Project Progress

Martha Ann Norris: "A bright new-looking cafeteria will long be remembered as the student association project of '59 for many years to come. I think we will all enjoy the beauty and comfort such a project will bring."

Harold Collins: "I believe a project such as this is a morale-builder. It gives the students something to work for and to look forward to."

Bob Eaton: "From the spiritual standpoint, the plans that are being laid and the work that has already been done toward improvement of the cafeteria is an honor not only to the school, but to heaven and the Lord Himself. We need to do all we can to glorify Him in supporting this project."

Maureen Drake: "I'm glad to see the ASMC attempting something like this. I'll stand behind the project 100 per cent."

These are some of the student comments heard last week on the campus. All seem to be doing their part as progress continues on the proposed renovation of the cafeteria, the 1959 ASMC project. Every academy and college student seems eager to raise his individual goal, which will count toward the total goal of the respective Forum.

The Nashville Tennessean carried a picture and story of the ASMC project to all the Nashville area. Joe Fields, campaign chairman, says that he has received a number of calls from the Nashville public who were interested in helping in the project. John Dovich, ASMC president, received a letter last week from the United States Senate, in which Senator Estes Kefauver sent his best wishes to the student body for the success of their project.

It is hoped that in the remaining two weeks of the campaign enough money will be in the treasury so that work can begin. By the end of May the job is scheduled to be completed. May all work hard to that end.

Week Highlights Courtesy

Alumnus Sends $1000 Gift

A $1000 gift for the Agriculture Division of Madison College came as a complete surprise about two weeks ago.

The check for $1000 came from Mr. Frank Judson, at present chairman of the Agriculture and Industrial Education Department at La Sierra College, Arlington, California.

In his letter to Dr. Sandborn, Mr. Judson stated:

"It has been 21 years since I graduated from Madison College. The enclosed check represents my appreciation to my Alma Mater. I feel that on this twenty-first anniversary year it is most appropriate for the graduates of '38 to express in a material way their appreciation for Madison College. May I suggest that other graduates be contacted by you or the president of the class."

Concerning his gift, Mr. Judson stipulated the following: "Two scholarships of $200 each are to go to Agriculture students, and $600 is to be used for improvement of the Agriculture classroom and for new equipment."

Skits, demonstrations, and talks emphasized courtesy during the week of March 1-7, the annual Courtesy Week of Madison College.

Monday's chapel featured first improper and then proper behavior in a restaurant and at a concert. Mrs. Sandborn was the narrator for the skit.

Wednesday's chapel emphasized correct attire for various occasions—church, concerts, semi-formal and formal occasions, parties, and Sabbath afternoon missionary trips.

Instead of following the usual custom of spotlighting only two students outstanding in courtesy, this year special recognition was given to a large group who are representative of Christian courtesy. This group was chosen by members of the Campus Life Committee and the Religious Life Committee.

Throughout the week posters were placed in conspicuous spots on the campus reminding students to be courteous and friendly.

The Friday evening vesper talk by Mr. Miles Coon and a feature at Sabbath school highlighted Christian courtesy.

Courtesy Week was planned and conducted by the Campus Life Committee, of which Lucy Courter is chairman.

Piano Team Presents Concert

A concert of duo-piano music was presented by Professor Morris Taylor and his wife Elaine Myers Taylor on the evening of March 7, 1959, in Helen Funk Assembly Hall.

The Taylors are from Southern Missionary College, where Professor Taylor is Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts.

The concert opened with a Brahms composition, "Variations on a Theme by Haydn." Other features included two groups of vocal numbers by Mrs. Taylor and a section of piano solos played by Professor Taylor.

The vocal compositions especially enjoyed by the audience were "Povero Pulcinella" by Buzzi-Peccia, "Silent Noon" by Vaughn-Williams, and "A Little China Figure" by Leoni.

Professor Taylor's performances of Schumann's "Vienese Carnival" and Chopin's "Three Scotch Dances" were an added highlight to the program.

One of the outstanding numbers performed by the Taylors as duo-piano team was Poulenc's contemporary "Sonata," in three movements. Stravinsky's "Russian Dance," Chasinsky's "Parade," and De Falla's "Spanish Dance" closed the concert, which was enthusiastically received by the college audience. A reception honoring the Taylors was held in the faculty room after the concert.

Professor Taylor is a graduate of Atlantic Union College and Boston University, where he is currently finishing his work toward his doctorate in music. Mrs. Taylor graduated from Walla Walla College and received her master's degree in music from Columbia University. The Taylors have three small children. Professor Taylor is a brother to Madison College student Bob Devlin.

Let's Practice Now

Now that Courtesy Week is over, none of us can say that we don't know what is right and proper for almost any occasion. But we do need to put into practice what we have learned.

How can we as students practice courtesy?

