

THE Madisonian

Vol. 8

Madison College, Madison, Tennessee, December, 12, 1960

No. 18

Students Top $2500 Goal for Bus

Bloodmobile Visits Campus; 124 Respond

One hundred twenty-four persons donated blood on November 30 when the American Red Cross Bloodmobile made one of its regular visits to the campus.

An announcement had been made in chapel of the need for the O-Negative type of blood for an infant that was to have heart surgery and would need 16 pints of blood. Eight persons responded, giving eight pints of this unusual type of blood.

Some were privileged to meet Mr. Arthur Johnson, the leading blood donor in the southeastern part of the United States. He has given seven gallons of blood since 1949, the year when the American Red Cross began its Bloodmobile program that has saved the lives of many people.

Photo by William Fujita

Dr. Sandborn (note arrow) accepts a check from Henry Scoggins, ASMC president, as payment in full for the Trailways bus. Students and teachers have gathered for the victory rally.

In what was described by President William Sandborn as one of the greatest demonstrations of united student action during his long tenure at Madison College, the ASMC campaign for the Trailways bus reached a triumphant climax on Wednesday, November 30.

During an exciting victory rally, which took place in front of Gotzian Home, where the bus was parked, the president congratulated the students for their outstanding effort in raising more than $2500 during the short six-week campaign. He also commended them for demonstrating during the campaign a close, united spirit in working together to accomplish their goal.

The rally came at the conclusion of the one o'clock chapel program after Henry Scoggins, president of the student association, announced that the goal had been reached that very hour, with more than $200 coming in. He then said to the applauding students, "Let's all go up to the bus—come on!"

As the students thronged toward the bus, the College Band, standing alongside the bus, was loudly playing a salute to the victorious campaign. After all had gathered around the bus, President Sandborn delivered his congratulatory speech. Following this, Henry Scoggins took charge of the program.

(Continued on page 4)

Choir Sings at Fisk

The college choir, in its first off-campus appearance of the year, took part in a musical program at Fisk University on Sunday, December 4.

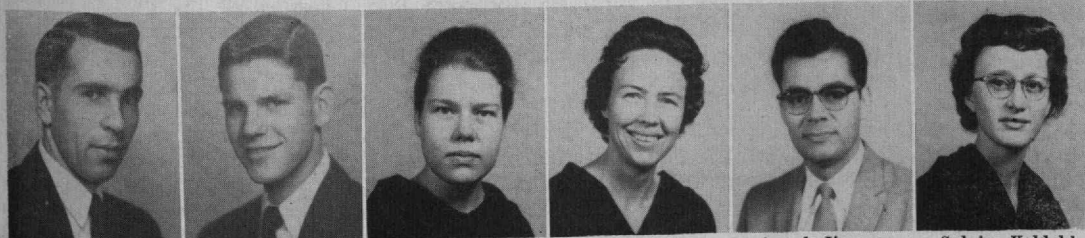

Under the direction of Mrs. Pat Silver, it presented four selections—"The Lord Is Come," "God So Loved the World," "Cherubim Song," and "Christmas Roundelay."

(Continued on page 4)

Artists to Present Christmas Program

Gregory Colson, organist, and Winifred Breast, soloist, will present a Christmas variety program in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall on Monday evening, December 12, at 7:00 p.m. Both the artists are well known in the Nashville area, Mr. Colson as an organ teacher and performer, and Mrs. Breast as a singer of folk songs of many lands. An entertaining evening is promised to all who attend.

Six Seniors to Appear in Who's Who

John Dovich

Joe Fields

Sue Vestal

Mary Gill

Angel Jimenez

Sylvia Kaldahl

Six seniors have been selected to represent Madison College in the publication WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES.

Those chosen are as follows: John Dovich, Industrial Education major and Education minor, from Kelowna, British Columbia; Joe Fields, Nursing major and Religion minor, from Blountstown, Florida; Sue Vestal, Nursing major from Nashville, Tennessee; Mrs. Mary Gill, Nursing major and Education minor from Fort Smith, Arkansas; Angel Jimenez, Nursing major and Education minor from San Sebastian, Puerto Rico; Mrs. Sylvia Kaldahl, Nursing major and Education minor from Mizpah, Minnesota.

