Food Factory Enlarges Program

The Madison Food Factory has launched out upon an enlarged program which has already resulted in increased sales and new contracts, according to Mr. Duane Higgins, business manager of the college.

The factory has employed Mr. Edward Hassenpflug as manager to head the new program. Mr. John Brownlee remains as production manager, and Mr. Glen Strong is sales manager.

The sales force is demonstrating Madison foods at campmeetings in various parts of the United States so as to contact as many laymen as possible, instructing them in the preparation of these products and giving them recipes and other information.

The Madison Food Factory was established in harmony with the instruction given Seventh-day Adventists that "health foods should be manufactured in many places."

Interest in healthful diet is increasing throughout the world. The church is demanding more and more a meatless diet. Madison feels that, as an educational institution, it should meet the challenge with renewed effort and zeal, instructing those with whom it comes in contact concerning a balanced diet without meat.

Eighty Work Under Scholarship Plan

Eighty students are working full time at the college this summer under the scholarship plan, a plan which assures the student that he will be able to earn all his expenses for the ensuing school year.

Under this plan, if a college student works 700 hours during the summer he will receive his regular wage and in addition a bonus which is equivalent to the tuition for 12 hours of class work each quarter. Then during the school year he will have no difficulty earning his room and board.

Academy students who work 600 hours during the summer will receive a bonus equivalent to the tuition for two units of high school work during the school year.

Department Reports Growth

"To God be the glory, great things He hath done," could truly be the theme song for the Department of Elementary Education. We are thankful for the growth evidenced this past year," reports Professor J. M. Ackerman, retiring head of the Department of Education.

"It is gratifying," he continues, "to greet the teachers-in-service as they return from successful terms of teaching for further training during the summer session."

Mrs. James Simmons, director of elementary education, lists the following who went out from Madison to teach this past year, some for their first teaching experience, and have returned for summer school:

Mrs. Yvonne Gray and Mrs. Gloria Rosel, teachers in the Madison Boulevard church school.

Carol Burchard, who taught her initial year in Tullahoma, Tennessee.

Margaret Whitney, teacher in Covington, Kentucky.

Lorin Mixon, who graduated from the two-year elementary teacher professional course in '56 and taught in Ocala, Florida.

Mrs. Bertha Warner, who teaches in the Okanagan Academy, Kelowna, British Columbia.

Mrs. Eddy Lee Lucas, principal and teacher of grades 1-4 in the New Hope public school about 18 miles from the college.

New In-training Program Inaugurated

The Department of Elementary Education at Madison College has inaugurated a new in-training program for prospective teachers.

Beginning in September it is planned to man the Ridgetop Church School with two young ladies in training—Rachel Ramsey and Helen Twombly. They will teach the school for four months and from January to May two other student teachers will handle the school. The project will be under the supervision of the director of teacher education for the college.

Thirteen Madison students have accepted calls to connect with church schools in various places. The Arkansas-Louisiana Conference has accepted five of the teachers-in-training for church schools in Arkansas.

Going to Arkansas are Mary Astor to Jonesboro, Ruby Sykes and Wanda Aitken to DeQueen, and Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Ernst to Bonnerdale.

Janyce Jansen will go to the Pacific Coast to teach grades 1-4 in the Redlands church school. Adolph Arellano goes to Greeley, Colorado, as principal and to teach grades 5-8.

Mrs. Winona Fiebelkorn will return to her home state, Michigan. She has accepted a teaching position about 75 miles from Battle Creek in a one-teacher church school.

Richard Kunau will teach in Bon Aqua, Tennessee, a multiple-grade school forty miles from the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mayden are connecting with the Miami Junior Academy. Harry receives his B.S. degree in August and Joyce received her B.S. with the Class of '55.

Robert Eaton is preparing to teach at Chestnut Hill this fall and Harry Bowden plans to assist Mrs. Grow at her Cave Springs School for Children. Both of these young men are fitting themselves for self-supporting work.

Of the foregoing teachers, the following complete their two-year professional course this summer: Mrs. Fiebelkorn, Mary Astor, Janyce Jansen, and Richard Kunau.

Students Teach in Demonstration School

Fourteen teachers are enrolled in the Observation and Directed Teaching class this summer. Under Mrs. Betty Klotz Harter as supervisory teacher they are participating in the second annual multiple-grade school for five weeks.

Seventeen pupils are enrolled in six grades ranging from the first to the eighth.

Mrs. Harter has just completed a class for 15 in school crafts, and from August 4-16 will teach a methods class in elementary school music.

The Blessing of Freedom

Here in America we have very much to be thankful for. Not least among our blessings is freedom. From the time of the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620, on to the present day, freedom has meant a great deal to all Americans.

In our beloved country we enjoy freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and above all, freedom of religion. We are able to worship God in the church of our choice and on the day of our choice.

