MV's Choose Delegates for Congress

Rebecca Culpepper, Kay Forrester, and Rowena Felt have been chosen to represent the Madison MV society at the North American Youth Congress to be held at Atlantic City, N.J., June 21-25, 1960. As MV leader, Glenn Ferguson will accompany the delegates to the Congress.

BULLETIN

The $2500 ASMC project, completing the recreational area, took an unexpected turn at chapel on February 29. In the midst of an ASMC meeting at chapel, Mr. Lynd, student association coordinator, announced that he had just received word of an unexpected donation for the project—a gift of $2500.

Although the good news is too recent for the association to finalize on plans, two definite actions were taken before the meeting adjourned:

First, since the money is available immediately, work on the project will begin immediately.

Second, the ASMC will join the institution in its sanitarium-hospital fund-raising campaign and will ask for some specific part of the new wing as its project.

Choir Takes First Long Trip of Season

The members of the College Choir have just returned from their first long trip of the season. They were gone from February 26 to February 29. Their itinerary included Birmingham, Alabama; Meridian, Mississippi; and Memphis, Tennessee.

The choir participated in a recent vesper service held at the Fatherland Street Church, singing two numbers under the direction of Mr. Francis R. Cossentine.

Phi Mu Sigma Entertains

In the crisp, cool wintry air of Sunday evening, February 21, the sound of the rustling of lacy dresses mingled with faint traces of the fragrance of flowers and perfume. It was a very special occasion. Ah, yes, indeed, a very special occasion, for the boys were entertaining the girls at their annual banquet.

The theme of the banquet, "Under Western Skies," was carried out in the decorations, the menu, and the program.

Terry Sweeny, Phi Mu Sigma president, welcomed the girls to a pleasant evening and Juanita Lanham, Delta Nu Zeta president, expressed the girls' thanks and appreciation for the entertainment.

The quartet, composed of Bill Bass, Bill Eddings, Eddie Thornton, and John Villeneuve sang three Western songs. Solo numbers were presented by Pino Kinkela on his accordion, John Villeneuve, who sang a vocal solo, and Wayne Bechthold, loyal Canadian, who played a piano solo, "Canadian Sunset." Steve Jones was the master of ceremonies for the interesting program.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Walper and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Silver, and the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Miles Coon. In Mr. Coon's after-dinner speech, he expressed his appreciation for the friendship of the students and for the fellowship he enjoyed with them.

Henry Scoggins and his decorating committee had created typical Western scenes as back-grounds for the evening. Phil Hill displayed a cooking scene complete with open fire and cooking utensils. David Muth was responsible for a replica of Sutter's Mill.

David Kingry was chairman of the food committee, the food being prepared by Mrs. Sossong, Mrs. Marshall, and Mr. Coppage.

The waiters and waitresses were married couples, former Phi Mu Sigma and Delta Nu Zeta members.

Sanctuary Is Theme of Meetings

A winter quarter evangelistic campaign was held, in spite of snow and flu, by the nine members of the evangelism class from Sunday, February 14, to Friday, February 19. The sanctuary and its services was the theme of the week's meetings.

In preparation for the meetings, the class had, besides cramming their notebooks, made a scale model of the earthly sanctuary, one-twenty-fourth the original size. The model measures 180 inches by 90 inches. The court is made of plywood reinforced, and the furniture is of carved wood and metal. The court is painted green, the furniture is gold, and the sanctuary has a white canvas roof.

Planning for the meetings was done by two committees. Eufemio Cabalo and Verle Sossong planned and duplicated 1000 handbills. The music committee, Eva Jenkins and Phil Sanford, organized the special music which included a vocal solo by Janice Quarnstrom, a trumpet solo by Phil Sanford, a violin solo by Rowena Felt, and two numbers by the college choir.

Sabbath Services Feature 5 Visitors

A color movie of the Holy Land presented on Saturday night, February 20, climaxed a Sabbath brimful of special features.

A vesper talk on Friday night by Elder H. D. Bennett, of the Boulevard Church, a Sabbath morning sermon by Elder Cardy from the School of Bible Prophecy, a sacred music concert in the afternoon by Elder Ben Glanzner, and an MV program by missionaries Gerald and Althea Turnbull were the high lights of the day.