These seniors are chosen by the student association in conjunction with the faculty for their scholarship, their contribution to college life, and the promise they show of future leadership.

Future Events

- Jan. 2, Chapel—Mr. Lynd
- Jan. 4, Chapel—Edwin Martin from Lawrenceburg Sanitarium
- Jan. 6, Vespers—Mr. Gulley
- Jan. 8, Sunday night—Capping Exercises
- Jan. 9, Chapel—ASMC
- Jan. 11, Chapel—Bob Zollinger
- Jan. 13, Vespers—Elder Coon
- Jan. 14, Sat. night, 6:00 p.m.—Senior Spaghetti Supper
- Jan. 14, Sat night, 8:00 p.m.—"The Real Yellowstone," a Lyceum Number by Fran William Hall

Editor-in-chief—Wayne Hayes
Associate editors—Elaine Ferris, Paul Erlich
Columnists—Lucy Courter, Kenneth Moore, Bertha Way King, Paul Blankenship, Lillian Culpepper
Reporters—Jan Nations, Robert Burks, Roger Bradley, Carolyn Combs, Charlotte Smith, Mary Traynor
Business and advertising manager—Edgar Aitken
Circulation—Sue Cuthbert, Martha Devine
Staff photographers—Henry and Lynn Bedford
Adviser—Elizabeth Cowdrick

Official Publication of the
ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF MADISON COLLEGE

Published semi-monthly during the fall, winter, and spring quarters, and monthly during the summer quarter. Entered as second class matter May 29, 1953, at the Post Office at Madison College, Tennessee. Subscription price—$1.50 per year.

December 12, 1960

Page 2

EDITORIAL

The Most Important Examination

Examination time is here again, and it goes without saying that as we have sown, so shall we reap. Although grades may not indicate the exact amount of knowledge we have on any given subject, they do indicate to some extent how we have spent our time during the quarter. The wasted moments add up to bloodshot eyes and nervous tension as the time for the exam draws near. Failure is frequently the result.

Perhaps a valuable lesson can be gained from this experience. The greatest examination of all times is now being conducted in the heavenly courts, and soon we shall be called to account individually for the way in which we use our time. Every opportunity for Christian growth neglected now will in the final analysis be our loss.

For instance, our MV society, under the capable sponsorship of Mr. Norman Gulley, offers many opportunities for developing character and leadership. Let us join together and become a mighty army for God on the Madison College campus. Then, when we are called to account, our record will bring joy and satisfaction to heaven and to us. W. H.

Up Down Campus And The

By BERTHA WAY KING

Bunches of mistletoe hang high in the leafless tree by the senior home, and bright holly berries gaily decorate the campus. . . . Soon exams will be over and many busy students will go home to await the good Christmas dinner that Mother will cook. . . . One day Geneva Owens said, "I'm sure glad that today is not yesterday." She was over the ordeal of her "speech" in chapel. . . . Karylyn Hudson gave "curl by curl" directions to Mrs. Craig on a recent hair-do. . . . Busy lab technician Vega said, "By and by, I'm almost through." . . . The campus welcomes the following new students: Nadine Woods, pre-nursing student from Oakland, California; Fred Salmon, pre-nursing student from Texas; and Eddie Barton from Texas. . . . And Mary Traynor finds she feels at home here now after she almost left. . . . Pat Felder is gaining weight—twelve pounds—but she has to get "shot" two times a week. . . . In surgery, at a doctor's order, "Point thumbs toward me," Dorothy Covrig pointed her own thumbs instead of those of the rubber gloves. . . . Dirty dust mops and Carol Smith don't get along at Magan Home. . . . Paul Blankenship tells how BIG he wrote his R.N. the first time. Now 13 graduate nurses are anxiously awaiting the big R.N. letters. . . . Elder Anderson reports that the Ingathering goal is moving on schedule, as Christmas carols ring out each night. . . . The curtain swiftly draws on the twelfth month and the stage is being set for the new year 1961.