Yet we as young people must remember that "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Satan is doing all in his power to destroy the religious liberty and the freedom of thought we now have. The freedom we so often take for granted was paid for in blood.

We who enjoy a freedom we are so prone to take for granted should not forget the struggling people in other parts of the world who do not enjoy the same freedom that we enjoy.

Let us not forget to be thankful for a country founded on the principle "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights. . . ." —S.H.

Wasiota Whispers

Several newcomers have joined the Wasiota family this summer, most of whom are working on the scholarship plan.

Gene Edwards, from Inola, Oklahoma, has come to take an industrial arts course, specializing in welding. Gene is a brother of Mrs. Paul Blankenship. He is working in the food factory this summer.

Duane Brown, from Enterprise Academy, Kansas, and John Ward, from Rickwell, North Carolina, plan to take medical technology. This summer Duane is a valued worker in the print shop and John is helping to keep the farm going.

Edward Jones, Robert Eaton, and Peter Parker helped Mr. King get the foundations ready for the Sunshine Court cottages.

Ed, genial academy junior from Jefferson, Texas, is Martha Jones' brother. Robert Eaton is from Wildwood, Georgia. Peter, Albert Parker's brother, graduated from Laurelbrook this spring and has come here to take nursing.

Wasiota Court rooms are being redecorated and refurbished. The walls are being painted in pastel colors, and new combination desks and bookcases are to be built in. Some of the floors will be tiled. Also the bathroom is to be repainted and the showers

Delta Nu Zeta

Books, pencils, and studious moods were put aside during June for a few fortunate ones, but not for those who registered for short courses during the inter-term session. This was a busy campus for the ones who earned as many as seven hours' credit before the regular session of summer school began.

But "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and there was also time for fun. For instance, the Freshman A nurses had a picnic at Old Hickory Lake. According to some of the members of the class they enjoyed boat riding, water skiing, swimming, and sunbathing. Only one mishap—the boat that Virginia Davidson and Brenton Bullock were in capsized. Virginia swam in while she left Brenton to right the boat.

As I was collecting news for this column I wandered into Doris Brown and June Davidson's room. Hearing a weird sound coming from the desk in the corner, I asked what it was. With a very solemn expression on her face, characteristic of only Doris, she replied, "It's only the radio with the death rattle." These nurses can diagnose the case of anything.

Martha Ann Norris and Paula Bishop have been limping around on sore, creaking joints these days. Their condition must be due to the bicycle trips to Madison they've been taking lately.

We were sorry to say good-by to two of the girls from Williams Hall. Iris Guzman was called home because of the illness of her mother. Marilyn Blackwelder is moving out of the dormitory to an apartment. She will be a full-time worker in the institution.

Petra, Pepper, and Patsy seemed to be famous words the other night. Such articles as pepper and water guns don't belong in beds.

Shirley Hancock tells us that the lure of hospitals followed her home. While on her vacation she worked in a hospital and also in a canning plant.

Two by Two

Bill Moon was called to Avenal, California, because of the sudden illness of his father. Mrs. Moon's mother, Mrs. Dean, and her sister Cheryl are staying with her and Candace while he is away.

A lovely pink and blue shower was held on the lawn at Gotzian Home for Eulene Borton and Bobbie Harrison. The Record Office crew is getting really adept at conducting these little double deals.

Eulene and Leroy are happy to have his family from Keene, Texas, visiting them at this time.

Bobbie Harrison is spending most of her time with her sister, Evelyn Meyer, while their husbands, Eugene and Louis, finish their lab courses at the Marietta Hospital in Marietta, Georgia.

Guests on our campus are always welcome. Shirley and Gladys Drury recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Nick Jones and little daughter from St. Louis. Mrs. Jones, the former Katina Poulas, will be remembered as the dean of women at Gotzian Home in 1950-51, when it was the nurses' dormitory.

We were glad to see Donna Gu'er Wagner, who was here for a few days before she left for affiliation at the Children's Hospital at Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hale are entertaining Willie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Erwin, and two sisters, Margaret and Carolyn, from St. Helena, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Heaton and little son Jimmy, from Memphis, are visiting Mrs. Heaton's sister, Mary Jane West. Mrs. Heaton is the former Stacy Sparks. They arrived just in time to enjoy George's new Buick with him.

That excavating you see going on in the front yard at the court is a spare-time project. It's to be a 12-foot, circular, rock-in fish pool. There will be an island in the center, with a moat around it for the fish.