Madisonian Questionnaire

Sixty academy student voters, in the recent MADISONIAN poll, cast 58 votes for "Hi-School Hi-Lites," which placed the academy page first in the school paper features—at least in the opinion of academy students. [College students will agree that the academy page is a credit to the academy and to the MADISONIAN. The staff is to be commended for its work. Editors]

College students gave the column "Up and Down the Campus" first place in their preferences. Listed below, in order of preference, are the six features for which they voted:

1. Up and Down the Campus
2. News articles
3. Let's Get Acquainted
4. Columns on page 2
5. MV Flashes
6. Editorial

Here are some of the suggestions made for improving the paper:

- More news from the work departments
- More pictures
- More humor
- Some cartoons
- Student opinion polls—more expression of how students feel about certain things
- More dormitory news
- A current events column
- More alumni news

Up And Down The Campus

February of this leap year blossomed out in flowery colors despite the several surprises of a snow-covered campus. . . . The daintiest colors appeared at the Phi Mu Sigma banquet, and each young man thought his young lady the fairest of all. . . . For young John Gulley, a red cap was his trademark, as his mother happily wheeled him to his home on the hill. . . . Pat Sutton in a scarlet sweater brought cheer to her patients during their hydro treatments. . . . Neva Milliman's brother Gerald pleased her with a visit from Camp Le Jeune, North Carolina. . . . Esther Kowalski, her "twin-looking" sister Mabel, and Caroline are cozy in their apartment, and black Prince, the cocker spaniel, makes it a foursome. . . . "Tasting a little of this and that" has Tom Bates assured of putting on weight during his sojourn in the San kitchen. . . . Get well wishes go to Dorris Wilson during her hospital stay. . . . TASN, the foreign students' banquet, and the wedding of Teresa Kelly to Denson Hudgens emptied the dormitories Thursday night. . . . A neighbor dog was pleased when Mrs. Stearns put her hot bread outside to cool—but the family was dismayed. . . . Letters of acceptance into the March nursing class have the nurses-to-be in jitters. What is it like to be on the floor? Soon they will join the "parade of the hospital halls. Good luck

Starch and Stripes

Laden with refreshments for 300 people, Madison College student nurses boarded the college bus to attend the TASN (Tennessee Association of Student Nurses) meeting at Mid-State Baptist nurses' dormitory, Nashville, on Thursday evening, February 25. It was their turn to provide refreshments for the other students.

Dr. C. C. McClure, neurosurgeon from Nashville, has recently completed a series of lectures to the M & S II and Senior Clinic classes on neurological examinations, brain tumors, and head injuries.

Mrs. Virginia Sellars reports that the student nurses are now rejoicing because they have raised their $100 for ICN (International Council of Nurses) dues, which were paid Thursday, February 25. To raise their money, the Sophomore A students held a bake sale on Friday, February 19, and worked at "odd jobs" in community homes.

The scene of Miss Faye King attending to her patient Mr. Harold Carpenter will long be remembered by those present at the chapel program on February 17, when the Nursing Department, in co-operation with the student nurses club, depicted the life of the student nurse in training. Different incidents in the student's life were vividly portrayed in each scene, and Mrs. Sylvia Kaldahl, Miss Alice Surdahl, Mrs. Pat Sutton, Miss Shirley Zinke, and Mr. Henry Bedford told of their ambitions in nursing.

The Wednesday evening Sanitarium parlor workshops are being taken by the nursing classes. February 17 the Sophomore B class had the program. Pat Mendenhall wrote a story, and a special feature was a musical item by Esther Perales from Puerto Rico and Mrs. Lily Cabansag from the Philippines, both dressed in native costumes. Each sang a stanza of "In the Garden" in her native tongue and then they sang the third stanza as a duet in English.

The program on February 24 was given by the Sophomore A class. Miss Evelyn Thomas was chairman of the program committee. Pat Ricks, Carolyn Holder, and Dorothy Graham sang "Nothing Between," Henry Bedford gave a talk on temperance, and Patsy Adkins gave a reading, "Thank You, God, for Little Things." Juanita Lanham offered prayer.

