Conference Workers Convene at Madison

Madison College was host to the workers of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference on January 2 and 3.

Approximately one hundred fifty pastors, evangelists, church school teachers, doctors, Bible workers, colporteurs, and institutional workers, including those from the self-supporting units in the conference, met to discuss methods of making soul-winning more effective.

W. B. Ochs, vice-president of the General Conference; V. G. Anderson, president of the Southern Union; and E. L. Cardey, of the School of Bible Prophecy in Atlanta, were among the outside workers present for this meeting.

Resolutions were passed that will lead to a closer working relationship between the self-supporting institutions and the pastors in the districts.

Life Magazine Soon to Feature Madison Students

Kenneth and Mary Su, senior students from China, will become the object of nation-wide publicity according to Don Cravens, photographer for Life.

Mr. Cravens states that as a result of the story in the Nashville Tennessean of January 2, telling of the Sus' refusal to return to China as long as the Reds were in control, Life has decided to include them in a special news story contrasting the group that wish to return.

With his Nikon camera Mr. Cravens shot about five rolls of 35mm film showing the Sus at work, study, and classes. These pictures will appear in Life in about one week.

Class of '57 Receive Caps and Emblems

Traditional at capping ceremonies is the lighting of the lamps from the one carried by the "Lady With the Lamp," Florence Nightingale, here portrayed by Beulah Vickers, R.N., nursing instructor. Glyen Haugen and Grant Duncan are receiving the light, symbolic of the devotion to which nurses pledge themselves at their capping.

A picture of the entire class will appear in the next issue.

Russian Refugee Speaks at MV

From the land behind the Iron Curtain comes one who is well acquainted with hunger, privation, trials, and persecution. Elder W. S. Jesske, born in Germany and reared in Russia, related the story of his exile in Siberia and later escape to Germany to a chapel full of eager listeners Sabbath afternoon, January 1.

When just a lad he and his family were crowded into a wooden box car and deported to Siberia, where they spent many cruel years as prisoners and captives. One day, through gates that had been left open, he escaped to Germany, thence to Norway on a ship which was the victim of a storm and was beginning to sink when the passengers were rescued by an English ship and taken to England.

Elder Jesske is now connected with the School of Bible Prophecy in Atlanta, Georgia.

As the speaker told of the odd beliefs and customs of the Russians, of the privations he suffered, of the loss of loved ones, and of the indescribable sufferings endured behind the Iron Curtain, his words carried force: "We here in America do not realize how fortunate we are in being able to live in a free land."

Elder Edwards Comes To Boulevard Church

Elder Charles G. Edwards, newly appointed pastor, and his family were officially welcomed into the Madison Boulevard Church on January 1. Elder Edwards spoke during the eleven o'clock hour, and in the afternoon at a special program including a concert by the Madison College choir, Elder Pier-

Staff Announces Progress on Annual

The 1955 Cumberland Echoes is steadily progressing toward its completion. With the dummy drawn up and nearly all the student pictures taken, things look fairly good. The staff hopes to start sending pictures to the engravers by the last of the month and have all copy in to the press by the first of March. Editor Bill Graves and photographer Jim Aldridge ask, however, that the students who have not had their pictures taken yet please cooperate when they are contacted about their sittings.

Time is drawing near for that yearly subscription campaign for the yearbook. Members of the Cumberland Echoes staff are asking all students to begin thinking right now about where they can secure subs and also give their wholehearted support to the campaign.

The staff is also much pleased to announce the coming Cumberland Echoes benefit program; it feels very fortunate in being able to present something never before given here at Madison College. After searching for something which it felt the students and public would enjoy, the staff has come up with a program to be presented by a male ensemble from Oakwood College. The date has been set for Saturday night, February 5. Be watching for further announcements as to the time and admission prices and the way to secure tickets.

Get Those Subs

Several weeks ago we began the campaign for our school paper. We got off to a wonderful start. At the first mailing, more than 1400 letters went out. Everyone worked with a will and we were confident that we would reach our goal.

Then — something happened. What it was we don't know. However, we do know that you students have not done your part in putting over the campaign.

