Graduating Nurses Receive Pins

Thursday evening, March 21, was a memorable day for the fifteen members of the Senior A Nursing Class of 1957, who received their pins in a special ceremony held in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall. This is the first nursing class in the history of Madison College to complete the course in March.

With the exception of Elder Marley, each one who had part on the program is either a doctor or a professional nurse. Even President Sandborn is a graduate nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bidwell, who are both registered nurses, served as ushers.

As Miss Barbara Brauer, at the organ, and Dr. Naomi Pitman, at the piano, played the processional, Marche Pontificale, representatives of the professional nurse staff and of each nursing class—Senior B, Junior, and Sophomore—marched in, in that order, and were seated in the front of the auditorium. Each group was led in separately by two junior students, Sheila Moore and Jackie Giles. The graduates marched in last, and were seated on the platform. Each of the girls carried three red roses, which made a lovely contrast against their white uniforms.

Following the invocation by Dr. Julian Gant and President Sandborn, Bill Howard's rich baritone voice stirred his audience as he sang "I Believe."

Elder E. L. Marley, pastor of the First S.D.A. Church of Nashville, was the chief speaker of the evening. "It is going beyond the call of duty that brings success," was the counsel he gave the nurses, as he spoke of the need for kindness and self-sacrificing love in this, their chosen profession.

"Reverie" was the title of an impressive reading given by Mrs. Doris Clapp, the Director of Nurses.

Mrs. Jennie Vest, an Assistant Director of Nursing Service, presented the class to be pinned. Each was pinned by the person he or she had chosen. The dedicatory prayer was offered by Dr. Fred Cothren.

On behalf of the class, Mrs.

Dr. William C. Sandborn, newly elected president of Madison College, ushered in his administration by proclaiming a three-day campus clean-up.

The announcement was enthusiastically received, and March 19, 20, and 21 found students and faculty donned in overalls, slacks, jeans, and what not, ready to delve into the "clean-up, spruce-up, and slick-up" campaign.

Lyceum Features Bicycle Traveler

Miss Shirley Duncan, author, traveler, and lyceum lecturer, delighted her audience on Saturday night, March 16, as she recounted many unusual and amusing incidents from her 11,000-mile trip through Australia.

From the cocoanut palms and pineapple plantations in the north to the arid, treeless desert in the south, Shirley Duncan and her friend Wendy, accompanied by Peter, a cattle-dog pup, took just over two years to complete the 11,000-mile bicycle journey.

The adventurers visited aboriginal missions, cattle stations, gold mines, and bush race meetings. They met strange and interesting people and also enjoyed a wide range of activities from skiing in the mountains to riding turtles in the tropical islands off the coast of Australia.

Miss Duncan, born and educated in Melbourne, Australia, has lectured in England, Holland, Japan, and Canada.

After gathering in the chapel at 7:00 a.m. and singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," all marched to the jobs to which they had been assigned.

Young ladies drove trucks and toured campus roads, picking up paper, tin cans, and other trash.

At the same time other young ladies were working right beside young men on the paint crew, digging flower beds, raking leaves, planting shrubs and flowers, and even trimming the hedges.

The big job of the campaign was the painting of all the hospital and sanitarium buildings. About seventy-five faculty members and students put more than 325 gallons of paint on the buildings.

Thanks are extended to the various Nashville merchants who contributed greatly to the success of the clean-up by giving ladders, paint brushes, buckets, and paint.

There were no casualties reported other than stiff joints, aching muscles, blistered hands, and a few cuts and scratches. According to reports, everyone enjoyed

Wasiota Whispers

A new fad is spreading through the school at the present. Seems it started at Assembly Hall. Several of the residents have taken up Yo-Yo-ing as a hobby, and now some of the fairer sex want to participate. Albert Isom says he will run a class. Anyone interested contact Albert or Paul Nettland. Sounds juvenile, doesn't it?

All were sorry to see Tony Rivera leave and go to Peabody to work on his master's degree. Tony finished his college work at the close of the winter quarter.

With us as a new student is Johnny Walkinghawk, from South Dakota. Johnny's name was given to him by the Indians who adopted him when he was left an orphan after a plane crash. Johnny was a star rodeo rider before he became an Adventist.

