possessed by the pioneers and the hard work it took to start this institution. All saw how Madison has grown from a rocky, worn-out piece of land into a flourishing farm, a training school, and a sanitarium. The only possible reason for this transformation was evident: God chose the exact spot for the Madison school, and the years of hard labor would have amounted to nothing without God's direction.

At the close of the program a torch was carried down the length of the auditorium and was presented to Dr. E. A. Sutherland. This torch represented the truth which has been carried down from the early pioneers and which is to be carried on until Christ's coming.

A beautiful wedding cake was also presented to Dr. and Mrs. Sutherland at this time. Dr. Sutherland invited any who had taken part in the pageant or any of the alumni to come to his home to share the cake. The evening's program was dismissed with a prayer asking that God's richest blessings might be carried on into the next fifty years of life at Madison.

Those who spent many days and weeks of hard work preparing for this program were the directors, Mrs. Gilbert Johnson, Mrs. W. C. Sandborn, and Dr. Ira Gish; the script writers, Dr. Ira Gish and Miss Mary Kate Gafford; art work and costume designer, Mrs. Kathryn Bertram; music director, Professor Harold Mitzelfelt; narrator, Elder Donald Haynes; directors of staging, David Harter, Vern Manzano, Karl McDonald, George Thornton, and Bill Grover; soloists, Mrs. Frederec Cothren, Gilbert Jorgensen, Dr. James Schuler, and Mrs. Cyrus Kendall; organist, Mrs. Harold Mitzelfelt.

William Gladstone, who even today is known as "England's greatest Christian gentleman," once said that selfishness is the greatest curse of the human race and the mortal foe of happiness. When he died, after sixty years of public service, this universal tribute was paid to him by Lord Salisbury: "Here is one human being who never placed himself first, who had ideals as pure and standards as exalting as any in English history, and who lived up to them so fully and unselfishly that men in every walk of life were glad to call him 'friend.' "

As we go along in this new school year, let us remember to place others before ourselves. Let us remember to be kind to others, because happiness is a by-product of small kindnesses.

Delta Nu Zeta

LILLIAN AZEVEDO

Another school year has rolled around and it is going to be one of the best, we're sure.

The "three" are back from affiliation and it is good to see them again. Listen to their vocabulary. "It's real gone." Welcome home, Betty Jo Allred, Tina Benson-Sanders, and Mary Ellen Eaves.

Williams Hall is really the "place" lately. All kinds of noises and "conventions" (old maid) going on. Just ask the girls from room 311. They seem to be the leaders.

The Delta Nu Zeta Club was sorry to lose its secretary Elizabeth Kurylak, who had to leave because of illness. JoAnn Gibbons is the newly elected secretary. Congratulations, JoAnn.

Overheard—that Margaret Hodges got up at eleven o'clock in the evening, got dressed for work, only to be told that it wasn't seven in the morning as she thought.

Donna Guier seems to be "walking on a cloud." The postman must be ringing pretty often.

Sickness has been in our dormitory. Here's hoping it'll disappear and all the girls will be out of the hospital and back with us.

Miss Silva from Brazil gave us an interesting talk in worship.

Dr. John Bralliar, son of Dr. Floyd Bralliar, is seen unveiling the plaque dedicating Bralliar Memorial Hall. On the left are Dean W. C. Sandborn, W. E. Patterson, Pastor R. L. Kimble, Gordon Turner, reporter for the Nashville Tennessean, and Dr. E. A. Sutherland. On the right stands Mrs. William Cheek, daughter of Dr. Bralliar.

Science Hall Dedicated

JOANN GIBBONS

For the past number of years the ivy-covered walls of what has been known as the Science Building have seen many hundred of students pass through the doors.

Throughout these years up to 1950 there was connected with the school an outstanding person who was as much a part of the building as the ivy itself. This man spent endless hours in service helping the students who sat at his feet to learn of the wonders of nature and science.

Dr. Floyd Bralliar contributed much to the Madison College campus, as well as to the community. For instance, he selected trees from various parts of the world, suited to this climate, as well as native trees, and planted them on the campus. These many beautiful trees now stand as a tribute to him.

Hope to have her talk to us again.

