Surprise Invitation Announces Banquet

"Delta Nu Zeta Invites Wasiota to Banquet on December 8." The surprise invitation to the girls' banquet was uniquely made at chapel on November 20.

Mr. N. A. Niswonger, chalk artist, drew a lovely autumn scene to background organ music while all watched. Upon finishing, he said, "I always wanted a calendar with a picture on it which I had drawn."

With these words he placed the Thanksgiving date below the drawing. Then he placed a large "Dec."

59 Pints of Blood For Red Cross

In spite of the recent flu epidemic, 59 pints of blood were received on November 18, when the Bloodmobile from the Nashville Chapter of the American Red Cross was on the campus.

Many more offered to give blood. But since no one who had had flu within the last month was eligible, the number of pints received is a good record for the campus.

Council Plans Xmas Party for Children; News Sheet Named

A variety of items of business were presented and discussed at the Student-teacher Council on November 25.

Plans were initiated and committees formed for the annual A.S.M.C. Christmas party for underprivileged children of the local community.

This entertainment sponsored by the student association will provide supper, gifts, and a program for these children on the Saturday night before Christmas.

The weekly A.S.M.C. bulletin now has a name. Shirley Burk's name of A.S.M.C. Chitchat was chosen to be the official name of the paper. The editorial staff of the news sheet is composed of the news sheet is composed of Wilma Smith, editor; Nancy Criswell, typist; and Dale Nelson, circulation manager.

Officers for the American Temperance Society were chosen for the Madison College Chapter, which is expected to be very active this year.

Representatives were also chosen from the student body for the social and government committees. On these committees are representatives from the dormitory students, the village students, and the married students.

Students on the social committee are Sallie Lazalier, Bob Devlin, Paul Nettland, Marie Branchley, Joe Fields, and Myrna Moore.

Government committee representatives are George Roach, Mary Peek, Ruth Coulter, Brenton Bullock, Dale Nelson, and Charles Myers.

Ingathering Pushes Toward Goal

Delta Nu Zeta, Wasiota Join in Banquet

Thankfulness was the theme of the Thanksgiving banquet held in the cafeteria Tuesday evening, November 26. Decorations were in keeping with the season.

Dr. Naomi Pitman was the guest of honor at the lovely candlelight gathering sponsored by the Delta Nu Zeta and the Wasiota Clubs.

The first course of the meal consisted of colorful salads. Creamed potatoes, "drumsticks," broccoli, cranberry sauce, and hot rolls composed the main course. The dessert was pumpkin pie. During the meal Clyde Holland read poems on Thanksgiving. Background music was also played during the meal.

Norma Gooze and Martha Ann Norris sang "We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessing" to close the evening.

About 200 students and teachers were present at the banquet.

Annual College Field Day Yields $1800

Mystery Day, December 7, will reveal whether the college church goal of $12,000 is near for the Ingathering Campaign that was launched November 16.

A.T.S. Sponsors Temperance Week

Fall Temperance Week opened at chapel on Monday, December 2, with the introduction of the officers of the Madison College Chapter of the American Temperance Society.

Norman Sossong is president; Norma Gooze, vice-president; Elizabeth Guerra, secretary; Evelyn Marshall, treasurer; and Charles Batchelor, campaign manager. Mr. George Walper is the faculty sponsor.

Some of the plans for the coming year, as revealed by Mr. Walper and President Sossong, include the fall Temperance Week, a membership drive with "at least 100 percent as the goal," say officers, and various contests such as the essay, jingle, poster, and oration contests.

Fall Temperance Week will continue throughout the first week of December.

Thursday night, December 5, Elder James Scully, associate secretary of the A.T.S., will be the speaker.

Annual Staff Reports Progress

The Cumberland Echoes staff reports considerable progress during the past few weeks on the 1958 yearbook.

Individual photographs of the students are being taken by Fletcher Harvey, photographer from the Shumaker Studios in Nashville. During the period between November 21 and 27 295 students were photographed.

Albert Parker, the annual staff artist, showed a number of original designs to the annual staff for consideration for the 1958 yearbook cover.

The mark for December 7—Mystery Day—is set for $8000, Pastor O. J. Mills stated.

This will be a short campaign, with the closing date set for December 14.