New Girls Join Summer Workers

Gotzian Home and Williams Hall both welcome some new girls. Patsy Ellis and Pansy Barton from Oklahoma, Mary Anaya from California, Yvonne Westerbrook from South Carolina, and Carol Cantrell from Georgia are Gotzian girls. Shortly before the end of the spring quarter Sally Dugan from Woodbury, Tennessee, and Barbara Jennings from Virginia came to Williams Hall. Then in June Thelma Hodges came from North Carolina, Ann Turner from Florida, and Ruby Sibert from Mississippi.

Nursing Staff News

A number of the members of the nursing staff were off the campus during June on vacations and attending conventions.

Mrs. Clapp attended a workshop course in Washington, D.C., and has returned just bursting with new ideas in nursing education.

Mrs. Vaughan and her family spent a pleasant vacation in Florida and in Jackson, Tennessee, visiting friends.

Maxine Page went home to beautiful Texas. She took with her some strawberry jam made with her own hands, just to prove that Texas doesn't have everything.

Wilma Gill spent a week at home with her family at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and was accompanied back by her brother, Elder Julius Korgan, and his family, who are missionaries from Africa.

Mrs. Freda Zeigler and family had a wonderful trip to Niagara Falls, Toronto, Ottawa, her home in the Laurentian Mountains in Quebec, Montreal, Quebec City, and then down through New England to Ohio and back home again.

Mrs. Doris Thomson and Virginia Davidson, who aided Miss Munn in holding the fort during the vacation month, are now enrolled in school again and hope to finish their classwork this summer.

—ASMC—

Missionaries Visit

Elder and Mrs. Julius Korgan and three sons, missionaries from Africa, spent a recent weekend on the campus visiting Elder Korgan's sister, Mrs. Wilma Gill. While here Elder Korgan showed pictures of the wild life and the social and cultural life of the African native both before and after Christianity comes to him.

Doctors' New Building

Construction on the new Doctors' Building will begin as soon as the Nashville architects submit their plans, which they are now drawing.

Ground is now being graded for the building, which will be located west of the Maternity Ward and north of the former Coon property.

M. V.'s Will Hold Tent Meetings

Madison College M.V.'s are opening a series of pilot meetings on July 28 in a tent to be pitched at the entrance gate to the college, next to Mr. Keplinger's house. Meetings are scheduled for Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings.

Alex Nischuck, Jack Gibbons, Lois Sharpe, and Elder Mills are members of the steering committee in charge of the meetings. Associated with them will be members of other committees, such as advertising, speakers, equipment, and music.

Patients Enjoy Air-Conditioning

Hospital and sanitarium patients in the new North and West Hall wings of the sanitarium will convalesce in cool comfort this summer.

North Hall, for convalescent psychiatric patients, is already completely air-conditioned. In West Hall, the new medical wing, air conditioners are in the process of being installed in all the rooms.

The M. V. executive committee solicits the support of the community in this new venture. Inasmuch as transportation to the meetings will be no problem, it is hoped that every student and church member will attend.

Madisonites in Africa Heard From

A letter from Africa to the registrar's office has brought word from former Madison students and teachers.

Elder H. J. Welch, former dean and teacher at Madison and now educational secretary of the Gold Coast Mission, writes:

"I have just returned from visiting Jengre, Nigeria, where the Turnbulls are settling in very nicely indeed. We also appreciate Brother and Sister Collins, who came from Madison."

The Turnbulls, both graduate nurses of the Class of '57, left for their field of labor in Africa in April, 1957. Mr. Collins, former librarian and registrar, and his family left in December, 1956.

Farm Reports Good Season

"Crops are excellent, and, in spite of the heavy rains, by the time we finish putting up the hay now in the field, we'll have 100 tons," reports Farm Manager L. M. Cantrell.

Fifty tons of grass have been put into the silo to be used during dry weather the latter part of the summer. Mr. Cantrell says that then the silos will be refilled with corn and sorghum. The farm crew recently harvested 500 bushels of oats.

The 64 milk cows are producing 200 gallons of milk daily. Besides supplying the sanitarium, cafeteria and community, the milk plant every month sells between 2500 and 3000 gallons of whole milk to the Sealtest Dairies of Nashville.

CLASS GIVES CHECKERETTE

Thanks to the college freshman class, there is a place to hang coats and hats and a shelf for books in the lobby of Williams Hall. The checkerette is a class gift to the college for use by patrons and students who frequent the cafeteria.

Accident Fatal to Alumna and Family

Everyone was shocked to hear of the tragic accident which caused the deaths of David Patterson's wife, Ruth, his small daughter, and Ruth's parents on June 24.

Ruth and her two small children left Harbert Hills with her parents for a two weeks' vacation in West Virginia. About 100 miles north of Chattanooga, an on-coming car hit them and all were killed except the 13-month-old baby boy.

The Madison family extends the deepest sympathy to David and other members of the family.

What's in a Name?

