General Conference Leaders Visit Campus

By CHARLOTTE COMER

Elder Ralph Watts and Elder D. A. Delafield, from the General Conference, each spent a few days at Madison recently.

Elder Watts, a field secretary, has just returned from the Orient and brought a report of the amazing progress of the work there and also in Africa. In many places the branch Sabbath School work is growing tremendously. The first question asked when a believer meets another is not "How are you?" but "How is your branch Sabbath School?" The pictures he showed on Friday night were proof of what is taking place in these fields.

The purpose of Elder Delafield's visits to the churches is to strengthen faith and give confidence in the Spirit of Prophecy. His talks at chapel and in the evening were illustrated with pictures and displays of many books, manuscripts, and letters of historical interest. Of special interest was the large family Bible which Mrs. White, while in vision, held outstretched for more than thirty minutes. The ordinary individual cannot hold it out for more than a few seconds. Pedro Perez established a new record when he held it, at least partially outstretched, for more than two minutes.

The evidence he presented showed clearly that the prophetic gift in the church has unified it and guided it through the years.

Men Entertain at Buffet Supper

By ROSE HOLVERSTOTT

Two forks at this oriental supper. With chopsticks before them, they wait to be served.

Delta Nu Zeta girls were guests of the Phi Mu Sigma men on Sunday evening, May 6, at a buffet supper, the theme of which was "Twilight in the Blue Pagoda." Picturesque lanterns, candles, dainty fans, a Chinese pagoda with changing colored light thrown on it set the atmosphere for the oriental evening. The guests sat on throw pillows or cushions in front of low multi-colored tables.

Phi Mu Sigma President Chuck Morrison welcomed the guests with the poem "Twilight in the Blue Pagoda."

Supper consisted of sparkling ginger ale, a cool cucumber salad, a plate of chop suey, French-fried vegetables, and a lovely dessert of spiced mixed fruit—all to be eaten with chopsticks. The oriental atmosphere was enhanced by fragrant burning incense.

Music numbers on the program were piano solos by David Kingry and Jerry Brown, a trumpet duet by Brian Edstrom and David Martin, a Japanese solo by Keiko Okado, a double bass viol number by John Bryant, and a tympani number by Tom Arishima. In between numbers oriental recorded music added to the enchantment of the evening.

The girls wore casual clothes and flats; there were no corsages. It was a relaxing evening, when everyone had an unusual and delightful time.

New MV Officers Announce Plans

By WAYNE BOLAN

"Total participation of the student body in the thrilling adventures of missionary volunteering" is the aim of the 1962-63 MV society, as announced by the recently elected officers for next year. Their motto is to make the coming year the best year ever for soul winning.

Wayne Bolan is the new leader; Rebecca Culpepper, publicity secretary; Carol June Martin, recording secretary and treasurer; Brian Edstrom, chorister; Carolyn Cothren, organist; Pat Ricks, pianist; Charlotte Comer, transportation agent.

The band leaders are as follows: Frances McKee, Pauline Romo, Operation Bedside; Terry Troy, Skid Row; Herbert Weise, Target Teams; Jim Reaves, Jail Bands; Ruth Gill, Sunshine Band; Bunny Knight, Elias Lopez, Master Guide; and N. R. Gulley, MV sponsor.

The society plans an associated youth organization for the Greater Nashville area and youth rallies. Also in the plans are a youth study group and inspiring nature expeditions. It is hoped that many Branch Sabbath Schools and story hours will be organized. The desire of the society is to reach as many people as possible with the message of salvation. Madison young people have wonderful opportunities in this home mission field. One of next year's projects will be sending another student missionary to a foreign field.

Study is being given to the holding of a student Week of Prayer, in which the students themselves lead out in the planning and presenting of the messages.

