

Elder Dart Counsels On Youth Problems

By GORDON ROBERTS

Elder Archa O. Dart, marriage and family counselor, from Washington, D.C., spent the week of January 15-21 at Madison College, presenting thirteen talks on love, courtship, and marriage.

Elder Dart, who is an assistant secretary for the Department of Education of the General Conference, has a solid background for his subject. For over 26 years he has been either a teacher, educational superintendent, or secretary of education for one or more of the various conferences. In 1949 Elder Dart completed his requirements for his M.A. degree in Education at the University of Maryland. He completed studies in marriage counseling at the University of Cincinnati in 1950 and studies in mental hygiene at the Washington School of Psychiatry in 1951. Elder Dart's field is home and parent education.

In each of his meetings, Elder Dart radiated his joy in serving in a field in which he can help young people over the path of life. Each sermon seemed to be designed to help the young man or woman prepare carefully the foundation of the home which will be his on this earth and which will continue in heaven.

Elder Dart's days were filled with personal counseling with those who wished his advice. His

Three Are Accepted For Medical School

Jesus Vega, William Sandborn, Jr., and Douglas Kendall have received official notices that they have been accepted for the September class in medicine at the College of Medical Evangelists, Loma Linda, California.

Mr. Vega received his B.S. degree from Madison College in 1954 and his master's degree from Peabody in 1960. This year he has been a technician in the clinical laboratory at Madison Sanitarium and Hospital and has also taught biology in the academy. William Sandborn has been head X-ray technician in the hospital. This year he and Douglas Kendall are at Peabody completing their requirements for entering medicine. All three will leave for California at the end of the summer.

College Band Presents First Concert

The College Band of forty-four members is made up of musicians from the college, the community, the academy, and the grade school.

Home Ec Department Entertains Teachers

Full-time members of the College teaching staff and their wives and husbands were entertained by the Home Economics Department at a fellowship banquet on Monday evening, January 23. About 80 were present. The academy teaching staff was entertained by the academy home economics students at a similar banquet on January 17. Both college and academy students, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Sandborn, head of the department, did all the planning, preparing, and serving. At the close of the meals, short programs of music and games were enjoyed.

WMC Musicians Will Entertain Sat. Night

A music treat is promised to all who attend the lyceum number presented this coming Saturday night, February 4, by members of the music faculty of Washington Missionary College.

Mr. Norman Krogstad, formerly with the Music Department of Southern Missionary College and now chairman of the Music Department at WMC, presents Neil Tilkins, pianist; Edward Lindquist, violinist; and Glenn Cole, vocalist. Mr. Krogstad plays the baritone horn.

Although the night for the band concert was bitter cold and the roads icy and slick, the chapel was filled on Saturday night, January 21, by an enthusiastic audience.

The program opened with the majestic strains of "Pacific Grandeur Overture," by Olivadoti. The next number, "Sleepers' Wake," by Bach, demonstrated how beautifully such music can be adapted to the concert band. Another selection from this early era was "An Occasional Suite," by Handel.

A lighter note was provided by Tschaiakowsky's "Waltz of the Flowers," along with "The Town Crier Overture" (Leoni) and a novelty number, "The Little Sports Car" (Morrissey).

The brass section was featured in "Brasses to the Fore," "Brasses Triumphant," and "Drums and Bugles." The reeds were featured in "Dancing Tambourine," and the drums and tympani in "Bolero Non." Drums were also featured in "Drums and Bugles," with a drum solo by Fred Hooberry.

Adding variety to the program were several solos and ensemble numbers. David Martin played "Victory," by Herbert Clarke, on his trumpet and Albert Dittes, from Highland Academy, presented "The Message," by Brooks, as a trombone solo. He was accompanied by his sister. The Clarinet Ensemble played the charming and lovely "Children's Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel, by Humperdinck, and the lively "Perpetual Motion," by Tschaiakowsky. George Thornton, Patricia Silver, Virginia Sellars, Mary Kate Gafford, Richard Mitzelfelt, Grace Dow, June Schmale, and Nancy Eusey are the members of this newly organized group. A cornet trio, composed of Sue Cuthbert, Marilyn Sandborn, and Patricia Silver presented "Holiday," by Meretta.

The Academy Girls' Ensemble sang two selections, "Pale Moon," by Logan, and "Listen to the Mocking Bird," by Hawthorne-Johnson. The response from the audience was proof that the two numbers were enjoyed.