Martha Tinnon seems to be getting too many long distance phone calls. She can't even pour milk from a bottle into a glass. Sounds mysterious.

Wanda Thomas has been working in Surgery lately, but you would never think so if you could hear her talk in her sleep. Seems like O.B. left a lasting impression—especially the babies.

We're all sorry to hear of the death of Laura Egger's gold fish. A funeral service was held in room 307. Friends paid their respects.

So long for now, amigos.

For Better or Worse

MARINELL RABUKA

This promises to be a full and interesting year for our many married couples as they enter into our campus activities.

We are happy to announce the arrival of two brand new little girls to our campus. Crystal Kay

After his death his many friends wondered what they could do to perpetuate the memory of his services. It was felt that it would be fitting to dedicate the Science Building to the memory of a man who had done so much in this vicinity in the field of science. And so, on October 7, 1954, a group of friends and relatives gathered before the building to witness the beautiful service of tribute to a great man and the unveiling of the plaque by one of Dr. Bralliar's own sons, Dr. John Bralliar.

The students who pass through the doors of the building in the future we hope will pause to gaze upon the bronze plaque which has been placed at the entrance of the Floyd Burton Bralliar Memorial Hall by a host of friends in memory of a truly godly man.

born to Mr. and Mrs. Dale Burgess (Mrs. Burgess is the former Jessie Mae Gray), and Dianna Marietta, born to Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Luzader.

We also wish to announce the marriage of Martha Higgins, R.N., class of '53, to Elmer Fast, a former student here. Elmer has just returned from service in Germany. Congratulations and best wishes.

Gotzian Gossip

Dear Friends:

Last spring the joke of the campus was the "Old Ladies' Home."

During the summer months we had quite a motley group residing at Gotzian, both male and female, old and young.

Now that school has started and we have settled down to the humdrum routine of everyday school life, the occupancy of Gotzian Home has ceased to shift so much.

to "Cincy." Tildy Muirhead is also at "Cincy." However, Mary Ellen Eaves and Betty Jo Allred keep things quite lively since they joined us.

What is that hum you hear in room 15? It sounds for the world like a sewing machine. Who could be so industrious as to be making clothes these days?

Mary McComas is very busy. She is full of plans and arrangements. What's on foot anyway, Mary? Are you taking another trip to Shreveport? Just a little hint—be at the chapel Sunday evening, October 17, at 7:30 and see what happens.

There will be more news for you next time; till then it's "So long for now."

Future Teachers Announce Meeting

LYNN PARSONS

Whether we realize it or not, we are all destined to be teachers. Regardless of our future occupation we shall be asked to help others. In order to do this we must have some knowledge of teaching and true education. Now is your opportunity to obtain this education in your leisure moments and enjoy it.

Why not start by being present at the home of our sponsor, Elder J. M. Ackerman, for the next meeting of the Teachers of Tomorrow Club Saturday night, October 16, at 6:30 p.m.? Education, fun, and refreshments are in order.

In honor of Mrs. Scott, who aided the Southern youth in many ways, we have chosen as the name of our club "The Lida F. Scott Chapter."

den, and colored Japanese lanterns and umbrellas hung from the lights.

During the supper, music was furnished by the students. The Hawaiian trio—Nell Arashiro, Alice Yun, and Mrs. Purvis Orso—presented two ukulele numbers. "This Old House of Mine" was delightfully sung by Bill Howard, Rose Norris, and Gilbert Jorgensen. Mr. Oscar Grass sang two lovely Spanish numbers, and Ernest Plata entertained with a novelty piano solo.

President Dale Kendall presided at the election of new officers. The officers are as follows: president, Louie Dickman; vice president, Bill Summerton; secretary, Dorothy Aldrich; program chairman, John Aldrich; sponsors, Dr. and Mrs. Sandborn.

After the business was finished, the film "Heidi" was shown. To climax an enjoyable evening Billy Burks presented three accordion numbers.

One thing is sure—the married students are good cooks.

BILL GRAVES

As your reporter, I am afraid that the Wasiota Whispers will not be much more than a whisper this issue; however, things have been happening around the men's dormitories these past few days. With classes starting, there is a lot of book work going on, and then a few of the fellows are taking music lessons. Up in Assembly Hall one can begin to recognize a resemblance to such songs as "Jingle Bells," "Old Black Joe," and "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." Best of luck to Ruben with his sax and Pedro with his violin.