Smile. Any act of courtesy—opening a door for someone, greeting a fellow student, picking up a dropped article, in fact, performing any kind deed—should be performed with a smile that comes from the heart. Courtesy and smiles work better together.

Speak. When we pass by or approach someone—teacher or student—let's not be too preoccupied to speak, not forgetting to smile as we speak, of course.

Speak pleasantly. In a moment of rush, or when irritated by something, we may fail to use the right tone of voice or may answer someone abruptly. From that moment someone may have a bad impression of you.

Be helpful. Last, but not least, we must watch for opportunities to help others. Let's not live for ourselves only. Jesus lived to bless others.

Courtesy is courtly conduct or behavior. It is a virtue that ennobles a person. We should make it a part of our lives. It should not be displayed only on certain occasions or in the presence of certain people, but every day and with everyone.

Here on the campus, in our homes, at our work, in the city, let us be courteous students, courteous workers, courteous business people, courteous teachers, courteous nurses, courteous doctors—yes, courteous Christians as long as we live. P.R.

Starch and Stripes

Senior A nurses will soon be taking off their stripes for the last time and will be appearing in the spotless white uniforms of graduate nurses. This same group will also soon be ready for the state board test, which is scheduled for April 22 and 23.

Mrs. Godfrey Duran attended a four-day In-service Education Conference at Kansas City, Missouri, February 16-20. At the conference, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, were 63 nurses from 19 states. Because of bad weather Mrs. Duran went by bus instead of by plane, passing through the tornado section of St. Louis, where she saw the results of the disaster.

She did fly back by TWA and especially enjoyed being up in the air at sundown. Commenting upon the return trip, she says, "Being up in the air among the clouds was beautiful at sunset. Seeing the Wabash River flooded, along with the beauty of the sunset, was most beautiful."

She states that the conference was most helpful to supervisors and directors and that she received much that will be a help to her in her work.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Weir, operating room supervisor, is a patient on Surgical Wing, where she is recuperating from recent surgery. We trust she will soon be with us again.

We are glad that Mr. Duran, assistant operating room supervisor, is now back working part time after his hospitalization of five weeks. It is good to see his smiling face again.

The following changes have been made among the nursing personnel: Mrs. Betty Leatherwood is now working in surgery. Mrs. Irene Bidwell is in charge of Pediatrics. The head nurse on General is now Mrs. Vaughan. Mrs. Duran is the associate director in Nursing Service. We hope you will all enjoy your work.

Two by Two

Clyde Holland reports some interesting and profitable visits to the State Prison with the group who go there each Sunday for religious services. Clyde plays the organ for the meetings on Sunday mornings. Usually about 50 boys attend faithfully each week. Some of the participating speakers from the college are Mr. Ralph Martin, Elder Mills, and Mr. Gulley. There have been six baptisms as a result of their faithful efforts.

Mrs. Ramona Barham is looking forward to a visit from her mother, Mrs. M. F. Scott, from Coos Bay, Oregon. Mrs. Scott plans to be here the latter part of March.

There is one lonely mother around Madison—Mary Jane Morgan. Her husband and her two daughters have gone back to Texas as she goes on the floor in March with the new class in nursing.

Mrs. Sumi Yoshimura knows that it pays to ask friends of the school for donations for the new ASMC project. She received $50 from one person for the new student social center in the cafeteria.

MV Calendar

March 27-April 4—Spring Week of Prayer. Elder W. D. Frazee from Wildwood, speaker.

April 11—A program you won't want to miss, to be presented by the Freshman Class, under the direction of Ross Clark.

April 18—The Pathfinders will have the program, with Barbara Hill as leader.

May 2—Something special. Come and see!

May 9—A Mother's Day program, presented by the Senior Class under Clyde Holland.

Gardeners Join in New Project

Mr. Richard Walker, technical adviser, and Mr. Keplinger, Mr. Schmale, and Mr. Dickman have joined in one of the newest projects on the campus—a demonstration of how a prosperous garden should grow and how it should be cared for.

Approximately three acres of good river bottom land have been set aside for use as a demonstration garden. This project will cover a time period of three years. Half of the acreage the first year will be planted while the other half will be covered with manure and then plowed and built up for use the following year. Each year this land rotation will be carried on.

To build up the soil for use, garbage will be collected from the store and from the cafeteria. It will then be decomposed with manure and activated sludge and shredded to make a natural fertilizer compost pile.

Certain needed minerals, rocks, and potash will be mixed with this decomposed material and then put on the land. Since this land was once river bottom land, it has very rich soil already, but it needs some material to prevent erosion by heavy rains.

Plans have been made to grow broccoli, carrots, spinach, potatoes, and other vegetables which do not ordinarily grow abundantly in this area.