President Sandborn presented Mrs. Silver with a beautiful sheaf of red rosebuds in appreciation of her work in directing the College Band and Choir this year.

The offering of $32.61 will help buy needed equipment for the band.

Former Teacher Tells Of African Situation

Mr. Warren Oakes, former dean of men and personnel director at Madison College, who with his family has just returned from Africa, was the chapel speaker on January 30. He presented a picture of the political ferment in Africa and the need for urgency in bringing the gospel to the 85,000,000 people who are still pagan. Mr. Oakes has been director of three training schools for natives in East Africa. Mrs. Oakes is a former director of nurses at Madison College. The two Oakes children were both born on the campus.

The Stage Is Being Set

Anyone who has attended Mr. Gulley's Eschatology, or Coming Events, class is certainly aware of the religious developments in the world today. Momentous actions are steadily setting the stage for the final movements. Great forces of evil are sweeping away all who are not grounded in the truth of God's word. To meet these forces, God calls upon men and women everywhere to join hands with Him in an effort to warn the world of the impending doom before it is too late. This work will be and is being accomplished speedily and thoroughly. If we at Madison are willing to be used, God will permit us to have a part in finishing the work. If we are not willing, then Satan will be eager and ready to use us in hindering it. The decision is ours.

Cheer Up! Spring Is Coming

"If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?" Surely there's no doubt in anyone's mind about winter's being here. The frequent snows and shivering Arctic winds seem determined to stay around and run us all indoors—that is, all except the "Polar Bear Club," whose members seem to take great delight in throwing snowballs at everything that moves. But Ole Man Winter will soon lose his grasp and be forced to give place to Spring's advance. Day by day the sun is sneaking closer, and warm tropical breezes are lurking to the south, only awaiting the signal to move northward. Plants, flowers, and vegetation of every description are hiding patiently in the ground until they can burst out and fill the air with their beauty and fragrance.

Radio Club Organizes

By DOUGLAS WHITE

The Amateur Radio Club has organized and elected the following officers: Richard Kohler, president; Darwin Secrist, vice-president; Doug White, secretary-treasurer; Robert Florida, purchasing agent.

Club members are now in the process of learning the continental code, required for an amateur radio license. Jim Edwards, a "ham" operator and trustee of the club, is helping members learn the code and will sign on and off for them until they are licensed operators.

Meetings are held in the basement of the Science Building every Wednesday night after worship. Dues are 75 cents a quarter. Anyone interested is invited to come to the meetings.

The club would appreciate any equipment that could be donated to them.

Laymen's League Is Revived

By IRVING TITSWORTH

The Junior Laymen's Extension League was revived and organized for this school year on Friday evening, December 22. At the meeting a nominating committee and a constitution and by-laws committee were elected.

Mrs. Julia Grow was the featured speaker at the next Friday-evening meeting. She spoke about God's providences at Cave Springs Home-School for Children. Her two granddaughters provided a beautiful duet. The nominating committee presented its slate of officers, who were duly elected. They were Kay Forrester, president; Irving Titsworth, vice-president; Pat Sheffield, secretary; Julius Piper, treasurer; Paul Eirich, chaplain. Executive members chosen were Pauline Romo, Jim Latta, Harry Fujita, Pat Batchelor, and Douglas White.

Mrs. Susan Ard, of the Chestnut Hill School, was the speaker at the January 13 meeting. Her personal account of the original Junior League was informative and inspiring. She was the first president, Albert Dittes (now an M.D.) was secretary, and Tahlana Elza (now living with Miss Fellemente) was treasurer.

At the January 27 meeting the constitution and by-laws were presented.

The league will present the chapel program on February 8, when two former Junior Leaguers, now successful self-supporters, will be the featured speakers.

Professors Emeritus Honored

By PAT BATCHELOR

Four professors emeritus of Madison College were honored at chapel on January 23 by the local chapter of the SNEA (Student National Education Association, formerly TOT). Mrs. Kathryn Bertram, art instructor; Dr. Frances Dittes, head of the Department of Nutrition; Mr. James Rimmer, professor of chemistry; and Mrs. Sutherland, founder and teacher, were given copies of the book, Your Bible and You. Another teacher to be honored with a book was Mr. Don Martin, the youngest member of the faculty.

