Students Take Over College for a Day

From 5:00 a.m. till 11:00 p.m. on Monday, May 13, Madison College was operated by student administrators and teachers. It was the annual A.S.M.C. Student Faculty Day.

Halliwells Tell of Amazon Missions

Elder and Mrs. Leo Halliwell, for 37 years missionaries in South America, were guests at the vesper service on Friday evening, May 9.

For 27 of these 37 years in South America, the Halliwells have helped build and operate medical launches which cruise up and down the Amazon River, bringing physical and spiritual help to the natives.

As Elder Halliwell spoke, he displayed snake skins, one of which was 28 feet long, native clothing and articles connected with wedding ceremonies. The pictures he showed realistically portrayed life along the Amazon and the medical and evangelistic work carried on by the mission launches.

At present 12 launches bring medical aid to 50,000 natives every month. After the Indians are treated for diseases such as malaria, yaws, worms, and malnutrition, they eagerly listen to the story of Jesus as the missionaries use picture rolls to illustrate their messages.

On the screen were shown the many neat little churches that have sprung up as a result of the work of the Halliwells and their fellow missionaries.

The Halliwells are on their way to General Conference, where they will show moving pictures of their work. While here they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Bottsford and family, with whom they worked in South America.

Baptism Climaxes Week of Prayer

Seventeen were baptized on Sabbath, May 10, and two on May 3, as a climax to the Week of Prayer and the meetings of the baptismal classes which have been held by the pastor for a number of weeks.

The group of 19 included church school, academy and college students and three persons from the community.

All offices, from that of the president down to those of classroom teachers, were held by students.

The Student Association had previously elected the following personnel for the day:

President, Jack Gibbons.
Dean, Brenton Bullock.
Dean of Women, Norma Gooze.
Dean of Men, Albert Parker.
Registrar, Alex Nischuk.
Finance Officer, Shirley Burk.
Director of Nurses, Orrean Gill.
Director of Nursing Service, Jackie Schlothauer.
Personnel Director, Pat Rosenthal.

Cafeteria Superintendent, Lucy Courter.

Treasurer, Herbert Tate.

The teachers for the college and academy classes were students chosen by the regular teachers.

The day progressed as any school day should. Faculty committees met and groped with typical problems of school life, and faculty-members-for-the-day gained an insight into the problems and headaches of the regular faculty.

The president, dean, and personnel director toured the college departments to acquaint themselves with the way they were being operated, and then, in company with the director of nursing and director of nursing service, made a tour of the hospital to study the operation of the different departments and note any needed improvements.

The dormitory deans had their share of problems such as students failing to sign out, giving permissions, and questions about chaperonage.

Lucy Courter, cafeteria matron, was in a dither when 35 students from Laurelbrook came in to dinner—and the food was low. But her resourcefulness produced a second dinner, "delicious," according to the visiting students.

Shirley Burk, up in the Finance Office, was just as strict as Mr. Hassenpflug. John Dovich tried unsuccessfully to draw money before the fifteenth.

Faculty members have expressed themselves as being pleased with the way the students took hold and operated the school for the day.

Alumni Association to Present Albert Schweitzer Film on May 24

The alumni of Madison College will present the film, "Albert Schweitzer," in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall on Saturday night, May 24.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer has achieved world renown as a missionary, philosopher, theologian, physician, biographer, and organist, and above all as a man who has devoted his life to "the direct service of mankind."

In recognition of his unique achievements, he was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1952.

The son of an evangelical pastor, Albert Schweitzer was born in 1875 and grew up in his Alsatian village of Gunsbach. By the time he was 21, he had obtained degrees in philosophy, theology, and music at the University of Strasbourg. For the next nine years, he devoted himself to preaching, teaching, music, and writing and gained international recognition for his work in all four fields. Nevertheless, he had vowed that when he reached his thirtieth birthday, he would embark on a new career of "immediate service as a man to his fellow men."

That career, he decided in 1905, would be as a missionary doctor in Equatorial Africa. Accordingly he enrolled in medical school, while still pursuing his other pro-

Fine Arts Sponsors Community Sing

The Fine Arts Department sponsored a community sing on Saturday evening May 10, in the college assembly hall.

The program was sponsored by Professor Francis Cossentine, head of the Music Department and Mr. Winston Ferris, elementary school principal.