Bob Storey is back with us again, and as Leroy Fielding loves dorm life, he has moved in at Wasiota Hall.

Dean Crook and his monitors did a swell job painting ceilings and one another's hats during the clean-up days. Where is your flattop, Ed? Dean Crook says that they will also start painting Wasiota Hall soon.

Jan, make sure you use your phone for pharmacy purposes only now.

Snoopy

Hello there! Here we are again with all sorts of chewy little bits of news that we hope you will enjoy.

Last week Jan Rushing asked Nadine Myrick if she could swim. She said that she could swim, but not very well. Jan then told her that she had better start swimming, because she was in DEEP WATER. I wonder if deep water, a raft and a river, ring a bell, Nadine?

In chapel, when we were talking about a three-day clean-up campaign, Harry Mayden said that he was glad we would stop work at noon on Friday, because on Friday afternoon his wife made him clean house. Shame on you, Joyce!

Still talking of clean-up day—it was hard to tell which had more paint on, the hospital or the painters. Things are really looking better, except Stewart Crook, who had to get a crew cut in order to get the

Canadian Club Honors Departing Missionaries

David Warner Presents Typewriter to Althea and Gerald Turnbull at Banquet Given for Them

By Esther Edmondson

The Canadian students gathered in the Nutrition Laboratory on March 14 for a farewell banquet in honor of two of their number, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Turnbull, who are soon leaving for their field of labor in Africa.

At the beginning of the program, the guests were introduced to Madison's new president, Dr. Sandborn, who gave his first speech, under his new title, to the Canadian Club.

The president of the Canadian Club, Mr. Leonard Drebert, acted as master of ceremonies for the program, which depicted the lives of both Gerald and Althea Turnbull.

The Canadian quartet, consisting of Bob Huether, Bob Tetz, Emmett Tetz, and Llewellyn Fleck, took the Turnbells back to "The Red River Valley" and "Our C.U.C." From there Mrs. Ackerman took them a few miles farther to "The Blue Canadian Rockies." "When It's Springtime in the Rockies," sung by Jean Openshaw, Delphia Ladner, and Esther Edmondson, the Canadian trio, reminded them of the time they spent logging at Babine Lake.

A portable typewriter was the gift presented by David Warner, in behalf of the group, to help Mrs. Turnbull with her secretarial duties.

At the close of the program Mr. Drebert introduced the rest of the club officers: vice president, Bob Huether; secretary-treasurer, Lois Sharpe; social secretary, Jean Openshaw; religious leader, Alex Nischuk; sponsors, Elder and Mrs. Ackerman.

In a consecration prayer Elder Lorenz asked God's blessing upon the Turnbells in a special way. Then all extended their best wishes to the guests while the Canadian trio sang "We Hope That We'll Meet Again."

The banquet meal was planned, prepared, and served by the Home Economics class, under the direction of Mrs. Lorenz.

paint out of his hair—or so he says. Sabbath someone in the choir asked Mr. Cossentine what he thought of Stewart's haircut; he made a face and said that he had no comments on the matter.

Horace Hudson will be a little more careful in the future about the way he drives, after being given a ticket for speeding. In Medical and Surgical II he tried to take up a collection to pay his fine but as everyone was as financially embarrassed as he was, he went away empty-handed. He hasn't been missed around here, so he either paid his fine or talked his way out of it.

If Stephen Foster could have seen Joyce Bowe and Doris Powell riding on a bicycle-built-for-two, I'm sure that instead of writing "I dream of Jeannie with the light brown hair," he would have written, "I dream of Jeannie in the light blue jeans." Girls, you were really cute.

Vacationers Tell of Florida Trip

by WILL GILL

Do you remember that awful noise about two o'clock on the morning of March 20? Did you hear the shouts, "Miami or bust!"? It was the group who had received 15 or more subscriptions to the MADISONIAN taking off on their promised trip to Florida.

Highlights along the way included visiting the Cyclorama in Atlanta, spending the night on the Jacksonville beach, with its accompanying sandstorm, visiting the old fort and other old parts of the city in St. Augustine, and swimming at Daytona Beach.

The second night we spend in Orlando with Verna Benson's brothers and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moore, who are the aunt and uncle of Mrs. Evelyn Meyer and Mrs. Bobby Harrison.

