It Can Be Done

A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

Homer R. Lynd

It is safe, I believe, to assume that this space age in which we are living has added many complexities to character development. This should require our careful attention, for we are told that the object of education, the great object of life, is "To restore in man the image of his Maker, to bring him back to the perfection in which he was created, to promote the development of body, mind, and soul, that the divine purpose in his creation might be realized."

This is the reason for the basic philosophy of Madison College today—the philosophy of work while obtaining an education. This, of course, is not a new philosophy. Ben Franklin has said, "An hour's industry will do more to produce cheerfulness, suppress evil humors and retrieve your affairs than a month's moaning." I was reading an article recently in which Will Durant was quoted as saying, "The two ways to develop character are through hardship and responsibility."

Madison College offers this type of character development, this type of education. An education that is more than physical training, more than mental discipline, such an education develops character. "Character," someone said, "is what you are alone and in the dark." This is what others see in us when we feel we are not being observed, when we go to town, or are at home during vacations.

In your stay here at Madison College, you will have an oppor-

Convention of Self-supporting Workers to Be Held Oct. 12-15

The Fifty-first Annual Convention of Southern Self-supporting Workers will convene at Madison College October 12-15. The following guest speakers have been announced:

Dr. Raymond Moore, vice-president of Loma Linda University, who will speak on the work-education program in our schools.

Dr. John Scharffenberg, director of the International Nutrition Research Foundation, Arlington, California, who will present two topics: "How to Postpone Your Heart Attack," and "Proper Replacement of Meat."

Cecil Coffey, secretary of Public Affairs for the Southern Union, and editor of Southern Tidings, who will conduct a panel discussion on "Institutional Public Relations."

For the agricultural and rural living program, Adolph Johnson, principal of Pine Forest Academy, will conduct a symposium, one part of which will be on "Raising What we Eat, and Eating What We Raise." Also, in this symposium, Roger Goodge will speak on "Common Edible Wild Plants," a topic of special interest for "Operation Survival." Present world conditions indicate that man may soon find it useful to be able to recognize wild plants, weeds, and herbs that could be used as emergency foods.

Another feature of interest will be the exhibits by the units and visitors.

Students who wish to attend the meetings may be excused from classes, according to Dean Lynd.

Out-of-town visitors should notify the secretary of the Laymen's Extension League, Mable H. Towery, Madison College. Rooms are provided free, but the visitors may need to bring their own bedding. Meal tickets will be on sale.

Nurses Operate First Aid Booth at Fair

Madison College student nurses operated a booth at the Tennessee State Fair from September 18 through September 23, at which first aid was given to any needing it. People were treated for cuts, bruises, and other injuries received during the fair. Dorothy Maxwell, one of the students taking part in the booth, said, "It was a wonderful opportunity for us to witness

It's back to school again for 350 college students who have enrolled to take fall-quarter classwork and get the 1961-62 school year off to an enthusiastic start.

Representing states from every part of the union and countries from every continent, a veritable United Nations has come together for the purpose of obtaining a Christian education at Madison College.

Before getting down to the serious business of teaching and studying, the faculty and students enjoyed two occasions of fun and relaxation together.

The first was a faculty-student reception in the cafeteria on Saturday night, September 16, at which the faculty were formally introduced to the students. Following the introductions, the students played several get-acquainted games.

Then, on September 21, after registration was completed, the annual fall picnic was held. A bright, beautiful autumn sun, which shone all day, brought the students out to the recreational area. Baseball games, horseshoe matches, volleyball, badminton, and many other games kept everyone busy throughout the day.

A special booth was set up in the center of the recreational area by the student association, and free popcorn and lemonade were served by President Eugen Domke and his willing assistants. Meals were also served out under the canopy of a blue sky. A series of marches, led by Dean Lynd, completed the day's activities.

With recreation and registration out of the way, class work began in earnest on September 24, as the sound of bells, buzzers, pencil sharpeners, and scurrying feet brought the classrooms to life again.

HOUR OF POWER

Receive spiritual strength for today. Pray with your friends Sunday through Friday at 12:30 in the faculty room.

Volleyball, badminton, horseshoe, and refreshments under the willow tree down at the recreation area were popular on picnic day.

Welcome to Madison

The 1961-1962 school year is off to a running start with full classes, bulging dormitories, and many new students. The MADISONIAN staff wishes to extend a hearty welcome to those new students and also to the returning students.

