Ingathering Carolers Bring In Funds

Ingathering time at Madison College during the weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas has become practically a tradition, for it is during this period that most of the $15,000 goal is reached by the caroling bands that go out every night except Friday night. Field day, which initiated the campaign, was held on October 20. At that time more than $1,000 was raised.

Business contacts have been made by church members during the fall.

But it is during the caroling season that the air is filled with the sound of sweet Christmas music after five o'clock each evening, and representatives from the 115 bands into which the college church is divided go out.

Even with final tests coming up, students and teachers have faithfully gone out night after night to solicit funds.

Speech Class Students Appear in Programs

The college speech class, taught by Miles R. Coon, climaxed its work for the fall quarter with two public appearances.

Ten of the 20 members of the class were speakers at chapel on Monday, November 30. Each student spoke on "What I Like about Madison College." The other ten members were speakers at Vespers on Friday night, December 4. The subject of each talk was "What Christ Means to Me."

The sincerity of the speakers, the original thoughts presented, the ease with which the talks were given, and the good delivery all showed what students can accomplish in a speech class with continual practice and under proper training. Some of the students had never given talks in public before.

Band Announces New Year Appearances

The band's next scheduled appearance will be at the Southern Publishing Association on February 27. On March 26 it will present a program at Highland Academy, and on April 30 will give its annual spring program at Madison College.

Present Academy Principal to Direct Harbert Hills School

Mr. L. L. Dickman, Madison Academy principal, has accepted a call to the presidency of the Harbert Hills Schools and Sanitarium, a self-supporting unit located near Savannah, Tennessee. Mr. Dickman, who was formerly connected with Harbert Hills, will take over his new duties in June, 1960.

As a result of a call Dr. Sandborn made in chapel for students to join the Harbert Hills unit, six young people volunteered and will leave Madison at the close of the quarter to join Mr. Dickman in building up the educational, medical, and industrial phases of the work at this place.

Those who have responded to the call are Betty Jo Brummett, licensed practical nurse from Georgia; Joe McAllister from California and Juan Anglada from Puerto Rico, elementary education students; Judy Lahde, secretarial major from Florida; Mary Wisner, home economics student from Washington; and Marlyn Kurtz from California.

This new organization of the Harbert Hills unit followed the resignation of W. E. Patterson, founder of the institution, who for nearly ten years was public relations director of Madison College. The Pattersons are retiring from the strenuous pioneer work they have been engaged in.

Mr. Dickman, the new president, was connected with Harbert Hills for the two years preceding his coming to Madison College Academy as principal. He is a graduate of Madison and received his master's degree from Peabody College in 1956. Mrs. Dickman, the former Geraldine Hamilton, is a registered nurse, also a Madison graduate.

The Harbert Hills institution, as it now exists, consists of more than 500 acres of land, a small sanitarium, a conference church school, a piano refinishing shop, a boys' dormitory, a school building in the process of erection, and workers' homes.

Choir Presents Christmas Vespers

Georgeson Reports Annual Progress

The Student-Teacher Council approved the staff for the Cumberland Echoes, submitted by Editor-in-chief Monty Georgeson, at its meeting on December 1.

The following staff was submitted: Sallie Lazalier, secretary; Carole Franklin, snapshot editor; Elaine Ferris, layout editor; Alexander Rojas, art editor; Steve Jones, copy editor.

Snapshot Editor Carole Franklin says, "Get with it and make it with the snaps."

So, those who have any good shots of on- or off-campus activities are asked to turn them in. Very soon a box will be prepared for them. These snapshots will be returned to you after May 26 in excellent condition, but names should be written lightly in pencil on the back.

The publishers have informed the staff that the yearbook will be completed and delivered by May 26. This date will give a good week or more for autographs.

"If everyone supports the staff," states Editor Georgeson, "we'll put out the best annual ever."

The Music Department presented a Christmas Vespers program on December 11, the last Friday night before vacation.

Carrying lighted candles, the robed members of the College Choir made their way down the aisle of the chapel singing "O Come, All Ye Faithful," to open the program.

The audience joined them in the song as they took their places on the platform, which had been transformed into a night scene on the plains of Judea, at Bethlehem. The ceiling overhead was a night sky, twinkling with stars.

The evening of sacred music consisted of selections from the Messiah and other Christmas classics by the College and Academy Choirs, ensembles, and solo numbers.

At the close of the program, doors at the back of the platform opened upon a beautiful Nativity scene, portrayed by a group of students.