WILLIAMS HALL, KING HOUSE, HANKINS COTTAGE, MOTHER D LODGE—names you hear every day. Have you ever wondered why all these campus buildings are named as they are? Here's the information:

WILLIAMS HALL was named after the chief donor of the money to build the girls' dormitory.

Mr. R. B. King, an early teacher at Madison, now living in Meridian, Mississippi, lived in what is known as the KING HOUSE.

HANKINS COTTAGE was once the home of Elder and Mrs. I. H. Hankins, pioneers at Madison.

MOTHER D LODGE was the home of Mrs. Druillard, pioneer and benefactor of Madison.

SCOTT HOUSE, now headquarters for the Layman's Foundation, was built by Mrs. Lida Scott and was her home.

HELEN FUNK ASSEMBLY HALL was named by Mrs. Scott for her mother, Mrs. Isaac Funk, wife of the head of Funk and Wagnalls, publishers.

Mrs. Druillard was a generous donor to the fund for building the college library, which was named for her.

Josephine Gotzian, a heavy donor to the Madison school, first became acquainted with Dr. Sutherland when, as a colporteur, he stayed in her home. Through her generosity GOTZIAN HOME was constructed.

Adventist brethren in the state of Nebraska furnished the funds for building NEBRASKA COTTAGE.

Mrs. Lura Davison, also a pioneer, built the cottage bearing her name for her home while she lived on the campus.

The latest building to be named was BRALLIAR HALL. At the time of the Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration in 1954 it was so named in honor of Dr. Floyd Bralliar, who for many years was the leading teacher in that building.

New Resident Doctors Join Hospital Staff

Three doctors have recently joined the hospital staff to take up a year's residency.

Dr. Donald C. Stecker, a Loma Linda graduate, comes to Madison from Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, where he served an internship during the past year.

Dr. Filemon Umali, a Seventh-day Adventist physician from the Philippines, graduated from the Manila Central University College of Medicine and then came to this country. Before coming here he spent a year at Wichita Falls General Hospital, Texas, as resident physician.

Dr. Mary Choi, of Korea, comes to Madison after a year's residency at Vanderbilt University Hospital. In Korea she spent some time at the Seventh-day Adventist Seoul Sanitarium.

Crafts Class Is Successful

Did you happen to take a peek in the library faculty room during the time the crafts class met there in June? If you missed their exhibit at the close of the course, you missed seeing what one of the most interesting classes of the summer did.

The class met six days a week in the afternoon for about two weeks. Every period was just chock full of interesting things to do. Included in the activities of the class were basketry, copper enameling, copper tooling, shell-artistry, textile-stenciling, and leather-craft.

Mrs. Betty Klotz-Harter, an experienced elementary teacher, was a very competent and interesting instructor. The 15 members of the class, most of them teachers, found the course most profitable.

Elder Straw Teaches Summer Classes

Elder W. E. Straw, missionary, educator, and former president of Madison College, is a visiting professor on the campus this summer. He teaches two classes—Ancestry of the Bible and Philosophy of the Christian Religion.

Sunshine Court Moved

Sunshine Court, the group of two-room cottages used for many years for housing of students, will soon be only a memory.

The cottages have been moved to their new location south of the peach orchard on the road leading to the Rimmer home. Here they are being constructed into modern four-family housing units.

The area formerly occupied by cottages is to be made into a parking lot.

T. O. T. Club Has Pot Luck Supper

The Teachers of Tomorrow Club is having a pot luck supper on the lawn in front of the campus school building on Thursday evening, July 18, at six p.m.

All teachers in service, teachers in training, and prospective teachers are invited. In case of rain, the supper will be held in the faculty room.

Elder Teddric Mohr, superintendent of education for the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference, will be present and will show some educational films.

Parents, pupils, the teachers, and the college, as well as the Kentucky-Tennessee Department of Education have eyes turned to this latest effort on the part of the teacher-education college program to be of more benefit to those in training.

The college has provided a trailer for living quarters and the conference will move it to its new location back of the Ridgetop school. Under the direction of Elder Charles Edwards, district pastor, Dr. Bottsford, chairman of the board, and the Ridgetop church members, the trailer will be renovated, painted, and made ready to be used as a teacherage when school opens.

Wilson Attends Meet

W. H. Wilson, principal of Madison College Academy, attended a meeting of Seventh-day Adventist academy principals held at Monterey Bay Academy, Watsonville, California, June 26—July 1.

According to Mr. Wilson, the convention was a highly profitable one. Curriculum problems, teacher qualifications, and the raising of standards in general to keep up with national standards were the main topics considered.

There were 75 academy principals present at the meeting, who represented Seventh-day Adventist academies all over North America.

While in California, Mr. Wilson visited the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, White Memorial Hospital, Glendale Sanitarium, the Voice of Prophecy headquarters, and other Seventh-day Adventist institutions and places of interest.
