Student Nurses To Receive Caps

Twenty-four student nurses will receive their caps and insignia in a capping ceremony to be held in Helen Funk Assembly Hall on Sunday evening, July 2, at 7:30 p.m.

These nurses were accepted on the floor in March and are finishing their probationary period before being accepted into full membership as professional student nurses.

New Date Announced For Entering Nursing

The School of Nursing announces that from now on it will admit only one class a year into nursing, instead of two, as formerly. The class to be capped on July 2 is the last March class to be accepted.

Beginning this fall, students will be accepted into nursing in September after completing one quarter's college work. This means that academy and high school graduates can qualify for the September class provided they take class work during the summer quarter.

Twenty-seven prospective nursing students are enrolled this summer quarter, who are looking forward to being accepted into nursing in September.

Mrs. Watson Attends Seminar for Deans

Mrs. L. W. Watson, dean of women, spent the week of June 19-24 in Chicago attending a seminar of the Christian Association for Deans. This is an organization for the deans of women of Christian colleges in North America. The meetings were held at the Moody Bible Institute.

Mrs. Watson says: "I feel that I have been greatly enriched by going, and that, as a result of my attendance, we should have a better year this coming school year."

ATS Activities Continue

New Teachers Join Madison Staff

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Oakes, former teachers at Madison College, have returned to connect with the college. Mr. Oakes is the new registrar. He will also teach some classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakes and two children have recently returned from a period of service in the mission field. Mr. Oakes was director of the Bugema Training School in Africa and Mrs. Oakes was connected with the mission hospital as a nurse.

Before going to Africa they both taught at Madison College. Mr. Oakes was dean of men, personnel director, and teacher. Mrs. Oakes was director of nurses.

Their two children are Frances and Billy, ages eleven and eight, respectively.

Mr. John Ryals and family have arrived from St. Petersburg, Florida, to join the Madison College Academy teaching staff. Mr. Ryals will teach English and science.

Mr. Ryals holds an M.A. degree in secondary education from the University of Florida. He has taught for seven and one-half years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryals, their three girls, and one boy are living in one of the brick homes on Larkin Springs Road.

Miss Rebecca Culpepper was one of the speakers at the Temperance Rally on June 11 at the Kentucky-Tennessee Campmeeting. Miss Culpepper presented her temperance oration which gave her first place in the contest held at the college this spring. The presentation was well received; in fact, several ministers requested a tape of it. The plan is to supply these tapes to them as soon as campmeeting is over.

Churches See Film

A large group of people representing most of the churches in the Madison area gathered at the Madison Church of Christ on Sunday afternoon, June 4, to view the film on alcohol, "Pay the Piper," an ATS film. The film was much appreciated by the interested audience. The Presbyterian Church has since requested the showing of the film to their group. The purpose of this temperance rally at the Church of Christ was to marshal and organize all Christian citizens of the immediate area in an effort to eradicate the sale of beer and alcohol as well.

Wednesday morning at 10:00 a.m. on June 7 more than 400 interested citizens appeared before the Davidson County Beer Board in protest of certain establishments serving beer which are often scenes of violence and a nuisance to the community. Protests will continue to be made to the Beer Board until the men on the Board realize that the citizens of Madison will not stand for such degrading business in their community.

Summer Enrollment Reaches 250

The summer enrollment at Madison College is 250, including a few who are full-time work students. Ninety of these are taking freshman classes.

The July MADISONIAN will contain a complete roster of summer quarter students.

Mrs. Watson reports that the four ladies' residence halls are full to overflowing, with three in some rooms. This is a larger enrollment of girls than during the other quarters of the past year.

Nursing Student Is Honored

Biology Department Receives Gift

The Biology Department is the recipient of a gift from Mrs. Jeanette Sego, of the Physical Therapy Department, which is appreciated very much. Mrs. Sego presented a nice supply of aquarium equipment, including seven five-gallon and ten-gallon aquariums with fish, two motor-driven aerating pumps, and filtering equipment for the tanks.