We cannot have a school paper if our campaign is a flop. It just isn't possible.

Now renewed enthusiasm has taken hold of us since the situation was laid before us in chapel. The program boosted the morale of student association officers, staff members, and student body. Every one of you wants a school paper, and we believe you are behind the revived campaign. But we must work now—write those letters, solicit for those subs.

And remember, everyone, a day off from classes if the goal is reached.

In Sympathy

The MADISONIAN staff extends sympathy to Mrs. J. E. Zeigler upon the death of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, who passed away on December 30 at the home of her daughter on the campus. She was past eighty years old. Following funeral services at the Madison Funeral Home, Mrs. Zeigler accompanied her to Weir, Canada, her old home place, where she was laid to rest.

Another quarter has rolled around. We have several new girls with us in Williams Hall. Here's hoping they will enjoy their school days at Madison College.

There's also a new sound in our dormitory—the crying of a baby. You see, Mr. and Mrs. Collins and

Let's Get Acquainted

told me how well they liked the school and how I could work my way through, so here I am."

Born in Saskatchewan, Canada, and of Canadian descent, Mary comes from a family of fourteen children, of whom she says, "I think I'm the tenth."

One of her brothers, Paul, is a doctor, now living in Colorado, and her brother Pete has been doing colporteur work for a number of years in North Carolina. A third brother, John, is at present majoring in medical technology here at Madison.

Mary is quiet and reserved, so much so that many who are not well acquainted with her do not know her. Those who know her love her for her loyalty, her high ideals and standards, and her Christian character.

Her one dislike is unfairness, wherever it appears, and her special interest is getting good grades. Though she has very little time for her hobby of painting, she hopes someday to be able to develop this love for art.

In the field of sports, skating is her favorite—ice skating and roller skating both.

"After finishing my course," says Mary, "I want to go back to Canada and work in a hospital as a laboratory technician. Or maybe I'll go to Colorado and work with my brother who is a doctor."

Faculty Doings

The Harold Keplinger family made a rather extensive tour during the holidays, driving approximately 2500 miles in their trip to Florida and then up north, during which time they visited friends and relatives.

President and Mrs. A. A. Jasperson visited over the Christmas holidays with friends and relatives in Birmingham, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ackerman spent Christmas day in Asheville, North Carolina, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Vollmer. Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Vollmer are sisters. During the Christmas season Mrs. Ackerman sang solo parts of the Messiah in three different places—in Nashville, in Chattanooga, and at Collegedale.

Mrs. Ackerman spent December 28-30 in Chattanooga attending the yearly convention of the National Association of Teachers of Singing, of which she is a member.

The Patricks spent part of the holidays visiting Mr. Patrick's mother in Shreveport, Louisiana, and also made a trip to Florida.

Just a courtesy reminder—
"Football players, hold that line.
For telephones, it's not so fine."

HENRY BURCHARD

Happy New Year! 1955 is here and a time to make resolutions. Here are some of the resolutions of men of Wasiota Hall.

I, Bill Cook, resolve to study harder in this year 1955.

I, Bill Graves, resolve not to ask my girl to call the funeral home and ask if there is a box there for LaVeta.

I, Harry Mayden, resolve not to eat all the next package my roommate gets from home, and to save just a bite.

I, Joe Schnell, resolve to keep the room spic and span this new year since I am the official room checker at the Assembly Hall.

I, Glenn Brown, resolve not to drive so fast next year when I return from Christmas vacation.

I, Pedro Perales, resolve to limit my phone calls to three minutes.

I, Paul Ivey, resolve to be quiet as a mouse while my roommate, Dr. Quack, is studying.

I, Gene Henderson, resolve to quit bragging about Texas.

Hail the return of old and former students, Ted Estey and Jack Gibbons. Ted has been dean of boys at Pine Forest Academy, Chunky, Mississippi, and Jack's last address was the U.S. Army.

Blue Notes

EDNA THORNTON

The winter quarter is so new and the new year so young that we have little to write about except for a vacation news note or two.

Professor Mitzelfelt and family managed to get away from the department to visit relatives at Little Creek, Tennessee, for a few days after Christmas.