Starch and Stripes

The "Chase" dolls, at the Nursing Arts Building, are really causing confusion. The linen room ladies hesitate to go into the building. One has asked this question to Miss Munn: "Where are you keeping your spooks?" Is it any wonder why a question like that is asked? If you go into the Nursing Arts Building sometime, maybe you'll see the lifesize "dolls" sitting in some realistic positions. Wonder whether the probies could be the guilty ones?

The probies, or pre-clinical students, are really looking forward to the events following vacation. We're sure they'll be excited when vacation is over, because their capping exercises will be held on Sunday, January 8, 1961.

We hear that Betty Brooks is really doing well as a classroom instructor. Next time you decide to practice teaching, Betty, be sure to look to see who all your students are. You see, one day Betty took the teacher's place in front and imitated Mrs. Sellars. Unbeknowns to Betty, Mrs. Sellars was seated in the room, watching the demonstration.

Miss Maxine Page recently attended a one-week Traineeship sponsored by the Tennessee League for Nurses, conducted in the form of a workshop. This was held in Mercy Hall, the nurses' residence, at St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing in Knoxville. Representatives from each diploma hospital school of nursing in the state were in attendance at the meeting. These visiting instructors not only studied ways and means of correlating anatomy and physiology with fundamentals of nursing, but, as a project, actually put into practice on the floor the theory they were receiving.

Alumni News

Alice Surdahl, R.N., Class of '60, is now back in her home state, Montana, working in the city hospital in Bozeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tate, Classes of '58 and '57, respectively, are working in Banner's Elk, North Carolina, in the local hospital. Mrs. Tate is working as an anesthetist and Mr. Tate is employed in the business office.

The School of Nursing received a letter of appreciation from Leah Rodriguez recently. Mrs. Rodriguez, Class of '59, and her husband, Jose, are now working in the Hialeah Hospital, Florida.

In a recent letter from Jack Gibbons, he tells of the great need in the mission field and of the way God is leading in the work. Mr. Gibbons, R.N., Class of '58, his wife Nancy, and little Nancy Lynn, are living in Brazil, where Jack is director of nurses in the hospital at Belem Para.

Encouraging words come to us from Petra Sukau, R.N., Class of '58, who is in charge of midwifery and other classes in the Seventh-day Adventist hospital in Rangoon, Burma. Miss Sukau says that in the past year she has seen 2,700 patients with only five students assisting her. Miss Sukau has evidently turned dentist, for she says she pulled her first tooth three weeks ago.

Visitors on the campus last month included a number of alumni: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lawry, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durham, Gene and Bobbie Jean Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Socol, and Bill Grover.

Your Roving Reporter

By Elaine Ferris

Every year immediately following Thanksgiving there is an added note of excitement in the air. The downtown streets become increasingly crowded with hurrying, scurrying shoppers. A sense of warmth is evident in the smiling purchasers' faces, as they quickly scratch another name off their seemingly unending lists.

Suddenly everyone has become aware of the approaching season of "peace on earth, good will toward men." Yes, the Christmas season is just around the corner.

Christmas awakens varying degrees of excitement, happiness, and generosity in all of us, even in the most "Scrooge-like" individuals. To every person it has just a little different meaning. The following students recently tell just what Christmas means to them:

Barbara Pickel: "It is a time of returning home and being united with loved ones. The exchanging of gifts, Christmas dinner, and the excitement of the holidays are all part of its meaning to me."

Sandra Johnson: "It always means time to go home and enjoy being with relatives after being away for a long while. This to me is the most enjoyable part of Christmas."

Benedicto Romero: "In my country, instead of Santa Claus, we have the three wise men. Our Christmas season is more religiously inclined. I do not believe in some of the practices now associated with Christmas, as they tend to be heathenistic."

Rose Johnson: "I always enjoy the Christmas program we have in our church. Also I like to exchange gifts with friends and loved ones."

Larry Van Uden: "It seems that Christmas has become more or less a form of paganism. However, it has its good aspect, such as bringing families together."

Gene Sellars: "Christmas provides an opportunity to see relatives not seen in some time. The exchanging of gifts is always a pleasant part of the season. Also, I think of Ingathering time again, hearing all the Christmas carols from the speakers on the cars."

