Madison College Founder Dies at 90

Edward A. Sutherland, M.D.

Born March 3, 1865. Died June 20, 1955.

Church Pastor Honored at Farewell Party

Elder and Mrs. R. L. Kimble were the honored guests at a farewell gathering for them held on the evening of June 15 on the lawn in front of Williams Hall.

Elder Kimble, who has been the pastor of the College church for nearly five years, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Bordeaux and the Ashland City churches.

After the pot luck supper on the lawn, a short program was given in the chapel. Mrs. Ackerman and Gilbert Jorgensen sang solos. Dr. Gant spoke for those who live near Elder Kimble in his talk on Elder Kimble as a good neighbor. Elder Lorenz told how he had appreciated working with Elder Kimble for the spiritual interests of the students and the school. In behalf of the entire Madison College church Elder Ackerman expressed appreciation for the fine work Elder and Mrs. Kimble have done in the church.

As a token of love and friendship, a large mirror for over their mantel was presented to the Kimbles.

The new pastor for the College church is Elder O. J. Mills, from Kokomo, Indiana, who was the speaker here during the Spring Week of Prayer.

Dr. E. A. Sutherland, founder of Madison College and its president for more than forty years, passed away at the Madison Sanitarium about noon on June 20 at the age of 90 years.

As the doctor had been ill for only a few days, the news of his death came as a shock to the College and to friends everywhere.

Dr. Sutherland was born in Prairie de Chien, Wisconsin, on March 3, 1865. He received his bachelor of science degree from Battle Creek College, and taught in public schools for a number of years.

In 1892 he was appointed president of Walla Walla College, where he served till 1897, when he became president of his alma mater, Battle Creek College.

Then in 1901 he was appointed president of Emmanuel Missionary College, continuing there till he felt called to resign and open up work in the South. Under the direction of Mrs. E. G. White he founded and established Madison College in 1904.

He continued to direct the work at Madison until 1946, when he was called by the General Conference to head the newly formed department of rural living.

A few years after the founding of Madison, in 1910, Dr. Sutherland entered medical school in Nashville as a freshman, receiving his doctor of medicine degree in 1914.

Although Dr. Sutherland had officially retired, he remained in active duty up to a few days before his death, visiting units and attending their board meetings, participating in college board meetings and giving valued counsel, writing, advising, and taking a live interest in the progress and advancement of the institution he had founded and of which he was president emeritus at the time of his death.

In addition to his widow, M. Bessie DeGraw-Sutherland, he is survived by a son, Dr. Joe Sutherland, of Madison; a daughter, Dr. Yolanda Brunie, of Pasadena, California; a brother, Walter Sutherland, of Lawrence, Kansas; a sister, Mrs. Annie Youmans, of Lawrence; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Musicians Visit Ala.-Miss. Camp Meeting

The Madison College Pep Band, made up of members of the College Band, appeared in the Sunday afternoon Pathfinder program of the Alabama-Mississippi camp meeting held at Meridian, Mississippi, early this month.

A program of marches by the band added to the colorful Pathfinder Fair organized by Elder Wayne P. Thurber. To set the theme of the program the band played a special arrangement made by Director Harold Mitzelfelt of the Pathfinders' song.

The Madison College ladies' trio made several appearances at meetings during the weekend and sang on a local radio program as well.

During their weekend stay band and trio members were housed and fed at Pine Forest Academy, located about 18 miles from the site of the camp ground. Southern hospitality was unlimited and as the cars left for home late Sunday afternoon each was provided with sack lunches for supper—thanks to the cooks at the academy.

Capping Exercises Set for July 3

Capping exercises for the freshman nurses will be held in the Assembly Hall on Sunday evening, July 3, at 7:30 p.m. At this time the nurses who went on the floor in March will have finished their probationary period and will receive caps and insignia.

This is a very important occasion for nurses. Probation days are over and they feel as if they are really nurses.

Elder Charles Edwards, pastor of the Madison Boulevard Church, will give the address. Everyone is invited.

Opportunity

Summer is here again. Summer—the time of sunshine, flowers, birds, blue skies, and everything that goes with it.

This is the time of the year that college people enjoy most. For the majority of American college students during these months there will be no more pencils, no more books. Now they can rest from the year's hard studying. Now they can do all those things they have been putting off for so long.

For some the vacation months will be filled with swimming, boating, and hiking. For others the months will be spent in work plus the swimming, boating, and hiking.

But for Madison students the summer means classes, study, work, recreation—an all-round excellent program which trains the head, the hand, and the heart. This is our opportunity here at Madison. Students, let us make use of it.

