Minchin Points "Christ as Answer"

Convention Honors Dr. Sutherland

The Forty-fifth Annual Convention of Southern Self-supporting Workers met at Madison College October 6-9.

The keynote of the convention, although bringing in a note of sadness, at the same time brought in a note of faith and courage: "...Moses my servant is dead; now therefore, arise and go over Jordan..." Joshua 1:2. "We are well able to possess the land." Num. 13:30.

The opening meeting of the convention was given over to a service honoring the memory and life accomplishments of Dr. E. A. Sutherland, founder of Madison College and the self-supporting work in the Southland, who passed away on the Madison campus only a few months ago.

The convention did not seem the same as the forty-four previous conventions, the reason being the absence of Dr. Sutherland, whose leadership these many years was responsible for instilling faith and courage into the hearts of all those engaged in self-supporting missionary work. Dr. Sutherland was a minister of the gospel, a great educator, a Christian physician, and an outstanding administrator. His works do follow after him.

In addition to the divisional reports and panels by the medical, educational, and agricultural workers present at the convention, many interesting reports were given by individuals representing the many self-supporting units. These reports of the marvelous progress of the work under the blessing of God were deeply moving and a great inspiration to all those present.

All present felt a call to a deeper consecration and to the need of re-studying the objectives especially for the medical and educational work.

The convention set up an executive committee of fifteen members to serve as a directing agency for the self-supporting work. Paul C. Dysinger, Pewee Valley, Kentucky, was elected president; Elder W. D. Frazee, Wildwood, Georgia, president-elect; and Florence Felleme, Madison College, secretary.

Intercollegiate Workshop Held

Eight Adventist colleges, all east of the Rockies, attended the sixth intercollegiate workshop held at Atlantic Union College in beautiful New England. The most distant college represented was Southwestern Junior College from Texas. All delegates traveled by car. The A. S. M. C. delegates, packed and ready to go Sunday morning, were finally able to leave Monday noon—October 3.

Those attending from here were Prof. William Wilson, Floyd McDaniel, Mary Doneskey, Joe

Your S. A. Welcomes You

At the beginning of another school year Madison College extends to each student and especially to her new students, a hearty welcome. The prayer of each faculty member is that this school year will be the best in the history of this institution.

We can guarantee you nothing—it's all up to you. Take full advantage of the opportunities offered you, for wonderful possibilities are before you. Everything you need for the development of your physical, mental, and spiritual abilities is before you. Make the best of your advantages and they will make you the Christian worker you want to be. Work hard, study hard, pray much, and you will not be disappointed.

Remember that your teachers are your friends and are here to help you. If you have problems, go to them. You are always welcome to stop in my office for a visit. W. H. Wilson, Sponsor

McDaniel

The officers of the Associated Students of Madison College extend to you a warm welcome and promise their best in service and helpfulness, as you join our college family.

Madison is your college, and as you enter its gates for work and study you become a member of the largest organization on the campus—the A.S.M.C.—an organization that will provide for you a wide range of activity that affords both pleasure and practical experience.

During your stay here, we hope that you will succeed in whatever you undertake and will work hard toward the goal you are pursuing. The door is open to you; take advantage of all the opportunities Madison has to offer you.

Keep the high spirit you have brought with you straight through the school year and this year will be a happy and prosperous year for all. Floyd McDaniel, President

Week of Prayer Features Youth Leader

Elder E. L. Minchin, associate secretary of the Missionary Volunteer Department of the General Conference, was the speaker during the Week of Prayer at Madison College, October 16-22.

At the daily chapel services and the evening meetings and also in his personal counseling with students he helped all to realize that Christ is the answer to man's every need.

His practical talks on such subjects as How to Meet Temptation and How to Make Prayer Real emphasized principles that the Christian needs to apply to his everyday living and keep practicing in order to have a satisfying Christian experience.

All were impressed with the many pointed statements such as the following with which his sermons were interspersed:

"Never take the first step for Satan into the world."

"Open up your heart to God as to a friend when praying."

"Imagine you are with God while you are praying."

"Choose for your associates those that will help elevate you spiritually."

"Whatever obscures your sense of God, or takes off the relish for spiritual things, whatever increases the authority of your body over your mind—that, to you, is sin."

The inspirational M. V. meeting on the closing Sabbath was a fitting climax to the week. After a service of praise in song, led by Elder Minchin, scores came up to the microphone and witnessed by their testimonies to their renewed faith and determination.

Progress . . .

To a small but progressive college, such as our own Madison College, "Progress" is its tradition. Throughout the past years of our school's history, the accomplishments of its students and the faculty have served as stimulants to guide the following on to greater attainment.