I understand that down about Wasiota Hall Dean Williams has two new able-bodied assistants to help him with his mighty task of keeping his men in line. Messrs. Jan Rushing and Richard Zerbee are these two brave lads.

If any of you nurses on the three-to-eleven shift need a strong, handsome, and I might say available man, to walk you home on these dark nights, just call for Joe Schnell. Joe is doing a fine job as night watchman and will be glad to include this as part of his job.

Since our editor, Harry Mayden, is wringing his hands and walking in circles worrying about this column, I must bring it to an end for this issue. So for now, that's all, folks.

Don't you know? Haven't you heard? Madison has its largest choir in several years. Many new students showed a real interest in the choir at registration time and when the organization met for the first time this school year, the choir rehearsal room was full almost to overflowing. Extra chairs had to be brought in to accommodate the sixty-member group.

Already this organization has performed at church services, an M.V. service, the self-supporting convention held at Madison recently, and the Golden Anniversary celebration on October 7. Interest runs high, and members are looking forward to the choir trips which usually are planned during the school year. However, attendance and ability will undoubtedly enter into the decision as to who will be chosen to make up the small choir that will travel. So, choir members, look to your laurels if you plan to be among the chosen few. A word to the wise is sufficient, as the old saying goes.

Mr. and Miss Madison Nurse Chosen

There is perhaps no professional group more respected and more beloved in the public mind—and at the same time more sentimentalized and more maligned. The woman in white, the "Angel of Mercy," the "Hardboiled Harpy"! Who is she? If you pause a moment to remember, no doubt you will know her.

She is the hospital nurse who was so good to Johnny when he had his tonsils out. She took care of you too when you had your appendectomy. She too was always ready with a prayer at that dark moment. She is patient, kind, clear thinking, courageous. She is a worker taught in the techniques of restoring and maintaining physical well being—of sanitation, nutrition, psychology, and a whole battery of modern medical routines as well as bedside care. He or she is an essential element in any program fostering the health and physical welfare of the American people. Let us honor the nurse, then, not as the cardboard figure of recruiting posters, but as one of us who is taught to work for health in our community.

During this week, October 11-16, which President Eisenhower has proclaimed as NATIONAL NURSE WEEK, Madison College School of Nursing is proud to present its Miss and Mr. Madison Nurse, Miss Martha Tinnon and Mr. Emmett Pierce. These were chosen by their fellow student nurses as outstanding. We salute you both!

its first meeting on September 26. The club chose as its project the raising of funds to buy choir robes for this newer, larger, finer choir.

And the interest didn't stop there, for as soon as possible—on Saturday night, October 9th, to be exact—the club sponsored a picture entitled "One Hundred Men and a Girl." So now there is a nice little "nest egg" of $130 in a choir robe reserve fund at the business office, where Joyce Christensen, club treasurer, will keep a watchful eye on it while it grows and Grows and grows.

This larger choir at its recent performances appeared in borrowed choir and graduation robes. But our supply of forty-two gold satin stoles was not sufficient to go 'round, so we had to get out our portable sewing machine, and with the help of several girls we whipped up another eighteen. Those who helped were Joyce Christensen, Jeanne Mohr, Lois Gant, Stella Rodriguez, and Dorothy Cantrell. Thanks, girls, we appreciated your assistance.

In later columns we will try to tell you a little bit about some of our new choir members, so be looking for some interesting stories in the future.

Dear Mom

I thought that I would drop a line
To let you know that things are fine;
And though I'm homesick just a mite,
I know I'll get along all right.

The first week was the worst I'd say,
With tests and lectures every day;
But now I'm through and living yet—
And feel that I am quite a vet!

I guess that I'm not as smart
As I first thought I was to start;
I hope this greenness soon will fade
To just a lighter shade.

I'm learning fast—I really am,
In my lower "biennium."
And though I'm just a Fresh this year—
I'll be a sophomore next year.

You'd be real proud, dear Mom, I know,
If you could see my handsome beau!
I like my roommate here just fine—
She cleans her half (and half of mine).