Coppage Elected to SDA Nurses' Assn. Presidency

Marlowe Coppage, senior nurse, was elected president of the newly organized Seventh-day Adventist Nursing Students' Association at a breakfast meeting of Seventh-day Adventist nursing students held Sunday, May 20, in Detroit, Michigan. The meeting was held in connection with the National Student Nurses' Association Convention held May 18-21 in Detroit. At this latter meeting Mr. Coppage was also elected a member of the nominating committee of the national association.

EDITORIAL

It Has Been a Good Year

We have the finest student body to be found here at Madison, barring none. You students have really been wonderful this year; you have showed more school spirit than has ever been seen here before. I am very much pleased with this.

But human nature is peculiar; when things are going the best, people gripe the most. This is a strange quirk, because we have had one of the best all-round school years, and yet there are a few who can't believe it, and so they spread a lot of idealism about other schools. "Other schools are so much better than ours." I am glad to say that these people are definitely in the minority at Madison.

Our Improvements Campaign went far beyond the expected. The annual was the biggest and best that has ever been produced here, and the MADISONIAN is taking definite strides forward. We are happy for this and for the very good support you have given us, the ASMC officers, this year.

It has indeed been a pleasure working with you this year. I have enjoyed every bit of it, and I know that you will give your fullest support to next year's officers as well.

EUGEN DOMKE, ASMC president

JOHN BRYANT GOES TO MEXICO

John Bryant, junior nurse, shakes hands with Elder Skinner, General Conference MV secretary, who is congratulating him on his appointment as Madison College student missionary to Mexico for the summer. John will leave for Mexico at the close of school, going by car to the border and then by plane to Chiapas, where he will spend the summer in medical missionary work. He will return in the fall to be leader of the MV mission band, Christ's Foreign Legion.

Alumni Missionaries Visit

About four years ago Jack and Nancy Gibbons and little Nancy Lynn left Madison College for Brazil to connect with the medical work as it is carried on in the Luzeiro medical launches on the Amazon River.

It was a pleasure to welcome the Gibbons family back to Madison College and to hear Jack tell of their work on Friday evening, May 19, at the Vesper service. For a year and a half, Jack, a registered nurse, was captain of the launch, Luzeiro IV. Then he was called to the Belem Hospital to be director of nurses and chaplain and also to do pastoral work.

The pictures he showed and the stories he told all emphasized the need for more medical workers. Little children infested with parasites, lepers who had lost parts or all of their hands and feet, savage fire victims covered with oozing sores—all made Mr. Gibbons' appeal for workers more meaningful. When he asked those to stand who were willing to go to a foreign field if God directed, young men and women all over the room stood.

Another interesting feature of the evening was the display of dishes, a snake, ornaments, native dolls, and other articles which the Gibbonses had brought back with them.

By JUDY BALL

This school year is almost over, and it has been a wonderful one. It has been a very busy one for me, but I can see that God has blessed this campus. Now, I'd like to know, WHAT HAS THIS YEAR MEANT TO YOU?

PRESIDENT DAVIDSON: "I feel that this year has been one of real progress particularly in the scope of vision of the true purpose and aims of the school. There are other aspects also with which I am pleased. We have had a good enrollment. The student body has been outstanding, especially with the ASMC project. Religiously we have progressed. The Gospel Medical Missionary Evangelism program and the building up of the Hermitage Church are but two points. The facts that the hospital has received three-year accreditation and that plans are being made for the new hospital are encouraging. I feel that we have had a very successful year."

HERBERT SCHMALE: "I've learned more religiously than ever before. I'm glad the Lord did not permit me to finish college until this year. I've discovered that Madison College is still a first-rate school and that our teachers are second to none. I've learned that Christ is the Saviour of every individual and that we owe Him all our praise and thanks."

MISS ELLQUIST: "This has been a year of years—packed so full of treasured friendships and unnumbered examples of true higher education, laced with rebud and birdsongs, that I can only say with David of old, 'Bless the Lord. O my soul; and all that is within me, bless His holy name.'"

