Picnic Climaxes Registration Week

By EUGEN DOMKE

The annual fall picnic on Monday, September 19, was a welcome interlude between the close of the week of tests and registration days and the beginning of classes at 7:10 a.m. on Tuesday, September 20.

The rigorous day at Shelby Park included baseball, softball, badminton, croquet, and volleyball, plus numerous other activities such as tree-climbing and poison ivy encounters. The most popular events—dinner and supper—must not be forgotten, for they are the events in which everyone participated.

The high light of the day, if anyone could pick a high spot, was the meeting of the college group with the academy group on the ball field for the first game of the year. The score, after much swinging, sliding, missing, and shouting, was 9-6 for the college.

All in all, everyone had a wonderful time, really. The day was one of those "just-right" kind, and the setting at Shelby Park one of the finest that could have been found.

On its way home, somewhere along the line, the sick and aging bus screeched to a halt—too much brakes. Everyone had to be ferried home by car or truck.

As this is written, it is the week after. We are still favoring bruises and are still scratching poison ivy. But we had a good time, didn't we? The annual fall picnic gives everyone a chance to flap his wings and do some soaring before coming down to earth and digging under or waiting to be covered.

College Enrollment Reaches 351

The college enrollment now stands at 351 and the academy enrollment, 114. Both these figures show an increase over that of last year. It is expected that a few late registrants will add to these figures. Dormitories are overflowing, and additional housing has become necessary. All available housing for married students is taken. A roster of college students will appear in the next MADISONIAN.

Golden Anniversary Convention to Be Held On Campus October 13-16

The Fiftieth Annual Convention of Southern Self-supporting Workers will be held at Madison October 13-16. In attendance will be delegates and representatives from approximately thirty institutions.

Edwin Martin, president of the Laymen's Extension League, is chairman of the convention. Mr. Martin is president of the Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, unit.

The keynote of this Golden Anniversary convention is a statement from Life Sketches, page 196: "We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us, and His teachings in our past history."

Guest speakers for the convention are Dr. Philip Chen, from Atlantic Union College, a former Madison College faculty member; Dr. Ruth Murdoch, from Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan; and Elder Don Rees, president of the Southern Union Conference.

Other scheduled key speakers are Elder W. D. Frazee, Wildwood, Georgia; Elder Felix Lorenz, Wytheville, Virginia; Elder Ben Glanzer, Pullman, Michigan; and Ralph Martin, Pullman, Michigan.

Taking advantage of the presence of a large number of alumni, the Madison College Alumni Association will hold a meeting on Friday, October 14, from 11:30 till 2:00.

Also to be held on Friday, in the afternoon, will be the meetings of the membership and the board of directors of the Laymen's Extension League.

Office Manager Joins Hospital Staff

A recent addition to the hospital staff is Mr. John F. McClellan, who is filling the recently established position of Patients' Accounts Office Manager.

Formerly connected with the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital, and a graduate of Southern Missionary College, Mr. McClellan comes here with several years experience in machine accounting.

According to Mr. Morris, the David Kingry, Rita Martz, and Eugen Domke have been elected to fill three vacancies in ASMC offices. The election by ballot took place at the first regular meeting of the Student association on September 28.

David Kingry, sophomore nursing student from Florida, was elected vice-president; Rita Martz, sophomore nurse from Nashville, secretary; and Eugen Domke, sophomore industrial education major from Canada, sergeant at arms.

President Henry Scoggins called the meeting to order after the singing of the school song led by Verne Miller. The 1960-61 budget was then presented by Clyde Ball and accepted by the student body.

Student identification cards were given out by Paul Eirich at the close of the meeting.

THANK YOU

Again a "Thank you" is extended to those who are helping with the Madisonian while the staff is being reorganized.

Delta Nu Zeta

By PAT BATCHELOR

Delta Nu Zeta welcomes nine sets of sisters: the Ward twins from Texas, Charleen and Pauline, sisters of Mary Lou, who graduated in August; the Holly twins, Laura and Lorna, who are here for their second year; Frances and Wilma Keller; Lena and Carolyn Holder; Deanna and Freda West; Loretta and Lucy Courter; Lois and Gerri Schlenker; Laneta and Wanda Scoggins; and Aida and Ramona Limon.