His parting instructions were that we were to pick up two returning students, JoAnn Gibbons and Joyce Christensen, at the bus depot in Nashville on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, as he would not be back in time to meet them as planned.

Came the day to meet the girls, and as would be expected Alfred Durham wanted to go along to meet JoAnn. We also took Clare Stern, who wanted to do some shopping, and Bill Grover, who planned a visit to the Red Cross blood bank.

A stop at the Greyhound bus depot, then over to the train station, then back to the Greyhound depot, and finally over to the Trailways depot—we finally found JoAnn, but no Joyce appeared until the next morning. Because of bad weather conditions, her bus was late.

Alfred Durham gave Mrs. Ackerman a pleasant surprise by redecorating her studio during vacation.

Gotzian Gossip

BESSIE BURNETT

The girls of Gotzian Home are happy to report the reorganization of the Nightingale Club. The officers are as follows: president, Betty Jo Allred; vice president, Mary Ellen Eaves; secretary, Thelma Muirhead; treasurer, Muriel Durham; parliamentarian, Faye Egger; religious leader, Ruby Sykes; sponsor, Mrs. George Ashlock.

On the eve of January 1, the Nightingales were "rudely" awakened at midnight by the ringing of the worship bell. As they sleepily wondered why all the noise, there was a knock at each door, and Mrs. Ashlock invited the girls down to her apartment for a New Year's party. In the hall was little Miss Tonya, age one year, dressed as the infant 1955, toddling up and down the hall, bell in hand, announcing the arrival of the New Year.

After an hour of fun, the happy, sleepy group bade their hostess a dreamy Happy New Year and ascended the stairs for a few hours of rest before reporting for duty at seven a.m.

Tillie Muirhead and Nancy Carney have returned after three months at "Cinci" at the children's hospital. Welcome home, girls.

We extend a hearty welcome to the two new seniors—Miss Maxine Page from Boulder, Colorado, and Mrs. Eugenia Stoklosa from Buffalo, New York. We hope your senior year will be happy and most profitable.

We wouldn't forget little Mrs. Frances Sieg from Minneapolis, Minnesota, a pre-nursing student.

With these five coming in to an already well-filled home, you can see it has been a game of Chinese checkers to find rooms for everyone. But at last after much moving about everyone has found a room and all are happily settling down to the routine of another quarter.

For Better or Worse

TOMMY MINO

Master Gerald Grant Werner, seven pounds, eight ounces, arrived on the scene December 23, 1954—only two days short of being a little Santa Claus. The Werners come to us from Canada; Mrs. Werner is busy taking care of the household while her husband, Ronald, attends college.

Mrs. Cushman, wife of William Cushman, anesthesia student, has taken their son, Bobby, to the home of her mother in Indianapolis, where he will stay while he recuperates from the series of illnesses he has recently had. The Cushmans have moved into the basement of the new apartment house.

The Ed Hurts, who went to Florida for the holidays, and the Micky Rabukas, who spent the holidays in Texas, had a friendly show-down of their home state's fruit when each brought back a sample of the best and shared it with the lab and X-ray workers.

Elder Lorenz finds that "People Are Funny." At least they get caught, like Joe Schnell, who bungled when he should have "burgled," and was apprehended by Chief R. R. Poe of the Madison-Montague P.D.

A variety program in four parts was the Saturday night entertainment in Assembly Hall on January 8.

Mrs. Ackerman had charge of the first part, "Name That Tune." The contestants stood at one side of the stage, while on the other side, on a table, were placed two bells. The one reaching and striking the bell first had the first chance to name the tune played by Carol Hilgers on the organ.

"People Are Funny" came next. Elder Lorenz, who had charge of this part, proved that people are funny by sending Joe Schnell to Dr. Sandborn's home and asking him to bring back one half of a dollar bill which would be found on the piano.

To do this Joe had to climb in through a window, since the Sandborns weren't at home. He had just begun to climb back out when Chief Poe, of the Madison-Montague police, picked him up and put a pair of handcuffs on him. Of course it was all a joke, planned with the police in advance. After giving Joe a pretty rough time, Chief Poe brought him back to the program.