MR. OAKES: "It has been a pleasure to work again here in the United States and at Madison College, in particular with fellow Christian teachers and students. I regret that this period of change and transition has brought inconvenience to some students, but as one sees often along the highways, 'Construction ahead, a sign of progress,' this inconvenience will only lead to a better Madison tomorrow. I have learned this year that in unity there is strength. Division kills, destroys, and leads to eventual decay and ruin. It is a joy to be associated with men and women of vision who are going forward in faith."

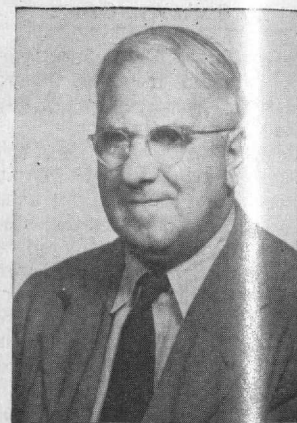

KAY FORRESTER: "This year has meant much to me. The opportunities and privileges presented through Elder Minchin's meetings, both weeks of prayer, and the various lines of missionary activities have greatly increased my faith and dependence in God and my love for Jesus. I have learned many precious lessons from my teachers and fellow students and I thank God for the exalted privilege of attending Madison College."

BOB BRAND: "I feel that this year has truly been a year of growth in all four phases of life. Physically, our health club has pulled many muscles. Mentally, the midnight oil has been added many times to accomplish the daily assignments. Spiritually, many hearts have been consecrated to God. Socially this has been a very prosperous year also. One of the principal reasons for attending a Christian school is to form Christian friendships that will last throughout this life and the one to come."

Pioneer Worker Dies

James G. Rimmer

Mr. James G. Rimmer, for 44 years a member of the Madison College family, died at Madison Sanitarium and Hospital on May 17, 1962, at the age of 76.

Mr. Rimmer came to America from England as a young man, and his inventive genius soon made him useful in various manufacturing businesses.

During his early years in America he accepted the Seventh-day Adventist faith under the preaching of Elder E. L. Cardy, now of the School of Bible Prophecy in Atlanta. He left a lucrative future and came to Madison College, where he took nursing, finished college, and then later received his M.A. degree from Peabody College, all the while pursuing his study of the organ, which he began as a boy of twelve in England.

While at Madison Mr. Rimmer served as a nurse, pharmacist, organist, machinist, and teacher, being professor of chemistry for many years. He was granted several patents, but his most important invention was a mill for slow-grinding of all types of grain into flour.

After retiring from teaching he continued as church organist for several years and as teacher of Red Cross and First Aid classes until failing health necessitated his laying down his duties.

He leaves to mourn their loss his wife, Mrs. Laura Rimmer, two sons, Richard, of the Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, and Andrew, of the Harbert Hills School, Savannah, Tennessee, a daughter, Constance Tiffany, of Walla Walla, Washington, and two grandchildren.

B.S. Degree Courses

Beginning with the fall quarter, 1962, Madison College will offer B.S. degree courses in Elementary Teacher Education and Medical Technology. Both are approved courses. Courses taken under the Elementary Teacher Education Department are acceptable toward certification by the Tennessee State Department of Education. The Education Department of the Southern Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists recognizes courses taken at Madison College as acceptable toward denominational teacher certification. Under the direction of Miss Mary Ellquist, this curriculum is proving to be very popular.

The School of Medical Technology is fully accredited by the American Society of Clinical Pathologists (A.S.C.P.)

Diploma Nurse's Course

The fall quarter of 1962 will enroll a new class into the diploma program in nursing. Students will be accepted as of September, 1962, and will complete their training three years later. Formerly a quarter of college was required before becoming eligible. The Department of Nursing is accredited with the Tennessee Board of Nursing. Graduates of Nursing are eligible to take the State Board Examinations. Passing in these entitles them to practice their profession as registered nurses (R.N.). If you possess a high school diploma or its equivalent and are under 35, you are invited to make application.