Terry Brown was the winner in a tune contest, but no one guessed the queer noise produced on some hi-fi equipment, which turned out to be a robin's song two octaves lower and at a slower speed than normal.

A baritone solo by Stewart Crook was also a part of the program.

Many expressed their appreciation of the program and the enjoyment and inspiration which it brought.

Opportunities

"God gives opportunities; success depends on the use made of them." Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 223.

Many a college student loses his vision of service during college days because he becomes so wrapped up in the work of making his way or making grades that he fails to see opportunities for service right here on the campus.

Yet there are many in our midst who are waiting for a helping hand, a word of encouragement, or even an understanding smile.

A group of young people from the dormitories have begun evening programs of singing and praying with the patients in the sanitarium. The other evening one patient who has been here many years remarked, after the group had stopped at his room, that it was the first time in the 12 years of his stay at the sanitarium that a visitor had sung and prayed with him.

We are glad that this is not a typical case. But for some reason this man had been missed. Perhaps the many students and workers who are constantly ministering to the spiritual needs of the patients have felt that here was an unresponsive case. If they thought so, they have been mistaken.

Every day golden opportunities are waiting for all who will make use of them. Let's not neglect them here on the campus. E.Z.

Two by Two

We were happy to have Thomas Linville as a visitor over the weekend. He is affiliating in Anesthesia at Athens, Georgia.

Ann Cantrell, R.N. '57, and Frances Blewett, R.N., '56, and little Cheryl, from Hialeah, Florida, are visiting with us. Both girls work in surgery in the Hialeah Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Borgeson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tate, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tucker spent the past weekend in Washington, D.C., where they attended the wedding of Maellene Haviland and Phillip Lang.

Starch and Stripes

Appendectomies are now in style for the nursing students, it seems. Jean Openshaw had her appendix out not long ago, and she was soon followed by Jackie Giles. Poor Jackie, she had to miss the senior trip to Florida because of her side. We are sorry that she missed the trip but happy both she and Jean are doing nicely now.

For several days last week Mrs. Vaughan and Miss Page were in Memphis attending the Tennessee State Nursing League meeting. By their report, the meetings were well worth the time and effort, and they profited from attending them.

It seems as if everyone is going on a field trip nowadays, at least the nursing office seems to think so. Miss Page's Social Problems class was able to go to the Juvenile Court in downtown Nashville on May 5. Here they heard several different cases being discussed and the decisions being made.

Several days ago Miss Davidson, clinical instructor on Surgical Wing, went to check on a student nurse whom she had sent twenty minutes earlier to take a TPR. Miss Davidson had begun to wonder what had happened to her "probie" student. Upon entering the patient's room she discovered that the probie was having a difficult time getting the thermometer to register. The reason wasn't that the student couldn't take a temperature but that the patient's head and throat were packed in ice.

The other day another student, ready to take a patient's temperature, was searching for the container holding the thermometer wipes. Finally she found the container in the bathroom on a shelf. Opening it and reaching in for the wipe, instead she felt the cold, slimy feeling of a pair of dentures. If she ever found the wipes, she never said.

On May 14 Mrs. Zeigler left for Cincinnati to visit our affiliating nursing students—Joyce Bowe, Ramona Barham, Abigail Turner, Mary Peek, and Janet Jensen—and to attend the Directors' Conference for affiliating schools which was held there in Cincinnati.

We are sad to hear that Mrs. Lila Ring was called home by the sudden death of her mother. You have our sympathy, Lila.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Bullock and Betty Burchett made a hasty trip recently to visit friends and relatives in Topeka, Kansas, and to attend the wedding of Mrs. Bullock's cousin.

It's good to see the smiling face of Velma Midghall McNeal again. Mrs. McNeal, Class of '54, and former clinical instructor, is now living in Cincinnati. She is spending a few weeks here on the campus with Mrs. Beaumont, who has recently had eye surgery.

Alvin Barham spent the past weekend at "Cinci" with his wife Ramona, who is affiliating in Pediatrics at the Children's Hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walper are the proud owners of a new deepfreeze. Lois tells us she is spending all of her "spare" time dreaming up things to put into it.

We are glad to have John Williams with us again. He is now enrolled in the School of Anesthesia.