Now let us each mount our camel, along with the wise men, and follow the star to the manger of Bethlehem where the Christ Child lies. Here is the underlying principle upon which Christmas is based, yet how many of us are aware of the "Christ" in "Christmas"? This Christmas it would be well to get our Bibles off the shelf and review the events of our Saviour's birth.

But before you do, I'd like to wish you a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year from "Your Roving Reporter."

Evangelism Class Conducts Meetings for Sanitarium Patients

Photo by William Fujita

Participants in the Evangelistic Meetings. Front row: Presley Lowery, Lucy Courter, Gilberto Soto, Shirley Zinke, Bob Hansen, Nita Lanham. Back row: Harry Fujita, June Schmale, Correne Bunch, Chaplain Hegstad, N. R. Gulley, Mavis Rushing, Mrs. Eversoll, Juanita Mercado, Ralph Sommer.

The college Evangelism class has recently concluded a seven-night series of evangelistic meetings presented to the patients of the hospital in the Sanitarium parlor November 28—December 4.

Prescriptions for "Radiant Living" were given each night, the subjects of the talks being on character building, health, prayer, Christ, the home, and heaven.

With June Schmale at the piano and Harry Fujita leading the singing, a song service of old favorites was enjoyed each night.

The parlor was filled each night with visitors, who showed great interest in the messages of music and the Word. Variety was seen in Harry's solo, accompanied by Billy Nickless at the Hawaiian guitar, with sunset slides on the screen. Bible pictures from the Holy Land were an added feature. Eleven people took home with them a beautiful colored picture of Christ for having attended each night of the campaign.

All the planning and advertising was done by the class. Some 300 handbills were distributed, and announcements were made over the radio and the loudspeaker system. The attendance was good all during the week.

Music—Dorothy Maxwell
Chairman—Mrs. Eversoll

FRIDAY

Speaker—Lucy Courter
Subject—"How to Live Happier"
Music—College Quartette
Chairman—Martha Devine

SATURDAY

Speaker—Presley Lowery
Subject—"How to Live Surer"
Music—Harry Fujita
Chairman—Mavis Rushing

SUNDAY

Speaker—Shirley Zinke
Subject—"How to Live Nearer"
Music—Mrs. Bedford
Chairman—Ralph Sommer

MONDAY

Speaker—Gilberto Soto
Subject—"Meet the Doctor"
Music—Jan Nations and David Kingry
Chairman—N. R. Gulley

TUESDAY

Speaker—Robert Hansen
Subject—"How to Live Longer"
Music—Mrs. Cabansag
Chairman—Correne Bunch

WEDNESDAY

Speaker—Harry Dorn
Subject—"How to Live Better"
Music—Jan Reese and Curtis Tidwell
Chairman—Juanita Mercado

THURSDAY

Speaker—Nita Lanham
Subject—"How to Live Stronger"

Speech Class Gives Chapel Program

The fall quarter speech class, taught by Elder Coon, presented a miscellaneous program in chapel on November 28.

The first speaker, Mrs. Geneva Owens, told of the trials she encountered during her first days at Madison but of her satisfaction at being able to pursue nurse's training. For something new and different, Larry Van Uden presented an original poem to express his thoughts concerning Madison.

Carole Franklin had much to say about the friendly people here in the Southland. Then the famed orator, Gilberto Soto, lectured to the audience, presenting reasons for attending Madison College.

"I looked, and I looked, and I looked..." Gene Sellars kept repeating these words as he told of his search, from one end of the world to the other, but could never find it. Then, finally, after arriving on the Madison campus, he found what he had been searching for—he found HER.

Rebecca Culpepper, as a reporter, interviewed the next "first lady," Mrs. Kennedy, impersonated by Nanceylee Eusey. Darlene Syvertson told the touching story of a little crippled girl, who, when a call was made to help the poor, put others to shame by offering to give her crutches to those who needed help.

At the beginning of the program the entire class gave "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates" as a choral reading.

Elder Coon and his class are to be commended for the well-given, enjoyable program they presented.

Students Tell Why They Came to Madison

Although Elder Dopp, the scheduled vesper speaker for December 2, was not present, the experience meeting conducted by Mr. Gulley was an inspiration to all present.