Two-Year Technical Courses

In order to help satisfy the needs for qualified technicians, Madison College is offering for the coming school year, two-year courses in agriculture, auto mechanics, printing, vari-typing, and construction technology. A one-year course in home appliance repair is also being offered. These programs are designed to provide adequate standards of achievement under competent instructors. Also, they are designed to develop an appreciation of opportunities and responsibilities of service to God, the community, the nation, and the world.

Medical Courses

The following courses emphasizing the medical phase of the work of Seventh-day Adventists are currently being offered by Madison College: Medical Technology, Anesthesiology, Nursing, X-ray Technology, Medical Record Technology, and Gospel Medical Missionary Evangelism.

Homemaking

A new two-year curriculum in homemaking will offer a variety of courses which should appeal to the young ladies, but which are also open to young men. Such classes as tailoring, institutional management, and quantity baking will appeal especially to them. Clothing selection and construction as well as meal planning no doubt will prove very popular with the young ladies. For a curriculum custom tailored especially for you, choose homemaking under the capable guidance of Mrs. Wilson.

Medical Missionary Evangelism

Gospel Medical Missionary Evangelism. This one-year curriculum which was initiated this year and which has made and is making such a wonderful contribution to the school and community as well as the participating students, will be given again next year.

If you have a trade or a profession, and you wish to become a more effective soul winner, this is a course especially for you. Should you wish to take this one-year course with the intention of working toward a trade or profession later on, you are also invited. Norman Gulley and his associates guarantee each enrollee a thrill in soul-winning endeavor. Don't delay, write today!

Two-year Printing Course

Among the sixteen curricula offered for 1962-63 will be several "new comers." Because of a great need in the field of graphic arts, Madison College will initiate a new two-year printing course which we anticipate will become very popular. Already interest is being shown all over the United States. If you possess a high school diploma or its equivalent, and wish to become trained for work both at home and abroad, contact the Registrar for further details.

At dinner time at Shelby Park plates were piled high with spaghetti, baked beans, potato salad, olives, carrots, celery, bread and butter, topped with punch and strawberry shortcake.

David Martin Wins Pen League Award

David Martin, president-elect of the ASMC, was awarded a check of $15 for his article, "Lift Up Thine Eyes," a personal experience during this his first year of college, which he submitted to the Youth's Instructor Pen League, freshman English division. The award was made in chapel on May 15 by his English teacher, Mrs. L. J. Larson.

David, who has a grade-point average of 3.75, is a hard-working, hard-studying pre-med student. Although he has a heavy school program and extra-curricular schedule, he delights in outdoor sports and participation in camp activities, especially as counselor.

The Youth's Instructor Pen League, in its effort to discover new writers for denominational publications, sponsors this writing program yearly. This year it received a total of 174 papers from nine Seventh-day Adventists colleges and accepted 45 of them for publication.

Business and Secretarial Science

Business and Secretarial Science graduates are in great demand. A training in either of the two-year programs in business or secretarial science offered by Madison College will enable the graduate to help fulfill the demand for these types of trained personnel. If you have an interest in these areas and possess a high school diploma or its equivalent, you are invited to investigate further.

Approximately two hundred students participated in the annual spring picnic on May 14 at Shelby Park. The picnic activities were organized by the ASMC.

Juan Anglada, college senior, planned the day's recreation of soft ball, baseball, volley ball, badminton, and croquet.

The food for dinner and supper—always the high light of a picnic day—was planned and prepared by Carolyn Heer, senior, and Nancy Rosenboom, freshman, and Miss Ethel Bowen, cafeteria director.

Two ball games in the afternoon held the interest of most of the picnickers. The college versus the academy boys played with a score, at the end of the fifth inning, of 5 to 3, in favor of the academy. The college girls defeated the academy girls 32 to 29 in a soft ball game.

Mr. Kunau made trips all day long between the college and the picnic grounds, to make it possible for all to attend at least part of the day. At 7:30 the bus returned to the school with its final load.