The College Choir was directed by Frances R. Cossentine and the Academy Choir by Patricia M. Silver.

What Is Christmas?

When we think of Christmas, do we think of brightly colored lights, glamorously decorated homes, and beautifully wrapped gifts under exquisite Christmas trees, or do we stop to think about little children who won't have any Christmas at all and elderly people in Old Folks homes who would thrill to hear the old familiar Christmas carols sung again?

Do we keep Christ in Christmas? We do not need to stop giving gifts to our loved ones to keep Christ in Christmas, but the spending of very large sums of money for trifles or unnecessary things is not honoring Christ. The joy of giving should be a greater joy than that of receiving.

How would we spend Christmas if Christ were here on this earth to spend it with us? Certainly we would feel very foolish to be found rushing along with the pleasure-mad throngs, forgetting the true spirit of Christmas, which is the spirit of Christ.

During this season of peace on our earth, may we have in our hearts good will toward all men, always remembering that we are sons and daughters of the One in whose honor this holiday was set aside.

Up And Down The Campus

The tall tree by the campus walk is wreathed in smiling Christmas lights. . . . The students hurry along thinking of tests and coming vacation time at home. . . . One fortunate student is Pino Kinkela, who is visiting his mother in Germany after six years. . . . Some "ambassadors of good-will" away from their homelands for the first time are Tony Baoec with a bright smile above a cozy red sweater and Ruth Parrales wearing a song on her lips as she goes about her humble task of cleaning hospital rooms. . . . Seen—our charming Mrs. Madison College Student Nurse, Mrs. Lila Ring, catching a sneeze in a Kleenex. . . . Paul Nettland's excuse for his "doctor-like" handwriting, "I'm always in a hurry." . . . One day Barbara Graham wished for enough snow to cover the science building so there would be no P & A class that day. . . . Earl Wayne Barham arrived at Wytheville, Virginia, on December 7 to brighten the lives of Alvin and Ramona and his grandparents as well. . . . The morning star shines brilliantly beyond a man-made troubled world, but still weary hearts find hope and joy in the Bright and Morning Star—The Prince of Peace.

Starch and Stripes

Mrs. Lila Ring, as Mrs. Madison Hospital Student Nurse for 1959-60, together with student nurses representing the other five schools of nursing in Nashville, rode on the float for "Miss Hospital Student Nurse of the Year, District 3" in the annual parade in Nashville on Sunday, December 6.

One small onlooker thought the nurses were just statues, and when one moved in response to his challenge, he was quite shocked! Another little boy was heard to exclaim, "Nurse, me don't want a shot today!"

Mr. Gene Sellars, junior nursing student, was admitted to Veterans' Hospital Monday, December 7, to await surgery on his leg. Gene is apparently enjoying the rest, but not his green hospital attire. We wish Gene a speedy and complete recovery.

As Christmas approaches, students and workers can be seen beautifying their work areas with Christmas decorations, and incidentally, looking forward to their floor parties.

The "Probies" are eagerly looking forward to the day of December 22, when they will no longer be known by this name. They are busy getting procedures signed off in preparation for capping next month.

Sue Vestal gave a talk on "The Origin of Sin" and Lorraine Fields supplied two musical numbers for the evening worship for the sanitarium patients on December 1.

Nursing Students Teach Red Cross Classes

Eleven junior and senior nursing students completed a course in Mother and Baby Care as a part of their obstetrical nursing curriculum and have received their certificates, which show that they are qualified to teach this course.

This course has been taught by Mrs. Margaret Fisher, director of nursing service of the Nashville Davidson County Red Cross Chapter.

Mrs. Mary Gill and Mrs. Sylvia Kaldahl, two who took the course, have just finished a week of teaching the Mother and Baby Care course to the senior students at the Goodlettsville High School.

Miss Sue Vestal, another student nurse, assisted Mrs. Fisher with the same course of lessons for the Joelton High School seniors. In expressing her appreciation for Sue's teaching, Mrs. Fisher told Mrs. Thomson that six high school girls indicated their interest in taking nursing as a result of watching Sue at her work.

This course will also be taught to the Madison College Academy seniors about the first of the year.

Mother and Baby Care is a course included in many high school curriculums to prepare young people for responsibility in assuming family life. It is also given to young expectant parents in the community. This class can be taught to a community group at any time such a group requests it. The request should be made to Mrs. Fisher.

The 11 nurses who completed the course are Sylvia Kaldahl, Gene Sellars, Sue Vestal, Nelda Ackerman, Grace Bottsford, Beth Edwards, Margaret Crawford, Mary Gill, Geneva Owens, Alice Surdahl, and Rachel Yatani.

