Elder E. L. Marley

New Ky.-Tenn. Head Speaks in Chapel

Elder E. L. Marley, newly elected president of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference, was the chapel speaker on Monday, April 8.

Elder Marley, who is a graduate of Madison College, was elected to the presidency at a conference committee meeting held in Nashville on April 1. He succeeds Elder R. H. Pierson, who recently accepted a call to be president of the Texas Conference.

In his chapel talk Elder Marley urged the students to make their Christian experience a heart experience. "It is one thing to know the standards of the church and another to have an experience within the heart," he told them.

The new conference president spent five years as a student at

Sculptor Presents "Characters in Clay"

Raymond G. Bogardus, lecturer and sculptor, presented his lyceum program, "Characters in Clay," in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall on Saturday night, April 13.

Mr. Bogardus, using over ninety pounds of clay, created a series of giant size heads of famous people and story-book characters. Using only his bare hands in molding the faces, he worked with remarkable speed and accuracy.

His brief commentary on clay and some of its many uses was especially interesting to those who enjoy clay modeling and very enlightening and entertaining to those who know little of clay sculpturing.

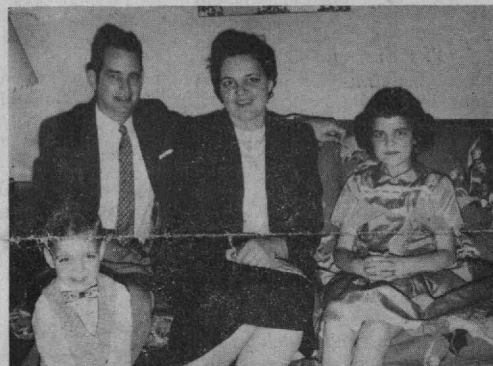

Madison College, graduating in 1942. His wife, the former Ruth Bryant, was also a Madison College student.

Since his graduation Elder Marley has served five years in the Alabama-Mississippi Conference and eight years in the Carolina Conference as pastor-evangelist. In February, 1956, he was called to the pastorate of the Nashville First Church.

The Marleys have three children—Barry, 13, Cheryl, 8, and Marcia, 3.

The Week of Spiritual Emphasis, which was held at Madison College from March 29 to April 6, was conducted by Elder Lawrence F. Kagels, pastor of the Lansing, Michigan, church.

"If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them" was the key text used by the speaker to introduce the theme for the week—"Quest for Happiness."

Elder Lawrence F. Kagels and Family

Day by day the speaker led the students as he spoke on subjects such as "Highways to Happiness," "Master Key to Happiness," "Happiness or Hardness," "Hope of Eternal Happiness."

Such thoughts as "Happiness comes through obedience and surrender to God" and "We can never be happy when we are going contrary to His Word" touched many hearts, victories over sins were gained, and surrenders were made.

In addition to holding two meetings daily in the chapel, Elder Kagels was the speaker daily at academy chapel. He also spoke to the children in the elementary school.

In the dormitories prayer bands were organized to meet immediately after the evening meetings. Class periods and assignments were shortened to give time for the extra meetings and for counseling with Elder and Mrs. Kagels, who were available for conference between meetings.

The M. V. hour on the last Sabbath was a fitting climax to the week. Elder Kagels recounted personal experiences connected with his conversion. Then, as the Sabbath closed, nine youth were baptized and taken into the church.

Those baptized were Mr. Ishmael

Music Dept. Performs

The Department of Music of Madison College presented a program of musical variety featuring the College Choir and the Band at the Southern Publishing Association on the evening of April 13. Under the direction of Professor Francis Cossentine, the choir opened the program with a group of sacred selections, and the band closed the program with a group of familiar marches, with Mr. Karl McDonald conducting.

Several vocal and violin solos were presented by Mrs. J. M. Ackerman and Mrs. Allen Moon respectively, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Mayden. A piano solo by Douglas Kendall, a two-piano number by Linda Fiebelkorn and JoAnn Schuler, and a trumpet trio selection by Paul Nettland, Anne Davidson, and Bob Huether, provided further variety to the program.

The Associated Students of Madison College extend a big welcome to all the visiting seniors from Fletcher, N.C., Little Creek, Tenn., Laurelbrook, Tenn., Pine Forest, Miss., Hylandale, Wis., Highland, Tenn., and Madison College Academy. We hope you will be so well impressed by your visit that many of you will decide to come to Madison College next year.

—HARRY MAYDEN, president of A.S.M.C.

