Pathfinders Sponsor "Little Tyke" Film

The true story of Little Tyke, world-famous vegetarian African lioness, was presented in picture-lecture form April 18 to a record-breaking crowd that filled the chapel twice.

Little Tyke, raised at Hidden Valley Ranch in Washington, was a lover of little children and animals. She made true the Bible statement, "The lion shall lie down with the lamb." She made appearances in public, motion pictures, and television before her death from pneumonia a few years ago.

Following the film Mr. and Mrs. Georges Westbeau, owners of the

Ross Clark
Parliamentarian

After graduating from Madison College Academy in 1957, Ross Clark spent a year at EMC preparing for his career as a medical missionary to South America. He has always participated in music organizations, having sung in the choir and played in the band and orchestra. He has also been active in the work of the Nature Club. He was elected business manager of the Cumberland Echoes but resigned when he was elected president of the freshman class.

After graduating from Fargo High School in her home town of Woodward, Oklahoma, Correne Bunch came to Madison to train to be a nurse. She is a member of the

ASMC and MV Officers Attend 9th Intercollegiate Workshop

Eight student representatives from the ASMC and the MV Society and their sponsors have just returned from Union College at Lincoln, Nebraska, where they attended the Ninth Annual Intercollegiate Workshop of Eastern Seventh-day Adventist Colleges held April 29-May 2.

Those representing the ASMC were Gordon Roberts, president-elect of the Associated Student Body; Alice Surdahl, secretary-elect of the association; Correne Bunch, editor-elect of the Cumberland Echoes; and Mr. F. R. Cosentine, faculty coordinator.

Representing the Missionary Volunteer Society were John Dovich, leader-elect of the society; James Anderson and Terry Sweeney, associate leaders-elect; Shirley Zinke and Pat Ricks, secretaries-elect; and Mr. Norman Gulley, sponsor.

Seven other Seventh-day Adventist Colleges were represented at the workshop.

The purpose of the student association workshop is to "study ways and means as to how to best create a spirit of unity in questions involving the relationship of the students to themselves, to their fellow students, and to their colleges."

The MV group, meeting for the first time with the student associations, discussed such topics as "Share Your Faith" Activities, Public Relations, Finance, Programs, and Social and Cultural Activities.

Reports of the entire workshop will be presented to the students in the near future.

Each year one of the student associations of these eight eastern colleges sponsors the workshop. Last year Madison College was host to the other colleges.

Rewarding Experience

Have you ever had the thrill of discovering something new? Or have you ever experienced the sudden joy associated with the finding of a new song or a thought? On the other hand, have you ever had the experience of hearing a song which you instinctively disliked the first time you heard it, and even the second time and the third time? But the amazing fact is that after hearing the song repeatedly you suddenly found that you had developed an appreciation for it and found it beautiful and enriching.

Learning to appreciate and enjoy some of the finer things of life often comes from just such experiences as this. To enjoy beautiful poetry, to understand the music of the masters, to appreciate a work of art—even modern art, and to delve into the sublime thoughts of noble men and women are all experiences which broaden and deepen our lives.

These experiences are rewarding, even though it often takes time to develop an appreciation for the finer things of life. This fact only enhances them, making them the more beautiful and enjoyable.

One of the aims of a college education is to develop an appreciation for the best in music, in art, in literature. Let's take advantage now of opportunities to become acquainted with these finer things. The secret of wisdom is having a desire to develop new interests and a willingness to accept new ideas.

Alumni News

Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Straw of Little Creek Sanitarium, Concord, Tennessee, announce the arrival of Deborah Jean, who was born April 21 and weighed 9 pounds. Stanford, now laboratory technician at Little Creek, was a student at Madison College in '56 and '57. He is the son of former Madison teachers Leland and Alice (Goodge) Straw, founders of the Little Creek School. Stanford's wife is the former Janet Harper, who graduated from Madison College Academy in 1957.

Seen at the recent Music Festival held at Southern Missionary College were the Stewart Crooks, who send their greetings to all their friends at Madison College. Stewart, a member of the class of 1957, served as dean of men during 1958. He is now head of the Music Department at Mt. Pisgah Academy, near Candler, North Carolina.

Greetings also come from Elder and Mrs. J. M. Ackerman of Southern Missionary College. Elder Ackerman, former registrar and assistant dean at Madison College, and Dorothy Evans Ackerman, former head of the Music Department, left Madison in 1957 and are now on the teaching staff of Southern Missionary College. The Madisonian staff was happy to learn that they are still avid readers of the Madisonian.

