Robert and Phyllis Pierson and Martha May

Robert G. Pierson, the new assistant pastor of the Madison College Church, and his wife have both spent many years in the mission field. Pastor Pierson has lived in India and the West Indies for 15 years and Mrs. Pierson has spent 17 years in Africa. The parents of both young people are now missionaries in Africa.

Pastor Pierson, a student at Madison College five years ago, is a graduate of Southern Missionary College and also of Potomac University.

Self-supporting Workers Meet

Skin-diver Tells of Under-sea Adventure

Mr. Horace Tuttle, from the Little Creek School, teacher, naturalist, and skin diver, presented his lecture, "Adventures Under the Sea," to an appreciative audience in the Assembly Hall on Saturday night, October 3.

During the years Mr. Tuttle taught in Hawaii, he had opportunity, as a skin diver, to gather many rare and beautiful shells from the ocean. His lecture vividly portrayed the skills of the diver as he engages in this sometimes hazardous work of procuring shells. Mr. Tuttle's description of his encounter with an octopus is an example of experiences he sometimes had.

After the lecture Mr. Tuttle showed pictures in technicolor of his shells, of some of the boat trips to get shells, and of many

What has been acclaimed one of the best meetings of Southern self-supporting workers ever held convened on the Madison College campus October 8-11.

One hundred delegates and visitors from perhaps a score of self-supporting schools, sanitariums, and other enterprises met for the inspiration of the forty-ninth such meeting to be held on the Madison campus.

Highlights of the convention were the two lectures by Dr. Mervyn Hardinge, from the College of Medical Evangelists, the talk by Perley F. Ayer, of Berea College in Kentucky, the opening address by Elder N. C. Wilson, president of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference, and the ministry in song of Elder Ben Glanzer throughout the session.

Dr. Hardinge, an authority on nutrition, presented conclusive scientific evidence that "the vegetarian diet is adequate for all ages and conditions in life."

Mr. Ayer paid tribute to dedicated men and women who give their lives in service for others. He told of the work of the Council of Southern Mountains, Inc., of which he is executive secretary. This is a council which binds together the efforts of religious and civic organizations which work to better the lives of the six million people in the South.

Elder N. C. Wilson, former teacher of Madison, later chairman of the board, and still an active member, sounded the keynote of the convention, "Reviving the Spirit of the Pioneers," as he compared the sacrifice, faith, and courage of the pioneers of the Advent Message and of the Madison school with the faith of the worthies of Hebrews 11.

Elder Ben Glanzer, for six years first tenor with the Voice of Prophecy and now a minister in Pennsylvania, thrilled hearts with his solos sung at two concerts and at various meetings.

The usual reports from the units were evidence of the way God has rewarded the sacrifice and faith of the men and women operating Laurelbrook, Pine Forest, and many other institutions.

At the annual business meeting held Friday morning Edwin Martin, administrator of the Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, Sanitarium-Hospital, was elected president of the Laymen's Extension League for the ensuing year. William H. Wilson, former Madison Academy principal and now general manager of Fletcher Sanitarium and School, was elected vice president. Miss Florence Fellemede was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The 1959 convention was under the leadership and direction of Elder Felix A. Lorenz, president of the Laymen's Extension League for the past year.

Student Association Project Completed

The hanging of the new draperies in the cafeteria on the evening of October 8 marked the completion of the Student Association project for 1959—the remodeling of the cafeteria dining area.

The now beautiful dining area is very different from the drab and shabby area of less than a year ago.

The project was begun by John Dovich, president of the student body for last year. He, along with Beecher and Eddie Zollinger, headed the reconstruction program. Under the leadership of these students, and with the helpful advice of many faculty members and workers, the student body worked hand in hand until the project saw a very successful finish.

A new acoustical tile ceiling, fluorescent ceiling lights, wood paneled north and west walls and other redecorated walls, a new end entrance, a ten-foot stone planter, and the new drapes are all evidence of the efforts of the promoters of the project.