Next day we explored the cypress gardens. We held our breaths at the spectacular antics of the expert water-skiing performers. We took the lovely sightseeing boatride through the gardens and filled our eyes with its wonders as the guide pointed out the beautiful sights.

We continued our journey to the Bok Carillon Tower and Sanctuary—a beautiful, inspiring place. The natural dark jungle interspersed with brilliant lawns and flower gardens, the singing of birds and the scurrying squirrels among the dark, thick branches, and the brilliant sunshine on the green lawns and colorful flowers made it a place of beauty. The immense carillon tower arising in its exquisite pastel marble majesty made an impression never to be forgotten.

Down through the Everglades we went, into the swamp lands infested with snakes and crocodiles; so we didn't do much exploring there.

However Clyde and Ross had their hearts set on baby crocodiles, which they later decided to get the easy way from a pet shop. Just wait, girls; these famous babies are coming by mail and we can hear your screams already.

We reached Miami on Friday evening and received a royal welcome. A telephone call to Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Martin and family produced wonders. As soon as he had given us directions to his home, Doyle got on the phone and called all the Madisonites in the area.

They came by the dozens—Mr. and Mrs. Archie Weemes and little Theresa, Mr. and Mrs. Scotty Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Don Owsley, Faye Egger, Fay Luck, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parks. When Bill came in wearing his Madison College sweater, he really received a cheer. We were soon divided among them and spent a restful night.

We worshipped with them in the Miami Springs Church on Sabbath

"This Is Your Life" Group Tell Varied Experiences

Mr. and Mrs. Hulme Siwundhla and Cameron Msumba, publicized about four months ago on TV's "This Is Your Life," told their experiences to overflow audiences in the auditorium at five Sabbath meetings on March 22 and 23.

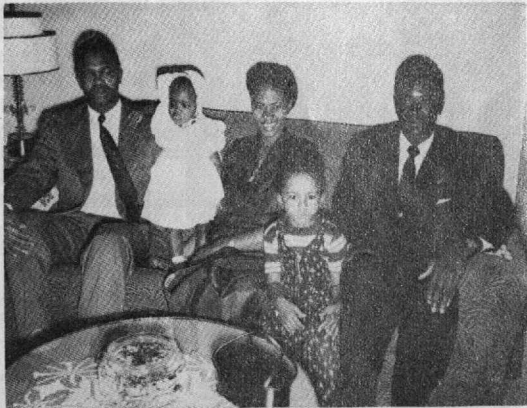

Better known to Seventh-day Adventists as "Alice Princess," Mrs. Siwundhla is the heroine of Josephine Cunningham Edwards' intriguing story of Alice's life in the book The Enchanted Pillowcase.

The large audiences heard first-hand Alice's story of her coming to the Malamulo Mission as a little heathen orphan, becoming Mrs. Edwards' special charge, growing up into young Christian womanhood, and providentially meeting Hulme Siwundhla. Then came the desire on the couple's part to further their education in America and the efforts on the part of Mrs. Edwards to bring them to this country.

Prayer, hard work, and faith finally accomplished the near-impossible task of raising the money and cutting the tape so that Alice and Hulme could enter the United States. Then, when the way seemed blocked because of the Suez crisis, TV came to the rescue.

On Sabbath p.m. Mrs. Edwards told how she was impressed to write to Ralph Edwards of "This Is Your Life." As a result, about four months ago the family was flown over to participate in the TV show, and the public was introduced to Alice and the influence of Seventh-day Adventist missions on her life.

Hulme, Thelma Nozizwe, Alice Nyenyesi, and Lowell Hulme Thandia Siwundhla and Cameron Akim Msumba

At the last meeting on Saturday night, the guests told of their trip by air to this country and their appearance on TV, and then showed the film of the TV program.

The program sponsors gave the young couple personal gifts and funds for completing their education and for living expenses. Also the Malamulo Mission Hospital received $6000 worth of medicines, donated by E. R. Squibb and Sons.

Just as the brother, Cameron, was about to return to Africa, a doctor in California offered to pay his expenses at college in America. As a result, he is now a student at Oakwood College with the Siwundhlas. Here all three are preparing themselves for more efficient work among their people in Africa.

Papas-to-be Are Showered by Class

Of the twenty-one students enrolled in the Childhood Education course during the winter quarter, sixteen were men. Six were prospective papas.