Philippine Group Give Program

An original painting of Christ in Gethsemane by Victor Rivera, school artist, was unveiled and presented Sabbath afternoon at the MV program given by the group from the Philippines.

Mr. Rivera, an outstanding artist in the Philippines, and for the past two years teacher of art at Madison, has been working on this painting for a year. It will be hung on the wall at the back of the chapel platform.

The presentation was made at the close of a colorful MV program, in which all the participants were dressed in their native costumes.

Those who had part on the program were Dr. and Mrs. Cabansag and two children, Dr. Imperial, Dr. Umali and his two sisters Betty and Norma, Elder and Mrs. R. E. Stewart, pioneer missionaries to the Philippines, and Victor Rivera.

Temperance Leader Speaks

Elder W. A. Scharffenberg, of the International Temperance Association, was the guest speaker in the chapel Sunday night, February 28.

Elder Schaffenberg, who has been in every principal city in the world, told his audience that the Christians of the Western world are blamed, in practically every country, for the presence of alcoholic beverages in other countries.

A stigma is attached to Christianity, and Christians are hated today because of this situation.

Especially interesting was Elder Scharffenberg's account of his "Mission to Moscow," in connection with his work with the International Commission on Alcoholism.

Nurses Conduct Cooking School

Between 35 and 40 campus and community folk attended the cooking school conducted by the Public Health Nursing class on February 22, 23, 24. The school was held in the college cafeteria.

The students presenting health talks and demonstrations were the following: Mrs. Laura Mae Slattery and Miss Martha Norris breadmaking; Miss Helen Leit singer and Mrs. Mary Gill, protein dishes and salads; Miss Carol Hillgers and Miss Barbara Pickel, desserts. Miss Margaret Woodruff and Mr. Angel Jimenez were in charge of advertising and program planning.

The other half of the class will hold a cooking school in the church school building at Ridgetop on the evenings of February 29, March 2, and March 3. Mrs. Lila Ring and Miss Alice Surdahl will present breadmaking; Miss June Davidson and Mrs. Virginia Isom, protein dishes and salads; Miss Joanne Foster and Mrs. Julia Adams, desserts.

Program planning and advertising for the school is directed by Mrs. Grace Bottsford, Miss Margaret Anaya and Miss Damaris Rivera.

Mr. Cossentine led the choir and Mr. Walper played the pipe organ.

Every student spoke, and the talks showed careful preparation and good understanding of the subject.

This campaign was the fourth to be held in ten months. The department is looking forward to another adventure a few weeks from now.

The speakers and subjects presented are as follows:

- Sunday
 Gordon Roberts, "The Altar of Sacrifice"
 Phil Sanford, "The Golden Candlesticks"
- Monday
 Eufemio Cabalo, "The Laver"
 Mrs. Lyn Taylor, "The Shewbread Table"
- Tuesday
 Maloa Alexander, "The Incense Altar"
 Eva Jenkins, "The Ark of the Covenant"
- Wednesday
 Janice Quarnstrom, "The Holy Place"
 Mr. Verle Sossong, "The Most Holy Place"
- Thursday
 Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, "The 2300 Days"
- Friday
 N. R. Gulley, "Facts from the Sanctuary That Challenge Our Present and Future"

Let's Get Acquainted . . . Mrs. Bottsford

By HARRY "MONTY" GEORGESON

Grace Bottsford

Grace Paulsen Bottsford was born in Stambaugh, Michigan, and reared by her grandmother. As a little girl, even before school days, she wanted to be a nurse, but her grandmother felt that Grace was too delicate a girl to follow such a profession.

However, after graduation from high school, she was still determined to be a nurse. She canvassed to obtain money to take pre-nursing but got only as far as taking a first-aid course.

In 1937 she was married to Elmer Bottsford, who was taking the pre-medical course. She now enrolled in a home nursing course and worked to help supplement her husband's income. In 1938 their son Ronnie was born, and in 1943 Dr. Bottsford graduated from Loma Linda with an M.D.

Shortly after beginning private practice Dr. Bottsford received a call to go to Juliaca, Peru, situated on the shores of the world's highest lake, Lake Titicaca, at 12,500 feet above sea level.