All Glorious Within

During the Week of Prayer, Mrs. Kagels, wife of our guest speaker, brought to the young ladies of Williams Hall a series of talks during the morning worship periods. The main thoughts she presented to the girls will long remain with them. Her key text was Psalms 45:13: "The King's daughter is all glorious within."

We are all sons and daughters of a King. No, not heirs to an earthly kingdom, but to an everlasting one. Our Father is creator, ruler, and Saviour of the entire universe.

The heirs to an earthly kingdom are trained and taught from earliest years how to dress, talk, and act; they are constantly reminded that they must do the right thing at the right time. How much more should we, then, as heirs of the heavenly kingdom, watch our manners, speech, dress, and actions.

Yes, we are sons and daughters of the King, and must be all glorious within. S.H.

Delta Nu Zeta

Several of our nurses have left us to go to Cincinnati for their affiliation. Good luck, Edna Earle Lee, Maybelline Holloway, and Gertrude Schramm.

We have a new sister with us in Williams Hall. She comes to us from Gotzian Home. Welcome, Ruth McClellan.

Fire! Fire! Eleven o'clock and everyone was sleeping so well. What a rush there was to the front door, with girls in their shortie PJ's, house coats, and long coats. Anne Davidson grabbed her Bible, billfold, and radio, and then just about fainted coming down the steps.

Guess one fire drill isn't enough, as we had another Sunday night at eight o'clock. But what a relief it was when we found it was only the boys announcing the banquet to be held April 21. The theme of the night will be "An Evening in Paris."

We have two new girls in our dorm—well—at least they look new, with their long hair all cut short. Looks cute, Connie and Marilyn.

I'm sure we all thank Mrs. Kagels for the wonderful morning worship during the Week of Prayer on "The King's Daughter."

It's nice to have all your summer clothes done up at once, but oh, what a job—as Pat and Grace found out.

Two by Two

The married students' sponsor, Elder Lorenz, wore a big smile Friday evening, April 5. Mrs. Lorenz was at home for a few days' leave. Mrs. Lorenz has again taken up residence in Knoxville, where she is finishing the work on her master's degree in the field of Nutrition.

The Cincinnati wives—Mrs. Grace MacIntosh, Margaret Tate, and Ruth Huether—are mighty glad to be at home again. We had to say good-bye to Mrs. Opal Saulsbury, who is affiliating at the children's hospital this quarter.

The garden spot behind the new apartment house was plowed the past week, and with this lovely spring weather we've been having, there are many plans for good gardens in the near future.

We were happy to see Mrs. Don Blewett (Frances Woolbright, R. N. '56) visiting on our campus last week. Don has been shipped to a new camp at St. Charles, Louisiana, and she is spending a few days here until he can find a place to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Jorgensen made a recent trip to Lincoln, Nebraska, to visit Olive's family, and to Denver, Colorado, to visit "Jorgy's" family. Mr. Jorgensen reported that he got some much-needed exercise scooping snow and is glad to be back in sunny Tennessee. Olive remained with her family in Lincoln to attend a family reunion which was postponed because of the severe snowstorms.

A son Edward was born to Jewel (R. N. '53) and Warren (Anesthesia, '54) Cheevers of Columbia, Tennessee. The event occurred on March 18, at the Madison Sanitarium and Hospital.

On February 27 a son Kevin was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blankenship. We were sorry to hear that Paul's mother was suddenly taken ill and died before he could reach her side. Our sympathy is with you, Paul.

Wasiota Whispers

Bill Waite from Springfield, Missouri, is the most recent newcomer down at Wasiota Hall. Bill is working at the dairy.

War going on between Sunshine Court and Assembly Hall Upstairs? Richard Kunau reports that "bombs" have been tossed into the bathhouse and onto his front porch, and evidence points toward the Upstairs.

Joe Beckner made an unusually speedy recovery last week. Could it be a result of the wonderful nursing he received? Those student nurses really took good care of you, Joe.

Well, Ed Zollinger got his flattop. And Paul Nettland wasn't satisfied with his and got a still shorter one.

Mary Kate Gafford

When Fred and Helen Martini found that they could have no family of their own, they might have been overwhelmed with disappointment had it not been that Fred was particularly fond of animals, being "the proud owner of twelve canaries, one parrot, a dog of no particular breed, and a starling that had fallen out of the nest." "The truth is," Helen Martini says in her book, My Zoo Family, that I enjoyed Fred's pets as much as he did."