The following club officers were introduced: Gordon Roberts, president; Rebecca Culpepper, vice president; Aida Limon, secretary; Richard Kohler, treasurer; Carolyn Heer, historian; Pat Batchelor, reporter; Bob Hansen, pastor; Eugen Domke, sergeant at arms.

Rebecca Culpepper announced the following future activities of the club:

- January 28, 6:00 p.m.—Symposium by community church school teachers
- February 18—Guest speaker
- March 18—Skit by local members of SNEA
- April (Date undecided)—A Sabbath at Mrs. Grow's
- May (Date undecided)—Picnic

The club presented the film "What Greater Gift?" during the remainder of the hour, a film showing the challenge that the teaching profession offers.

Seminar Stages Trials

A court trial on the Sabbath question, under the auspices of the Bible Department Seminar, was staged on two recent Friday nights. On the second night Gwen Fontaine, a new Adventist who was formerly a Catholic, was the defendant. Primo Cabalo was the prosecuting attorney on both occasions. The cross examination was conducted by Herbert Weise. The judges were Dr. W. C. Sandborn on the first night and Elder H. T. Anderson during the second trial. Ken Randall, Presley Lowery, and Richard Kunau acted as attorneys for the defense.

As the trial proceeded, those listening realized how necessary it is to know much more about the Sabbath and how to prove certain points from the Bible.

The following statement was presented:

"... The time will come when we shall be brought before councils and before thousands for His name's sake and each one will have to give the reasons for his faith. Then will come the severest criticism upon every position that has been taken for the truth. We need, then, to study the word of God, that we may know why we believe the doctrines we advocate." E. G. White, Review and Herald, Dec. 18, 1888.

To help all become better acquainted with Bible proof for the Sabbath, Elder Anderson presented a practical program on Friday evening, January 27, entitled "Twenty-two Reasons Why I Keep the Sabbath."

The officers of the Seminar, all Religion majors, are as follows: Ken Randall, president; Herbert Weise, vice-president; David Lewis, secretary-treasurer; Presley Lowery, pastor.

The Seminar meets every Friday night after vespers. During the trial the audience outgrew its place of meeting in the faculty room and moved to the Rotunda first and then to the chapel.

Co-founder of Madison College Celebrates Ninetieth Birthday

M. Bessie DeGraw Sutherland, one of the co-founders of Madison College, spent her ninetieth birthday at her home on the campus where she has lived for the past 56 years.

M. Bessie DeGraw Sutherland

Born in Binghamton, New York, January 13, 1871, she has spent most of her adult life in educational work, teaching four years each at Walla Walla and Battle Creek colleges, three years at Emmanuel Missionary College, and many years at Madison College. At one time she was educational secretary in the Lake Union Conference.

Mary Bessie DeGraw's mother died when she was eight years old. As the father tried to find a boarding home for his daughter, he was directed to Marion Stowell Truesdale, the only Adventist in Trenton, Missouri. When Mrs. Truesdale said she would not take the child unless she could adopt her, Mr. DeGraw put her in a Catholic convent. When "Auntie" Truesdale heard where she was, she took her into her home without adoption.

Mrs. Sutherland was a pioneer in the church school movement in the denomination and was the first woman teacher among Seventh-day Adventists to have specialized training in the field of teaching.

Mrs. Sutherland was also a writer. Before she began teaching she was associated with Elder S. N. Haskell in the writing of his books on Daniel and Revelation. She also worked with Dr. Sutherland in the writing of his books.

In 1904 she came to Madison as one of the co-founders and is now the only remaining one of the original group. She entered Peabody College at the age of 60. It was unusual for a woman of that age to go to school, and the faculty at Peabody watched her progress with interest, amazed that a woman of her age could do the quality of work she did. She fulfilled all the requirements for a Doctor of Philosophy degree except the writing of the dissertation. Coming from a family of teachers and lawyers, she is a woman of exceptional ability and keen intellect.

Until 1947 she was secretary-treasurer of the Madison institution, and for many years, head of the Department of Education. She was a strong executive and a wise business woman as well as a teacher.

But first of all she was a teacher. "She was a teacher of a generation; teachers like her are few and far between," a former student said. Most significant of all, she was a devout Christian, who was constantly conscious of the direction of the Holy Spirit. She possessed a profound knowledge of the Spirit of Prophecy. In the classroom she created enthusiasm in her students. Her influence over young people was marvelous as she endeavored to help them become men and women of conviction and action.