According to the gardeners, the cafeteria and sanitarium kitchen will purchase their vegetables from this project.

PUGH'S PHARMACY

The evangelistic program for the Fatherland Street effort is now being organized. Mr. Gulley will be the principal speaker at the meetings which will be held three times a week from April 5-19.

The Fatherland Church was the first Seventh-day Adventist church in Nashville. After the new First Church was built, the conference tried to sell the old one four times, but it came back to the conference each time. Now Elder Marley, conference president, has given permission for the MV's to sponsor an evangelistic campaign there.

Thursday night, March 12, a busload of students went down to the church to prepare the building for the meetings. Sabbath meetings were begun on March 14 in preparation for the campaign. Mr. Norman R. Gulley was the speaker in the morning.

Group Attends Foods Convention

Elder and Mrs. Felix A. Lorenz, Mr. Glen Strong, Mr. Alfred Wilhelmson, Mr. Sam Yoshimura, and Dr. Perry A. Webber attended the Natural Foods Associates Convention held in Louisville, Kentucky, March 5 and 6. They report that some very profitable items emerged from the lectures.

Shorthand Students Demonstrate Skills

Four students of advanced shorthand recently completed projects assigned them by their teacher, Mrs. J. E. Stearns, and very capably demonstrated their proficiency in stenography.

Three of the girls, Myrna Moore, Mitylene Amoguis, and Jean Syvertson, took dictation from various administrators and business men on the campus and completed approximately fifty letters, which were judged mailable, signed, and mailed by their "bosses."

Mr. M. R. Coon dictated to Mary Lou Sullins a one-hour talk he is to give in a coming workshop, where he will distribute mimeographed copies of the talk to the students.

Each "boss" declared the work of his "secretary" to be satisfactory; and because of their enthusiasm, hard work, and high standards in their transcriptions, the secretarial science department awarded each of the girls a copy of Twenty-thousand Words by Louis Leslie.

In the afternoon the entire east Nashville "It Is Written" staff met for specific organization for the evangelistic campaign. Mr. Barham's Pathfinders accepted the challenge to distribute programs for the meetings.

The campaign is not to be just a series of "preaching" services, but is a medical ministry for the people in that area. Dr. J. C. Trivett will give medical demonstrations, Mr. Ralph Martin, health lectures, and Mr. L. L. Dickman, first aid instruction. Mr. Dickman is also the chorister for the meetings.

The next three or four weeks will be spent in personal visitations. Nurses will go into the homes and minister to the needs of the people, thereby winning their confidence. Thus in a true demonstration of loving ministry we hope to win their hearts to the Lord.

Resident Physician Comes from Israel

Within another month Dr. Leon Schmukler will come to Madison Sanitarium and Hospital as a resident physician.

Dr. Schmukler was born in Kamien, White Russia. He finished medicine at Pavlov Institute, Leningrad, in 1937 and then specialized in Obstetrics at the University Clinic.

After practicing in Pskow, Russia, and Grodno, Poland, the war years came, and from 1941-43 he was in the Glenbokie, Poland, Ghetto, a concentration camp. Then for another year he was hidden in the Forest Glenbokie in fear of the Nazis.

After a year and a half of further practice in Poland he moved to Israel, where he has been in private practice as a surgeon gynecologist and also as surgeon at Workers Sick Fund in Tel Aviv.

Dr. Schmukler, his wife and three daughters—twins 13 years old and one three years old—are coming to the United States for the first time.

Pine Hill School Seeks Helpers

Mr. Robert Santini, class of '54, now general manager of the Pine Hill Sanitarium and School, and Mr. Bill Craig, who with his family left Madison for Pine Hill the first of the year, spent several days at Madison recently.

Mr. Santini is looking for an agriculture man and a builder to help in the expansion program in progress. Mr. Craig is teaching the church school, besides helping in other departments.

Choir Gives Concerts In Kentucky Churches

The Madison College forty-two-voice choir, directed by Professor Cossentine, made its first tour on the weekend of March 6 and 7. Appearing at Louisville, Kentucky, on Friday evening, Pewee Valley, Kentucky, on Sabbath morning, and Bowling Green, Kentucky, on Sabbath afternoon, the group presented a program of sacred music.

Professor Norman Gulley provided appropriate narration to the program, which featured such numbers as Shaw's "With a Voice of Singing," Bairstow's "Save Us, O Lord," Christiansen's "Lost in the Night," and Thompson's arrangement of "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." A women's chorus, directed by Mrs. Silver, sang "List! the Cherubic Host," from Gaul's oratorio, The Holy City, with Professor Cossentine singing the baritone solo part. Several hymn anthems were also used and included "For All The Saints" and "We're Bound for the Land of the Pure."