Wedding Bells

Miss Nancy Jane Carney and Ted J. Estey were united in marriage on Wednesday, June 1, in a beautiful ceremony held in the garden of Dr. and Mrs. Roy R. Bowes, in Madison. The ceremony was performed by Elder J. A. Estey, retired minister and father of the bridegroom, of Springdale, Arkansas. Following the wedding and reception, the couple spent a honeymoon in middle Tennessee and then returned to the campus to pursue their college studies.

Miss Evelyn Moore and Mr. Louis Meyer were united in marriage on Sunday, June 5, in the home of Elder and Mrs. J. M. Ackerman, the ceremony being performed by Elder Teddic Mohr, of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference. Immediately after the wedding and reception the couple left for a two-week trip to Florida. They have now returned to the campus and are continuing their work.

Things have been rather quiet the last three weeks at Madison. The reason—everybody that could, went on vacation. Of course some of the fellows had to stay and take the short course in Evangelism taught by Professor Patrick. They are Ernest Plata, Harry Mayden, and Henry Burchard.

Here is a report of our vacationers' whereabouts:

Pedro Perales: Puerto Rico, via New York. We hope he is having a swell time.

Jack Dyer: Home to Arkansas.

Cecil Hopps: Visiting his parents in Washington, D.C.

Bill Cook: Home to North Carolina.

Bill Graves: Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Glen Brown: Working for his uncle in Indiana.

Richard Zerbee: California.

Jack Gibbons: A long weekend in Washington, D.C.

Leo McCarter: Two weeks in Missouri.

Walter Konstanzer: Two weeks at home in Mobile, Alabama.

So you see the fellows have really been doing a bit of traveling around. We wish to give special credit to the fellows who stayed and kept things going at Madison College.

Alfred Durham has been having a wonderful time life guarding at the swimming pool. He is also getting himself a dark tan. Gene Post has been doing quite a bit of swimming lately. He is trying to loosen up some muscles which haven't been used in some time.

The weather has been warming up slightly the past week or so, which makes it nearly impossible for a person who has been working at night to sleep daytimes. Oh for an air conditioner!

W. H. Wilson Attends MCC Camp

Professor W. H. Wilson, principal of Madison College Academy, left for Grand Ledge, Michigan, on June 27 to attend the Medical Cadet Corps Camp. Professor Wilson has a Lieutenant rating. The camp runs from June 28 through July 12.

Teachers Attend Summer School

Five college teachers are engaged in advanced study this summer at Peabody in Nashville and the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Harold Keplinger, industrial education, Worth Lowder, business administration, Edward Collins, librarian, and J. M. Ackerman, education, are attending Peabody.

The Stearns family are spending the summer at the Little Creek School while Mr. Stearns attends the University of Tennessee nearby.

On Vacation

"Vacation Time" (May 28—June 28)—the calico section on the Nursing Service work schedule! One section of the student nurses and supervisors have been at their post of duty and the other section have been on vacation. We all missed the latter group and hope they have had a wonderful time, but no one has missed them like Mrs. Voorhies, Nursing Service director, who has had to cope with filling their vacancies when emergencies occurred via the substitute personnel. She did a fine job of it! By way of some relaxation from the rush of duty, she had opportunity to slip away last weekend to Bedford, Indiana, being relieved by the able assistance of Miss Munn, former Nursing Service supervisor.

The next division of vacation arrives during the month of September; many of us look forward to that time, but can we say as much for those who must see that the work goes on?

Supervisors on Vacation

The "Starch" (supervisors) part of our column is renowned for keeping after the "Stripes" (student nurses), but let's put it in reverse and trail the supervisors to their vacation spots:

Mrs. Clapp, our director, went to Washington, D.C., with Elder Clapp to make a long-overdue visit with relatives. Enroute they visited the antiquated and beautiful city of Williamsburg, Virginia, the Appomattox Battlegrounds, and Monticello—home of former President Jefferson.

Mrs. Arellano, our recent obstetrical supervisor, scurried off home to Iowa.

From the same floor—Miss Cox took a short vacation at the home of her sister in Kentucky. "It rained almost every day," she says. How disastrous!

Mrs. Doris Thomson, surgical clinical instructor, went to Europe—in her backyard. Seriously, she enjoyed quiet relaxation interspersed with "never a dull moment" with daughter Janice.

We don't know where the Pat Gills went—but we will soon learn when they get back!

Short Course Completed

Mr. Ivan Peacock, C.M.E. registered physical therapist, has something to crow about, too; he has just completed another short course in Hydrotherapy (June 1-14), having had 23 students, 17 of whom were men. More than rumor has it that Mr. Peacock is scheduled to teach our first one-year Physical Therapy Technicians' Course. Better get your order in early, if you're interested in being a registered student.