The month of May brims over with school-day memories. Trips and more trips have been the "order of the day." . . . Elder and Mrs. O J Mills must have felt like the "old woman in the shoe." Their many children were from the church school. And room by room, they were given a trip on a houseboat through the locks on the Cumberland River. This trip was a reward for reaching their high Ingathering goal. . . . Feathers flew thick and fast on the bus during the choir's trip from Harbert Hills. A pillow fight ended with a shower of feathers on all occupants in the bus. Norman Sossong resembled a chicken and Mr. Cossentine worried about what his wife would say about the condition of his dark suit. . . . It was a near tragedy for Mr. James Simmons, when he stepped off into 30 feet of water instead of stepping into Duane Higgins' boat. . . . For John Dovich, it was a tragedy, when he lost his wallet at Kentucky Lake. . . . Adrian Wynn's wife has a clever way of seeing that her husband gets home when he should. The other day she pinned a note on her husband's shirt without his knowing it saying, "Send me home at eleven o'clock." After several reminders by fellow students, Adrian took the hint. . . . The coming month will be full of memories, too, for starry-eyed brides and nervous grooms.

Class Tours Churches, Attends Art Festival

Eight students and three teachers—Bob Lawry, Bob Tetz, Robert Hazen, Eddie Zollinger, Raymond Campbell, Sue Vestal, Carol Hilgers, Davina Warner, Mr. Cossentine, Mr. Walper, and Mr. Crook—spent the day Tuesday, May 13, visiting nine Nashville churches. They were interested particularly in the architecture and the organ in each church.

The field trip was sponsored by the class in Fine Arts Appreciation, and all organ pupils were invited.

The morning was well spent visiting the Jewish Temple, Saint Henry's, the Evangelical Lutheran, and the Blakemore Methodist churches.

The group enjoyed a picnic lunch in Centennial Park and then visited the Arts Festival outside the Parthenon.

They also toured four of the older churches of the city before returning home.

CHOIR TRIP—from p. 2

After the program the Madison group visited the Harbert Hills school, where they met old friends and were shown the young pioneering institution. The piano remodeling shop was of special interest to the music group. The Harbert Hills friends served supper to the guests.

fessions. During this period, Albert completed his now classic book on Bach, played many organ concerts, and wrote one of his major theological works, "Paul and His Interpreters."

In 1913, Albert Schweitzer and his wife set sail for Africa to establish their now famous hospital in a broken-down chicken coop at Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa. Except for a few visits back to Europe and one trip to the United States in 1949, Dr. Schweitzer has been there ever since.

The second half of "Albert Schweitzer" records a typical day at Lambarene as the famous doctor makes his hospital rounds, welcomes a group of native families who have come to live at the settlement while their sick relative is being treated, and visits the leper village where he supervises and helps with the construction of new huts roofed with tin provided by his Nobel Prize money.

T.O.T.'s Spend Day At Cave Springs

Seventy members and guests of the Teachers of Tomorrow Club made their second annual trip to the Cave Springs Home for Handicapped Children on Sabbath, May 3.

The teacher trainees were in charge of the Sabbath school program, Ishmael Combs acting as superintendent. Others who participated in the Sabbath school were Aaron Dennis, Ruth Coulter, Darlenejoan McKibbin, Linda Roach, and Mrs. Grow.

An offering of $25.00 was given to the school by the T.O.T.'s, so that Mrs. Grow might be able to buy some needed article for the students. Last year's gift bought a waffle iron for the children.

The school is located in a secluded 1000-acre valley of peaceful woodland and meadows. It was an ideal place to eat the picnic lunch and to spend the afternoon in quiet rambling over the grounds and hiking through the surrounding hills.

Orientation Class Visits Laurelbrook

A report of the recent trip to the Laurelbrook School, near Dayton, Tennessee, by about 40 members of the Orientation Class was given at chapel on May 12.

As the purpose of the trip was to orient the freshmen to the activities of a self-supporting institution, each visitor participated in work at the school for the day.

One group helped with the constructing of two new buildings, some of the girls laying cement blocks and packing in insulation. Another group engaged in preparation-day activities in the sanitarium. Still another group assisted in cooking and serving meals and helping on the clean-up detail in the cafeteria.

Sabbath school and church services were presented by Laurelbrook youth, Madison students participating. Dr. Sandborn gave the sermon—the history and importance of the self-supporting work.

In the afternoon the visitors were taken on a hike through the

Picnic Plans Carry In Spite of Rain

Rainy days—18 of them almost in a row—didn't dampen the ardor of students for field trips or picnics this year. In fact, for awhile more trips were made in the rain than in the sunshine.