Between 150 and 200 people reported for the annual college field day, held Monday, November 25. Including produce sold and student labor donated, the amount received on field day was approximately $1800.

The grade school principal, V. W. Ferris, reported nearing the half-way point for his school at the close of the tenth day of the campaign. The elementary school goal is $1000, and a Minute Man goal is $11.

Field day for grades 3, 4, 5, and 6 brought in $276. The seventh and eighth grades will have their field day at a future date, but these grades have already solicited more than $200. Field day for grades 1 and 2 was on November 27.

About 12 cars are already equipped with loud speakers and will begin playing Christmas carols Thanksgiving evening. From that time till the close of the campaign singing bands will go out every evening.

Mr. Fred Martin, electronics engineer, has installed most of the loud speakers.

Meeting Deadlines

We students have many deadlines to meet every day. Whether they pertain to classes, to extra-curricular appointments, or to work, they all should be met with promptness.

For instance, the editor and the staff of the Cumberland Echoes have worked overtime trying to get everyone to cooperate in following the schedule for having pictures taken. And still, most students failed to meet the deadlines that were appointed for them by the staff.

We cannot expect to be much of a success here at college or even after we leave college if we do not realize that now is the time to practice punctuality and promptness in all our appointments. The saying, "Better late than never," however true it may be, still does not fit in with our modern day living standards—especially in America.

If we are asked to do something for M.V. or hold an office of any kind or help someone in need, let us be faithful in performing our task—first by meeting the deadline.

And as we rush about throughout the day to meet our deadlines, let us not be too busy to think earnestly of the deadline we all soon have to meet with our Lord.

—J.D.

Gotzian Gossip

Life has been so very busy lately with Ingathering, classes, and work that we hardly have time to think. But that is just the way college life is!

Our dean's two daughters, Arloene and Irvella, are home for six weeks before they go to Portland Sanitarium in Portland, Oregon, for their nurses' training. They took their pre-nursing at Oshawa Missionary College in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander are happy for this family reunion.

Whoever have been the noisy ones in the corner room downstairs were unusually quiet Friday and Saturday nights. Lucy Courter and Esther Young spent the night with Mrs. Teckla Wilson, as Patsy was at Collegedale for the weekend. Could that have had something to do with it?

One night last week Catalina Marzan was surprised as all the girls sang "Happy Birthday" to her at worship. Then, after worship, the girls were surprised when Catalina invited them to a party in the kitchenette. She received a handkerchief and a card as a remembrance from the Gotzian girls.

Wasiota Whispers

Our dean, Mr. Stewart Crook, has gone to Florida for a vacation. The fellows miss him and are hoping that he will return soon.

In the dean's absence the monitors have been taking over. They are doing a swell job, the fellows all agree.

Wasiota Hall welcomes two new students who have just arrived. David Sisk, another Texan, is a college freshman who will be starting to school next quarter. The other is Sam Allen, from Jackson, Tennessee, an academy junior.

John Dovich, who is working with the plastering crew under the direction of Kasser King, must not have had too much to do the other day. He made some delicious-looking candy with some plaster. He even had some pecans on the top. John thought it was funny, but Lloyd Hamilton and Glen Furguson didn't.

Again the other night the fellows at the court heard a high voice and thought it was a girl's. Well, they have at least learned not to be alarmed, for it is only little Jim McGowan, better known as "Peanut." When he gets excited and laughs, everyone thinks it is a girl.

Starch and Stripes

What a day November 18 was! State Board returns had arrived at last. Now and then, all through the hospital, a scream could be heard, which meant that another graduate had passed. Now the hospital has several more R.N.'s on its staff.

That day Mrs. Grace MacIntosh, one of the new R.N.'s, had quite a time keeping her mind on her work. She was sent to the lab for blood, but didn't return for some time. Upon having her paged over the public address system, her anxious friends discovered that she was in the operating room getting oxygen.

The Nursing Club had a big get-together in the college cafeteria Saturday night, November 16. Their sponsor is Patsy Wilson, you know. They had lots of fun watching four films, including a movie on trains. Martha Norris said that watching nothing but moving trains made her train sick. For refreshments, cookies and orange juice were served.

The workers on Surgical Wing had a dinner served in room 412 on November 20. Each member brought his specialty from home. Mrs. Ahern, one of the charge nurses, brought hers—what was it? She said it was baked apples seasoned with worms. What a deal!