Miss Beulah Vickers headed a section called "I Have a Secret." The best secret was that of Melinda Haviland, triplet sister of Maellene and Merritta, who was visiting her sisters here. Her secret was, "I am the other Haviland triplet." The panel thought she was Maellene.

Students at Homes

Faculty members entertained groups of students in their homes on Saturday night, January 1.

Each student had previously signed his name to a list headed by the name of the faculty member to whose home he wished to go.

In addition to enjoying the delicious food served them, the students were entertained in a variety of ways. A survey showed that guessing games such as "black magic," "two point," "this or that" were by far the most popular.

As the parties broke up the students expressed their appreciation for the evening, wondering how soon the next faculty parties would be held.

200 Enroll for Missionary Activities

Approximately 200 signed service enrollment blanks on Sabbath, January 8, at the eleven o'clock hour indicating their desire to participate in one of the fourteen types of missionary service listed on the blanks.

Elder J. M. Ackerman, church elder and also missionary leader of the college church, presented these fourteen kinds of work, from which every church member, both student and adult, could choose the activities for which he felt a burden.

Listed on the enrollment blanks were the following items: Bible School enrollment, Bible studies, branch Sabbath schools, Christian help work, Dorcas work, lay efforts, literature and correspondence bands, literature distribution, Master Guide classes, Projector Club, singing for shut-ins, Sunday School work, temperance, and visitation of sick.

Assisting Elder Ackerman in this missionary program are Professor Patrick and Brother Brownlee, associate missionary leaders. Also a committee of ten members has been appointed to coordinate and guide all the activities.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR SERVICES

Elder Kimble, church pastor, announced the new plan for the Sabbath morning service: Sabbath school dismisses at 10:40, and the after service begins promptly at 10:50, with the entering of the choir. The missionary meeting is to be a part of this after-service, taking place after the announcements, and closing at 11:15, when the sermon will begin. The forty-minute sermon will close at 11:55.

Elder Edwards

son, conference president, gave a welcoming address. At the close of the service Mrs. Edwards was presented with a large basket of flowers and a guest book in which all present had signed.

Although still a youthful pastor, Elder Edwards has behind him many years of experience, having finished college very young and having entered the work immediately. Beginning as a singing evangelist in the Indiana Conference, he was soon given the responsibility of a church and then of a district. The Edwards family came to Madison from Henderson, Kentucky, where they labored a short time after being transferred from the Indiana Conference. Mrs. Edwards' musical ability is also much appreciated.

Elder Edwards comes from a family of workers. His parents, returned missionaries from Africa, are now with the Faith for Today television program helping with the script writing. His brother, Bob, is first tenor in the King's Heralds male quartette on the Voice of Prophecy radio program.

Madison College joins with the Boulevard group in welcoming Elder Edwards, his wife June, and son Jimmie to this community.

Laura Mae Egger took a leave of absence to Florida during the holidays. She has had surgery, but is coming along fine. We miss you, Laura. Hurry up and get well!

Martha Tinnon had a guest over the vacation from Washington, D.C. Perhaps you have noticed the beautiful watch band she has been wearing.

Evelyn Moore and Edna Earl Lee are sporting new watches. Have you noticed them?

Have you ever jumped into bed so tired you knew you would fall asleep the minute your head hit the pillow, only all of a sudden to find your bed full of knickknacks or short-sheeted? Several girls are experiencing this. The finger of suspicion points to Lois Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Webster announce the arrival of Danny Joe, who slipped in on them just 55 minutes short of the new year. He was born at 11:05 p.m. on December 31 and weighed eight pounds, five and three-fourths ounces. Mr. Webster is a pre-nurse, and his wife, Betty Jane, has been working as secretary for Mrs. Zeigler.

Wedding bells chimed while sleigh bells rang for at least four Madison couples.

Faye Joy Smouse, R.N., and Adolph Arellano, Religious Education major, December 14 at Elder Pierson's home in Madison. They are now staying in the Patricks' house while awaiting the completion of their apartment in the new apartment house.

Carole Bloodworth, junior nurse, and Stanley Rudisaile, pre-nurse, December 15, at Greenville, Tennessee. They are living in Sunshine Court.