At this writing, the last students to make a trip—the seniors—are enjoying a six-day vacation in Florida.

Both freshmen (on May 5) and sophomores (on May 12) spent the day at Kentucky Lake.

The juniors got in the longest day, leaving early enough for Montgomery Bell Park to eat a pancake breakfast at the picnic site.

A number of Madison students are training to be able to go to Cave Springs in the near future to connect with the school.

woods to the cliffs. After an hour and a half in the rain, hiking over, around, up, and through the rocks, ravines, caves, and mountainside, they could well appreciate the school's ideal secluded and natural situation.

After the hike both the students of Laurelbrook and the Madison visitors boarded the school bus for the bluffs, from which they could see the Smoky Mountains, 77 miles away.

When the Madisonites left Saturday night after the recreation period, they agreed that the feature of the school they would longest remember was not its beautiful situation or its lovely campus. What each was most impressed with was the spirit of both the students and the faculty. No one felt he had made a sacrifice in becoming a member of the Laurelbrook group. Everyone there feels that he is not only where God wants him, but also where he really wants to be.

On Sunday, May 18, the other half of the Orientation class took a one-day trip, visiting both the Laurelbrook and the Little Creek Schools.

With Kentucky Lake as their destination, 32 academy freshmen and sophomores and their three chaperons, Mr. Paul Taylor, Mr. Harold Keplinger, and Mrs. Sylvia Mitzelfelt, left the campus on Tuesday morning, May 14, in the more-than-well-packed school bus.

Many of the group rented boats for the day and felt that only meals were important enough to call them in to land for the day. Tui Pitman feeling that it would take too long to walk around the lake, braved the cold water and swam across the finger of water, rented a boat, then came back and picked up his passengers. Six girls, however, decided to take a short-cut, walking through the woods and almost lost themselves in the scratchy undergrowth. The girls—Jackie Lee, Reba Vaughan, Evelyn Barham, Sylvia Mitzelfelt, Marilyn Sandborn, and Beverly Shacklett—at last reached the boat dock and rented a row boat, only to find that their combined efforts got them exactly nowhere. Their frustration was ended when they were able to rent a motor boat.

The sophomores were hosts for the day of fun, and the achievements of the food committee, consisting of Marilyn Sandborn, Ruth Gill, and Beverly Shacklett, were praised by everyone. Their only problems seemed to be forgetting to bring enough spoons for supper and also the container in which to mix the punch. The resourceful group ate supper primitive style, and mixed their punch in their cups.

Juniors and Seniors Go to Mammoth Cave

by KAYE BRAMBLE

R I N G went the alarm clock Tuesday morning, May 6, at 4:00 a.m. Ava Jones, Lois Bullock, Barbara Jennings, and Kaye Bramble got up and headed straight for the cafeteria, where they prepared the terrific meals that were so much enjoyed that day on the junior-senior picnic.

This wasn't an ordinary picnic; in fact, there were several with umbrellas and several who wished they had them, for it was the kind of day one wouldn't dream of picnicking on—wet, cold, and rainy.

As the juniors were hosts, they kept the seniors in suspense as to the destination. The seniors' guess, Kentucky Lake, ended up to be Mammoth Cave, Kentucky—just the place for a rainy-day picnic!

After everyone was full of picnic lunch, it was "off to the cave." Once down inside the spacious cave, it could rain cats and dogs, because it was warm and dry in the cave. The guide pointed out many places of interest along the two-hour tour. In two hours only a very small part of the 150 miles of passageways was covered.

After the tour, the bus was loaded and it headed for Shelby Park, where the group ate supper under a shelter with a warm fire, thanks to Mr. Stearns and Mr. Wilson, the faculty sponsors.

In Appreciation

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns were unanimously chosen by the seniors to be the sponsors of their class.

All the class wish to express their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Stearns for the interest they have taken in the senior activities and for the many hours they have spent helping plan the trip to Washington, D.C., and also the program for commencement week-end.

The Stearns family came to Madison in 1954 from La Sierra, where Mr. Stearns had lived on the campus of La Sierra College all his life. Here at Madison Mr. Stearns is connected with the Agriculture Department and teaches a variety of classes in the academy and college. Mrs. Stearns has been the academy secretary this year.