Gordon Roberts, new ASMC president, saw the project through to its completion this fall.

The funds for the project were gained entirely from donations. Friends of the students sent donations from all parts of the United States, Canada, and as far off as Japan, to bring a total of a little less than $1,700.

What will the student association do this year?

Sixteen Nurses Receive Stripes; Gideons Present Testaments

The awarding of junior and senior stripes to those nursing students who had satisfactorily completed the necessary requirements was the first of two special features of the chapel service on September 30.

Those who received junior stripes were Nancy Criswell, Joe Fields, Sylvia Kaldahl, Audrey Myers, Gene Sellars, Kenneth Sowell, and Sue Vestal.

Those awarded senior stripes include Doris Leatherman Devlin, Lila Ring, Laura May Slattery, Alice Surdahl, and Lois Walper. Four students just beginning their Pediatrics affiliation at Children's Hospital in Cincinnati also received their senior stripes. They are Margaret Anaya, June Davidson, Virginia Greenlee Isom, and Damaris Rivera.

Following the awarding of stripes, Mrs. Notgrass, of the local chapter of the Women's Auxiliary of the Gideons, International, gave a short talk on the aims and work of the Gideons, a non-denominational organization of business men and others who attempt to foster Christianity by placing Bibles and Testaments in hospitals, hotels, schools, and other institutions.

The Women's Auxiliary endeavors to furnish each nursing student with a copy of the New Testament which is especially designed for nurses. The students in the Sophomore A and Junior B classes became the recipients of white-covered, gold-lettered Testaments, with red and gold edges, which Mrs. Notgrass and Mrs. Gray presented to them.

The Testament is small enough to fit in a uniform pocket and is therefore ideal for the nurse to carry with her as she strives to bring emotional and spiritual, as well as physical, comfort to her patients.

A Day Well Spent

Those who really did their share of work on clean-up day experienced more than a feeling of accomplishment; they felt more a part of the college than ever before. They had helped make the campus lovelier and more attractive.

Fellow students who did not participate, did you feel guilty, as you viewed the work of the day, that you had not contributed toward making the campus a beautiful place?

To be sure, it took more energy than most of us were used to putting into our regular work. But just the fellowship between students and faculty members as they worked together overshadowed the feeling that it was work. Most of us will agree that it does both teachers and students good to get out and work together. After all, whose college is it? Mr. Lynd's? Mr. Zeigler's? Or even President Sandborn's? No, it belongs to you, to me.

Some day there will be another chance. See for yourself if you don't enjoy clean-up day better when you do your part. C.J.C.

A Freshman Staff?

If we were to conduct a poll to determine whether the students were agreeable to having only freshmen staff the MADISONIAN, we would no doubt find that the majority would not be entirely favorable.

Take note, students. This is almost the exact state of affairs at this time. When the call was made in chapel for those who would be willing to serve on the staff, most of the responses were from the Freshman Class.

Now we freshmen will do all we can to make every issue of the MADISONIAN the very best, but we need you upperclassmen also to make suggestions and to advise and guide us who are newer to the business of staffing a school paper.

Please don't take this matter lightly. Don't sit back complacently and let us do all the work. This year we have a better student body than ever. Let's have the help of upperclassmen to make our school paper the best possible. R.C.

New Nursing Class Goes on Floor

Fifteen Sophomore B nursing students are now on the floor, being initiated into the joys and sorrows and ups and downs of their chosen profession. The new probies are Mrs. Lily Cabansag, Phyllis Campbell, Harold Carpenter, Dorothy Chase, Edith Durocher, Alicia Espinoza, Thelma Hodges, Laura Holly, Lorna Holly, Faye King, Patricia Mendenhall, Esther Perales, Rebecca Ravenell, Patricia Ricks, Carolyn Hinton.

This is the second class to go on the floor during 1959. In March twenty-five Sophomore A nursing students began their floor experience.