To the new students we would like to say that Madison is traditionally a friendly school. We hope you find this to be true as you go about making new acquaintances. Also, we want to urge everyone to pitch right in and take an active part in campus and class functions. There are many activities which will be open to interested participants.

Many students are timid and hesitant about expressing themselves if their opinions differ from others on any subject and taking part in group activities. Don't let this be your fate. We're here to learn and to enjoy ourselves while we are learning. No one's opinion or contribution is dispensable if it is worthwhile.

Another thing; The MADISONIAN is the official voice of the students of Madison College. Everyone is therefore invited to express his or her opinions freely and at anytime in its pages, as long as space permits.

And, as incoming editor, I want to express my personal gratitude to those who have placed their confidence in me as editor. Also, I give special thanks to the rest of the MADISONIAN staff for being willing to take time out of their busy schedules to support the paper. May 1961-62 be a happy and prosperous school year for us all.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

As much as I would like to, it would be almost impossible to see and thank each student and teacher individually who visited me while I was a patient in the hospital from September 9 to 27 as a result of an auto accident. Therefore, I would like to take this means of contacting each and every one of you to say a very special "Thank You" for your visits, your love and concern, and your prayers for my recovery.

It has meant more to me than you'll ever know, and my prayer is that I can have the privilege of doing something for you that will let you know how much I love and appreciate you. I know that God sent me your way, and that I am a much better person for having been a student, worker, and patient at Madison College and Hospital.

May God's richest blessings be upon each of you who has made such a valuable contribution to my life. Continue, please, your prayers for my recuperation and for my early return to my duties at the hospital.

Lovingly and gratefully,
Frances M. Winters

Off the Record

We want to welcome first of all the students coming back to Madison from vacation or wherever they may have been. Second, we want to extend a hearty welcome to the new students seeking new adventures at college. We know you'll find them here.

Speaking of new adventures, here are just a few of the many that some have had:

Priscilla "Jerry" Brown said, "I've never been any longer than three days from home in my life."

Another girl had a new adventure Saturday night after the pictures. A boy walked up to her and asked her if she had a date for the candlelight hour. "No," she said. He answered, "Well, you do now." Brave boy!

The first days of classes found many wandering out of the wrong classrooms into the right class. Lloyd Fitch was such a wanderer. He walked past the class several times before he discovered he even had a class that period.

Then Tuesday and time for the first chapel came, with people looking up and down the aisles, counting, pointing, and searching everywhere, trying to find their chapel seats.

Mr. Blankenship, one of our shorter-in-stature members of the faculty, took his little boy Kevin down to the swimming pool the other day. Kevin, admiring the big lifeguard, looked up to him and said, "When my daddy grows up, he's going to be a lifeguard, too."

Have you noticed how much some of the students resemble each other—and they are not twins, either? Juan Anglada mistook Jean Tucker, one of a set of twins, for Betty Miller. Then Roger Bradley was a little mixed up, too. He paid Phyllis Bergen for a book he bought from Pat Ricks. Leave it to the boys to mix things up.

Let's hope everybody gets everybody else straightened out and we all have many happy adventures during the months to come.

Through the Keyhole

By JERRY BROWN AND VIVIAN GRANDE

If you are looking for a different kind of beverage to serve at your next gab session, you might try Peggy Capps' favorite—soybean punch. . . . Say, have you folks noticed the cute janitors we girls have working in Williams Hall? They kind of dress up a broom, don't they? . . . Who was the girl who yelled "Man in the hall!" as a little four-year-old in "britches" wandered into Williams Hall? Girls, please! Let's not panic! . . . Those who find they are short on Kleenex should contact Pat Felder. She was given a generous supply for her birthday. . . . What's this I hear about Barbara Graham staying out all night? (Could it be she likes working double shifts at the San?) . . . Why not ask Eloise Langford who got the giggles during convocation? . . . Who was it who said she wanted her "buggag" and "luggage" sent up right away? Jerry Brown? No! that couldn't be; that's me! . . . Dering convocation Dean Lynd stated that by the end of the year he felt sure we would love Elder Straw as he did. We've got news for Dean Lynd. Elder Straw's keen sense of humor, mixed with his quiet, unspoken demand for respect, have already won our love and admiration. We students are indeed blessed with an overflowing abundance of teachers who enjoy working with young people.