A group of pre-nurses and their sponsor, Mrs. Doris Thomson, enjoyed a party, with games and good food, in the Nutrition Laboratory on the evening of November 16. To the window peeper it appeared that they were enjoying themselves immensely.

It might be better psychology not to offer Peggy Fears, Virginia Greenlee, or Mrs. Thomson any peanuts for awhile. It seems that a "friend" (by name Virginia Davidson) did so recently and when they opened the lid out popped a long green snake. The discovery that the vicious creature before them was only made of wire covered with cloth was reassuring.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown and daughter Marion were guests in Gotzian home on November 16 and 17.

They came to visit the former Fletcher Academy students—Ruth Coulter, Kenneth Henderson, Lucy Courter, Norma Googe, Martha Ann Norris, and Charles Batchelor. The Sandborns were host to them for Sabbath dinner. Mr. Brown and Dr. Sandborn were classmates in the early '30's.

Mr. Brown is assistant principal and Bible teacher in the academy and Mrs. Brown is dietitian in the hospital. The students expressed their appreciation for the visit and hope to have them come again.

Reverence

Today reverence seems to be a thing of the past, at least among some here at school. I have been very much embarrassed at the conduct of our young people in God's house.

Friday evening everyone is weary from a week of labor; so many go to vespers to relax and sleep. How do the angels feel as they hover near us? Frankly, I believe they must be very much disappointed.

Satan comes to church every week. In fact, he is one of the first ones there. Do you know why? It is so he can slip into the very back row.

I can just see that satisfied grin on his face as he watches the dear young people crowding into the back rows. He knows that it is much easier to get a conversation started back there.

Not satisfied with the commotion he has already caused, he sends his imps to another part of the room to give someone the urge to jump up and leave the room, never minding whether the minister is in the middle of a sentence or whether the soloist is just beginning her song.

Another point for the devil is the chewing of gum. And some are

Knitting Needles Click

Perhaps you've heard the click-click of knitting needles in chapel lately. It seems that it all stems from a weekly Monday evening meeting of a group of girls who get together to exchange ideas, patterns, and new ways of knitting.

Right now the girls are specializing in a new type of German knitting that Petra Sukau is teaching them. From the rate that sweaters, socks, and various other articles of knitted goods are appearing on the ends of knitting needles, it would seem that knitting is a profitable and practical hobby.

job at the Southern Publishing Association in Nashville for the summer and in the fall until time to go on the floor in nursing. The Lord answered her prayer, and she is working there now on the stitch trimmer machine.

She has always wanted to be a nurse so that she can help others physically as well as spiritually. She realizes that a nurse will be able to carry on her work long after other avenues of service for God may be closed.

Beth is a friendly, likable girl who possesses many traits that will make her successful in her profession as a nurse.

T.E.A. Speaker Featured at Club Meet

Special guests at the T.O.T. club meeting on November 23 were Mr. and Mrs. Charlene Collier. Mrs. Collier, field consultant for the Tennessee Education Association, gave a thought-provoking talk, magnifying and glorifying the teaching profession. It is the teacher, she said, who can guide his pupils into their choice of life work. Her closing thoughts pointed the club members to the Master Teacher, who will guide each teacher in the schoolroom.

The club met from 5:00 till 7:00 p.m. in the Nutrition Laboratory, and a pot luck supper preceded the program.

Ideas were suggested for doing something special for others during this Thanksgiving season. The club decided to honor four of the older people on the campus, who had pioneered in the establishment of this school.

They voted to give fruit baskets to Mr. and Mrs. Locke, Dr. Frances Dittes, and Mrs. Sutherland, each of whom has given more than 40 years of unselfish service to Madison.

Twenty-eight were present at the club meeting. Alex Nischuk, president, led out in the business and the program.

New Date for Telephone System

The new automatic telephone system will be in operation by January 15 rather than December 1, as was reported in the last issue of the MADISONIAN. This word comes direct from the telephone company.

Rainy weather and other hindrances have interfered with the constructing of the new building.

Since some change in the making of calls will be involved, information on how to make calls over the new system will appear in the December 15 issue of the MADISONIAN.