After spending more than sixty years teaching in Seventh-day Adventist schools, she is still an inspiration to those who are privileged to visit her in her home and listen as she recalls experiences of former days and advises and counsels. Her mind and intellect are still undimmed as she enters her tenth decade of life.

Choirs Announce Itineraries

The College Choir, which has worked hard during the past few weeks preparing for the coming winter and spring schedule, will soon begin making off-campus appearances.

The first off-campus appearance will be at the Nashville First Church on Friday evening, February 17. The following morning the choir will sing at the Sabbath morning service at the Bordeaux Church.

Then on February 24 and 25 the choir will take its first long tour of the year, visiting the churches at Louisville, Kentucky, on Friday evening, at Pewee Valley, Kentucky, on Sabbath morning, and at Bowling Green, Kentucky, Saturday night.

Other appearances will be at the Boulevard Church in Madison on the evening of March 10 and the Riverside Church on April 8 for the morning service.

The Academy girls' and boys' ensembles will make three appearances in February, singing at Hopkinsville, Kentucky, Clarksville Tennessee, and Antioch, Tennessee. On March 4 the entire Academy Choir will present an evening program at Madison College.

Dysinger Is Manager Of Food Factory

Mr. Paul W. Dysinger was elected to be general manager of the food factory and the bakery at the last board meeting. Dr. Webber is the assistant manager.

About a year ago Mr. Dysinger resigned as general manager of the college and hospital for health reasons. He takes his new position with Madison Foods well qualified to direct the industry, as he has had years of experience in the bakery work and a great interest in the manufacture of health foods.

Madison Foods announces a new food, Com-Pro, soon to be on the market. It is a blend of gluten, soy beans, oats, and seasoning and comes as near to being a complete protein as any of the foods on the market. Dr. H. W. Miller, veteran food authority, considers the new Com-Pro the best of the protein foods, nutritionally and tastewise. It has been developed by Dr. Webber and Mr. Sam Yoshimura. Dr. Webber is also a veteran in the health food industry, and Mr. Yoshimura worked with Dr. Miller with foods in the Orient before coming here three years ago.

counseling schedule was booked up well in advance.

Mr. Forrester and Mrs. Watson, the deans, both voiced the opinion that all the young people gained a deeper and more sacred concept of marriage. The deans say that they received nothing but glowing praise from the students about the meetings. The only complaint heard was that the meetings did not last long enough.

Both unmarried and married students join in expressing their appreciation to Elder Dart for the sound counsel he gave them.

A Church Officers' Convention was held at the Boulevard Church in Madison on Sabbath, January 14, attended by officers in the entire area. The MV officers were interested in Elder Dopp's advice concerning MV plans for '61.

As a welcome, Elder Dopp gave small calendars to each officer. Then he acted as quizmaster, with questions related to MV activities. These questions brought out points of interest, such as why young people are leaving the church and what the most important work of the MV society is. The questions were answered in a general discussion.

Another item on the agenda was the discussion of future events.

"Handicapped Can Live Normal Lives," Says Armless Minister

Dr. Harold Wilke, a minister of the Reformed Evangelical Church, born without arms, spoke on the subject "Understanding the Handicapped Person," at Belmont College on Thursday evening, January 19.

Members of the Public Health Nursing and Medical and Surgical Nursing classes and a number of nursing instructors attended the lecture.

According to Dr. Wilke, a handicapped person can live a normal life. He explained how he dresses, shaves, feeds himself, and drives his own car—all with his toes. His demonstrations were all made with dignity and ease.

Dr. Wilke has been active in helping men and women adjust to their handicaps. He has served on the staff of the Menninger Institute in Topeka, has been stationed at rehabilitation centers of the Veterans' Administration, and has been a chaplain in the army. He has recently returned from a tour of the Orient, where the handicapped are considered outcasts, and where he has brought hope and encouragement to such persons.

Dr. Wilke came to Nashville under the auspices of Outlook Nashville, an organization which assists the handicapped.

NEW ARRIVALS

To Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Post, a boy, James Leland, born January 20, weight, 6 pounds, 7 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Twombly, a boy, Gary Wayne, born January 25, weight, 7 pounds, 1 ounce.