Probably the most interesting fish to most people, on first observation, have been the catfish, plecostomus, one of which was so large that it was transferred to the 40-gallon tank in the glass room. Among the other fish are to be found guppies, gold fish, kissing gourami, corydoras, zebra, and other tropical fish. This contribution to the Biology Department is a valuable one, for which Mr. Zeigler and the department express sincere thanks to Mrs. Sego.

Miss Pat Sheffield, nursing student, was honored by the American Temperance Society when it chose her poster, titled "The Web of Insecurity," as the second best in the nation among Seventh-day Adventist colleges. Miss Sheffield's reward was a check for $35.00.

In the spring of each year all the competing colleges sponsor, through their local temperance chapters, various contests in the field of temperance, such as orations, jungles, posters, and essays. Miss Sheffield chose the poster contest as her area of activity. Her winning poster showed a spider's web and within this web was a person in despair surrounded by a cigarette, a liquor bottle, narcotic pills, and an injection syringe.

As the award was made in chapel, Miss Sheffield was honored as a student nurse whose life purpose is to be of help to those who find themselves in the clutches of this Santanic web.

EDITORIAL

Hats Off to Henry!

Now that the school year is about over and the dust is beginning to settle, it might be well to take a look at some of the accomplishments of the ASMC during the current year and also give some long overdue credit where credit is due.

Probably the biggest accomplishment of the year was the acquisition of a relatively new Trailways bus to replace the old bus which the school has been using for many years. Another outstanding achievement of the student association was the construction of brand new offices for the MV Society and the ASMC. These offices, which overlook the campus from the Assembly Hall, will be the future home of the two organizations. Another area where a vast improvement was made is in the recreation area to the south of Williams Hall. Giant floodlights were erected and the grounds were landscaped to afford a suitable place for outdoor recreation.

The strides which have been made during the past nine months can be attributed largely to the persevering efforts of a man who had only one thought in mind, and that was to give to the students and the faculty of Madison College something which they could be proud of as well as find useful. His efforts to coordinate the students into an energetic working body have been very inspiring and have borne the mark of true leadership. As president of the ASMC, he has set a high standard which future candidates will do well to consider. The theme of his program all year has been "progress," and he has demonstrated it with tireless action instead of tiresome talk.

While we wouldn't take away any of the credit from others who helped in making the year a success, we would just like to say "hats off" to Henry Scoggins, the man who had a vision of what could be done and then rolled up his sleeves and went to work, never tiring until the job was completed. The students of Madison can be proud to have had such an able leader as their president. R. B.

Miss Petra Sukau, Class of 1958, now a missionary nurse in Burma, is pictured with her first class of midwives which she graduated recently from the Rangoon Mission Hospital.

Alumni News

A favorite music group, the Silvertones, were together once again this month. Pat Silver, Eulene Borton, and Jo Ann Gibbons Jones, who began singing together during their student days, again delighted several audiences with their vocal trios. The three also spent a few days together practicing, preparatory to recording some selections which they hope will be accepted for publication.

Eulene and Leroy Borton are living in Paris, Texas, where Leroy is lab and X-ray technician.

Jo Ann Jones is nursing at a hospital in Dyersburg, Tennessee, where her husband, Haskell, is a lab technician. Besides her nursing, Jo Ann is in charge of the Seventh-day Adventist Health and Welfare Center at Dyersburg. Her enthusiastic report at campmeeting of what this center is doing was an inspiration to all, especially to her Madison friends.

This is the last time the trio will be together before a still wider separation takes place, for Bob and Pat Silver will be leaving at the close of the summer for their new work at Shenandoah Valley Academy in New Market, Virginia.

At a recent MV meeting letters from former students now in the mission field were read.

Petra Sukau, Box 977, SDA Hospital, Rangoon, Burma, writes of her busy program from 7 a.m. till 7:30 p.m. She, with five students, has been seeing 2700 patients this year. She tells of pulling her first teeth about three weeks ago.