At Juliaca Mrs. Bottsford soon became efficient in making furniture, giving anesthetics, and speaking the Spanish language. Here the Bottsfords worked among the Quechua and Imora tribes for four and a half years.

When Dr. Pitman was killed in a plane crash, Dr. and Mrs. Bottsford were called to Guayaramerin, Bolivia, to continue Dr. Pitman's work. During their four-year stay here Dr. Bottsford contracted blackwater fever, a form of malaria with a 50-75 percent mortality rate. As he lay at the point of death, having not eaten for two weeks, special prayer was offered and immediate improvement began. His recovery was a miracle.

Although a revolution was in progress and travel conditions were very hazardous, Dr. Bottsford and family were flown out of the jungle to Bolivia's capital, La Paz, then to the clinic in the mountains, where Dr. Bottsford regained his strength as he rested. One year later, from Belem, Brazil, Mrs. Bottsford, Ronnie, and their adopted daughter Donna Jean preceded him to the States so that the children could enter school.

Dr. Bottsford joined his family in the States later, and after a brief period of time they returned to Brazil for three years. Here Mrs. Bottsford worked beside her husband as they treated as many as 200 patients a day.

After three years they returned again to California. When Dr. Bowes asked Dr. Bottsford to join him here at Madison, they moved here, helped Dr. Bowes for a year, and then began practice at Ridgetop, where Mrs. Bottsford helped her husband in his office, taking music lessons on the side.

One day, while practicing at the organ, the thought, so long pushed to the back of her mind, came to her: Could she enter nursing at Madison? She left her music and was on her way to Mrs. Zeigler's office. Mrs. Zeigler's response to her question was, "You can start tomorrow." That very day she dropped her music major, and the following day she entered nursing.

Now, when asked about future plans, she says she plans to take anesthesia after completing nursing in another year. Then a far-away look appears in her eyes and she says, "But, instead, as soon as I get my R.N., we may return to Bolivia or Brazil. Ronnie, who is taking the ministerial course at SMC, is going too!"

TOT's See Film; Plan Pancake Supper

The Teachers of Tomorrow meeting on Saturday night, February 20, featured a film, "The Quiet One." The theme of the film was the relation of love to the normal development of a child.

"The Quiet One" is the story of a little colored boy whose mother did not want him and whose grandmother looked after him from a sense of duty only. As a school boy he became a problem, missing school and roaming the streets. Finally he was sent to a boys' school, where the story leaves him well on the way to a happy, normal life with people who love him and want him.

The club also discussed future plans for the pancake supper which is to be held March 5. TOT members are asked to keep the date in mind, for a big night has been planned.

Banker Addresses Accounting Class

Mr. Paul Rainey, from the Madison Square Branch of the Commerce Union Bank, was the guest speaker at the February 24 meeting of the Practical Accounting class.

As Mr. Rainey led the class into an understanding of the basic function of cashing and canceling checks, their appreciation grew for all the work involved.

Banking has become highly efficient in its many operations. The one-day service from New York is accomplished by banks making their own deposits with each other. In most cases these deposits would tie up huge sums of the bank's capital. To solve this problem each member bank of the Federal Reserve System makes a deposit in the Federal Reserve Bank. All checks cashed for a member bank by another member bank are deposited with the Federal Reserve Bank, which charges the bank against which the checks are drawn and credits the bank which cashed the checks. In the Nashville area, there is a clearing system for the local banks.

The class extended a "thank you" to Mr. Rainey for his excellent lecture and for the gifts of rain caps and banks to each one present.

THE MASTER GUIDE CLUB

Under the capable leadership of Wilma Keller, this club is really progressing. Twelve received their graduation certificates from the Leadership Course last Wednesday evening, February 24. They were Martha Devine, Glenn Ferguson, Robert Florida, David Kingry, Ramona Limon, David Martin, Alice Sheffield, Pat Sheffield, Pauline Romo, Lloyd Trivett, Terry Trivett, and Lydia Zaft.

We are planning for an investiture of Master Guides and an awarding of honors. This service will be held before the summer quarter begins; so all those wishing to be included will want to work hard during the next few weeks. All who are interested should contact Wilma Keller.