We welcome the nurses back from "Cinci," Margaret Woodruff, Velma Robinson, Sallie Lazalier, and Elaine Ferris, and we miss those who have just left—Isabelle Altenbrun, Lorraine Fields, Sue Vestal, and Lydia Zaft.

Also joining our Williams Hall family are Pat Batchelor, Sue Cuthbert, and Rebecca Culpepper, village girls last year.

After the student-faculty reception several fellows brought Mrs. Watson's piano back upstairs, and for their efforts, Gladys Ocampo, accompanied at the piano by Carolyn Cothren, entertained them in the parlor with her castanets.

During the last few cool nights of the swimming season Bunny Knight and Loretta Courter were the only ones interested in swimming. Bunny has been lifeguard throughout the summer.

This year our academy girls are living in Williams Hall on the first floor wing. Edna Bryant, a college freshman, rooms with Bunny Knight and Frieda Parks and acts as monitor, helping to keep things running smoothly.

Juanita Mercado, our "littlest" nursing student, has moved for the benefit of others three times since returning from vacation in September.

Monday night Delta Nu Zeta elected the following officers for the fall and winter quarters: Lucy Courter, president; Karylyn Hudson, vice-president; Dorothy Maxwell, secretary; Pat Sheffield, treasurer; Nita Lanham, parliamentarian; and Kay Forrester, pastor. We appreciate the good work of the outgoing officers, including the chocolate sundaes served after the club meeting.

Assisting Mrs. Watson, our dean, in the various residences are Mrs. Ollia Stinnett in Assembly Hall, Mrs. Helen Smith in the Annex, and Darlene Syvertson in Magan Home. Mrs. Stinnett is here to take nursing, and Mrs. Smith is an R.N. here working on her B. S.

The last Southern Accent from Collegedale reports epidemic of the annual disease, homesickness. Almost every girl in the dormitory has the disease in some form, Jeanne Pettis writes in her column. Jeanne further writes: "This disease is seldom fatal and has but two known cures. The most recommended of these is to stay right here until the initial attack subsides. So far, over 200 girls have tried this remedy and have found it fairly successful."

Up Down Campus And The

By BERTHA WAY KING

Scattered leaves of autumn on the campus remind us that fall is now approaching. . . . Summer skipped by rather fast, so it seemed. . . . Vacation time left a few busy people on "duty." Three "green" girls from surgery, Pat Adkins, Janet Powell and Evelyn Thomas, helped one day with taking temperatures on Medical Wing. . . . While Doctor Gant's nurse, Mrs. Woodrow Ek, vacationed, Dr. Gant still had a nurse that signed the initials EK, for Esther Kowalski followed the doctor around. . . . A Record Office girl must have had her mind on other things for she typed "Bladder series" on an X-ray report, putting b for g. . . . A walk in the rain to Madison still kept Faye King in her happy, laughing mood. Her companion, Carol Smith, got a soaking, too. And later on, a week or so, Faye was given a "shower" of birthday wishes with a pretty cake baked by Edith Durocher's mother and decorated by Pat Mendenhall. . . . Hale and hearty Robert Kohler promised to be "quiet as a mouse" while picking up dirty dishes during Medical Wing's rest period—and he was! . . . Back to the campus are the Julius Pipers so Julius can finish his nurse's training. A "page" over the intercom at the hospital fully announced his arrival by, "Mr. Piper, Mr. Piper,—go to the nursing station." . . . Among nursing duties are such tasks as came to Marilyn Marsh when she needed to carry a patient's lower plate to Dr. Trivett's office. . . . Gene Wheeler was seen leaving the P.O. "flying high" for surgery. He had received a check by mail and also some more important (??) letters. . . . Miss Cowdrick, MADISONIAN adviser, met Eugen Domke with this comment, "There was ONE word I couldn't make out in your article for the paper." ("One?" questioned Janet Powell.) . . . Printed leaves of book learning turn each day as classes fall into routine schedule.

Phi Mu Sigma

By KENNETH MOORE

Both Wasiota Hall and Gotizan Home are filled to capacity with young men who have come to Madison for a Christian education. Although some rooms are tightly crowded, everyone seems to be making the best of the situation, glad for the good enrollment.