In her letter, which, unfortunately, has been misplaced and cannot be quoted from, she counsels student nurses to put forth every effort to learn all they can, for they do not know where they will be called for service. She tells how important it is to learn to understand people and to be able to get along with people. "Don't be satisfied with learning just what is in the textbooks," she says.

From Hospital Belem, Para, Brazil, Jack Gibbons writes:

"You ask if my work is satisfying. Yes, I can say it is. It is satisfying to know that maybe you are doing something to help someone else. Sometimes many of our students graduate in the States only to step into high-paying jobs. . . .

"You asked for information on mission work: . . . There is a big adjustment one has to make in coming to the mission field, and his happiness depends on how well he adjusts. . . . He must adjust to the climate. This climate here is terrible—hot all the time. He must learn a new language. His English is almost useless. He must adjust to a different people, different customs, different foods. He must go through all kinds of work to properly clean his foods. . . . A missionary is a long way from his friends and loved ones, and is subject to all kinds of diseases. In spite of all this, being a missionary is satisfying when he sees souls being baptized because of his efforts. . . . If I had my college days to live over . . . I would study some things that I did not study that now I have to learn from experience. . . ."

Ronald and Beverly Bottsford have recently received a call to Mato Grosso, in the Brazilian Union, where Ronald has been asked to be departmental secretary. Ronald, a graduate of Southern Missionary College this year and a former Madison student, is the son of missionary doctor Elmer Bottsford, M.D., and Mrs. Bottsford, a graduating nurse this year at Madison College. Beverly is the daughter of Chaplain Hegstad, of the sanitarium here. The young people will be leaving in a few months.

Miss Delphia Ladner, Class of 1960, has returned to Tennessee after spending a year in the northwest. She is now office nurse for Doctors Osborne and Gillet, at Hendersonville.

Faye Champion Theobald, R.N., Class of '60, and little Sherrie, five months old, visited friends on the campus recently. Faye's address is Mrs. Faye Theobald, 6103 Dahlia Drive, Orlando, Florida.

MARY KATE GAFFORD

Now that summer and vacation time (for many) are here, your plans for recreation should include some time for reading good books. Would you like to travel? Why not go with Ana Stahl of the Andes and Amazon to her mission field and read of her experiences as told by Barbara Westphal in the book of that name? The call number is 922.67 Stlw.

Perhaps you would prefer to visit a well-known and much beloved leader in the Advent movement, Charles S. Longacre, Champion of Religious Liberty. Let him tell you some of the thrilling experiences of his career. Call for 922.67 L85k.

Do you teach, or are you planning to teach, or just undecided? Why not let Amos L. Herold give you some pointers in the story of his life as told in I Chose Teaching? The call number is 922.773 H43h.

Of course you will not want to miss reading The Seventh Day, by Booton Herndon—the story of our own denomination as told by one not of our faith. You will not want to put it down until you have read the last word. Thrilling, engrossing, fascinating, exciting, authentic, objective, unprejudiced, are just a few of the adjectives used in advertising this "unique volume," which enables us to "see ourselves as others see us." The call number is 286.7 H43s.

To those who are especially interested in the writings of Ellen G. White, we would like to call attention to the set of nineteen volumes in the reading room, which contain photographic reproductions of her writings as they appeared in the Review and Herald from 1851 to 1915.

Faculty News

President and Mrs. Ralph Davidson have moved into their Madison home on Larkin Springs Road. This is the former home of Mrs. Doris Thomson, who now lives on the campus in the house formerly occupied by the Fragolas.

Mr. Homer Lynd, dean of the college, and Mr. Harold Keplinger, academy principal, are attending principals' convention at Broadview Academy, in Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Eusey spent a pleasant vacation in Pennsylvania attending the wedding of their daughter Nancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Forrester are vacationing at present, visiting their parents.