Soloists with the choir were Laura Mae Slattery, Ruby Seibert, and Carol Ann Hinton. Mrs. Silver played a cornet solo for the offertory. Bob Eaton, Eddie Zollinger, and Delphia Ladner gave personal testimonies as to the value they placed upon singing religious music of this type. Mary Lou Sullins was accompanist for the choir.

The Madison College Choir also appeared on March 13 at the Nashville First Seventh-day Adventist Church, where they presented a similar program. Several other tours are being planned for this organization.

New Walks, Roads Will Improve Campus

The road from Scott corner to the Science Building is now closed to cars as plans made more than a year ago are being carried out.

The pavement and the retaining wall have been removed and the area is being graded so that it may be planted to lawn and shrubbery. A nine-foot sidewalk will extend from Scott corner to the Science Building.

"If we get the machinery needed for the grading, we should be finished in about two weeks. We'll have a black-top sidewalk smooth enough for skating," Mr. Simmons optimistically remarked.

A new black-top road is also to be constructed, which will run in front of Gotzian Home, by the print shop, around the food factory, and in front of the service station and the Demonstration Building.

The new parking lot, with its stone retaining wall, is to be finished before summer, Mr. Simmons says.

The money for the roads comes from the sale of several lots owned by the institution.

Surgeon to Join Sanitarium Staff

Dr. Hillis F. Evans, who has been surgeon at the Bella Vista Hospital in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, will arrive on March 27 to be surgeon at the Madison Sanitarium and Hospital. Dr. Evans is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Up And Down The Campus

Bright flowers blooming in a light March snow tell us that spring will soon smile warmly upon the college campus. . . . "Something new" for the cafeteria will be a refrigerated drinking fountain to replace the old warm water faucet by the serving room. . . . Elementary Education students are happy to have Mrs. Simmons back in the classroom after her illness and hospitalization. Mrs. Simmons had the distinction of being the first patient in Room 1, one of the newly renovated rooms on the General Wing of the Sanitarium. Ruby Seibert, under Mrs. Simmons' direction, carried on the work of the education classes. . . . It is nothing new these days to "visit" far away places. Mrs. O. J. Mills talked with Dr. George Tolhurst in Okinawa. Dr. Tolhurst is from Atlanta, Georgia, and a graduate of Southern Missionary College. The visit with the doctor, a "ham" operator, was made possible by an "It Is Written" contact, also a "ham" operator. . . . A color picture film from the American Bible Society showed the thrilling preservation of the Korean Bible translation from the hands of the Communists. . . . Nursing students are looking forward to their "pinning" exercises and the "probies" to their first day on the floor. . . . "You nurses are so wonderful," said a patient on Medical Wing. "You look so beautiful in your uniforms and your faces are so fresh without worldly artificial coloring. If I were a young man, I would have a hard time deciding on my girl." Then he said with a sly smile, "You know I married a nurse!" . . . Thought from Lila Ring's talk on Mental Health at the It Is Written Chapel—Take a Happy Pill each day. Discipline your thoughts and have a "Good Morning" attitude.

Academy Choir to Sing in Festival

Twenty-five voices have been picked by Mrs. Betty Harter, the director of the academy choir, to participate in the Spring Festival of Music which will be held at Southern Missionary College, April 10-12.

Those in this group who also play in the band will take their instruments to join the large band which will play on Saturday night.

Much work is being done in preparing for this event. Extra practices are being put in by the choir group. Everyone is looking forward to this Festival, the first of its kind in the Southern Union.

The participating choirs are from academies in the Southern Union.

Color Slides Show Pioneer Scenes

At academy chapel on March 3 the hands of the clock turned back to scenes of the labors of the early pioneers of the Advent Movement. On the screen were portrayed the early meeting places, Sister White's home, several of the schools which the pioneers attended, and early Adventist churches.

The pictures showed how God used these pioneers with their simple facilities and crude means of transportation to carry forth His work rapidly. They were a challenge to those who live in this day of modern conveniences and inventions to accomplish even more than they did.

The students thank Elder Felix A. Lorenz for securing the colored slides and being the narrator of the scenes.

New Nurses' Station Improves Service

Work is progressing on the new nursing station on General—the former Room 7. This station will make available to the patients of that area faster service and more personal attention. The foundations and floor are already completed. Plans are to have a picture window on the side where the medical charts will be kept. A half wall will separate the office from the work area room. This new station will be completely separate from the original nursing station on General. It will probably include patient care from Rooms 1 through 15.

ATS Oratorical Contest to Be Held On April 4

The Madison College Chapter of the American Temperance Society will present its annual temperance contest on Saturday night, April 4, in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall.

Six entrants will present orations on some phase of alcohol, tobacco, or narcotics. The winner will be given a paid trip to Portland, Oregon, where the winner from each Seventh-day Adventist college in North America will compete for national honors.