Nutrition and Special Diets

Sophomore A Nurse Tommy Linville is gaining the "cream of the crop" during his scheduled time in the Nutrition and Special Diets office, since it falls in this vacation period and he is the "onliest" student nurse in there at present. His supervisor, Mrs. Henderson Crowder (the wife of another Sophomore A nurse), is doing a marvelous work, not only as head dietitian in her office but also as a clinical instructor.

At present, Mr. Linville is gaining additional study in child and infant nutrition.

Farewell—and Welcome

Life can be so sweet and so sad—the Nursing Office can vouch for that. Last week we lost one of the institution's most efficient secretaries, Mrs. Pat Ward. It seems that her husband has completed his laboratory technicians' course, and they are returning to their home in Keene, Texas. Practically in the same breath, we welcome Miss Jean Sanders of Rock Falls, Illinois. This lovely little brunette is a 1953 graduate of Broadview Academy, La Grange, Illinois, coming to Madison College to further her studies and experience in the secretarial field.

Cradle News

Our secretary in the Clinical Instructors' Office, Ruby Sykes, is a proud aunt. Her sister, Minnie Mae Wolf, presented her with a little niece, Karen Dianne, born May 31.

June 8, at 9:07 p.m., Junior Nurse Don Fisher and his wife, Hazel Fast-Fisher, our former Surgical Wing head nurse, became the parents of a five-pound, five ounce baby girl—Theresa Joy.

Junior Nurse Geraldine Delaney presented her husband and two-year-old daughter with a new son and brother on June 10 at 2:36 p.m. Wee John Michael weighed in at six pounds, eight and one-half ounces.

Mrs. Louise Smith, obstetrics teacher and maternity supervisor, it looks as if these two fine student nurses must have been your prize pupils, but they might at least have waited until you returned from your vacation at Asheville and Fletcher, North Carolina. Aha!

Orchids to Kay Williams, Sophomore A nurse; you really took the laurels in obstetrical nursing, being delivery nurse for Dr. and Mrs. James Schuler's twin boys! On that glad morning of June 18, were you shaking from nervousness, or excitement, as your eye watched the delivery room clock noting 11:42 and 11:50 a.m. as the time of the eventful arrival of each seven and one-half pound twin boy?

Time to Change Shifts

July 3 is the scheduled date for the return of Pediatric Nurses Muriel Durham, Elsie Brown, Faye Egger, and Dorothy Aldrich from Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio. They are being replaced by Lorine Lucas, Noble Russell, Julia Grow, Maxine Page, and Nellie Green.

A prominent denominational educator often remarked that in his opinion, a good cook in the kitchen and a good music department were two of the greatest factors in keeping morale high in a boarding school. We believe that Madison College is well equipped in both these fields.

Madison College has a live music department. A Bachelor of Science degree in Music Education is offered. A student can major in either instruments or voice. He chooses one instrument or voice for his major field of music, and another instrument or voice for a minor field. In this way he is equipped to teach a broad field of music, and to direct bands, choirs, orchestras and such organizations. There is a great need for teachers with these qualifications.

The College Band is made up of students, teachers, and other staff members, rehearses regularly, and besides giving public concerts, plays for chapel services, student campaigns, publicity programs, youth rallies, etc.

The A Capella Choir fills an important place in the religious life of the school, appearing regularly for church services with messages of praise chosen from the best in choral literature. The choir also presents devotional programs from time to time in many other churches in our own and neighboring conferences. Both the College Band and A Capella Choir are under the direction of Mr. Harold Mitzelfelt.

The Academy Chorus fills an important place in the life of the academy students, and is directed by Dorothy Evans-Ackerman. They presented a program in the spring that was one of the high lights of the year.

There are smaller groups, such as male quartets, ladies' trios and quartets, instrumental ensembles, etc.

The music educational program at Madison College does not begin in the academy or college. The study of music begins in the elementary grades. Junior and Cherub Choirs and the Junior Band are active parts of school life, preparing the pupils to take a leading part in the academy and college organizations. These groups also present programs that are enthusiastically received by the community. Mr. Mitzelfelt and his major music students conduct the Junior Band, and Sylvia Straw-Mitzelfelt conducts the Junior and Cherub Choirs.

But the study of music is not confined to those who are majoring in music or who are advanced in skill and technic. Adults who are interested in music but have not had the opportunity to study are encouraged to begin the study of voice or of an instrument of their choice. With the modern methods of teaching music, it is surprising how rapid progress can be, with diligent practice.