Mr. Gulley related some personal experiences of the Lord's leading and guidance in his own life while he was earning his way through school. He then encouraged the students to come to the microphone and tell their experiences and mention what they were thankful for. Many responded, telling how the Lord had led them to Madison. Others told of loved ones for whom they had long been praying whose lives were being changed. The theme of many of the testimonies was, "When we ask God, in faith, for help in even the smallest problems of life, He will hear and supply our need."

Rimmer Speaks at Nature Club Meeting

Mr. Richard Rimmer was the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Nature Club on Saturday night, December 3. Mr. Rimmer presented the subject of understanding the natural world in the light of literal creation, pointing out that the evolutionist studies the same material. The Christian must be sure of his philosophy and its reasonableness.

Two films, one on insect life and the other on sea life, were shown at the meeting.

The Nature Club has a year of interesting activities planned. This spring there will be the usual weekend outing. Others are invited to join.

Many students have felt the spirit of Christmas in a special way as they helped with the Christmas parties sponsored by the Orphanage Band for the children in two Nashville homes for orphans.

Loaded with gifts and refreshments, several carloads left the campus Saturday night, December 10, to take Christmas cheer to approximately 50 orphans.

Paul Eirich and Bunny Knight and their band members have been paying weekly visits to these homes. Bunny Knight describes a recent visit:

"As we arrive at the orphanage, we are greeted by boys and girls who drop their basketballs and jump ropes and run to greet us with happy, smiling faces. They give us their undivided attention as we tell them about Jesus and His love. They take a special interest in our music and several of the older children have even sung for us.

"It thrills our hearts to see how receptive the children and teachers are. One Sabbath just before we had the closing prayer, a boy asked if he could speak for a minute. This is what he said: 'I'm glad that you came so we can learn more about the Bible, and I hope you keep coming so we can continue learning about Jesus.'"

"As Pauline Romo, Grace Dow, Margaret Ridler, Pat Batchelor, Jan Carris, Richard Kunau, Tommy Young, and Johnny Bullock have said: 'It is very inspirational to think that boys and girls will stop their play just so they can hear about Jesus. In these troubled times it is difficult to find children interested in anything pertaining to the Bible. So it's up to us as students to bring the message to them if they want to learn.'"

These members invite other students to join them in bringing sunshine to homeless children.

Fire Dept. Demonstrates Fire Prevention

First the smell of smoke, then a cloud of smoke spread over the chapel platform as Mr. Lynd made the announcements on Monday, December 5.

As the smoke increased, some in the audience began coughing. Mr. Wedel arose and after a few preliminary remarks on the tragedies caused by fire, shouted "Fire! Fire!"

In seconds firemen wearing red hats climbed in through a window with their fire hose and directed it toward the smoking mass.

The program continued as Mr. Wedel introduced the Madison College Fire Department boys and gave suggestions on preventing fires in homes and dormitories. Mr. Morris and Mr. Keplinger then explained the use of the different kinds of fire extinguishers.

Every effort is being made, Mr. Wedel stated, to make the buildings safe against the hazards of fire. In the future there will be more fire drills to prepare for emergencies, he said.

Hi-School Hi-Lites

STAFF

Editor—Sylvia Mitzelfelt
Associate editor—Judy Ball
Reporters—Priscilla Bramble, Janice Thomson
Circulation—Bunny Knight, Marietta Andrus

Senior Sketches

Carl Adkins

Five-foot ten-inch-tall Carl, with light brown hair and blue eyes, never seems to run out of his vigor and vitality, and not only does he have it, but he has the habit of spreading it around among his classmates, especially in English IV. He comes originally from the Western state of Montana, but has spent all his academy days here.

Pet peeve: "Campus cops"

Hobbies: Auto Mechanics and "spending my pay traveling"

Favorite food: "A lot of everything"

Ambition: To be an agricultural engineer

Friendliness, a sweet disposition, and a bit of quietness are the fine qualities of an "Oklahoma gal" with hazel eyes and long golden-blond hair. Wherever she goes, she spreads cheerfulness. Joan sings in the Academy Choir, and her sense of humor and cooperative spirit add much to the senior class.