Among the latest books to arrive on our campus which you simply must read are:

Relax and Live, by Joseph A. Kennedy, "America's No. 1 authority on the technique of relaxation." Sounds rather interesting, doesn't it? Especially for a hard-working, weary Madisonian, tied to a tight program. It's very practical, too. It tells you ways to work without fatigue, ways to obtain sound sleep, how to keep from hurrying yourself to death, and discusses subjects of vital importance to modern men and women. The call number is 131.3 K38r.

China Doctor, the life story of Harry Willis Miller, by Raymond S. Moore, should be read, if possible, before the coming self-supporting workers' convention, October 12-15; for the author of this very interesting biography is to be present at that convention. Dr. Miller himself has visited Madison in times past, as some of you may recall. He is noted not only as a physician and surgeon, but also for his work in the field of nutrition, especially in the development of soy milk. His establishment of hospital after hospital in China before its usurpation by the Communists is almost unbelievable. Over eighty years of age, he is still going strong. The call number is 926.1 M61m.

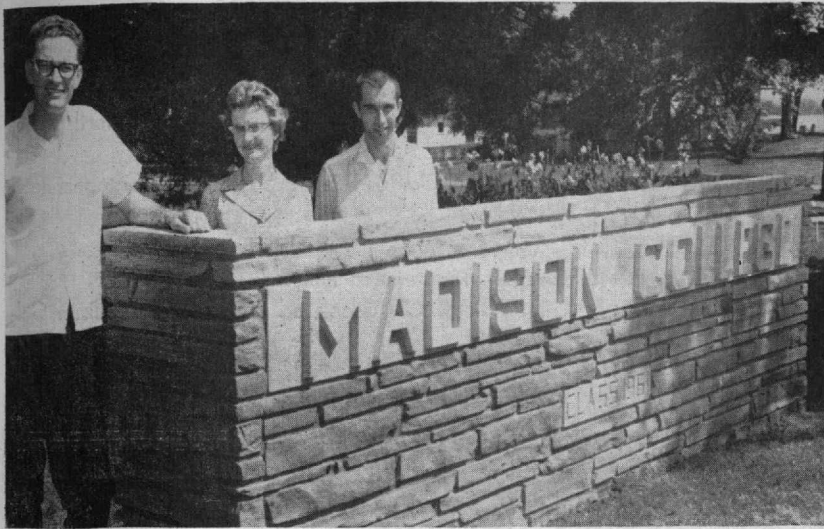

Of especial interest to Seventh-day Adventists is the recent book, The Seventh Day, the story of the Seventh-day Adventists, by Booton Herndon, which gives us a view of ourselves as others see us. The call number is 286.7 H43s.

Mathematics for the Million, Lancelot Hogben (510 H67m) "takes the mystery out of mathematics" and makes it intelligible and helpful to everybody.

Are you interested in Bible study? Then you will want to examine our two new translations: The New Testament in Modern English, translated by J. B. Phillips, and The New English Bible, New Testament. These, because of the demand, must be read in the library.

We invite you to come in and browse.

Probies Probe Pre-Nursing

(with plenty of p's)

Decked out in work shirts, blue jeans, and cleaning dresses, twenty promising probies plunged playfully into the probationary period of their profession at the beginning of the fall quarter.

Armed with brooms, mops, dust pans, soap and rags, the proud probies prowled over the premises of the hospital, prying, probing, picking, and prodding at dirty planks, pillars, and panes.

Their names—Phyllis Bergen, Amanda Bruce, David Clark, Sondra Cuthbert, Dorothy Del Valle, Jane Eickhorn, Amelia Lopez, Phyllis Gross, Walter Hancock, Elaine Hauck, Awana Hirshkorn, Lynda Kin, Lynda Laffin, Elpidio Laurel, Ann Noble, Ollia Stinnet, Jimmie Wagner, Francine Watler, Doonie Wilburn, and Robert Williams.

After polishing the premises, the proficient probies will have proved that they are prepared to practice professional principles and proper prudence with prompt precision. Their attention will then focus on pills, pans, pains, pulses, pressures, powders, pins, and most important of all—patients.

Students Return to Continue Nursing

Four former students have returned to complete nurses' training. Pat Ricks, who is transferring from Emmanuel Missionary College, has joined the sophomore nursing class. Anne Jensen, another transfer student, received her previous training at Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, in Glendale, California. Anne is a junior. Horace Hudson has been employed at Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville for two years and is returning as a senior. Selma Thomas Ferrell, after being out of school since the fall of 1959, is returning as a senior.