Another Red Cross course, an instructor's course in Home Care of the Sick, will be taken in connection with the Public Health Nursing Class next quarter. The nursing students will do their practice teaching, directed by Mrs. Fisher, in community classes at the Red Cross Chapter in Nashville.

Farewell Party Given Departing Workers

A farewell party for seven departing cafeteria workers was held in the cafeteria on Monday evening, December 7.

Mrs. Ethel Tucker and the large cake baked in her honor by Mrs. Frank Johnson, Jr.

One of the guests of honor was Mrs. Ethel Tucker, who is leaving because of the illness of her daughter. Mrs. Tucker has endeared herself to all the students during the months she has worked with them in the cafeteria, and they regret that she must leave.

The other guests of honor were cafeteria workers going to different self-supporting units for the winter quarter. They were Judy Lahde, Juan Anglada, Marlyn Kurtz, and Mary Wisner, who go to Harbert Hills; Gladys Rollins, who goes to Laurelbrook, and Cletis Seamans, who goes to Pine Forest.

Walla Walla Elects Sossong to Who's Who

Mr. Norman Sossong, former Madison College student and now a junior at Walla Walla College, Washington, has been elected to represent Walla Walla in the publication Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Norman, a pre-med student, was a freshman here during the school year 1957-58 and has spent the last two school years at Walla Walla. After he graduates next year he plans to go to Loma Linda to begin his study of medicine.

Evangelism Class Plans and Presents Eight-night "Crusade for Christ"

Members of the Evangelism Class who participated in the class project, "Crusade for Christ."

Forty Madison College students, members of the Evangelism Class, organized and presented the eight-night "Crusade for Christ" in the Fatherland Memorial Seventh-day Adventist Church November 14-21.

The class voted to put on the campaign and chose members to organize into music, advertising, and ushering committees. The speakers for the series were all volunteers.

Marlyn Kurtz made the handbills, and students folded the announcements and distributed 3000 of them in Nashville one week before the meetings began.

Each one who participated feels that he was richly blessed as he witnessed boldly for the Master. Visitors were deeply impressed and expressed their responses.

Following is a summary of the series, with participants:

- Sunday, Nov. 15
Subject: Where and When Did Sin Begin?
Speaker: Sue Vestal, Rosellia McColpin
Health talk: Ed Cobb—Sleep
Music: Vocal Solo—Laura Mae Slattery
- Monday, Nov. 16
Subject: How Can You Be Saved?
Speaker: Thelma Brummett, Ed Cobb
Health talk: Marlyn Kurtz—Trust in Divine Power
Music: Accordion solo—Joe Fields
- Tuesday, Nov. 17
Subject: Why Are There So Many Denominations?
Speaker: Alvin Ladner
Health talk: Sylvia Kaldahl—The Skin
Music: Ladies' trio—Pat Ricks, Carolyn Holder, Dorothy Graham
- Wednesday, Nov. 18
Subject: Three Steps to Heaven
Speaker: Monty Georgeson, Gene Wheeler
Health talk: Darlene Syvertson—Use of Water
Music: Duet—Sylvia Mitzelfelt, Claudia Kunau
 Trumpet solo—Paul Nettland
- Thursday, Nov. 19
Subject: Christ Will Return to Earth! When? How? Why?
Speaker: Sallie Lazalier, Joe Fields
Health talk: Sue Vestal—Cold Mitten Friction
Music: Hawaiian guitar solo—Jack Aldrich
- Friday, Nov. 20
Subject: A Secret Which Most Christians Know Nothing of (Sabbath)
Speaker: Wesley Paul
Health talk: Kenneth Sowell—Athlete's Foot

Music: Trumpet solo—Paul Nettland
 Vocal solo—John Bryant

Saturday, Nov. 21
Subject: Where Are Our Loved Ones Today?
Speaker: Joe McAllister, Roy Steck
Health talk: Thelma Brummett—Cooking
Music: Violin solo—Rowena Felt

The ushers for the meetings were Robert Burks, Nancy Criswell, Juanita Sossong, Terry Trivett.

Those responsible for securing the special music were Joe Fields, Monty Georgeson. Sylvia Kaldahl, and Mary Lou Sullins. Joe Fields and Monty Georgeson were song leaders and Monty Georgeson and Mary Lou Sullins played the piano.

The moral support of church members night after night was appreciated.