Violet Ritchie, L.P.N., and Warren Butler, senior nurse, December 17, at Greenville, Tennessee. They are living in Sunshine Court.

Patricia Payne, sophomore nurse, and Robert Lawry, Industrial Arts major, December 19, at Eaton Rapids, Michigan. They are living in their own trailer in trailer court.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tetz also announce the birth of their second son, Keith Earl, born January 2 and weighing seven pounds, seven and one-half ounces. The Tetzes live in one of the cottages near Gotzian Home.

The Albert Nielsens have different news—their new arrival is a girl. Dorothy Louise, eight pounds, six ounces, arrived on January 6. In a very short time the Nielsens will be leaving for Savannah, Tennessee, where they will join the new unit at Harbert Hills.

THE WAY THE WIND BLOWS

✓ Mr. and Mrs. Norman Delaney have as their guest Mr. Delaney's mother, Mrs. E. E. Delaney, from Festus, Missouri.

✓ Mr. Richard Wagner, anesthesia student, and his wife, registered nurse, left January 4, for Athens, Alabama, where Mr. Wagner will enter his internship in anesthesia. ✓ The girls' club was guest of the Wasiotans Tuesday evening, January 4, at a picture entitled "Flying with Arthur Godfrey."

✓ Felix Lorenz, Jr., who recently visited his parents, spoke at the New Year's Eve vesper service on the topic, "Is Your Account with God Balanced?"

✓ Peggy Newhart, Tillie Muirhead, Nancy Carney, and Delaiah Wheeler recently returned from affiliating in Cincinnati. Evelyn Byrd, Rose Norris, and Clara Lassiter left January 2 for their period of affiliation.

I Resolve

At this time of the year we are getting ready for our semester exams. As we look back, we realize how a little more study in the past would help us now. So we start to make resolutions to study more and to make better grades during the next half of the year.

It seems to me that every time I sit down to study, all sorts of things come to my mind that I would rather be doing. But with this semester's grades in mind, I resolve to keep my main aim in sight, which is to do well in everything that I attempt.

I believe the rest of you will also try with me to accomplish your aims and make the second half of the year better than the first.

Senior Class Sale

The senior class bake sale, held in the lobby at Williams Hall, began at eleven o'clock sharp and by one o'clock all the food was gone and a neat little profit left for the fund for senior class activities.

All kinds of cakes, cookies, brownies, fudge, and sweet stuff were offered for sale.

The seniors thank all those who contributed for their cooperation and splendid support.

Girl of the Month

This time we have chosen a curly-haired, blue-eyed blonde. She has been at Madison all her school year and is in the junior class this year.

Last year she was a member of the Temperance Society and also sang in the choir.

If you haven't guessed her already, here is more to go on. She is treasurer of her class and also a reporter on the Hi-SCHOOL Hi-LITES staff. She sings in the academy choir and is very good at playing the piano. She works at the medical desk in the sanitarium.

Now, if you haven't guessed our well-loved girl of the month, I will pass on the name.

Sophomores Display Sweaters

A surprise snow cloud floated into the Demonstration Building on Tuesday morning, December 7. This white cloud was the sophomore class in their white sweaters with green emblems.

It took these high-spirited sophomores just five days to decide on having class sweaters and make them a reality. The happy thought was—we did it before the juniors, and not a soul knew about it.

Lutherene Barnes comes to us from Naples, in the big, wonderful state of Texas, where she made her appearance on April 15, 1937.

Lutherene Barnes

Lutherene, called Lucy by most, spent her first eight school years in the New Hope Church School. Her freshman year she spent at Jefferson Rural Academy, her sophomore year and first semester of the junior year at Peewitt High, in Naples, and the rest of her Junior year and the senior year with us.

Lucy's pet peeve is "gossipin' people" and, of course, those who slander Texas. She likes to cook and enjoys singing, at which she is very talented. She sings in the academy choir and does much solo work.

Lucy has not decided her future for sure, but being a grade school teacher and a housewife will probably be foremost in her plans when she does decide.

We wish you happiness and success, and know that you will succeed in your plans.