A fitting close to the study of child guidance and baby care was a surprise shower for Glen Brown (baby has already arrived), Rodney Jones, Charles Culbertson, Harry Mayden, Aaron Dennis, and Bob Hale.

At the home of their teacher, Mrs. Simmons, the fellows were greeted by a stork and gifts. Each baby-to-be received a silver cup, spoon and fork, one "birdseye," and a rattle.

The five young ladies in the class served the refreshments, and Mrs. Peggy Jones and Ruth Ann Duncan did a good clean-up job after everyone had gone. Virginia Davidson, Mary Astor, and Helen Twombly were the other ladies in the class.

College Group Visits Little Creek

Friday, March 22, found Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, Dorothy Goodrich Moon, Rachel Ramsey, and Carol Thompson on the highway speeding toward the Little Creek School, Concord, Tennessee, twelve miles from Knoxville.

Members of the group had charge of vespers, the eleven o'clock hour on Sabbath, and the afternoon meeting.

Mary Peek's father and mother were host and hostess to some of the group, while others stayed in a cabin near the Goodge home.

All were impressed with the beauty of the place, the continued progress being made in buildings, and the quiet reverent attitude of the entire student body.

morning and met more Madisonites—Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bryant and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Don Welch and Kim, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ericson, and also some old-timers—Dr. and Mrs. McCorkle and family and Mr. and Mrs. Theo Maddux.

After a delicious pot luck dinner Mr. Welch and Mr. Martin planned a lovely excursion around Miami to the exotic tropical gardens and the beautiful pine-studded beach.

The trip home was a fast and continuous one. We drove without a stop to see the sights. We came up the highway along the gulf and look at as much as we could as we passed by.

There was not one accident or one speeding ticket, and all of us reached home tired but happy. So all of us who participated—Donna Jones, Verna Benson, Clyde Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Tetz,

Special Service to Honor Teachers and Future Teachers

The weekend of April 13 will be dedicated to Christian education. Elder H. S. Hanson, Southern Union Secretary of Education, will participate, as well as local conference Superintendents of Education.

Teachers of Tomorrow will be commissioned, and academy and college teachers will receive recognition of their years of service, as well as teachers already in the field.

An Investiture service is being planned for the afternoon during the M. V. hour.

Nurses' Pinning

A vocal trio consisting of Lillian Azevedo, Patsy Wilson, and Gilbert Jorgensen sang the class song, "My Task."

Following the benediction, which was given by Dr. Roy Bowes, the guests attended a reception held in the college cafeteria in honor of the finishing class.

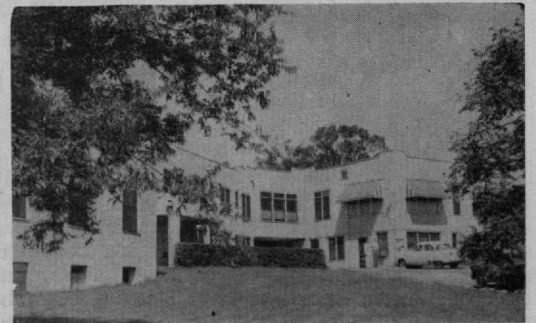

Mary Peek, Ross Clark, Marilyn Blackwelder, and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gill—thank the A.S.M.C. and the MADISONIAN for making the trip possible.

Principal's Message

"Let no one beguile you with dreams of idleness. Life without toil if possible, would be an intolerable existence. Work is the sublime luxury of life."—Hardin.

In the true definition of education we are told to develop the physical faculty. This is done by hard, honest work. Work was given to man in the beginning as a blessing, but there are many who feel that physical labor is degrading.

Here at Madison we have the privilege of putting into practice the instruction God has given us regarding work. Christ left us a perfect example as a worker. Consider the fact that he spent twenty-seven years in his father's shop working, and spent only three and a half years in the ministry—and He was the Saviour of the world.

Occasionally one hears a student complain about a menial task he is asked to perform. If we had the right spirit about work, there would be no task too lowly for us to perform. Let us not isolate ourselves in one job to the point that we feel it below our dignity to perform other tasks in the institution.