Several of the more ambitious young men have just finished painting their rooms, in an effort to make their surroundings more cheerful and their stay more pleasant.

Everyone on the campus has enjoyed the beautiful flowers on the front lawns of both Gotizan Home and Wasiota Hall. David Lima, who has left us for a quarter's work at Wildwood, is responsible for the planting and upkeep of the flowers which border the walks and front the buildings. We all appreciate the work he has done and the time he has spent in making the campus more beautiful all during the summer.

After the summer quarter's inactivity, the Phi Mu Sigma Forum has started the new school year with the election of its officers. The following will lead out in the Forum's activities: Verne Miller, president; Terry Sweeny, vice-president; David Grogg, secretary-treasurer; David Kingry, pastor; Primo Cabalo, parliamentarian. We are looking forward to a good year in our Forum and to the Christian fellowship that its activities offer.

Two of our men—nursing students—have left us for this quarter to affiliate in Cincinnati. We wish Joe Fields and Tom Bates, along with the rest of the group, a happy and successful time at Children's Hospital.

The Inquiring Reporter Asks

What is the most interesting thing that happened to you this summer?

Sue Cuthbert: Being caught in a flash flood in Orlando, Florida.

Ruth Gill: Driving Go-carts for the first time.

Gene Wheeler: Taking part in the diving exhibition at home in Colorado.

Johnny Bullock: Going to visit New York City on Labor Day.

Rebecca Culpepper: Visiting the Island of Jamaica and the Panama Canal Zone.

Jan Nations: Talking to the anesthetist and nurses before undergoing surgery.

Mary Lou Sullins: Seeing a live bear while on vacation in the Smokies.

Mr. Fragola: Going back up North for a while to visit relatives.

Arlene Blackburn: Going to Atlantic City for Youth's Congress.

Mary Alice Griffin: Working during the summer at Tampa General Hospital.

Music Notes

The College Choir of 52 members, under the direction of Patricia Mitzelfelt Silver, made its first appearance at the morning worship service last Sabbath. This organization will sing every other Sabbath, alternating with the Academy Choir.

During the fall quarter the choir will prepare for a gala Christmas concert. Next quarter plans call for the learning of an oratorio, and during the spring quarter a number of choir trips are planned.

The College Band is looking forward to a prosperous year. So far, 40 members have "come out" for band, and all are enthusiastic. According to Mrs. Silver, the director, a concert is planned for December 10. A smaller group, known as the Pep Band, played for the opening convocation.

hospital administrator, Mr. McClellan will have direct supervision of installing an up-to-date machine book-keeping system. It is anticipated that the changeover from the present system will be completed by March 1, 1961.

Mr. McClellan is married to the former Doris Iles, whose parents are well known in this area. The McClellans, with their three children, are residing in the new brick home on 605 Larkin Springs Road.

By LUCY COURTER

Dr. William C. Sandborn, president of our college, has been a part of Madison for thirty years. In the fall of 1930 he came here.

Dr. William C. Sandborn

from Lansing, Michigan, to work his entire way through college, enrolling in the medical evangelism course.

Wasiota Court was in the process of construction at the time, and his first job was with the building crew. Many of the young men were living in tents at the time. Dr. Sandborn recalls the night it rained so hard that his tent fell in.

Although he had a bad case of homesickness and discouragement, Dr. Sandborn says he continued to eat two meals a day and wash his own dishes, as was the custom in those days.

Continuing in the construction department, he helped build the Demonstration Building, Druillard Library, the Science Building, and Williams Hall, receiving the usual rate of pay, ten cents an hour. The stones in these buildings were taken from stone walls the slaves had built before the Civil War when this property was a part of a large plantation.

Dr. Sandborn finished the nurse's course and received his B.S. in history in 1936. He was asked to join the faculty as history teacher and principal of the academy. Later he was principal of Highland Academy for a year, and then returned to Madison as head of the Industrial Education Department.

By this time Madison College and the self-supporting work had found a place deep in Dr. Sandborn's heart. He threw himself wholeheartedly into the work of each department in which he served. In 1938 he received his master's degree in history from Peabody College. Continuing graduate study at Peabody, he received his doctorate in Education in 1953. By this time he had become dean of the college.