The food is good, and it "appeals" . . .
But still I miss your home-cooked meals.
Please send a box if you get time;
Some homemade goodies would taste fine.

I guess that's all the news for now,
I'm rushed a bit for time somehow,
College life is quite a whirl—
I'm signing off—your loving girl.

C.K.

Academy Jottings

DEAR DIARY,

Well, here it is October, and I find myself at Madison College, enjoying school life immensely.

Elsie Gibbons, from Alabama, lives with me, and we have a cheery "home." I thought you might like to know who our neighbors are and in that way get to know who rooms with who. There are Martha Jones and Cecilia Hood; Lois Miller and Ceylon Wright; the Hollingsworth sisters, Jean and Winnifred; Luthere Barnes and her cousin, Mildred Brooks; Tommie Arellano and Annetta Moore; and then there are Janice Knight and Dora Young, who live with college students, and Sharlene Hilgers, who lives by herself. We are all having a wonderful stay here.

I surely am sorry for Janice and Annetta, as they have already missed a week of school because of illness. Annetta is home for surgery, and Janice is taking advantage of our sanitarium and hospital here on the campus. Your classmates and I hope you will be back in school with us.

Classes and activities are keeping me so busy that I'd better sign off for now, but I promise I won't neglect you so long next time!

Academy Students Welcomed

Larry Wagner from South Bend, Indiana, takes basketball as his favorite sport. His dislike is a Southern accent.

Cecilia Hood, a sophomore from Jefferson, Texas, likes to wash dishes. From Campbell, Missouri, comes Melba Ice, a freshman. Melba's favorite sport is ping-pong.

We sincerely hope that all of you new students enjoy this school year with us here at Madison.

Campus Notes

● M.V. representatives for the academy were chosen in chapel last week. Elaine Culpepper, a senior, and Ross Clark, a sophomore, were elected.

● The Village Girls' Club met and elected the following officers for the next semester: president, Sue Holliman; vice president, Elaine Culpepper; secretary and treasurer, Stella Rodriguez. The officers going out of office were president, Linda Pitman; vice president, Lois Gant; secretary and treasurer, Naomi Henson. Thanks for the fine work you girls did the last semester. We hope to have lots of fun in our club this year and we invite all village girls to join.

● Last week in chapel our Temperance Chapter was organized. Horace Hudson is the new president, and Dorothy Cantrell is the secretary-treasurer. We are looking forward to having an active Temperance Club this year.

Classmates, another year has come. What we will make of it is completely up to us. Whether it will be just another year of mediocre study or whether it will be a year of shining experience in God's work is completely up to us.

This year some of us will graduate and leave our school to take our place in the world. Let us hope that we can all be true witnesses of the fine training that can be obtained at Madison College. Let us work and strive to make this year the best year, not only in our school work, but in our experience with God.

STANLEY SEDLAR

The academy fellows at Men's Court are of many varieties. Some of them are of a scientific nature, like Ralph Stockham, who can distinguish the eyetooth of a grasshopper. Also, there is Larry Wagner, who is an expert on T. V., especially the portable type that you wear on your wrist. If you don't believe me, ask him.

Also, we have some notable Texans. Alvin Barham and Gene Henderson think it is about the best place on this earth, but they just don't realize how far off they are.

We have with us one rare Hillbilly. He is strictly a "Honey." You will have to ask David Niswonger about this. Emmanuel and Esau Cabrera are of the more studious type. They pass the time in the kitchen "rattlin' them pots and pans."

Gene Furgeson, who is from the other side of the Mason-Dixon line, had better be careful and not take too many kerosene baths.

There is a brat in every crowd, but Stanley is really all right until he gets by himself, or with someone.

Well, that about sizes up the situation in this neck of the woods. I'll sign off for now.

New Academy Students Welcome

This school year finds the high school with about as many new students as old.

I would like to introduce you to a few of them:

First comes Floris Schoonard, who has added her bright disposition to the Senior Class. Floris, who hails from Ohio, likes all sports and likes to spend her spare time singing.

Esau Cabrera comes to us from Camaguey, Cuba, and plans to be a doctor when he finishes school. Among our juniors this year are Ceylon Wright from Jefferson, Texas. Ceylon likes best to skate and swim.