The tradition of progress involves each and every one who participates in the activities of our college. Progress is accomplished only by spiritual, scholastic, and physical advancement. We cannot stand still. We need growth. A tree must not only have a sturdy, thick trunk to grow, but must also bear new leaves each year. Our College which has grown through past accomplishments is the trunk. We are the new leaves. This year, let us each one, student and faculty, strive forward that we may keep up the tradition of our college, continuing to grow. With growth our college cannot lay aside the basic principle for which it was founded. We must have courage, confidence, and a faith that will lead us upward to a final victory.

To You . . .

School has started again. A hearty welcome to all the new students and the old. It is the desire of us all to make this the best year of school yet. We are happy to welcome three new members to the high school faculty this year. We hope they will enjoy being with us.

As we go through this year we may become discouraged along the way; but we must always remember that we cannot fail with God in our side. Since God works out everything for our good, we must meet all experiences with a smile and the assurance that God is with us.

We the staff members wish to take this opportunity to welcome both the faculty and the new students. It is our utmost desire that they will come to love Madison College Academy. May you have much success this year as you prepare for your life's work.

Margaret Hodges

Welcome, welcome, to the new residents of Williams Hall. Even though we are a little crowded, the crowd is nice. We hope we have made you feel at home and that you already feel that you are a part of us.

Mrs. Sparks, our dean, has done much to make our dormitory a good home. We appreciate her efforts very much, also the efforts of the girls who have participated in our letter-writing campaign to raise funds which will be used to purchase needed articles and furniture. Special mention goes to Pat Wells, who has written 136 letters. Other enthusiasts are Wanda Aitken and Wenonah Ramsey. Keep up the good work, girls.

We miss our dormitory friends who moved to Gotzian Home. Come back to visit us often.

We also miss Frances Woolbright, Ruby Alder, Hilda Schneider, and Bernice Gober, our senior nurses who are affiliating at the Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Barbara Malson is our new assistant dean, whom we have all learned to love. Her quiet manner and loving, thoughtful ways have won our hearts.

We turned out of our gates, into the married couples' club, LaVeta Herber-Graves, Grace Mizerski-MacIntosh, Peggy Dillard-Jones, and Ina Bergman-Haugen. We wish you the best of everything.

Maellene Haviland has been walking in air since a recent phone call from Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. Some other girls have been made happy by new additions to the Wasiota Club.

Many of us were privileged to attend several meeting of the Self-supporting Convention. It gave us a new insight into the Lord's work and a greater inspiration to prepare ourselves for service.

Girls, let's all work together to make this a good year. Let us hear your suggestions for making our dormitory a happy place to live.

Schnell, and Don Wilson. The delegates drove to Massachusetts in a car belonging to Mrs. Teckla Wilson.

Registration for the sessions started Wednesday afternoon, and that evening the first general session was held. Sessions began at 7:30 the next morning and lasted until 9:30 in the evening. The sessions were divided into Administrative, Yearbook, and School Paper sectional meetings.

The workshop, which closed Sunday with a very interesting historical tour of New England, brought to Madison's delegates many new ideas of programs and activities of other Seventh-day Adventist colleges. Next year the workshop will be held at Oakwood College.

Week of Prayer

The school program was so adjusted that students had ample time for counseling with Elder Minchin and Elder Mills, the college pastor. Both morning and afternoon classes were cut to 30-minute periods and assignments were shortened. Prayer bands met in the dormitories and in the classrooms each evening after the meeting.

Elder Minchin's ministry was especially appreciated because of his unusual understanding of young people's problems. His life has been spent in working for young people.

A native of Australia he graduated at the age of 20 from Avondale from the ministerial course. After spending a year in evangelistic work in New Zealand, he taught music and Bible for six years in the New Zealand college, besides being dean of men.

His service in this part of the world also includes being M. V. secretary in New South Wales and youth leader in the Australasian Division.

Then he was called to the British Isles and later to be M. V. secretary of the Northern European Division.

In 1954 he was called to America to become associate secretary of the M. V. Department of the General Conference.

The Minchins have five children, four girls and one boy, all of whom are attending Seventh-day Adventist schools in preparation for service.

One-Third Enrollment - Married Students

Of the 107 married students who have registered for classwork for the fall quarter (approximately one-third of the total enrollment of the college), thirty-two of these are new students, having just recently arrived.

Majoring in Industrial Arts are Clarence Twombly, sophomore, from Bell, Florida; Steven Olney, also a sophomore, from Baltimore, Maryland; and Efraim Pineiro, freshman, who hails from way down south in Havana, Cuba.

Back from "Uncle Sam's draft" is Pedro Ramos, who is anxious to finish his major field in Biology, and also his wife, Rosa Ramos, who again is doing a wonderful job in the nursing department on General.

A staff member to whom we wish to extend a warm welcome is Mr. Glenn Rabun, now employed in the Sanitarian Credit Office, and to Mrs. Rabun, who is taking professional nursing. Welcome to you both—from Austin, Texas.

From Las Cruces, New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Robert White have come to join the school family. They are pursuing Medical Technology together. Success, and a good school year!