Elder Lorenz Conducts Pine Forest Week of Prayer

Elder Felix A. Lorenz, head of the Department of Religion, conducted the Week of Prayer at Pine Forest Academy, Chunky, Mississippi, last week.

Elder Lorenz's theme for the week was "Into the Deep." He based his thoughts on the words of Jesus to Peter in Luke 5, to launch out into the deep.

He held two meetings daily, one at chapel time and the other in the evening, which the workers in the community as well as the students attended.

"We had a very wonderful week," commented Elder Lorenz warmly. Then he continued: "Pine Forest is a wonderful and inspiring place, because the institution tries to follow out to the letter the principles that combine to make a self-supporting institution great."

Nurses' Alumni Meet at Supper

The Nurses' Alumni meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. R. Moore on the evening of November 11, at which time a delicious supper was served. The new officers for the coming year were presented, and both old and new business was discussed. Mrs. Bowes, the college alumni president, made an excellent speech, the theme of which was "In Unity There Is Strength." She brought out that if both alumni organizations work together, they can accomplish more than if they work separately.

Lorenzes Attend Funeral

Elder and Mrs. Felix A. Lorenz were called to South Bend, Indiana, recently because of the death of Mrs. Lorenz's brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas McQuin. The funeral was held on November 16 and the Lorenzes returned to the campus on the seventeenth.

Deluge of Films at Club Meetings

The departmental clubs met Saturday night, November 16, for what might be called an unusual evening of entertainment.

It so happened that every club, unbeknown to the others, had ordered two or more films for the evening. And there were only two projectors to use.

But that didn't seem to create a problem, after each club decided to wait its turn. After the Industrial Arts members had seen their films, they just stayed on and saw the Agriculture Club's films—and so it went till nearly all the clubs ended up at the Nursing Club and received refreshments from the Business Club.

Club presidents then stated that their clubs had important business to be discussed. But whom were they going to discuss it with? Surely not with the Pre-nursing Club. Next time—well, they've made some resolutions.

GROUP VISITS FORT, MUSEUM, STATE CAPITOL

The class in Materials and Methods in Social Studies had a field trip on November 20. They visited Fort Nashborough to acquaint themselves with the cabins such as those in which the Pilgrims lived in 1621.

From the Fort they went to the Museum in the War Memorial Building and then to the State Capitol Building. Inasmuch as the governor was not in, those who wished to do so sat in his chair. The guide told many interesting highlights about the building and presented each one with a souvenir pencil from the governor's office as well as the governor's autographed family picture.

CLASS VISITS SCHOOL FOR BLIND AND CLOVERBOTTOM

An interesting and instructive field trip was made recently by the class in study of the Exceptional Child. Three carloads of students visited the State School for the Blind and the Cloverbottom Home for mentally handicapped children.

Both schools are located in Donelson on tracts of land once owned by one of the early pioneers in Nashville. Mr. Donelson's daughter Rachel married Andrew Jackson, seventh president of the United States.

Clubs Hold Campfire Worship

Members of both dormitory clubs gathered for worship Thursday evening, November 21, around a huge campfire behind the Demonstration Building.

Several choruses, led by Clyde Holland, were sung to open worship, followed by prayer by Harold Iles. The special music was a surprise to all, even to the Canadian Trio, which consists of Jean Openshaw, Esther Edmonson, and Del Ladner, who sang "I Know the Lord Will Make a Way."

Mr. Stearns made the campfire complete by telling mission stories. While waiting for the hot chocolate and cookies, Clyde led in singing. The singing was interrupted by two mountaineers, namely John Dovich and Albert Parker.

Their skit, expressing thanks from the men for the invitation to the girls' banquet, was appreciated by the girls.

FOUR ATTEND WORKSHOP

Mrs. James D. Simmons, director of Elementary Education, Miss Elsie Peterson, supervising teacher in grades 3 and 4 of the Campus School, and Charlotte Mathis and Pedro Ramos, both education majors, attended a meeting held at Middle Tennessee State Teachers' College in Murfreesboro. It was a workshop for the Association of Student Teachers. About 125 were in attendance.

T.O.T.'S JOIN TEACHERS' ASSOCIATIONS

The Teachers of Tomorrow Club has 26 paid members to date and it is believed there will be 30 before the close of the year. Twenty-four of these members belong to the Student National Education Association and the Tennessee Education Association as well as to the local club. The other two are alumni members, namely Mrs. Dena Kay Bowes and Tony Rivera.

