Ralph M. Davidson Is N.A.N.I. President

Mr. Ralph M. Davidson

Mr. Ralph Davidson, a graduate and former teacher of Madison College, has been appointed president of Madison Sanitarium-Hospital and Madison College. The corporate name of both of these institutions is Nashville Agricultural and Normal Institute (N.A.N.I.).

Mr. Davidson replaces Dr. William C. Sandborn, whose resignation on February 10 was accepted by the N.A.N.I. board.

Mr. Davidson graduated from Madison College in 1934 and later received his master's degree in mathematics at the University of Tennessee. He then taught here in the Mathematics Department for four years. From 1940 to 1945 he was head of the Mathematics Department at Walla Walla College, Washington.

In 1945 he became treasurer of the Southern Publishing Association, holding that position till 1952, when he became administrator of the Good Samaritan Hospital at Woodbury, Tennessee.

For the past four years, up to the time of his appointment to the presidency here at Madison, he has been teaching in the Department of Business at Southern Missionary College, Collegedale, Tennessee.

The Davidsons have four daughters. They are Mrs. June Schmale, graduate nurse at Madison; Mrs. Gene Sellars, nursing instructor at Madison; Mrs. Galen Pettey, Southern Missionary College; and Mrs. Charles Rouse, Coulee Dam, Washington.

MV's to Present Film "A Man Called Peter"

The MV Society will present the film "A Man Called Peter" on Saturday night, March 11. It is the story of the life of Dr. Peter Marshall.

Peter Marshall, who landed in this country as a poor Scottish immigrant, began in 1927 his ministerial career, and within 19 years he had risen to chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

A review of this inspirational film says:

"This is the luminous personal story of a great man of God, written by his wife—a record of an inspired ministry and a warm, truly happy marriage. The opportunity to relive the life of Dr. Peter Marshall through this film provides a rare and unforgettable experience, for he was truly an unusual and memorable man. His inspirational leadership has made its mark on countless thousands of people."

Proceeds from the program are for the new MV office, to be located in the former Dorcas headquarters.

The members of the Senior Class of '61, who will be receiving their B.S. degrees in August, were presented to the student body at chapel on February 20.

In his own inimitable way, Elder Miles Coon, class sponsor, presented each senior in an informal interview. These interviews revealed that Prestley Lowery, an Indian student, plans to return to work with his people in the Carolinas; Joe Fields plans to be a missionary to South America; Ricardo Morales, Juan Anglada, and Angel Jimenez will return to Puerto Rico to work; Raymond Yu plans to teach at the Seventh-day Adventist college in Formosa.

Following are the members of the senior class: Gene Sellars, president; John Dovich, vice-president; Margaret Woodruff, treasurer; Paul Steen, parliamentarian; Richard Sutton pastor; Juan Anglada, Lucy Courter, Elmer Fast, Elaine Ferris, Joe Fields, Sylvia Kaldahl, Angel Jimenez, Ricardo Morales, Sue Vestal, Raymond Yu, Mary Gill, Nelda Ackerman, Raymond Campbell, Beth Edwards, Glenn Ferguson, Rupert Ham-Ying, Robert Kohler, Adil Moosa, June Schmale, and Prestley Lowery.

College teachers and administrators will walk out next Monday, March 6, and turn over their responsibilities to students, who will operate the school and teach the classes for a day.

Gene Sellars, senior class president, will occupy Dean Lynd's office, where he will discharge his responsibilities. Rebecca Culpepper will be the registrar for the day. Kenneth Moore will take Mr. Craw's place in the business office. David Lewis will be dean of men, and Wilma Keller, dean of women. Norma Forrester will act as director of nursing.

The college teachers are choosing students from their classes to teach for the day. The regular teachers will not be present in the classrooms or on the campus.

The administrative officers were elected by ballot by the students at the last ASMC meeting in chapel.

Student Administration Day is an annual event at Madison College, designed to give students an opportunity to gain experience in administration and teaching. It is one of the activities of the student association.

Dean to Attend Conference

Dean Homer R. Lynd will attend the 16th National Conference on Higher Education, to be held in the Morrison Hotel, Chicago, March 5-8.

The theme of the conference is "Goals for Higher Education in a Decade of Decision." Mr. Lynd feels that the topics on the agenda are pertinent to the problems that confront a church-related college such as Madison College.