Delta Nu Zeta

Delta Nu Zetans have been busy people since you've last heard from them through this column.

We have recently elected new officers for our Forum. Our new president, Jean Openshaw, has already showed us several good times. Our vice-president is Martha Norris; secretary, Sylvia Boley; treasurer, Carolyn Holder; pastor, Ruby Seibert; parliamentarian, Barbara Pickel. We also thank our former officers for the wonderful times they gave us.

Although Betty Burchett has been a good assistant, we are happy to have Mrs. Temples back with us. Just take a look at her sunburn, and it won't take you long to guess where she's been: she went to Florida with the academy seniors.

Williams Hall was almost deserted Saturday night before last after we freshmen loaded on two wagons piled high with hay and set off for our hay ride. When we reached our destination we played games and ate all the marshmallows we could hold. The most fun we've had in a long time!

"Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise." So goes the saying. One thing is sure: the ones who go to gardening class are "early to rise"! Most of the time gardening class is held at 5 a.m. and the other day it was at 4:30 a.m. Maybe if we stick to it, we'll come out "healthy, wealthy, and wise."

Club nights for the past few weeks have really been enjoyed. On one Wednesday night the girls played volleyball in the gym and afterwards were served punch and cookies. On the next Thursday the girls went out and sold "Knit Lure" for our cafeteria improvement project. Last Thursday we all went down and helped clean and improve the cafeteria. We're going to be proud of it when it is finished.

Wasiota Whispers

During college days we had an enthusiastic get-together down at Wasiota with the Fletcher, Little Creek, and Madison College Academy groups. We enjoyed some lively gymnastics, climaxing our activities with about half the group making a pyramid that towered to the height of nearly 16 feet. Harry Fujita stood at the top. Huskies such as Stan Dovich, Harold Collins, and Gene Post were included in the sturdy foundation.

A new plan for prayer band work has been carried out since the Week of Prayer. We have started with a nucleus of five or six prayer band leaders who make contacts with fellow students during the week. These personal contacts are a blessing and encourage a spiritual atmosphere among our group. The Lord is blessing our efforts to make our dormitories and college a place where young people can enjoy continually a spiritual blessing.

We welcome Phil Sanford to Gotzian from Hylendale. Phil finished his academy course early and is getting a head start on college work.

Four have joined us at Wasiota.

Takuji Magakubo is here from Tokyo, Japan. He has attended Waseda University in Japan and has worked in a manufacturing plant there as an electrical technician. He is here taking the laboratory course.

Ralph Thomas comes from the Texas and Louisiana oil fields. Husky fellow he is, and he always has a happy smile for you. Get acquainted with Ralph; you will like him.

Another young man we are happy to have with us is Ret Breland, who comes as a senior from Austin Peay State College. He is taking some courses in Religion and some other work here to round out his college experience.

Dale Nelson, who was here before, has come back to continue school work. We are glad to have him with us at Wasiota Court.

Chapter Chatter

The International Commission for the Prevention of Alcoholism is currently conducting a 70-city poll on drinking habits throughout the United States. This is part of a world-wide poll which is being made for scientific data in this field. Such questions as "Do you drink?" "If so, why?" and "If not, for what reasons?" are asked.

Students left at 12:30 p.m., Monday, April 27, to begin a 1000-name poll of Nashville. Television Studio 5 had cameras ready to make a newsreel of this project. At 10:00 p.m. the Shell News Hour presented a two-minute interview with Charles Tremper, ATS Chapter president; Hazel Griffin, secretary-treasurer; N. R. Gulley, sponsor; and John Dovich, ASMC president.

The April 26 Sunday Nashville Tennessean carried a news report on the project and also plans to run a story, together with the results, at the conclusion of the project.

Band Concert Date Changed to May 30

The date for the Spring Concert of the College Band has been changed from May 9 to May 30, because of the heavy schedule of fields trips, class trips, ASMC workshop, the "It Is Written" Crusade, etc., etc.

Mrs. Silver, director of the band, states that "the Spring Concert will be a program of all new music and will feature an evening of variety in music and musical talent—a program you won't want to miss."

There will be no admission charge but an offering will be taken to help pay for the new bass drum recently acquired by the band. Future plans include a summer band and a campaign to raise money for new band uniforms. It is felt that the purchase of new uniforms will add greatly to the appearance and the morale of the band.