The sands of time reached the bottom of the hourglass last week. It was time to turn the glass over and begin a new quarter—a new quarter with new names, new faces, new books, and new rules.

But before we turned the glass over, we glanced through our diary and reviewed what had happened during the past few weeks.

Academy graduation came to our mind first, graduation with its memories and tears. We wish you lots of luck, graduates, as you take a big step on the stairway to success.

They said it couldn't be done, so he tried, and it couldn't. It seems that David Hope was trying to take a picture of himself. Cheer up, David. We're sure the camera didn't break because of what was in front of it.

The day the swimming pool opened Roger Bradley and Jim Herman celebrated its opening by going for a swim with all their clothes on. The silliest part is that they claim some girls threw them in.

There were many radiant June brides this year. They are trying out the theory, "Two can live as cheaply as one" (if one doesn't eat). Don't worry, moms and dads at home; marriage isn't a fad—it's a tradition.

During vacation the campus seemed like no man's land (because there were hardly any boys here). We're glad to see the old students return from vacation, tired and tanned. They returned from many places, including Mississippi, Arkansas, Indiana, Florida, and even Daisy, Tennessee. They probably felt like strangers upon returning because of the many new students. (Don't worry, new ones. You'll soon be over your homesickness.)

Every night during campmeeting our school bus took those that wished to go. One night as the driver, Elmer Fast, was driving slow, the bus came to a rattling stop, approximately three miles from Highland. An urgent plea went to the audience to go out in cars and bring the students to campmeeting. In spite of difficulties, everyone got there and gained a rich blessing that night. In fact, all during campmeeting all of us who attended received many blessings.

The rest of our diary up to date doesn't bear publishing so widely. You know how diaries are. So with many good wishes for all those fortunate ones who don't have summer school and for the parents of the students here and all others, we bid you adieu.

BETTY AND ESTHER

Mrs. Josephine Cunningham Edwards will be the speaker at the Sabbath services on July 15 and possibly at Vespers on Friday night, July 14.

Mrs. Edwards, missionary, author, teacher, and homemaker, will speak on subjects of interest and importance to all classes of listeners.

She brings from Africa a wealth of appealing missionary stories that are told as only she can. As a successful mother, she gives practical and down-to-earth advice to young people and to parents.

Mrs. Edwards is the author of many stories appearing in the Youth's Instructor and other papers and also of a number of books such as The Enchanted Pillowcase, I Saw Thee, Philip, and Children Can Be Taught.

She is the mother of Elder Charles G. Edwards, at one time pastor of the Madison Boulevard Church, and Bob Edwards, a member of the Voice of Prophecy quartet. Her husband, Elder Lowell Edwards, is a minister in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference.

Madison Girls Work For Scholarships

Five Madison girls have joined the large group of student colporteurs working for scholarships in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference this summer.

Carol Watson, Mary Wiersma, and Mary Chisenhall are in Memphis, and Rosalene McColpin and Pat Batchelor Bullock are working in Nashville and Columbia.

Seniors to Receive Gift Subscriptions

All academy and college seniors will be given gift subscriptions to the MADISONIAN for the remainder of 1961, Editor Wayne Hayes announces.

Believing that the tie between the graduate and his alma mater is strongest during the first year after graduation, the MADISONIAN staff feels that regular visits of the school paper will strengthen this tie and make it more lasting.

Wedding Bells

Limon - Pang

Ramona Limon and Peter Pang were united in marriage on June 4 in the Madison Boulevard Church. Ramona and Peter have left for California, where they plan to continue their education at Pacific Union College.

Limon - Henderson

Agida Limon and Kenneth Henderson said their vows on June 18 in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall at Madison College. The couple are in the Smokies on their honeymoon. They plan to continue their education here at Madison.

Batchelor - Bullock

Patricia Batchelor and Johnny Bullock were united in matrimony on June 5 in the Helen Funk Assembly Hall. They have returned to the campus, where Johnny has resumed his work in the business office.