Seminar Gives Practice in Speaking

One of the active campus organizations is the Seminar, which meets every Friday evening after Vespers. From 30 to 50 young people meet in the chapel and listen to their fellow students present sermonettes. The purpose of the Seminar is to give speech experience for actual participation in church services in nearby churches. A group now goes to Lawrenceburg once a month and groups will soon be visiting other churches.

The officers in the picture are, left to right, Mr. N. R. Gulley, sponsor; Herbert Weise, vice president; Ken Randall, president; David Lewis, pastor; Prestley Lowery, secretary-treasurer.

EDITORIAL

More About the Situation

We are transferring our Roving Reporter's column to the editorial side this time, since it is a response to the questions raised in the editorial of the last MADISONIAN.

YOUR ROVING REPORTER

In response to the urgent plea for suggestions and help that appeared in the last MADISONIAN, I felt it would be well to pursue these questions in further detail. I contacted some of the people at whom these questions were directed.

First of all, let us see what a few of the faculty members belonging to the Student-Teacher Council think the trouble is and the reason why there is not better attendance when this council meets. (All were told their names would be withheld so that they would feel free to express themselves frankly.)

Faculty Member No. 1:

"I feel that these meetings are a very good thing for both students and teachers to participate in. Other duties prevent me from attending as I'd like. As for some of the activities of the organization, I feel that a lot of time is wasted in non-essentials. Many long hours are spent working on the annual and the school paper that could be put to some use in religious activities. The study of our Bibles is often neglected. I feel this is also why a lot of the students are revolting. They, too, must feel that many of these activities are non-essential."

Faculty Member No. 2:

"There is no doubt that a student-teacher interest is needed and a school spirit needs cultivating here at Madison. Much could be accomplished if a few people would get the ball rolling by exercising a little enthusiasm and zeal themselves. Enthusiasm is catching. This has been demonstrated on several occasions. (The bus campaign, for instance.) There is a greater need for students and teachers to praise and boost instead of complain how hard they have to work and how terrible the rules are.

"Perhaps if responsibility were thrown entirely upon the students, it might help. If the MADISONIAN didn't get out on time, would it cause sufficient concern to get action next time? Maybe the students are depending too much on Miss Cowdrick's sponsorship, knowing that it will go on. Would it help if she stepped out of the picture for a while?"

Next we go to a couple of the members of the ASMC who seldom, if ever, attend. What are the reasons for this?

Member No. 1:

"It isn't that I don't think these meetings are not good. My main trouble is that my work prevents me from attending. I have to be at work before sunrise each morning and therefore I just don't feel like engaging in activities at night."

Member No. 2:

"If the meetings are important enough to urge attendance as they do, then why not allow one chapel period every so often to be used for them? Then we could have the entire student body in attendance. Another thing, a lot of the students feel that a damper is put on everything they try to do by the faculty. This prevents good public relations between the two groups."

One of the senior class officers has this to say about the ASMC problems:

"Might not the ASMC be better organized? Maybe the members are bored by the talk going around in circles and the decisions taking so long. Also, when there is open-faced understanding and communication between the college faculty and the student body, there will be, spontaneously, a better all-round spirit."

Faye King Is Miss Student Nurse

Miss Faye King has been chosen to be Miss Madison College Student Nurse for the school year 1960-1961. Miss King is a junior student from Franklin, Tennessee. She will be competing with participants from five other nursing schools in this area for the title Miss Student Nurse of District Three, which comprises the Nashville area. She will be judged on her nursing ability, her activities, and her personal qualifications. She has been active in school life and ably represents the student body of the nursing school. In the picture, Mrs. Sellars, nursing instructor (right), congratulates Miss King upon being chosen Miss Student Nurse.

Nature Club Announces Activities

By FRANCES KELLER

The wonderful arrangement and organization of God's universe was the subject of the discussion at the last Nature Club meeting.

The club announces several interesting features for the coming months. Gary Richmond will give a talk on the much misunderstood and feared creature, the snake, which will be followed by a film, "Snakes, Friends and Foes."

Other topics for coming months are "Curious Animals of the World" and "Plant Life." Shortly after the close of the spring quarter the club members will turn campers and enjoy a weekend outing in Fall Creek State Park, with its 15,777 acres of majestic grandeur, its deep chasms, cascades, and virgin timber.

All those interested in nature are invited to meet with the members on the first Saturday night of each month.