Mr. Gulley, the instructor of the class, and the students feel that the holding of these meetings helps fulfill the instruction given in Evangelism, pp. 397, 398:

"Most earnest efforts should be put forth in . . . Nashville . . . there is a call for hundreds of young men and women to be educated and trained for service."

Law and Accounting Students Go on Trip

A group of 33 students from the college and academy business law and accounting classes made TV news on WLAC, Channel 5, when they visited criminal court in Nashville on December 3, where Judge Weimar was presiding.

During the court recess of a very interesting trial, they were taken on a tour through the jail, kitchen, laundry, mug room (where pictures of prisoners are taken), and fingerprint room. Then they went back to the court room for the remainder of the trial.

After the unforgettable day in court they toured the First American National Bank, visiting the accounting department and the vault where the safety deposit boxes are kept, where they had the privilege of holding a one-million-dollar bond in their hands. Mr. Lowder, their instructor, and Mr. Lynd accompanied the students.

SS Program Features Mission Pageant

The eleventh Sabbath was Thirteenth Sabbath at the Madison College Sabbath school this quarter, since it was the last Sabbath before vacation.

The entire program was given over to a pageant of home and foreign missions, in which students, workers, and missionaries from the four corners of the earth participated.

Short talks by missionaries, vocal music by choruses and other groups, and instrumental numbers all carried out the two themes of the program, "Time Is Running Out" and "Advance Toward Zion."

Elder Meleen, for 36 years a missionary in India and one of the speakers, continued his message from India at the afternoon MV program, where he showed colored moving pictures that illustrated his talk on the progress of the work in that land.

New Recreation Room Is Nearly Completed

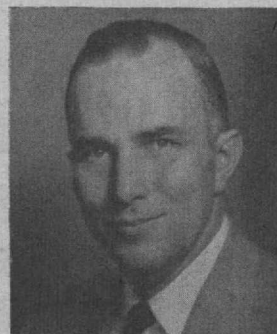

The College and Hospital Board has authorized the erection of a 26 by 38-foot addition to the back of the Parkview building, to be used as a recreation room for mental patients.

Within two weeks from the time the work was started, the foundation, walls, and roof were on. It is expected that the room will be completed by Christmas.

In the new room will be a piano, lounging furniture, a shuffleboard in the tile floor, and a ping-pong table. Likely some of the patients' meals will be served in the pleasant surroundings of this new room.

Our Electrical Department

By

F. G. Wedel
Head of Electrical Department

To service and maintain a big institution takes the help and co-operation of many departments. Without this help an institution like Madison College could not operate for one day. The Electrical Department takes on the responsibility of the maintenance of the campus's electrical equipment.

Mr. Fred G. Wedel, electrical supervisor, and his assistants, Bob Justice, Eugene Domke, Tom Wedel, and Arnold Couch, make up the working end of this department.

MV's Present "New Jerusalem Limited"

A modern poster by Alexander Rojas announced, all during the week, the MV program for December 5, "New Jerusalem Limited."

The chapel was transformed into a railway station, with Joe Fields at the ticket window.

"The ticket is free," he told those who wished to buy their way to Heaven. "The requirements for boarding are giving up all you possess, and in return the Saviour will give you all He possesses."

A dramatic scene took place when Jean Pitts, who decided too late to give up her jewelry, novels, fine clothes, and money, found that the train had already left. Her solo, "Almost Persuaded," was an impressive climax to the realistic presentation.

Special songs during the program were given by Johnny Sumner, Dorothy Maxwell, Pat Batchelor, Janet Huff, John Treu, Gladys Rollins, Dorothy Graham, Carolyn Holder, Darlene Closser, Teresa Walters, Kay Forrester, and Monty Georgeson.

To give you an idea of the Electrical Department in action, we will take you behind the scenes during a typical morning.

Time, 7:10, just after worship. Place, Electrical Department. First order of the day: Repair the electrical switches on the food carts at the sanitarium kitchen. Job completed.

Time, 9:30. Another call has just come in to service a furnace on the other side of the campus. Someone is complaining about being cold.

Time, 10:00. The next item on the list is to put in 100-amp service at Mr. Craw's house.

Time, 11:00. An emergency call comes reporting that a main electrical line is down at Parkview.

Time, 12:45. Emergency job completed, and it is time for lunch.

On the alert 24 hours a day, this department is constantly on guard against electrical failures and is dedicated to the electrical service of the people on the campus.

Classes Attend Court; Visit Bank

The freshman business law class, along with the college class, visited the courthouse in Nashville on December 3. Judge Weimar introduced the group to many lawyers and attorneys and had the sheriff in charge take the students through the jail, a place where, as the judge put it, good people never go.