W. H. Wilson

Senior Sketches

John Reiboldt

A quiet, refined senior boy, John Reiboldt was born July 19, 1938, in Laurel, Indiana. He has attended school here for two years.

He hates people who complain, and very seldom do you hear him talking about someone else. His favorite food is mashed potatoes.

During his two years here he has been employed in the electrical department, and he has the reputation of being an excellent electrician.

His plans for the future are indefinite.

Jon Mac Randall

Jon Mac Randall, although having attended the academy here for only two years, has been president of both the junior and senior classes.

He was born here on July 5, 1939, and went to school for his first ten years at Nashville Junior Academy in Nashville.

His pet peeve is "Road Hogs" and his favorite food strawberry shortcake. His future plan is to take civil engineering at Vanderbilt University.

Don is one of the few seniors who have spent only one year of their school life here at Madison College Academy, his first eleven years having been spent in public school in Florida.

He was born in Jacksonville, Florida, on April 5, 1939, and his home has been there all his life.

His chief dislike is teachers, and his favorite food is macaroni with cheese. He plans to take Dietetics.

Stella Rodriguez

This cheerful senior was born in New Orleans, March 23, 1939. She has attended school here for five years.

Stella has been vice-president of the junior class, president of the village girls' club, and assistant Sabbath school superintendent.

She dislikes people who aren't truthful and loves to eat spaghetti. Her future plan is to take Medical Records Technology here.

Trannie was born in Crockett County, Tennessee, on July 4, 1938. She was married to Mr. Gordon Roberts on Sept. 1, 1955, and was out of school for one year, following her marine husband over the country. Now she is back in school while she waits for Gordon to finish his time in the service.

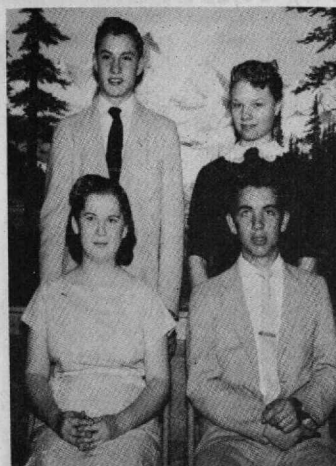

She has been assistant Sabbath school superintendent for the youth's division and pianist for various religious organizations.

Her future plans are to take Medical Records Technology.

King and Queen of Courtesy Crowned

Front: Goldie Valentine and Albert Parker, King and Queen. Back: Jo Ann Schuler, Forest Werner, Runners-up

The academy king and queen of courtesy were crowned in chapel on Monday, March 4.

Albert Parker was chosen king, with Forest Werner as his runner-up. Goldie Valentine was crowned queen, JoAnn Schuler being her runner-up.

In addition to participating with the college in the activities of courtesy week, the high school enjoyed daily features at their own chapel.

Freshmen Exchange Letters With Japanese Students

The members of the freshman English class have been busy writing letters to Japanese students from the Tamagawa Gagueen school near Tokyo.

These students, who have to study not only Japanese, but also English, have written letters to the Madison freshmen for an English assignment. The teacher of their school, Mr. Hideo Hamano, a graduate of Madison College in 1954, mailed the letters to Mrs. Sandborn, English One teacher.

Class Visits Institutions

Four carloads of students from the Government class recently visited the State Penitentiary and Jordon, the state reform school for boys between the ages of twelve and eighteen.

At the school it was interesting to learn the daily schedule of each boy and the opportunities he has to learn a trade for life. As the students noted the pleasant surroundings, they were not surprised to learn that only two or three boys run away from school each month. They were also told that these boys were always returned.

Academy Seniors Sell Bread

"Would you like one loaf or two?" was the question asked by senior class members as they sold bread Thursday night, March 7.

Undaunted by the cold wind and sleet, the class sold nearly a hundred loaves of whole wheat bread. However, they were rewarded when they counted the profit they had made for class functions.

A special thanks goes to Mrs. Lorenz, who worked untiringly in making the bread and wrapping it to sell.

Farewell Party Honors Mrs. Lorenz

The Home Economics class gave their teacher, Mrs. Lorenz, a farewell party during class on Friday, March 15. She is leaving for a quarter to take more work on her master's degree at the University of Tennessee.

Refreshments of cookies, punch, and homemade ice cream were served. The class presented her a small gift to show their appreciation.