A MADISONIAN staff member has this to say:

"When some members accepted their positions, their programs were balanced so they could do a good job, but now their programs have changed by necessity. They have such a heavy work and study load that they are unable to fulfill satisfactorily the duties demanded by their jobs. Their interest naturally lags when they are overloaded; otherwise, they might be capable staff members interested in the paper. These members, whatever the reason for their lack of interest, should either withdraw and be replaced by other capable persons or rearrange their programs so they can give sufficient time to their position of responsibility."

A freshman girl makes the following comments:

"Anyone who has attended ASMC meetings knows how many, many empty chairs there are and how hard it is to try to get people to help out with different parts of the organization. Could it be that we are trying to do too many things and aren't doing any of them well? We all know that this school is different from most others. Most of us work a good portion of our way. Therefore we don't have as much spare time as most students in other colleges. Yet we try to keep up with the Joneses, to do all the things that students who don't have to work do. The result—we do a multitude of things, but nothing well. Let's do fewer things well."

In the foregoing statements, I find no hint of selfishness among any of the students. True, some of the statements seem to have a selfish appearance, but are we always aware of the underlying reasons? No, we are not. We must not jump to conclusions.

Each of us must feel at least some loyalty or allegiance toward our school. Then we should express our feelings by actions and not mere words. We should show what can actually be done and not merely "blow off" about it! Elaine Ferris

Note: The views reflected in this column are not necessarily those held by the columnist or by the personnel of the MADISONIAN.

Evangelism Class Completes Campaign

The college Evangelism class, in conjunction with the hospital medical and health personnel, has just completed an evangelistic campaign, during which eight meetings were held at the Dupontonia chapel. The theme of the meetings, held from February 13 to February 24, was "Christ Our Hope."

The working together of the medical groups is in harmony with the statement, "In the work of the gospel, teaching and healing are never to be separated." Ministry of Healing, page 141.

In these meetings the medical phase of the gospel, as the "right arm" of the message, proved to be the entering wedge to open hearts to the gospel truths. Each night the medical team presented demonstrations and practical facts which were followed by short inspiring talks given by the youth.

The attendance was good throughout the two weeks. Non-Adventists kept coming night after night. Those who attended took home with them helpful hints, spiritual inspiration, and on one night—samples of whole wheat bread.

The meetings were advertised with 19 large posters displayed in strategic shopping areas. Two thousand handbills were printed and given out in Dupontonia and Old Hickory. Announcements were made over the radio and TV stations, and a write-up of the campaign appeared in the Community News. A 30-foot banner placed across the front of the chapel carried an invitation and items of interest to attract people.

The following organizational committees functioned:

Music: Pat Batchelor, David Kingry, Frances McKee
Advertising: Carole Franklin, Carolyn Cothren, Mary Lou Sandborn

Ushering: Jerry Johnson, Clyde Ball, Lloyd Trivett

Pianists: Frances McKee, Carolyn Cothren

Song leaders: David Kingry, Pat Batchelor

Mon., Feb. 13

Newell Brown: What Is God Like?

Wed., Feb. 15
Dr. G. H. Johnson and Mr. G. Thomas: Whole Wheat Bread Demonstration

Cave Explorers Collect Data in Support of Creationism

By HERBERT SLATER

Mr. Barham helps lower Mrs. Don Martin into Belle Meade Cave. To Mr. Barham's left are Elwood Johnson and Walter Bowen. To his right is Frank Johnson. In the foreground are Mrs. Walter Bowen and Primo Cabalo holding his carbide light.

The past hundred years have seen a rise in intensity in the attempt to overthrow the concept of creation so beautifully stated in Psalms 33:6: "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of His mouth." The Seventh-day Adventist Church is one of the groups attempting to defend this concept, known as Creationism, and Adventist research teams are at work collecting data in many fields and in many lands in support of Creationism.

Here at Madison College a group is collecting data under the earth in support of Creationism. This group is the Madison College Speleologists' Club, whose motto is Psalms 85:11: "Truth shall spring out of the earth, and righteousness shall look down from heaven." Madison College is the only Adventist college having a Speleologists' Club.

The club has taken three study projects so far and hopes to take more later. One project is studying the growth rate of crystalline formations. Creationists believe all such formations grow rapidly, while the opposing school believes they are tens of thousands of years old. Another project is studying daily and seasonal changes in temperature, humidity, and barometric pressure, which will add information on a very interesting problem—that of how bats know when night comes. The third project is studying the cave bats and their life histories. Many Madison students have been introduced to the club's research bats, which were housed for over a month in the Science Building.