On February 11 a youth rally is planned in Nashville.

The MV program for January 14 was "A Tribute to Teachers." Gordon Roberts was the emcee. Verne Miller sang a solo and Frances Keller presented a story which showed a few of the rewards of a dedicated teacher.

On January 21 the Spanish students gave the program. Ruth Jennings' song, slides, and a reading inspired the audience to be ready for heaven.

Senior Sketches

Donna Chalmers

This pretty five-foot, four-inch-tall senior with brown hair and brown eyes is one of the best liked girls of her class. She was born in Hawaii, but since then has moved so many times that she isn't sure which is her home state. A very talented girl, Donna plays piano and organ, sings in the Academy Choir and Academy Girls' Ensemble and plays snare drum in the College Band.

MV Program Given By Academy Group

The academy presented the MV program on Sabbath, January 28. It was mainly musical, with a talk on reverence by David Martin and a poem by Janice Thomson. The musical numbers presented were a song by the boys' group, a solo by Gerri Schlenker, an accordion solo by Marietta Andrus, a solo by Mac McCrillis, a number by the Girls' Trio, and a trumpet solo by David Martin. Thanks are also due the ushers Jewell Seamans, Wanda Scoggins, Harry Phelps, and Ronnie Herman. Others who participated are Arlene Blackburn, who led the song service; Judy Ball, the MV leader; and Joan Aitken, Donnie Watson, and Larry Bowes, who offered prayers.

Music Notes

The academy part of the Music Department has been very busy lately performing at various places. The academy boys' group recently sang two numbers at the san parlor and also two at vespers. On January 14 they gave the special music for the junior Sabbath school. The Academy Trio sang for the church service at Dupontonia the same day.

On January 21 the Girls' Trio favored the youth Sabbath school with a number entitled "More Like Jesus." That evening the Girls' Ensemble performed at the band concert, singing two numbers.

Sabbath afternoon, the Girls' Trio and the boys' group took part on the MV program given by academy students.

ANNUAL ACADEMY MUSIC PROGRAM ON MARCH 4

The Academy Chorus, directed by Mrs. Silver, will present a program on Saturday night, March 4, based on the life and music of Stephen Collins Foster. Often recognized as the first American folk song writer, Stephen Foster's songs are as American as Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July and depict with pathos all the struggles and ideals of young America, rich with a folklore and heritage as yet unexpressed.

Besides selections presented by the full chorus, other features include a girls' chorus, a boys' chorus, the academy ensembles, girls' trio, and solos by Donna Chalmers, Joann Malmade and Sylvia Mitselfelt. Several instrumental selections will also be on the program.

Mrs. Helen Sandborn is directing in the dramatic portion of the program and Mrs. Kunau will be overseeing the costumes. A special stage setting will be a highlight of the program and provide the right atmosphere for the musical selections to be presented.

Anticipations

I thought it might be interesting to ask some of the students just what they were especially looking forward to, so . . . I did. Here are some of the results:

Marietta Andrus—End of exams

Ronnie Herman—Going to California this summer

Harry Phelps—A visit to Mt. Aetna Academy in Maryland soon.

Eva Gill—Junior-Senior picnic

Jim Herman—The girls' banquet

Evelyn Barham—An outing with the Cave Explorers' Club

Daniel Bartell—Summer Vacation

Eva Campbell—Senior trip

Teresa Patterson—Three months of rest and relaxation before college

Wanda Scoggins—Summer vacation

Donnie Watson—Collecting the "debts" he has contracted

Jewell Seamans—A trip that may come during spring vacation

Frieda Parks—Going into Nursing next year

Yea, Juniors!

If you had been outside the chapel about 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, January 17, you would have seen and heard a group of very enthusiastic juniors, resembling Robinhood's Band or a Saint Patrick's Day parade. The reason for the shouts of "Yea, Juniors!" and all the enthusiasm was the fact that they had just received their brand new green jackets. The curiosity of the seniors was finally satisfied as the juniors came proudly into the chapel. The seniors had been trying in every way possible to discover what color the jackets would be.

In case you haven't noticed, they are green with black and white leather trim around the sleeves and pockets. The reverse side is shiny black satin.

Needless to say, the juniors are sure their jackets are the very best yet. Just ask their sponsor, Mr. Watson. You can't miss him in his bright green jacket.