Fontaine - Saucedo

Gwen Fontaine and Abimelec Saucedo were married on June 4 in the Madison Sanitarium parlor. They plan to go to Columbia Union College where Abimelec will take pre med.

Powell - Domke

Janet Powell and Eugen Domke took their vows on June 3 in the Madison Sanitarium parlor. They are in British Columbia, Canada, this summer. They will return to Madison this fall to continue their education.

New - Neil

Amelda New and Jay Neil were united in marriage on June 18 at Pine Forest Academy, Chunky, Mississippi, where Jay is the dean of men. Amelda attended Madison College during the winter and spring quarters.

Portalatin - Lancaster

Elenia Portalatin and Johnny Lancaster were united in marriage June 1 in the home of Elder Stewart. They plan to go to Wytheville, Virginia, where they will work in the hospital.

Eusey - Johnson

Nancy Lee Eusey and Philip Gerald Johnson were married at Wattsburg, Pennsylvania, on June 18. Their future home will be at Corry, Pennsylvania, where Mr. Johnson will be employed by the Ecclesiastical Furniture Company.

Blackwelder - Grover

Marilyn Blackwelder and William Grover were married at the Madison Boulevard Church on June 25. Mr. and Mrs. Grover will make their home in Takoma Park, Maryland, where both will be employed at the Washington Sanitarium.

The MADISONIAN extends congratulations to these couples and wishes them happiness in their new homes.

Camp Out for Week

A group of Madison College seniors enjoyed a week at Indian Creek Camp, the Kentucky-Tennessee camp located on Center Hill Lake about 63 miles from here.

Among the high lights of the week were canoeing quietly along the shore and observing unsuspecting wild life at close range, swimming, and sleeping as long as one desired. On Wednesday, when Elder Dopp came with his boat and skis, some tried water skiing.

The only major accident was suffered by Elder Coon, class sponsor, when he was bitten by one of the camp's horses. Minor accidents included a sprained ankle and insect bites.

Madison Foods Are Demonstrated

Representatives from Madison Foods are visiting campmeetings in all parts of the United States this summer demonstrating and advertising the vegetarian protein foods manufactured at Madison. Reports coming in indicate that the Madison products are well received and that business is good.

New Look for Post Office

The Madison College United States Post Office is presenting a new look since its recent renovation. Instead of the double wooden doors, one large steel door with glass bricks on either side forms the entrance. All walls are now wood paneled. Grill work over the ceiling covers the steam pipes. A new concrete floor, painted green, also adds to the appearance of the post office.

New Arrivals

To Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shouppe, a girl, Tonia Lynn, born May 2, weight, 5 pounds 13¼ ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. John Dovich, a boy, Stephen John, born May 19, weight, 7 pounds, 2 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Owens, a girl, Jerylynn, born May 19, weight, 7 pounds, 10 ounces.

To Norma (Cantrell) and M. P. Osborne, a boy, Kevin Preston, born May 24, weight 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

To June and Ronald Schmale, a girl, Ronda June, born June 8, weight, 7 pounds, 11¾ ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Tedd Snyder, a boy, Donald Lee, born June 10, weight, 7 pounds, 4 ounces.

Thirty Academy Seniors Receive Diplomas

Thirty seniors received diplomas on Saturday night, June 3, 1961, at the annual commencement of Madison College Academy.

Class Night

Graduation weekend opened on Thursday night, June 1, with the traditional class night program, in which more than half the class participated. The program was opened with the introduction of the seniors, as each girl, formally dressed, and each boy, wearing dark trousers, white coat, and bow tie, took his place in the center of a giant, sparkling star while his name and home state were read to the audience. The decorations consisted of revolving colored lights, a smaller star on each side of the large one with the aim and motto respectively on each, big white fluffy clouds beside the giant star, and a profusion of flowers.

The opening number was a trumpet solo entitled "Toy Trumpet," played by David Martin, who also gave the president's address. The salutatory address was given by Evelyn Barham and the valedictory address by Judy Ball.