Then after lunch the judge had a news photographer from the Nashville Banner take pictures of the group, which later were shown on the six o'clock TV news.

The classes enjoyed the trial very much; for many it was the first time they had had the privilege of hearing a real court case.

After leaving the court scene, they went to the First American National Bank, where they were permitted to take a look into the large vaults that contain the wealth and treasures of many Tennesseans. There they were also permitted to hold a thousand-dollar bill and also a million-dollar bond. Thoughts ran through their minds of what they could do with that much money, if they were to come into possession of it.

It was a thrilling experience to all, a day which the law class of '59 will long remember.

Student Forum and Annual Staff Elected

In addition to electing a staff for the Hi-SCHOOL Hi-LITES, the academy has elected officers for its Student Forum and a staff for the academy section of the annual, the Cumberland Echoes.

Officers for the Student Forum are as follows: Eugene Wedel, president; Marilyn Sandborn, vice president; Judy Ball, secretary-treasurer; Junior Scoggins, sergeant-at-arms; David Martin, pastor.

The Cumberland Echoes staff is composed of the following: Hazel Griffin, editor; Pat Batchelor, associate editor; Tommy Young, circulation manager.

Can't Help Noticing

Lawrence Evans' big yawn in study hall.

Sue Cuthbert's surprise at her first taste of snails in the Culpepper home. (She thought snails came in the shape of sea shell macaroni)

Jackie Cothren eating the secretary's glue. (sticky good!)

The clean waxed floors of hall and class rooms. Thanks, Mr. Kunau and helpers.

The patience and pleasantness with which Mr. Dickman deals with some students and the firmness with which he disciplines others.

The blisters in Nick Garces' hands. What happened, Nick? Been shoveling dirt?

Billy Johnson's cheerful "Good morning, Aunt Lilly."

Bobby Bowes' new red shirt?

From Where I Sit

"Could I see the man what runs this here school?"

"Of course, go right in. He is expecting you."

Knock! Knock! Knock!

"Come IN."

"Howdy! Could I—eh—uh—you see I need some school housin'—and they sent me here. Is this—I mean—is this here a school?"

"No, ha, ha, this is a picnic."

"You don't say! Well, what do they do here?"

"They give you a screen test and if you pass that—well, then—"

No, not what you think at all. Only a lively conversation between Mr. Fragola, Mr. Stearns, and Mr. Keplinger the day the photographer made the academy pictures.

Here and There

One of the academy seniors, Hazel Griffin, has been away for the past several weeks, having been called home because of her mother's illness. We are very glad that her mother is better and we shall continue to pray for her complete recovery. We are all happy that Hazel can be back with us.

We welcome our newest student, John L. Sumner, a junior in the academy, from Mt. Pisgah. We all wish him a very happy year at Madison College Academy. Welcome, Johnny!

A small ensemble of academy girls has recently been formed by Mrs. Silver. The members include Pat Batchelor, Jean Pitts, Arlene Blackburn, Teresa Patterson, Mary Lou Sandborn, Sylvia Mitzelfelt, Claudia Kunau, Pat Dent, Rowena Felt, Eva Gill, Sue Cuthbert, Andrea Barger, and Hazel Griffin.

Have You Heard

That 52 academy students went Ingathering Saturday night?

That we have two Eddies, two Tims, two Freds, two Johnnys, two Billys, two Pauls, two Jimmys, two Tommys, two Davids, two Mikes, two Bobs, two Evas, two Jeans, two Carols, two Patricias, and two Lindas in our academy this year?

The whispered music of falling snow flakes, the soft rustle of falling leaves, the muted conversation of two chilly sparrows, the tinkle of sleet against the window, the melody of music in the air, the whisper of a still, small voice saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive?"

Have You Seen

Mr. Gulley trying to get into Billy Johnson's car thinking it was the Culpeppers'?

Robert Florida's warm smile these cold days?

Mike McIntosh hanging a mattress cover over the window in Mrs. Harter's new office?

George Smothermon's sheepish grin when caught playing basketball before the noon bell rang? Rowena Felt's new make up? The very best. Mother Nature's own special shade of pink.

History Class Visits Shiloh Battlefield

The American history class spent November 17 at Shiloh National Park, at Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee. They first viewed a half-hour film on the Battle of Shiloh in the Civil War, and then the guide took them for a tour of the park, where they saw all the historical places of the battle. In the park museum they saw many reminders of Civil War days.