Mr. Mitzelfelt heads the Music Department and teaches band and string instruments and voice and theory besides directing the organizations already mentioned.

Piano is taught by Sylvia Straw-Mitzelfelt and Dorothy Evans-Ackerman. Mrs. Ackerman and Mr.

Mitzelfelt teach voice. Organ is taught by Mr. J. G. Rimmer, assisted by Mrs. Mitzelfelt. Mr. Rimmer studied organ in England before he came to this country. He is a very versatile person, having taught chemistry in the College for many years and being a registered pharmacist and a fine machinist.

Mr. Karl McDonald teaches woodwinds and is assistant conductor of the College Band. He has had many years of experience playing in outstanding bands and orchestras. He handles the hospitalization accounts at the hospital.

Mrs. Edna Thornton assists in teaching violin and percussion instruments and is secretary of the department. From the sounds that originate in the Music Department and float out across the campus, the passer-by can readily judge that the Music Department at Madison College is indeed a busy place.

Vacationers

Miss Beulah Vickers, Nursing Arts instructor, and her brother Eldon and Edna Earle Lee left on vacation on June 23. They drove to Halifax, North Carolina, where Edna Earle stopped to visit her parents while Miss Vickers and Eldon drove on to Washington, D.C.

Returning from their vacation in Florida the Collinses brought back with them for a brief vacation Mr. Collins' father, Mr. I. M. Collins, of Orlando.

Starch & Stripes

Recently, if you have seen a little "streak" of live-wire humanity gathered up in a graduate uniform, dashing throughout the hospital—giving medicines, starting I.V.'s, assisting in surgical recovery work, supervising, and even leading out in extra-curricular social functions—it was Miss Beulah Vickers, nursing arts instructor. In spite of her modest desire to remain incognito, this column sincerely thanks her for its appearance, rather than disappearance, a couple of weeks ago.

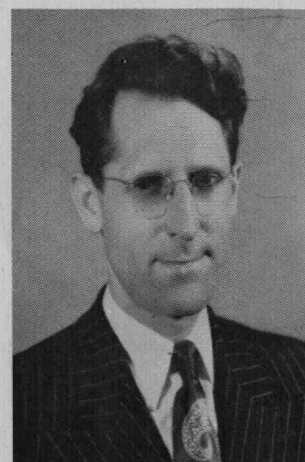

Finis

"Yours truly" has had an enjoyable spell of supervising Pediatrics this vacation period, and is left with an overwhelming desire to start some needed projects for the wee toddlers and very nice older girls and boys. Just now, I must sign out, level off some urgent desk work, and then dash off to pack my suitcase for a distant alumni meeting—Illinois, here I come!

Meet the Faculty

Professor Harold E. Mitzelfelt, "impressed with Madison's practical curricula which prepare students to meet life's competition," accepted the call to Madison and is now completing his fifth year as head of the Music Department.

A man of almost limitless energy, he instructs in all the instruments as well as voice, directs the College Band and A Cappella Choir, besides teaching music subjects required in the music education course.

Prof. H. E. Mitzelfelt

Believing as he does in a musical education for people of all ages, his schedule is never too full to allow time for those adults seeking music instruction. From the lisping pre-schooler to the white-haired oldster, all are welcome! One of the professor's first acts soon after arrival on the campus was to organize a junior band which has produced several members now in the College Band.

Professor Mitzelfelt's teaching experience has taken him and his family several times across the country from coast to coast and from north to south. His first teaching experience following graduation from Union College was as principal of a junior academy in Little Rock, Arkansas. Then came six years as director of music in the Salem, Illinois, public schools, where he also taught geometry and history.

Auburn Academy next drew the Mitzelfelts westward where Professor Mitzelfelt headed the Music Department while working on his Master's Degree at the University of Washington in Seattle. Then to Walla Walla College whence came the call from the East, and the Mitzelfelts, now a family of six, went to Atlantic Union College, where the "Prof," as he is affectionately known by his students, headed the Music Department.

Again Auburn Academy desired his services and the Mitzelfelts headed west again for a short time. It was there that the Madison call reached them.

In all of his travels Professor Mitzelfelt has found time to play 'cello with the local symphony orchestras. While at Auburn he was a member of the Seattle and Tacoma Orchestras. At Walla Walla he played with the Spokane Symphony Orchestra, driving over 300 miles round trip to Spokane for the monthly performances, and also played with the Walla Walla Symphony Orchestra. Currently he is a member of the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, and director of the Parthenon Symphonette.