ACADEMY GIRLS DO CADET TEACHING

Three academy girls—the Misses Carol Cantrell, Zoe Cruzen, and Becky Culpepper—are cadet teachers this year. Each school morning they assist the Campus School elementary teachers for one forty-minute period in grades 1 through 6. Some of their assignments are helping arrange the bulletin board material, grading papers, taking notes on what they observe, and being the teachers' helpers in general. They find their work both enjoyable and educational.

Academy Elects Madisonian Staff

The student body of Madison College Academy has elected new officers to serve on the MADISONIAN staff. Their purpose is to promote a knowledge of the academy students and their activities. Girl of the Month

Ruth Woodson

A courteous voice saying, "Number please," might well belong to petite Ruth Woodson, an academy junior this year. She worked behind the cash register at the college store for many months before she became a switchboard operator, and was known there also for her courteous manner.

Ruth attended school at Bells, Tennessee, for her first four grades; then she moved to Madison College campus, where she has attended classes in the same building ever since—changing to the other side of the building when she entered the academy.

She dreams of eventually making headquarters in the campus beauty shop as a beautician.

Ruth, with her quiet, friendly personality, has passed sports by, and her hobby seems to be collecting friends, of whom she has a large, loyal assortment.

She has been elected by the Village Girls' Club as secretary-treasurer.

Boy of the Month

Larry Strong

The golden sunshine of Los Angeles, California, welcomed Larry Strong into this human race and nourished him for the first six years of his life.

From that time he has hopped, skipped, and jumped through his school years from 1949, when he started at Caldwell, Idaho, to one year at Denver, Colorado, back to Idaho, where he took the seventh and eighth grades in one year. His academy freshman year was completed at Gem State Academy, his sophomore year at Mount Ellis Academy, and now he has landed here at Madison College Academy for his junior year!

While at Mount Ellis Academy, Larry could not get enough of skiing, and found that he excelled in that sport. He likes sports of all kinds, but places skiing at the top.

One day when Larry was about eleven years old he was hurrying to his ranch home on Queenie, his horse. He cut across a vacant lot, pushing his already fast-moving horse, loped along the side of the building, and crashed into the side of a moving car which had been obscured by the building. Larry was thrown across the car, to land on his back. The police placed the apparently unhurt boy back on his slightly scratched horse, and he returned home, unbridled the horse, put it out to pasture, and then found himself unable to tell his parents what had happened. However after a night's rest, he remembered his accident, and feels today that it is providential that he is alive.

Larry's work experience, aside from ranching, includes bakery work and machine shop skills, and he is now chalking up experience on the paint crew.

Larry is active in academy activities and has already found his niche at this academy as a popular student.

Seniors Announce Officers

A new twist was seen in the announcement of the academy senior class officers in the academy chapel on Friday morning, November 22, for the newly elected senior class president was "in the dark" as to the entire plan.

A very puzzled senior heard his name called from the rear of the chapel, and turned to look full into the face of Montague-Madison Police Chief Poe. Chief Poe handcuffed him, led him out of the chapel, and then back in, to turn him over to the "custody" of the principal as the senior class president of 1958—Dennis Randall!

The remainder of the senior class officers were then introduced by Dennis, who had maintained his equilibrium well enough to remember that Myrna Moore is vice-president, Dwayne Woodson is treasurer, Mary Lou Sullins is secretary, Larry Kelly is class pastor, and Eddie Smotherman is sergeant-at-arms.

Following the announcement of the officers, the entire class stood, all wearing their royal purple jackets, while the rest of the student body applauded, thinking of the day they would reach this step in life.

Senior class members of 1958 are:

President Sandborn Stresses "Firsts"

Academy students thought a while on the serious side of life as Dr. W. C. Sandborn informally talked to them in their chapel on Friday, November 22, on the subject of the first cigarette—that first drink—the first time to yield to a temptation—and how deadly dangerous it is. No student's interest lagged as Dr. Sandborn wove his illustrations and thoughts into a pattern of thought, and the students followed him in his theme of the importance of following instruction given from God. In simple terms, he explained that a person who violates his conscience in even the smallest of temptations must answer for it.