Starch and Stripes

The Nursing Department is happy to welcome Sally Lazalier and Paul Nettland back into training. We are also glad that Shirley Zinke has recovered from her recent appendectomy and is once more attending classes.

Mrs. Virginia Sellars, Mrs. Lila Ring, and Pat Rosenthal attended the state nurses' meeting in Memphis October 13-16. Mrs. Sellars, who is sponsor of the Madison College chapter of the Tennessee Association of Student Nurses for District 3, attended the state American Nurses' Association meetings. Mrs. Ring, who is program director for District 3, and Miss Rosenthal, who is the president of the college Nursing Club, attended the meetings of the Tennessee Association of Student Nurses.

Mrs. Jean Lowder (Class of '50), a former instructor in obstetrical nursing, has returned to this position. She has been working in obstetrical nursing since completing her course.

Mrs. Leona Gulley is now working as clinical instructor with the students who are on the evening shift.

Mrs. Ruth Zollinger has recently joined the faculty as instructor in Medical Nursing and Foundations and Trends of Nursing. Mrs. Zollinger has just completed her classes for her M.A. degree in nursing from Vanderbilt University.

Mr. Allan Moon, who finished his studies in nursing here at the beginning of the year, is now working in psychiatry. Mr. Ruben Perales, Class of '55, has returned as supervisor and instructor of the psychiatric units.

October 21, 22—State Board examinations for the graduate nurses. Those "looking forward" to these dates are Margaret Dixon, Maureen Drake, Patricia Grismore, Shirley Hancock, Marie Holland, Albert Isom, Doris McKee, Jean Openshaw, Imogene Shepard, Alyce Williams Sisk, Patricia Wells.

Wasiota Whispers

Stan Dovich, sophomore X-ray major from Kelowna, B.C., was elected president of the Men's Club for the fall quarter at the first business meeting of the club.

Also elected at the same meeting was Gene Wheeler, vice president, physical therapy major from Ft. Collins, Colorado. Gene was club president during the spring quarter of 1959.

The new secretary-treasurer is John Bullock, business major from Ft. Deposit, Maryland. Joe Fields, pastor, is a junior nurse from Blountstown, Florida. Parliamentarian Elmer Shipowick is an X-ray major from Yorkton, Saskatchewan.

Should the name Wasiota Forum be changed to Phi Sigma Forum? This is the question that has given rise to heated discussion since the spring quarter of 1959. By a slim margin it was recently voted at club meeting to change from Wasiota Forum to Phi Sigma Forum. The remaining steps necessary to make the change official are to submit the proposed name to the Student Council, the ASMC, and the faculty.

The traditional name Wasiota is the Indian name for peaceful river. It does aptly apply to a club at a school on the Cumberland River. However, many feel that a more collegiate atmosphere surrounds the Greek name Phi Sigma. Phi Sigma is made up of the letters from the Greek alphabet corresponding to the English ph and s, standing for physical and spiritual.

It is hoped that the autumn quarter will see the settlement of the name for the club.

Dean Fragola reports almost full houses at Wasiota Court and Gotzian Home. Assisting him at the Court is Rupert Ham-Ying. Monitors at Gotzian are Kenneth Moore, Marvin Schmidt, and David Grogg.

The Inquiring Reporter Asks

What do you think of the new plan for seating students at meal-time?

There has been much conversation and controversy on the campus lately as to the new seating arrangement in the cafeteria. Many students feel that their rights are being trampled upon when they are directed to a certain table instead of being allowed to choose their own.

However, responses to our recent poll, such as the following, prove conclusively that the new seating arrangement not only is reasonable but should be considered preferable to one that encourages cliques.

Cindy Tremper, X-ray student.
"I like the idea of the seating arrangement in the dining room. The new plan helps us cultivate more varied friendships. The old students have better opportunity to get acquainted with the new students. I hope the plan will be continued."

Rupert Ham-Ying, special student.
"The plan of having the students directed to the tables in the cafeteria by a hostess should be highly commended. This method of seating promotes a much better social and cultural relationship among all the students. Better table etiquette will definitely be practiced, and the tendency for individuals to isolate themselves will certainly be eliminated."