X-ray has enticed a fine young couple from their cozy warm haven in Palm Beach, Florida, to cool, crisp Tennessee—Mr. and

Dean Wike

"Readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic" are back in full swing again as the first quarter of the new school year gets under way. There are many new students, especially freshmen. And, by the way, I hear there are more girls than boys.

The first big stir among the Wasiota men was the election of club officers. Although the election was held without a much-upheld but well-hidden constitution, nevertheless they made it. Some fine officers have been chosen to lead the club in a lot of fun and worthwhile projects. The officers are as follows: president, Walter Konstanzer; vice-president, Clyde Holland; secretary, Bob Williams; treasurer, Bob Clark; sergeant-at-arms, Leo McCarter; parliamentarian, Harry Mayden; pastor, Ernie Plata.

The first project that this fine club presented at the school this year was brought to everyone's attention on the night of October 13, when the celebrated "Bakwudz Bruthers Kwartet" sang at the big get-together of the fellows and the girls. Leo McCarter stole the show with his sharp red tie, his dull green shirt, and that slouch hat.

That's all for now. Watch this column in the next issue.

Mrs. Robert Loder. But you'll love it here, we know.

From Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Pine have come for professional nursing. Four years may seem a long time, but you'll love every minute of it.

From a little nearer home, at Memphis, Tennessee, have come Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Wilkes and children. A religion major, Mr. Wilkes is very capably carrying responsibilities in the print shop until a manager can be secured.

A most attractive addition recently to Trailer Court is the beautiful "modern home on wheels" of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Seiden, who have come to join our family from Burlington, Iowa. At present, Mr. Seiden is busy working in the milk plant, while majoring in Agriculture.

Mr. Hubert Mills, coming from Philpot, Kentucky, is truly a man of many interests. Since his arrival on the campus, though very busy with pre-nursing studies, he finds time also to be night watchman. His kind and courteous manner on all occasions is much appreciated.

New arrivals are an eight-pound boy, Arthur Wayne, born October 13, to Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Mino, and a six-pound, thirteen and one-fourth ounce boy, Rodney Louis, born October 25, to Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeLong.

College Boasts Record Enrollment

Madison College's total enrollment to date is three hundred forty-six students of assorted nationalities, ages, and purposes in life; but all are at Madison College with the determination to receive a Christian education, which includes the practical training for which Madison is noted.

The new students have pressed the "suitcase wrinkles" out of their clothes, learned to follow their noses to the cafeteria three times a day, and have lost the first fear of a new campus job. Since registration, the approximately 125 new students have cracked approximately 750 new books and become acquainted with the accompanying smell of printer's ink. The largest number of these new students are aiming for a nursing career, but all of the college departments have claimed some new students along with their upper-classmen.

The youngest of the student body are two seventeen-year-olds: June Meyers, a Secretarial Science major, and Eugene Henderson, an Industrial Education major. Both are freshmen. The junior class claims the two seniors in the age classification—Mr. A. H. Face and Elder R. E. Stewart.

Among the new faces on the campus are several from other countries. Hertha Schramm comes from Germany. Miss Ethel Wood, a missionary on furlough from Africa, is taking classwork that will be of help to her upon her return to her field. Mr. and Mrs. Leonardo Westphal have come from Brazil, where he has been attending college. Miss Reiko "Rachel" Yatani, a pre-nursing student, comes from Japan. Canada sends a number of students, including Esther Edmonson, Bob Huether, Jean Openshaw, Delphia Ladner, Christina Warner, and Elizabeth Page. Crimilda Perales, a pre-medical student, and Mary Perez came from Puerto Rico.

Churches, Faculty Fete Students

The Madison Boulevard and the College churches were hosts at a picnic for the students held on the campus Thursday afternoon, September 29.

At 4 p.m. the food began to arrive. Tables on the campus were soon piled high with sandwiches, baked dishes, cake, cookies, and pies—"like mother used to make." Students stood about watching expectantly.

Although gathering clouds looked ominous, preparations continued for the lawn picnic. After all, a drought is hard to break; it had been threatening for several days.

But soon the sprinkles began to fall, and tables of food were quickly transferred to the cafeteria. While the rain came down in torrents outside, inside the students and church members enjoyed the abundance of delicious food.

Then came a program in the chapel. The old-fashioned setting for the program—the platform and the attire of those who participated—was in keeping with the numbers presented.

The annual faculty reception for the students was held in the college cafeteria on Saturday night, October 2.

The traditional handshake gave way to a get-acquainted game in which the new students endeavored to get as many teachers' signatures as possible.

Highlights of the program which followed were the speeches of welcome by President Jasperson and Dean Sandborn, the student responses by Bill Graves, LaVeta Graves, Harry Mayden, and Floyd McDaniel, music numbers by Dorothy Evans-Ackerman and Felix Lorenz, Jr., and readings by Mr. Patrick and Marion Seitz-Simmons.

At the close of the program the faculty served punch, cake, and cookies to the students.