The musical numbers were appropriate and well performed. "Graduation Day" was presented by the senior girls' ensemble, made up of Donna Chalmers, Jo Ann Houser, Claudia Kunau, Arlene Blackburn, Sylvia Mitselfelt, Joann Malmade, Gerri Schlenker, and Teresa Patterson.

A trio of senior girls—Claudia Kunau, Sylvia Mitselfelt, and Joann Malmade—sang "The Halls of Ivy," and Mac McCrillis sang another graduation day song. Sylvia Mitselfelt and Claudia Kunau played the "Arensky Waltz" for two pianos.

Lovely corsages of white orchids and white carnation boutonnieres were presented to the parents by each class member. Betty Lea and James Roberts had charge of this exercise. The class prophecy was given by Ethel Kemp and Arlene Blackburn, and Laneta Scoggins gave the class history, which was illustrated with childhood pictures of class members thrown on the screen. Eva Campbell and David Martin presented the class gift of four classroom electric clocks. Pat Moore and John Aitken read the class will.

The benediction was pronounced by the class pastor, Ronny Sullivan. Mary Lou Sullins was organist for the occasion.

Consecration

Elder W. E. Dopp gave the consecration sermon on Friday night, David Reams gave the response of the class to the challenge, and Elder Joe Reams led in the consecration prayer. Gilbert Jorgenson, of Winchester, Tennessee, sang "Teach Me to Pray."

Baccalaureate

The baccalaureate sermon was given by Elder M. D. Oswald, of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference. The prelude was a trumpet duet, Bach's "My Spirit Be Joyful," with Mr. George Walper at the organ and Patricia Silver and David Martin on the trumpets. "The Lord Is My Shepherd" was presented by Dr. Harold Mitselfelt, cellist; Mrs. George Thornton, violinist; and Mrs. Harold Mitselfelt, pianist.

"Hearing the Call of Another Drummer," was the theme of Elder Oswald's message.

Commencement

Chaplain John Keplinger, Seventh-day Adventist army chaplain just back from a tour of duty in Korea, and brother of Principal Harold Keplinger, gave the commencement address, with its challenge of the future. Mr. Harold Keplinger presented the diplomas, and President Ralph Davidson accepted the class as presented to him. Dvorak's "Largo," from the New World Symphony, better known to many as "Going Home," was played as a cornet solo by Mrs. Bob Silver.

Scholastic Honors

This year the Academy had a problem which had never confronted them before: Who was to be chosen valedictorian and who was to be salutatorian? Three young people had tied for highest honors, with straight A averages. David Martin, Judy Ball, and Evelyn Barham were equally qualified. Inasmuch as David was already class president and would give the president's address, Evelyn was given the honor of giving the salutatory address, and Judy, vice president, gave the valedictory address. Mr. Keplinger announced that all three were of equal rank.

Sabbath School

The academy seniors were in charge of Sabbath school on graduation weekend, with Donna Chalmers acting as superintendent, Ethel Kemp as secretary, and David Reams as teacher of the lesson. A girls' quartet, composed of Claudia Kunau, Donna Chalmers, Sylvia Mitselfelt, and Joann Malmade, sang "Give of Your Best to the Master." Prayer was offered by Arlene Blackburn. The closing song, "To Do Thy Will," was sung by Sylvia Mitselfelt and Tommy Young. The benediction was pronounced by Robert Florida.

Paul Johnson, Tommy Young, Gerri Schlenker, and Claudia Kunau, representing missionaries at a mission station in Africa, gave the mission appeal. The real appeal was given by a native, Mrs. Alice Siwundila, better known here in America as "Alice Princess," who came up from Oakwood College to present the need for funds for training schools in her homeland. Many will remember seeing her on "This Is Your Life," at the time she and her family were flown to California to be on the program.

This same mission feature was presented by the seniors at the last Sabbath school of campmeeting. Also, David Martin played a trumpet solo and Donna Chalmers sang a solo.