Therefore, when Fred connected with the Bronx Zoo as one of its keepers, Helen, too, wormed her way into the position of nursemaid for underprivileged baby animals.

Her job began one day when Fred returned home from work early, carrying a case in which rested a newly born lion cub, which was promptly named Douglas MacArthur. What in the world could a woman do with no knowledge whatsoever of lion-nursing techniques? You will want to read how Helen met this unusual situation and many others.

Included among her young charges were lions, tigers, a black leopard (considered the most untamable of wild beasts), orangutans, chimpanzees, a ring-tailed lemur, an adex, some marmosets, ocelots, gorillas, a South American yapock, jaguars, tarsiars, a howler monkey, a skunk, an addax, a white-tailed deer, and a mountain lion.

You will thoroughly enjoy, too, the photography, including pictures of Helen with a black leopard draped about her neck, or with her arms full of gorilla or a couple of tiger cubs, and Fred, giving the "king of beasts" a beauty treatment.

Incidentally, this book was among the selections of "Interesting Adult Books of 1955 for Young People," released February 2, 1956, by the Association of Young People's Librarians of the American Library Association. The call number is 590.74 M36m.

Pre-nursing Students Join Ranks

Fifteen enthusiastic new pre-clinical students have joined the nursing ranks. The class boasts of thirteen girls and two men—Joann Schimp, Selma Thomas, Ruth McClellan, Rachel Yatani, Pat Neely, Ida Gordon, Martha Norris, Zelda Haugen, Pat Rosenthal, Brenton Bullock, David Hernandez, Julia Keller, Connie Martin, Doris Brown, and Faye Champion.

Laboratory classes seem to be the favorite ones with them. They all looked very much relaxed after their bed baths recently.

Anesthesia Students Serve Hospitals in Community

Fifteen students are at the present time pursuing the course in Anesthesiology, one of the most challenging courses offered at Madison College. This is the only school in the denomination that offers Anesthesiology.

Mr. Bernard Bowen, director of School of Anesthesia, Rita Bowen, and Mrs. Bowen

Anesthesiology, open to graduate nurses, is a fifteen-month course, including approximately three months spent in affiliation at other hospitals.

Besides the heavy schedule of surgery here at Madison Sanitarium and Hospital (we did 246 cases in February), the department serves several hospitals within a fifty-mile radius of Madison.

This service gives a wide experience in all types of surgery and an excellent opportunity to better public relations.

At present Ralph Reynolds is affiliating at Hinsdale, Illinois, Eleanor Hansen at Columbia, Tennessee, and Octavian Socol at Athens, Alabama.

Other members of the class are Vonciel Barney, Barbara Ellers, Noel and Bernita Goggans, Paul Nielsen, Jean Hassenpflug, Virginia Williams, Bill Howard, Gilbert Jorgensen, Thomas Linville, and Laura Aker.

The birthdays of Paul Nielsen, Noel Goggans, Octavian Socol, and Ralph Reynolds called for a grand celebration recently at the gymnasium. It was at this party that ten-year-old Rita Bowen made her debut to the Anesthesia class and their families. Rita is the new adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bowen. Mr. Bowen is the director of the School of Anesthesia.

The social evening was such a delightful one that it was unanimously decided to have more "get-togethers."

seen on a refreshing visit to a rugged but smiling land of quaint charm and rich abundance.

Mr. Bird is accompanied by his wife, Ada, who is a naturalist in her own right, a keen field worker and observer, and herself an expert wildlife photographer.

Mr. Bird has done film assignments for Walt Disney's outdoor adventure series and has made motion pictures for the Canadian government on wildlife in the national parks.

Junior and Senior Stripes Awarded

Junior and senior stripes were awarded in chapel on April 10 to those who were eligible to receive them. A humorous skit, portraying a dormitory scene of "the night before" as the students finished last-minute work on their clinical notebooks, preceded the awards. Those who participated in the skit were Doris Powell, Shirley Hancock, Mary Peek, Nadine Myrick, and Mrs. Socol.

Those who received their senior stripes were Paul Blankenship, Geraldine Delaney, Orrean Gill, Christine Perkins, Joan Perkins, Doris Powell, Jacqueline Schlottbauer, and Velma Webster.

Those awarded their junior stripes were Paula Bishop, Joyce Bowe, Pat Grismore, Shirley Hancock, Karen Hucke, Horace Hudson, Janet Jensen, Martha Jones, Imogene Lemacks, Louise Maxwell, Hubert Mills, Mary Peek, Marguerite Roberts, Ramona Scott, and Paul Wells.