There are 21 members in the club. Mr. Vega is the sponsor; Herbert Slater, president; Richard Zerbee, vice president; Esther Perales, treasurer; Darwin Secrist, corresponding secretary; Betty Johnson, recording secretary; Bill Driver, pastor.

Anyone wishing to join the club may apply for membership. The requirements, according to the constitution, are as follows: "Any person of good moral character, being a student enrolled at Madison College, having at least one year of college, at least 12 hours of pure science, and an over-all B average in college, shall be eligible for membership. . . . Any faculty member of Madison College shall be entitled to membership."

Classes Visit Bank, Criminal Court, House Of Representatives

The students of the college accounting and the academy business law classes visited the Commerce Union Bank, House of Representatives, and the Criminal Court on Tuesday, February 21. The students feel that as a result of the trip they have a better understanding of banking and legislative and court procedures.

Choir Braves Weather During Kentucky Trip

The weather played the role of both friend and foe of the College Choir on its recent tour of Kentucky. Friday was a beautiful day for the trip to Louisville, and Sunday, another lovely day for the return trip to Madison. But sandwiched in between them was the worst snowstorm of the winter to hit Kentucky. It began snowing Sabbath morning in Louisville, and by the time the bus got to Pewee Valley a full-scale blizzard had developed. The storm was so blinding and snow was piling up so fast that the appointment at Bowling Green for Saturday night was canceled.

Emergency sleeping quarters were quickly set up at Pewee Valley when it was found that the group was snowbound. A place was finally found for everyone, although 33 had to stay in one house, with the floor for beds for many.

Sunday morning the digging out process began, and by afternoon the roads were cleared to start back home. It took about an hour and a half to go the first 15 miles, but once on the Kentucky turnpike, the bus and the cars had clear sailing back to Madison.

Despite the inclement weather, the programs at Louisville and Pewee Valley were presented as scheduled. At Pewee Valley the choir members did not wear their robes, as the storm was too fierce to unload them from the bus. At both places the programs were much appreciated by the church groups.

MV Flashes

A Youth Rally for the Nashville and the surrounding area was held on Sabbath afternoon and evening, February 11, in the Madison High School gymnasium.

After a lively song service led by Elder Dopp, Elder Foster spoke on the dangers in sending young people to public schools. Later in the afternoon Elder Dopp and some students from Highland explained the "Tell-Ten" evangelism plan. Elder Hillier and a group of Highland students also explained how the spiritual attitude in a school can be improved.

The last event before the supper hour was a musical program by the Highland Academy Choir. The evening entertainment was given by the Highland Academy Tumbling Teams.

New Arrivals

To Mr. and Mrs. Shindo Matsuda, a boy, George, born February 16, weight 8 pounds, 1 3/4 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gulley, a girl, Sharon Ellemae, born February 17, weight, 8 pounds, 2 ounces.

Cumberland Echoes Is Ready for Printers

To the staff of the Cumberland Echoes March 1 means the completion of their work on this year's annual. At this time the annual will be sent to the publishers, who promise that it will be out sometime before the close of the spring quarter.

This year the staff has undertaken the tremendous job of laying out the annual. This part of producing a yearbook involves work, imagination, and, most of all, persistence on the part of the sponsor and the staff.

Both the college and the academy staffs feel that the students will be pleased with their endeavor to produce a good annual.

Students are asked to keep eyes and ears open for the announcement of this year's annual presentation, which will be one of the high lights of the school year.

Elder Rees Shows Pictures of Africa

Elder Don R. Rees, president of the Southern Union, on February 17 and 18 brought a report of his recent three-month tour of Africa, showing colored slides at Friday evening vespers and continuing his description of Africa at the Sabbath morning services.

The colorful slides vividly portrayed African wild life, scenes of the situation in the Congo, natives in gala costume, camp meeting scenes, as well as pictures of native Christians who presented a marked contrast in appearance to the heathen. Elder Rees took all the pictures himself.

It is the practice of the General Conference to send yearly one Union Conference president to some overseas field that he may see for himself conditions that exist and bring to church members in the homeland the inspiration of his visit.