Pet peeve: "People who are always sticking their foot in their mouth"

Hobbies: Traveling and collecting postcards

Favorite foods: Pecan pie and butterscotch sundaes

Ambition: To be a school teacher

John Aitken

This six-foot-tall senior with blond hair and brown eyes also comes to us from the state of Oklahoma. His nickname "Big John" very well fits his sense of humor. He is the big fun-maker of the senior class and has won many friends through his rare personality. The twinkle in his eye and the mischievous smile on his face do not deceive you at all; in fact they give him away. John sings in the Academy Choir and always participates in school functions.

Pet peeve: "Women drivers"

Hobbies: Photography and horseback riding

Favorite food: Pecan pie

Ambition: To be a rancher

Juniors Sell Stanley Products for Projects

Have you noticed an abundance of small bright-colored catalogs around lately? If you haven't, it's not the fault of the Academy Junior Class, for they have been busily engaged in selling Stanley products to raise money for their class projects. Pictured in these catalogs are scores of items, useful at home or as gifts. So if you desire to benefit yourself while helping the juniors, just find one of these catalogs and you'll find a junior attached to it. GOOD LUCK, JUNIORS. J. T.

Joan Aitken

Academy Seniors Give Sabbath Program at Woodbury Church

The seniors were invited to give their court room Sabbath school scene and also take charge of the church service at the Woodbury, Tennessee, church on December 3, 1960.

A group consisting of approximately 45 students and a few adults left early in order that they might travel the 50 miles enjoyably and still reach their destination by nine o'clock. The trip in the new bus was a pleasant one.

Many had never been to Woodbury before and enjoyed attending the small, inviting church with such friendly members, who made their visitors feel welcome.

The seniors had charge of the entire Sabbath school program, from the song service on through to the end of the court room scene.

For the church service, a number of musical selections were presented. The Girls' Ensemble, the Girls' Trio, and the Boys' Chorus sang. Then Mr. Watson's sermon turned everyone's mind heavenward. After the sermon Joann Malmade sang a solo, the trio sang again, and David Martin played a solo on his trumpet.

Along with the invitation to Sabbath school and church, the Woodbury members had asked the seniors to stay for dinner. The members put their food together on a table in the basement and each served himself. All enjoyed the dinner and the association together before starting on the return trip. J. B.

Bus Campaign—from p. 1

Henry, who has undoubtedly been the most ardent booster and one of the hardest workers in the campaign, then presented the bus to the students. It was a gratifying moment. Six weeks earlier, when the bus first arrived on the campus with police escort and wailing sirens, $2500 looked big. But now, with all the hard work behind, and a big bus and years of comfortable riding to look forward to, the price surely seems cheap enough.

The next thing on the program was an instrumental and vocal trio by Mr. Marvin McColpin, his son Danny, and Bob Kohler. The song, entitled "When the Old School Bus Broke Down," was composed by Mr. McColpin as he sat in the old school bus after it had broken down on a tour.

To conclude the celebration, Mr. Scoggins gave recognition to those students who had contributed $50 or more toward the bus. He called out their names and presented each with a certificate which entitles him to have his name engraved on a seat in the bus.

Choir Program—from p. 1

The program featured musical groups from colleges in the surrounding area. Others taking part were the Trevecca College Choir, the Meharry Singers, and Fisk University, which featured two soloists.

Club Buys Curtains

The MedRec Club is about to realize the completion of an interesting project—raising funds for curtains for the very bare windows of their otherwise neat and attractive office. The club now has the funds, and the curtains will soon be up.

Stella Sullivan, secretary

Compliments of Madison Square Shopping Center Merchants Association

Complete One-Stop Shopping Facilities
Free Parking For 10,000 Customers

"Everything is on the Square—
At Madison Square"

Vick & Ferguson Lumber Co.

Lumber—Hardware—Paint
Phone CO 2-6971

"NEXT TO YOUR DOCTOR—
YOUR DRUGGIST"

TW-5-3791

PUGH'S PHARMACY

Western Auto

HOME OWNED AND OPERATED
CARL HARRIS
Madison, Tennessee

K FURNITURE COMPANY

THE BEST QUALITY
WITH THE LOWEST PRICES
EASY TERMS FOR EVERYONE
UPTOWN—MADISON
Phone TW-5-3193