Ag Class Visits Units, University

The agriculture class and a few others recently spent two days at the Fletcher school, returning by way of the College of Agriculture at Knoxville and the school at Little Creek. They left Saturday night, April 6, and returned late Tuesday night, April 9.

The purpose of the trip to Fletcher was to paint some of the buildings on the farm and to learn how an institution of this type is operated.

The students noted that Fletcher produces most of the food it consumes and also the feed for the dairy herd. Recently a trench silo has been built at a minimum cost, which reduces the cost of feed per pound of milk.

At the College of Agriculture in Knoxville they were taken through the poultry department and then to the place where experiments are made in the breeding and feeding of chickens.

At Little Creek the group were met by Elder Straw, who took them to the cafeteria for a delicious supper. After supper they were shown the sanitarium and hospital and other parts of the institution.

Several of the Madison students who plan to work on master's degrees in agriculture became acquainted with some of the faculty of the College of Agriculture.

Those who went on the trip were Mr. Stearns, head of the Agriculture Department, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Fleck, Mr. and Mrs.

M. V.'s Correspond With Service Men

Several interesting letters have been received recently from service men, in answer to the Missionary Volunteer News Letter, which is sent monthly to Madison College men in the service. Letters came from Pfc. and Mrs. Bob Silver and James Culpepper, stationed in Germany, and from Chaplain John E. Keplinger, stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

The Silvers and James Culpepper were recently privileged to attend a religious retreat for Seventh-day Adventists, held at Berchtesgaden, where also in attendance was James Fleming, who is stationed in Germany. Both letters spoke of the spiritual uplift they received from the meeting.

Patricia writes that there are five S.D.A.'s in Muenchweiler, where Bob is stationed. The men are fortunate in having a Seventh-day Adventist chaplain to minister to their spiritual needs.

Both Patricia and James mentioned the beauty of Germany. Patricia told of some of the primitive methods she was using in her housekeeping.

If any readers know of young men in the service, especially from Madison, who may not be on our mailing list, please let us have their addresses.

Annual Shows Outstanding Film

The Cumberland Echoes staff presented the film, "Time and Eternity," and two Walt Disney nature films, "Olympic Elk" and "Seal Island," at its benefit program on Saturday evening, April 5.

The film "Time and Eternity" showed, by means of high speed and time lapse photography, many things about time with which the ordinary person is unfamiliar.

Through unusual photography, the audience was taken on a two-day vacation to Los Angeles, Grand Canyon, and a championship football game, all in less than two minutes. There was also a trip through the Panama Canal at the speed of sound. As the ships zoomed by, the sound made one imagine he was at the Indianapolis Speedway.

The lecturer made spiritual applications, as he spoke, of God's creative power, his forgiveness, and man's accountability to Him.

Audubon Film Coming

Dick Bird, naturalist, motion picture producer, and lecturer, will present his colorful Audubon travelogue and fascinating nature-logue, "Newfoundland," on Saturday night, April 20.

The bird islands abounding in gulls, puffins, murres, guillemots, terns, kittiwakes, auks, petrels; fishermen playing their craft; the highlands with their caribou; the lowlands with beaver and muskrat—all these and more will be

Department Heads Fete Engineers

The banquet given for the engineering workers by the heads of that department proves not only that these workers are engineers, but that they can cook and serve a delicious banquet.

On Thursday evening, March 27, the young men of the department and their guests were invited to a banquet prepared by their department heads.

The food was delicious and was served beautifully. To climax the lovely dinner, homemade apple pie topped with ice cream was served.

After the dinner, President Sandborn expressed his appreciation to the department workers for their cooperative spirit, and he gave them special praise for the way in which they had taken hold of the hospital painting. He also mentioned that the college and hospital could not operate without the engineering department.

Speeches of appreciation were given to the student workers by their department leaders—the Messrs. Drebert, Wedel, Schwarz, Bullock, and Craw.

Much credit for this gala affair goes to Mr. and Mrs. Drebert.

Nurses Plow Through State Board Exams

With fear and trembling, the new graduate nurses met with like students from the other schools of this area on April 10 and 11 for State Board examinations which were given at the Jewish center this year. Many prayers were offered in the nurses' behalf, and there is every good reason to believe that good news will await them in six weeks.