Senior Sketches

Pat Moore

This attractive five-foot, three and one-half-inch-tall senior, with long, blond hair and clear blue eyes, comes to us from the sunny state of Florida. She is one of those "fireball" seniors with a keen sense of humor and a personality that would be hard to top. Because of this, she is very popular among her classmates and well liked by everyone. Pat takes part in all school activities and also sings in the Academy Choir.

Pet peeve: "People who make noise when I'm trying to sleep"

Hobby: Swimming

Favorite food: Chile

Ambition: To be a medical record technician

Frieda Parks

Five feet, three inches tall, Frieda, with blond hair and blue eyes, is a very friendly and likable senior with a sweet smile and plenty of friends. Virginia is Frieda's home state, and this is her first year at Madison. She also has a swell personality and a real sense of humor, and it doesn't take very long to find that out. She informs us that since her arrival in Tennessee, she has learned many new things and plans to learn much more.

Pet peeve: People that are stuck up

Hobby: Sewing

Favorite food: Shortcake

Ambition: To be a dietitian

Joann Malmade

Joan's five feet, four inches, her shining dark brown hair, beautiful brown eyes, and clear, olive complexion give her all the qualities of a very pretty girl. She originally came from the state of Ohio, but now she is a resident of Nashville, Tennessee. Her sweet disposition and friendly attitude help her in making the many friends she has. Joann has a lovely solo voice, and her talent is appreciated by all. She sings in the Academy Choir and in the Girls' Ensemble. She also plays the piano.

Pet peeve: "Those who try to make you think they are someone when they are not."

Hobby: Singing, playing the piano

Favorite food: Fresh vegetables

Ambition: To be an elementary teacher

King and Queen of Courtesy Are Crowned

David Reams and Janice Thomson present boxes of candy to Mary Chisenhall, queen, and Johnny Sellars, king.

February 6-10 was set aside by the Academy Forum officers as Courtesy Week. The purpose of the week was to make everyone more aware of good manners. The president of the Forum had appointed courtesy scouts to find the most courteous boy and girl in the academy. Since no one knew who these scouts were, everyone had to be on guard constantly if he wanted to have a chance to be courtesy king or queen.

Mary Chisenhall and Johnny Sellars were announced as king and queen in chapel on February 14. Amid a roar of applause they were crowned by David Reams and Janice Thomson, the president and secretary of the Academy Forum. The king and queen were each presented with a two-pound box of chocolates.

The scouts who had been chosen—two from each class—were Nellie Campbell, Jim Auge, Loretta Sullivan, Lawrence Evans, Bunny Knight, Ken Reid, Arlene Blackburn, and Jim Roberts.

Reverse Courtesy Day

If you had been down in the Dem Building on February 15, you might have seen Eva Gill carrying a whole stack of boys' books, or Rosalene Morris holding the drinking fountain for an extra long line of boys! You could have seen almost any girl holding a door open for several boys to pass through. The reason for the girls' treating the boys so graciously—Reverse Courtesy Day. The girls really enjoyed themselves and the boys did, too.

One of the teachers was heard to remark that he didn't always see the boys doing all those things for the girls. Certainly the boys don't want anyone to think the girls are more courteous than they. Perhaps they, as well as the girls, should brush up on manners.

ACADEMY MUSIC PROGRAM

March 4, 1961 — 8:30 P.M.

Students Take Over On February 13

Academy students took over the administration of the academy on Monday, February 13.

David Reams, principal, and Janice Thomson, secretary to the principal, occupied the principal's office for the day and carried out the duties of the day very well.

Students also taught the classes for the day. In the Mathematics Department teachers were Larry Bowes, Bobby Bowes, and Linda Brashears. David Titsworth, Fred Schwarz, Robert Florida, and Paul Johnson endeavored to transfer knowledge from the sciences to the students. In the Secretarial Science Department were Judy Ball, Laneta Scoggins, and Teresa Patterson.

Our two athletes, Caroline Kowalski and George Smothermon, headed Physical Education.

Taking over the Bible classes were David Martin, Ed Reid, Donna Chalmers, and David Reams. The English teachers were Mary Chisenhall, Jim Roberts, Pat Moore, and Sylvia Mitzelfelt. Marietta Andruss and Evelyn Barham taught history classes.

Tom Young taught Auto Mechanics; Ethel Kemp, home economics; Ken Reid, Spanish; and Joel Crow, mechanical drawing.

The regular teachers were at school that day, but spent the day visiting classes other than the ones they usually teach.

The day's program, carefully planned by the Academy Forum, was a real success.