Mid-state Nursing Schools Hold Picnic

The first joint picnic ever held by the nursing schools of the Mid-state District took place on Thursday, September 28, at Percy Warner Park. The schools participating were Madison, St. Thomas, Baptist, General, and Vanderbilt.

In order to enable all the nursing students to attend, the picnic time was arranged to take in both the morning and evening hours. There was a very large turnout of students from most of the schools. Most of them were brought in busses which were rented from Nashville Transit Company.

The day's activities included dinner and supper served out doors, softball games, foot races, and group singing. The day was climaxed by an official meeting of the district schools which took place on the lawn. After eating supper, all the students gathered in a group out under the stars and sang a number of religious and folk songs.

New Arrivals

To Lloyd and Ruth Trivett, a boy, Michael Todd, born July 25, weight, 8 pounds, 8 ounces.

To Robert and Ruby (Seibert) Eaton, a girl, Rhona Gay, born September 3, weight, 6 pounds, 10 ounces, in Placerville, California.

To Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gillit, a boy, Gary Paul, born September 29, weight, 7 pounds, 2 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Archer, a girl, Tamrah Sue, born September 29, weight 7 pounds, 2 ounces.

A Temperance Ministerial Institute will be held at Madison College October 15-18, beginning the same day that the self-supporting convention closes.

Representatives from the General, union, and local conferences will join forces with the campus temperance leaders—L. A. Watson, faculty representative; Terry Troy, president of the college chapter of the ATS; Lloyd Trivett, treasurer; and Roger Bradley, public relations secretary.

Elders Scully and Scharffenberg, from the General Conference, will be among the guest speakers, and also Mr. William Plymat, president of the Preferred Risk Auto Insurance Company.

Elder Desmond Cummings, Southern Union Temperance secretary, and Elder F. W. Foster, Kentucky-Tennessee secretary, are sponsoring the institute.

School of Nursing Announces Changes

A number of changes have taken place in the School of Nursing personnel since last school year. The school misses Mrs. Freda Zeigler, who is away this quarter on a leave of absence. Mrs. Doris Thomson is now acting Director of Nursing.

Returning from a year's leave of absence, during which time she received her master's degree, Mrs. Gladys Duran is back with the School of Nursing, being Director of Nursing Service. Mr. Duran is head of the emergency room. Mrs. Naomi Vaughan, who recently served as Director of Nursing Service, is now Director of In-Service Education.

Other appointments are Pat Sutton, clinical instructor; Mrs. George Walper, head nurse in recovery room; and Joe Fields, charge nurse, at Parkview.

tunity to develop your character in ways that will be in conformity with right principles. Some will say, "It can't be done," but let me give you a bit of advice I found in the form of a poem:

It Couldn't Be Done

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied,
That maybe it couldn't, but he would be one

Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace
of a grin

On his face. If he worried, he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the
thing

That couldn't be done. And he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that,
At least no one ever has done it."

But he took off his coat and took off his hat

And the first thing he knew he'd begun it.

With the lift of his chin and a bit of a grin,

If any doubt rose he forbid it;
He started to sing as he tackled the
thing

That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,

There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,

The dangers that wait to assail you,
But just buckle right in with a bit
of a grin,

Then take off your coat and go to it.
Just start to sing as you tackle
the thing

That cannot be done, and you'll do it.

Attention, All Madison College Graduates

You are invited and urgently requested to attend the annual meeting of the Madison College Alumni Association, which will be held on Saturday night, October 14, during the self-supporting convention at Madison College. The time schedule for this meeting is 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Come and eat supper with us at the Nutrition Lab, where we will fellowship together and elect new officers for 1962. The M.C.A.A. has important, far-reaching plans for 1962, which you will want to know about and have a part in. Plan to come and let us have a good time together.

Free gift to 1961 graduates who are present and alumni membership card for 1961.

Nurses Leave for Fall Affiliation

Nine student nurses have gone to Cincinnati to affiliate in the Children's Hospital during the fall quarter, during which time they will be receiving their training in pediatrics. This training is part of the nursing plan which sends a group of junior and senior nurses to Cincinnati each quarter.

Nurses who are now away are Phyllis Campbell, Edith Durocher, Alicia Espinoza, Thelma Hodges, Faye King, Pat Mendenhall, Esther Perales, Frank Johnson, and Lloyd Trivett.