Choir Trips Continue

The highlight of the latest tour made by the College Choir on April 25 was a visit to Southern Missionary College, where the group presented a Sabbath afternoon program. In the morning the choir appeared at Dunlap, Tennessee, and on Saturday evening at the Laurelbrook School at Dayton, Tennessee. The choir also appeared recently as a part of the College Day program, when it presented a group of numbers on the evening of April 15. Another tour has been scheduled for the weekend of May 16 to Birmingham, Alabama, Meridian, Mississippi, and Pine Forest Academy, near Meridian.

College Presents Scholarships To Six Academy Seniors

Six seniors from six different academies were recipients of $400 scholarships presented to them by Madison College on College Days, April 14 and 15.

Following is a list of the students who received the scholarships and the academies from which they come:

Phil Sanford, Hylandale Academy, Rockland, Wisconsin

Dale Shigley, Little Creek School, Concord, Tennessee

Danny McDonald, Laurelbrook School, Dayton, Tennessee

Juanita Sossong, Pine Forest Academy, Chunky, Mississippi

Mary Davenport, Fletcher Academy, Fletcher, North Carolina

Peggy Rumpf, Madison College Academy, Madison, Tennessee

The students who received scholarships were selected by their respective schools, on the basis of scholarship, industry, and spiritual leadership.

The scholarships will be credited to the students on the basis of $100 a year for each of the four years of college.

Peabody Professor Is Chapel Speaker

By means of some simple demonstrations at chapel on April 22, Dr. Hanor A. Webb, professor emeritus of Chemistry at Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, illustrated that what appears to be so is not always so.

Dr. Webb was introduced by Professor J. G. Rimmer, professor emeritus of Chemistry at Madison College. Professor Rimmer studied under Dr. Webb while he was doing graduate work at Peabody College years ago.

Dr. Webb, with the help of four student volunteers, illustrated a law of nature discovered by Bernoulli and named for him. Demonstrations showed that increasing the velocity of air on one side of an object produces a decrease in atmospheric pressure on that side, causing the object to move in the direction of decreased pressure.

No amount of blowing, for instance, from the bottom of a funnel could dislodge a ping-pong ball resting in the funnel, and a wind blowing under a paper bridge caused it to collapse.

This principle is used in streamlining and in designing airplane wings and also explains the curving of a baseball.

"Test; don't guess," the genial professor admonished as he concluded his lecture.

Madison Pathfinders Attend Camporee

Forty Pathfinders and staff members from the Madison College Club left early Thursday morning, April 2, for Harrison Bay State Park, twenty miles beyond Chattanooga, headed for the first Southern Union two-conference Camporee.

In attendance were 336 Pathfinders and staff members from Kentucky, Tennessee, and Georgia. Sixteen clubs were represented.

Contests were held Friday and Sunday in which each club participated. The contests were the 100-yard dash, the high jump, the running broad jump, pup-tent pitching, fire-building, and flap-jack cooking.

In these contests the Madison College Pathfinders were well represented. Wynn Sullivan jumped 50 inches to win the high jump and 13½ feet to win the running broad jump. Esther Roberts won the girls' high jump by going over the pole at 44 inches. Reba Linn is Madison's girl with wings on her heels. She won the 100-yard dash. John Treu and Hazel Griffin won the counselors' 100-yard dash. Hazel also won the counselors' running broad jump.

The different clubs were judged on their camp arrangement and unique ideas. First, second, and third prizes were given in each conference. The Madison club won the first prize of five dollars.

The Madison Pathfinders extend a big thanks to Mrs. Sossong for all the good food she "dished" out. Each unit prepared and cooked its own food.

Sabbath morning each club—in full uniform—fell in rank and marched as one company to the campfire circle for Sabbath school and church. Elder Nelson, youth leader of the Southern Union, spoke at the eleven o'clock hour.

Sabbath afternoon the Pathfinders went on a nature hunt. They brought back their findings, and Mr. Horace Tuttle, from Little Creek, identified them.

The Pathfinders were to leave at noon Sunday, but as the faithful old Madison College school bus had a flat, the Madison group were delayed for several hours.

God says, "Most earnest efforts should be put forth in . . . Nashville. . . There is a call for hundreds of YOUNG men and women to be educated and trained for service." Evangelism, pp. 397, 398. "With such an army of workers as our YOUTH, rightly trained, might furnish, how soon the message of a crucified, risen, and soon-coming Saviour might be carried to the whole world!" Messages to Young People, p. 196.

Jesus is soon to return, and we have been out winning souls in East Nashville. Every night has seen non-Adventists at the Fatherland meetings, and many haven't missed a night.