MV ORCHESTRA

We would be interested in having an orchestra. Let's see what we can do. What do you say? All those interested please contact an MV officer or the sponsor by the end of February.

PROGRAMS

We know that you enjoyed the program that Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull, missionaries from Africa, gave to us. "Report from Madison Missionaries" is a program to be given in the near future. Watch for date.

Dean Jones Is Chapel Speaker

The student body was honored to have as the chapel speaker on Monday, February 22, the dean of Peabody College and professor of education, Dr. William C. Jones.

The many changes that have taken place in the world during the last 45 years and their significance was the theme of Dean Jones' talk. He stated that since his boyhood he has witnessed the introduction of the telephone, the radio, television, and modern highways.

Dean Jones continued by saying that all the changes put together have brought to the nation the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by a nation.

Yet, as a result of this high standard of living, the dean stated, there is a great deal of mistrust and misbelief in the world today.

In his closing remarks Dean Jones stated that most of the world's education has been theoretical. We must make education more functional in the lives of students, he said. If it is not made so, we will lose our democratic form of government.

OPERATION FIRESIDE

This MV evangelistic Bible study program is well under way, four of the studies having already been taught to the teams. We meet in Room 202 immediately following the MV meeting on Sabbath afternoon. There is still time for others to join us if they can copy back notes. The climax will come when the youth bring their friends with whom they have been studying to the MV Week of Prayer, April 2-9, when Elder Edwards will gear his messages especially to these visitors.

YOUTH CONGRESS DELEGATES

Congratulations to the three chosen by the student body as delegates to the North American Youth Congress—

On their return these three will present a program featuring Congress high lights, so as to transmit the inspiration received.

CONGRESS THEME

"The Festival of the Holy Scriptures" is a noble theme for this conclave, especially in the light of a passage which all good MV's will want to memorize from Great Controversy: "None but those who have fortified the mind with the truths of the Bible will stand through the last great conflict." Pages 593-594.

Jackets Are Here

"Are they here?" Excitement was riding high last Friday, February 19. All went well in geometry class until Sylvia Mitzelfelt opened the door and said, "They're here!" Every junior ran to the Commercial Department, and there they were—the royal blue jackets with "61" on the left sleeve and a diagonal MCA on the left side. After yelling "Yea, juniors" several times and taking some group pictures, the juniors reluctantly went back to the abandoned geometry classroom.

Music Notes

A busy part of academy life is found in the Music Department these days. Vocal and instrumental ensembles are busily practicing for the Southern Union Music Festival. They are also keeping up a steady round of public appearances, under the guidance of Mrs. Patricia Silver.

On February 14 a busload of enthusiastic performers braved the snow and ice to present a Sunday evening vesper program of music at the Veterans' Hospital in Nashville.

A chorus made up of the delegates and alternates for the Music Festival presented two groups of numbers, opening and closing the program.

The Academy Girls' Trio and Academy Mixed Quartet were much enjoyed, as were Rowena Felt's two violin solos—"Adoration" by Borowski and the beloved "Holy City" by Adams. The girls' ensemble presented two groups of numbers also.

A recently formed ensemble is the Mixed Quartet, composed of Claudia Kunau, soprano; Sylvia Mitzelfelt, alto; Tommy Young, tenor; and Bill Bass, bass. The quartet's most recent appearance was at the Boulevard Church on Friday night, February 19.

The Academy Choir, under Mrs. Silver's direction, sang for the Madison College Church Sabbath service. On Saturday evening they went in the bus to the Southern Publishing Association, where they sang "God of Our Fathers" and "Born to Be Free," accompanied by the College Band, on the band program which was presented before a capacity audience. The Academy Trio, accompanied by Ruth Gill, sang "This Is My Country." Mr. Homer Lynd, college registrar, drove the bus.

Mary Lou Sandborn, Sue Cuthbert, and Pat Silver have formed a Cornet Trio, to add color to the academy musical organizations.

Students Welcome California Twins

The academy students have the unusual experience of welcoming twins into their midst. These pretty, blond-haired girls come to us from Paradise, California. Bonnie and Betty Lea are juniors. They are living with their cousin, Mr. Ferris, who is the principal of the elementary school. We are all glad to have them, and hope they enjoy their stay at Madison.