Marge Lofton, nursing student.
"I think the seating arrangement in the cafeteria helps the students become better acquainted with one another. The arrangement also prevents confusion and extra labor for the cafeteria workers. People are interesting. Let's get to know them better."

Glenn Ferguson, elementary education major.
"The new seating arrangement is a great improvement over that of past years, in that it enables us to become acquainted with each other better and also make new friends. The arrangement also tends to break up any cliques that might form among the students."

The following is typical of the responses of those who are unfavorable to the new plan.

"The new arrangement does put one in with new students, and it might help us get acquainted, but it has not worked that way for me. We don't get to see our special friends often, because of our heavy schedules; so I think we should be allowed to eat our meals with them." (Unsigned)

Newest Newlyweds

Congratulations to the newest newlyweds. Miss Ruby Sykes and Mr. Eugene Post were married at the home of the bride's mother near Chattanooga on Sunday evening, October 11. Mr. and Mrs. Post are living on the campus, and Mr. Post will continue his college work as a medical technology major.

Up And Down The Campus

October's dusky evenings send cheery greeting to newcomers as lights beam along the campus walk... The band played on at the get-acquainted supper and hungry ones marched four deep down the laden tables. Darkness found Ronnie Schmale peering closely to find his favorite food and Kenny Moore searching for an olive that wasn't there... New brides always of interest are on and off the campus. One recent bride discovered that husbands may be gone all day, but let the little wife step out for ten minutes and the search warrant is out. But now Albert Isom wanders lonesome-like for Virginia, who is affiliating at Cincinnati... A tall, tall husband is often handy—so finds diminutive Virginia Sellars when she has to climb a ladder in Central Supply... A Spanish wedding was a rare treat for friends of Sara Chavez when Walter Silva from Peru arrived to make her his bride... For his stretch in O.B., Angel Jimenez gave the "wee" ones fatherly care even to the bottle feedings... A "thank-you" bouquet goes to Brenton Bullock for his Fire Prevention Week demonstration. Ronnie Powell, as a make-believe patient, received a good work-out and seemed to enjoy his fun... Sunday night at the demonstration Charles Tremper had his hands on some real dough—but not the spending kind. Your bread smelled delicious, Charles, as it came from the oven... The browned leaves rustle underfoot like a student nurse's apron. Fall and school time are here with promises of budding hope come spring.

Fall Clean-up Is a Success

From the youngest academy freshman to the president and the dean of the college—all were represented out on the campus on fall clean-up day on October 7.

It was a day of comradeship and fellowship, giving new opportunities for students and teachers to get acquainted in work clothes.

At the close of the day every area of the campus was ready to have its picture taken. The grading of the new lawns was finished, corners were trimmed and tidied, lawns and hedges were cut.

The climax to the day of work came at 5:30, when all who had participated enjoyed a free supper in the cafeteria and, after worship, recreation in the gym and on the volleyball court.

Missionary Volunteer Officers Announced

New Missionary Volunteer officers for the school year 1959-60 were announced in chapel on October 12. They are as follows: Leader: Glenn Ferguson

Associate leaders: Joe Fields, Terry Sweeny, Gene Wheeler.

Secretaries: Pat Mendenhall, Mary Lou Ward, Pat Ricks

Talent scouts: Marvin Schmidt, Cletis Seamans, John Treu, Charles Tremper, Norma Forrester, Ramona Limon, Maloa Alexander, Hazel Griffin, Pat Batchelor, Ruth Gill, Myrna Moore.

(The work of the talent scouts is to search among the students for talent for programs and missionary projects.)

Tongue Twister

Two sophomore nurses were recently overheard studying Medical and Surgical Nursing, asking each other questions:

"What did Banting and Best do?"

"Insulated isolin."

The eavesdropper thought that sounded great for the people of Iceland (isolin), but was soon assured that all these men really did was to "isolate insulin!"