To mention a few of his teachers, Professor Mitzelfelt studied 'cello under Max and Bruno Steindel, world-famous 'cellists. He studied voice with Douglas Stanley in New York, Dr. Houghton at Boston University, and Charles Lawrence at the University of Washington.

By no means are the professor's teaching talents limited to the field of music. At Madison he has taught, in addition to music, classes in algebra, trigonometry, psychology, and anatomy and physiology. Students appreciate his methodic and yet interesting way of presenting his subjects. His interest in students as individuals is one of the qualities that has drawn many of them to seek him out for advice and counsel. Former students often write to thank him for encouragement and help he gave them in the past.

Professor Mitzelfelt does not allow his busy weekly program to keep him from participating in the activities of the church. Currently he is serving as superintendent of the senior Sabbath school division of the Madison College church for the second successive year. His co-workers appreciate his enthusiasm and continued interest. Sunday mornings find him engaged in directing the choir at the First Presbyterian Church in Old Hickory.

Indeed Professor Mitzelfelt and his family have contributed much to the musical and educational program of Madison College.

Alfred Durham

An English citizen from the British West Indies, Alfred Durham and his sister Muriel came to the United States in the summer of 1950. Shortly before, he had become a Seventh-day Adventist through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Prenier, who at the time were helping Elder R. H. Pierson (now president of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference) with a tent effort on Grand Turk's Island, B.W.I., about 400 miles southeast of Jamaica.

A member of the Anglican Church, Alfred studied for many months before taking his stand and being baptized.

The Pniers then helped the brother and sister fulfill their dreams of coming to America and going to school by arranging for them to attend Mt. Pisgah Academy in North Carolina.

When they arrived in Miami, Florida, the immigration authorities informed them that they could not attend Mt. Pisgah, since it was not on their list as a school which could accept foreign students.

They telephoned their predicament to the Pniers, who by this time were in Nashville, connected with the Southern Publishing Association. Arrangements were quickly made for them to attend Madison College, where they have been ever since.

Alfred, an industrial education major, is now a senior, planning to graduate in September, with his sister Muriel, a senior nurse. During these years he has been preparing himself for some place in the Lord's work.

His plans are to continue his work in industrial education at Peabody College, where he hopes to receive his M.A. degree, and eventually to become an American citizen.

Sabbath School Presents Colorful 13th Sabbath Program

In a colorful program complete with missionaries in costume and MCC cadets in uniform, Madison College Sabbath school members gave a Thirteenth Sabbath offering of $248.55, according to General Superintendent Mrs. Gilbert Johnson.

The program, presented by Senior Sabbath School Superintendent Harold Mitzelfelt, centered around Elder and Mrs. R. L. Kimble, who spent many years in India as missionaries. Mrs. Kimble told of their part in the beginning of the work at Simla in northwestern India where a mobile medical unit will be established as a result of the Thirteenth Sabbath overflow offering.

Others appearing in costume were Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Lesovsky, recently from Arak, Iran; Elder and Mrs. R. L. Stewart, former missionaries to the Philippines;

Dr. Caleb Chu from China, who described himself as the product of the missionary endeavors of the church; and Mrs. Julian Gant, daughter of the first missionary to Peru. Mrs. Harold Mitzelfelt, who when a small child accompanied her parents to South Africa as missionaries, appeared in Indian costume.

Interesting features of the program included a prayer in Chinese by Dr. Chu, the benediction given in Arabic by Dr. Lesovsky, a mixed quartet singing an appeal for the Southern Asia Division, and a cornet duet of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," played by Patricia Mitzelfelt-Silver and Vincent Mitzelfelt.

News Notes

Elder Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Bowes, Mrs. Bowen, Petra Sukau, and Barbara Meinardus were appointed to represent the Madison College Church at the Laymen's Congress held at Kansas City, Missouri.

Bob Santini, Class of '54, was a recent campus visitor. Bob is the business manager of Pine Hill Sanitarium at Birmingham, Alabama.

Tina Sanders, senior nurse, will fly to Germany during the first part of July, where she will join her husband, Sergeant Ray Sanders, who is stationed there with the U. S. Army.

Librarian Conducts Evangelistic Meetings

Mr. Edward Collins, college librarian, conducted a two-week series of evangelistic meetings in the Kingfield, Tennessee, Seventh-day Adventist church, June 12-26.

Various students, teachers, nurses, and doctors assisted with music and health talks.

On one night Dr. R. R. Bowes showed to a full house the film, "One in Twenty Thousand," and lectured on the effects of smoking.

Every evening, preceding the sermon, Mrs. Collins conducted a story hour for the children.

The church members and the community of Kingfield expressed their appreciation for the program that was carried on.