About this same time he also finished building the home he now occupies, doing by far the larger share of the construction work. He found this a diversion while completing his work at Peabody.

In 1957 the Board showed its confidence in Dr. Sandborn by electing him president of the college. His devotion to Madison has increased with his responsibilities, and for the past three years he has untiringly labored to build up every department of the institution.

Mrs. Sandborn is the former Helen Deal, whom he met here at Madison and married after he had been here three years. She is now head of the Nutrition Department. The Sandborns have two children, Bill and Marilyn. Bill, who hopes to attend medical school at Loma Linda next year, is now head technician in the X-ray Department in our hospital. Like his father, he plans to devote his life to the self-supporting work. Marilyn is a college freshman, taking the medical records course.

Dr. Sandborn demonstrates his belief in the value of work by working with the students. He is out with the garden crew at five in the morning helping set out sweet potatoes or later in the season helping pick beans. He has an active interest in any work being done on the campus, frequently participating with all his heart. No one works harder or longer hours on campus beautification days than he. He values these periods of work with the students and his fellow teachers as opportunities to become personally acquainted with them. He is known for his ability to forget students' weak points and remember only their good qualities.

The President (1936)

Dr. Sandborn maintains an optimistic viewpoint, and his faith in God and his fellow men does not waver, despite many obstacles that must be surmounted in leading a self-supporting institution of the size of Madison College.

New Arrivals

To Mr. and Mrs. Don Cantrell, 560 Highland Avenue, Cleveland, Tennessee, a boy, Terriance Gene, born September 7, weight, 7 pounds, 2 ounces. Don and Jacqueline (Anderson) are both former students. Don, a former print shop employee, is the son of Mr. Lawrence Cantrell, of the Agriculture Division.

To Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Beauman, campus, a girl, Marie Frances, born October 1, weight 7 pounds, 8½ ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Whitlow, campus, Daniel Thomas, born October 4, weight 7 pounds, 1½ ounces.

Teachers of Tomorrow Organize

Last year's president, Rebecca Culpepper, led out in this meeting, with Mrs. Harter assisting. It was voted to revise the club constitution.

The following officers were elected for the new school year: President, Gordon Roberts; vice-president, Rebecca Culpepper; secretary, Aida Limon; treasurer, Robert Kohler; pastor, Bob Hansen; historian, Carolyn Heer; reporter, Pat Batchelor; sergeant at arms, Eugen Domke.

Following the meeting outdoor games were played. The evening's activities were concluded with a marshmallow roast and refreshments.

Thirty-three members and several visitors were present, most of whom came from the campus in the school bus, which was driven by the other club sponsor, Dean Homer Lynd.

Workshop Coming

The Teachers of Tomorrow will hold a workshop on November 5. Three distinguished guests will be present: Dr. Richard Carrigan of the National Education Association, Mrs. Charlene Collier from the Tennessee Education Association, and Mrs. Marion Simmons from Southern Missionary College, formerly director of Elementary Education here at Madison. After a pot-luck supper in the Demonstration Building, a panel discussion on "What Constitutes an Active TOT Club Program?" will be held by our guests. A talk by Dr. Richard Carrigan, "Prepare to Be Professional," will conclude the program.

Department Grows

The Education Department is growing by leaps and bounds. This year 24 elementary majors have been added. Fifteen secondary majors and more than a dozen education minors are enrolled. Five cadet teachers have also joined the department.

Student Directory to Be Published Soon

ASMC headquarters, set up in the library classroom during registration week, have been the scene of picture-taking activities, in preparation for student identification cards and the student directory.

Most students have already received their identification cards.

The directory, to be published in the near future, will contain pictures of all students and faculty members, their home and campus addresses, and freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classification of all students.

Paul Eirich, assisted by ASMC president Henry Scoggins, is the editor of the directory. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bedford have done the photography.

Mrs. Julia Grow, founder of Cave Springs Home for Children, was the chapel speaker on October 3. She related how God had led her in the establishing of this home for handicapped children, the only such institution in the Seventh-day Adventist denomination.

At present twenty-three handicapped children, who would otherwise be denied church school privileges, are receiving a Christian education and are being taught a trade.