Inspiring has been the plentiful supply of musical selections. Practical have been the health talks and demonstrations. Stirring has been the response to these and the nightly messages from God's word.

There are five families to date who will be taking further studies. Already members of three are under conviction concerning the Sabbath.

The climax meeting, Sunday, April 26, will never be forgotten. The message was "My Confession of Faith." A group of non-Adventist and Adventist children sang, "In My Heart There Rings a Melody." Besides other beautiful musical pieces, there were seven testimonies given by youth from different countries, who told of their coming into the church and of their joy in the Lord and their happiness as Seventh-day Adventists. The following represented their countries: Pedro Ramos, Puerto Rico; Eva Goldberg and Lydia Zafft, Germany; David Hernandez, El Salvador; Haik Roshtamian, Iran; David Lousiale, Hawaii; Harry Fujita, Japan; Gene Post, United States.

To conclude these ten nights of evangelism, the youth sang "Never Part Again." Mr. Ferris, from the balcony, sang back the answer, "No, Never Part Again."

Beginning next Sunday, there will be a weekly baptismal class meeting, and we are praying that a wonderful fruitage will result.

God has blessed us in a marked manner, by His presence and by the change in the hearts of those under conviction. We as young people now know that there is nothing like winning souls to Christ.

Academy Presents Variety Program

"Sugar and Spice" was the title the academy students gave to the variety musical program they presented Saturday night, May 2, under the direction of Betty Klotz Harter. To the favorite and familiar strains of "It's a Grand Night for Singing," the girls in their colorful formals and the boys in their best suits made their grand entries onto the stage, which had been beautifully transformed into a formal garden.

Adding variety and interest to the evening's entertainment were several instrumental numbers which included "The Bells of St. Mary's," played by Larry Strong on his saxophone; "Tenderly," played by Sue Cuthbert, piano soloist; and Bob Kendall's rendition of the "May Day Polka."

Several small vocal groups had parts on the program. An octet of girls sang Oley Speak's "Prayer Perfect." The boys' octet, composed of Clyde McCulley, Clyde Ball, Gerald Kelley, Toby Blackburn, Larry Strong, Bob Kendall, Larry Reiswig, and John Bryant sang the spirituals "I've Got Shoes" and "Go Down, Moses."

"The Spinning Song" was sung by the village girls' trio—Claudia Kunau, Eva Gill, and Sylvia Mitzelfelt. Hazel Griffin, Pat Batchelor, and Mary Alice Mathis, the Academy Trio, sang "Indian Love Call."

Numbers performed by the chorus included the thrilling melody, "You'll Never Walk Alone," a vivacious composition called "It's Spring," the contemplative spiritual "Jacob's Ladder," and a lively, tuneful number entitled "Nightfall in Granada."

Chemistry Class Goes To Oak Ridge

The chemistry class with its 13 senior students and Mr. Morris, their teacher, took a very educational field trip to the Oak Ridge National Atomic Laboratory.

The students were first guided through the Museum of Atomic Energy. They were shown a film demonstrating just what atomic energy is, where it is found, and what uses it is put to—good and destructive.

The guided three-hour tour through the plant and a visit to the atomic pile brought even more fascinating and educational information to the seniors. L.B.

Seniors Return From Florida Trip

Have you noticed several sunburned faces lately? Not to mention the feet that suddenly have taken on the appearance of boiled lobsters. To account for this, let's go back to Saturday night, April 18.

Behind the chapel the bus was parked ready to be loaded. With as much speed as possible the luggage was arranged on top and covered with canvas. Several seniors hurriedly taped to the side of the bus a long sign which read "Seniors 59" and another across the back, "Florida or Bust!"

They arrived in Leesburg, Florida, about 9:30 Monday morning, and after a much-needed rest they again boarded the bus and drove the 15 miles to Mr. Sheffield's new school at Groveland, where they received a hearty welcome. Mr. Sheffield told them the story of how God had opened the way for them to establish this unit and of the way He had guided them since.

Since the seniors had planned the trip to the unit to help with the work, jobs were assigned and everyone worked busily until sundown.

They also spent a wonderful day on Ormond Beach and visited Marineland, a fascinating place.

The seniors, Mr. and Mrs. Dickman, and Mrs. Temples agree they could not have had a better time. They realize that the Lord guided and protected them throughout the entire trip. Of course they were sore, tired, and sunburned, but happy that they had been privileged to make the trip. A.B.C.