Band Secures New Equipment

The College Band, revived after a lapse of a few quarters, has been assisted by friends of the Music Department in securing a number of much-needed music stands. Mr. Robert W. Strobel, of Strobel's Music Shop in Nashville, upon learning of the need, made a very generous offer of a very substantial reduction in the price of an excellent type of stand. One-half of the total was contributed by friends and the other half by the college.

The stands are of the orchestral desk type, of sturdy yet lightweight all-metal construction, with black wrinkle finish. The stands are completely adjustable as to height and the slant of the desk without the use of screws or bolts. The stands are a real improvement in both appearance and function and are much appreciated by all.

Other items recently added to the instrumental equipment are a cymbal holder and tympani sticks.

Chapel Steinway Being Rebuilt

After giving many years of faithful service to the school in general, the church, and the Music Department, the Steinway grand piano in the Assembly Hall has earned a short rest. The Claude P. Street Piano Company, Steinway representatives for the Nashville area, has contracted to rebuild completely this instrument, which was manufactured in 1903, in such a manner as to equal in all working respects a new piano. Designated as Style B, this piano is now priced when new at $4500.

The much-needed rebuilding was authorized jointly by the finance committee of the college and the church board after one-third of the cost had been subscribed by two physicians in the Chattanooga area who have been impressed with the type of educational program carried on at Madison. The contact was made through Professor Cosentine, chairman of the division of Fine Arts.

Hassenpflug Speaks In Chapel

Elder Ben Hassenpflug, Southern Union evangelist, spoke at chapel on April 10.

Inasmuch as Elder Hassenpflug has labored in Africa, and as a number of Madison families are in Africa and another is soon to go, the speaker keyed his remarks to a consideration of the sacrifices and joys that are a part of a missionary's life.

"There is no greater joy than being workers together with God," Elder Hassenpflug said. "To see the gospel working upon the hearts of men is compensation enough for any trials and difficulties the missionary may be called upon to endure."

At present Elder Hassenpflug is holding a series of meetings in the Nashville First Church.

The speaker was introduced by his brother, Ed Hassenpflug, who is dean of student labor at Madison College.

In Sympathy

Faculty and students express their deepest sympathy to Peggy Fears, pre-nursing student, whose father passed away April 7. Phillip Lang, Marilyn Campbell, and Connie Martin attended the funeral which was held at New Market, Alabama, Peggy's home.

Teachers Assume Responsibilities in Work Departments

Beginning with the third quarter, Felix A. Lorenz, Sr., and Wm. H. Wilson were relieved of part of their teaching load so that they might assume certain other responsibilities.

Elder Lorenz has been asked to be manager of the Print Shop and Mr. Wilson to have charge of the grounds. Carlos Quevedo, who has done a splendid job as student-manager of the Press, will enter training in the clinical laboratory in a few weeks.

Elder Mills, college pastor, teaches Bible Doctrines and Bible Survey; Miles R. Coon, Daniel and Revelation; and Elder R. E. Stewart, Church Organization and Leadership. Mrs. H. E. Mitzelfelt teaches History of Western Civilization and Miss Elizabeth Thorgeson, U. S. History.

These changes are the beginning of a move to give each teacher some responsibility in a work department, a plan which Madison formerly followed and which is in accordance with instruction given by Mrs. E. G. White.

Musical Mitzelfelts Study Medicine

Madison's Professor H. E. Mitzelfelt, for years head of the Music Department here, is seeing his lifetime ambition to be a doctor fulfilled as he pursues his medical course at the University Medical School at Memphis.

At another medical school, College of Medical Evangelists, Vincent, son of H. E. Mitzelfelt, is also taking medicine. Both father and son are in the fifth quarter of the course.

Music is still an interest with Vincent and his father. Mr. Mitzelfelt plays in the Sabbath school orchestra at the Memphis S. D. A. church and directs the choir of the Grimes Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday mornings.

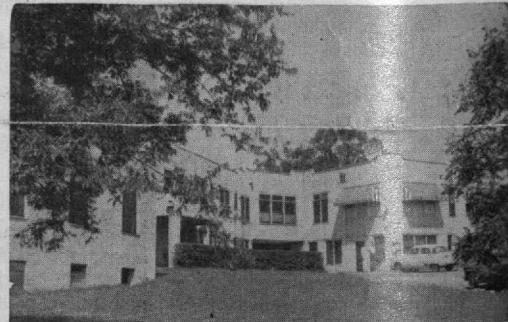

Vincent, out at Loma Linda, is director of two music groups—the C.M.E. church choir and the C.M.E. Chorale. This latter group has recently made some recordings which will soon be available.