Faculty Members Entertain Students

By VERNE MILLER

How can a reporter write an article on eleven parties without attending them all?

Of course the logical thing to do was to do just that. It was easy to persuade some of my friends to join me in a trip from one to another of the faculty homes where the students were being entertained on Saturday night, September 24.

Our first destination was the new home of the Coons—"Coons' Paradise"—up at Ridgetop, about eighteen miles from the campus. We were greeted with warm Southern hospitality as we entered the house and were invited to share the delicious refreshments, topped by ice cream piled high with frozen strawberries.

After a quiz game, we met the visiting royalty—Mr. Zeigler, Mr. Auge, and Mr. Slate—and greeted them in an unusual manner, by shaking their feet instead of their hands. Mary Lou Sullins had a real shock as she graciously shook the wooden leg of Mr. Zeigler.

Reluctantly we left this happy group and hurried to Dr. Sandborn's home, walking in just in time to see Carolyn Holder learning how to drink water like a dog, lapping it with her tongue. The two national balloon-blowing champions were the great Terry Sweeney and the very gracious Lois Schlenker.

At Mrs. Harter's we found Paul Sullivan and Dorothy Maxwell having a delightful evening enjoying refreshments in the breakfast nook. Janet Powell and Eugen Domke were in the living room sitting on the sofa. The cheery recreation room in the basement had been the scene of a pleasant evening of games, and now nearly

Choir Sings at First Sabbath Service

The Madison Academy Choir, under the direction of Patricia Mitzelfelt Silver, made its first appearance of the school year at the morning service on Sabbath, September 24. Its 52 members sang "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

Besides their regular appearances every other Sabbath, the Academy Choir will have a part in the annual Christmas program and in February will present its own secular program. On April 20, 1961, twenty of the best performers will participate in the Southern Union Music Festival. Trips to other churches are also planned.

twenty young people were scattered over the whole house, eating refreshments.

As we arrived at the front door of the Walper home, we heard some noise. Dana Dale and Mrs. Walper were lying on the floor under a sheet, with Mrs. Walper trying to guess who was hitting her with a yard stick. The next victim was Pauline Romo. Surinder Deol tried the same game with Mr. Walper and was shocked when he found that it was Mr. Walper hitting him all the time.

The group at the Euseys were enjoying a pleasant evening. It was primarily a feminine group having a good time playing guessing and quiz games.

We entered the Craws' home through the basement and fumbled our way in the dark up the stairs. We knocked on the door at the head of the stairs and found that the students had just left, leaving the Craws to clean up the remains. The Craws were so tired that they were ready for bed; so we decided not to linger.

At 10:10 p.m. the games were going strong at the Lynds, and the young people were enjoying a wonderful evening. Mrs. Watson was in the lead as she engaged in a game of Sorry. She looked a bit confused at times, but she was winning just the same.

Leaving the Lynds, we proceeded to the Fragolas. Through the window we saw them leaving their games, and we reached the door just in time to see a string of Welcome, all new students, to Madison College Academy. We hope that this year will be fruitful and successful for you. . . . Get well, Jan Parris; we miss your cheery and sweet disposition. . . . Thank you, Mrs. Thomson, for planning such a wonderful evening for us in your home on a recent Saturday night. . . . To walk with caution past the Science Building when the high school chemistry class is in progress is a smart thing to do. At least the faint smell of hydrogen sulphide and the flashes of burning magnesium made us rather cautious. . . . Saturday night a student council is planning the recreation program. . . . If you see a petite someone walking around the campus on crutches, you can be sure it's Sylvia Mitzelfelt. Be careful about breaking your feet, Sylvia.

Madison students file out the front door, being led back to the dorms by none other than Dad Fragola.

The hour was late, and we did not visit the Thomson and Keplinger homes, where, we have learned, the academy young people were royally entertained. We hurried over to the Schmales.

Here we arrived just in time to see the tail end of a movie being shown by Ronnie Schmale. Ramona Limon was especially fascinated by a little boy in the picture. Thus we concluded the evening, and we returned home thankful for the evening of wholesome Christian fellowship, as we are sure the large group of students felt who had been the guests of their teachers.

The only conquests which are permanent, and leave no regrets, are conquests over ourselves.
