$500,000 Gift For New Hospital

Gift From Hill-Burton

A gift of $500,000 has been received by the Madison Sanitarium and Hospital to assist in the construction of the new three-block $2,500,000 hospital. The gift came from the Hill-Burton Fund of the State Hospital Committee and was allocated on condition that the one-half million dollars be matched with funds raised by Madison.

To date approximately $300,000 worth of bonds have been purchased of the $1,200,000 worth of bonds floated through the Guaranty Bonds and Securities Corporation in Nashville.

New Efficiency Units

Construction on the new 250 bed hospital will begin the first of the year. It is expected that it will be completed from 15 to 18 months later. Special attention is being given to emergency treatment and intensive care units. There will be a new public dining room available to visitors, a new kitchen, surgical and obstetrical suites, a new medical unit, a recovery room, efficient X-ray, laboratory, and physical therapy units, and administrative offices.

It takes 450 people possessing various skills and trained in different branches of medicine to carry on the day-to-day hospital work.

83 Freshmen Take Entrance Tests

Eighty-three weary freshmen staggered back to their rooms upon completion of the ACT, Kuder, and Otis tests, Thursday afternoon, September 13. They learned where their personal preferences lie in work and in mingling with others during the Kuder test, had their intelligence measured by the Otis test, and were examined on their ability to perform generalized intellectual skills by the ACT paper.

The ACT, or American College Testing Program, is divided into four sections: English, Mathematics, Social Science, and Natural Science. This test does not examine one's present knowledge, but rather measures as nearly as possible the student's ability to perform various kinds of complex intellectual tasks that college students typically have to perform.

Otis, Kuder Tests

The Otis is an intelligence quotient test, while the Kuder measures a student's occupational and personal interests, situations he likes to work in, what kind of people he enjoys associating with, and responsibilities he likes to undertake.

These tests do not determine whether one will be allowed to

Students Win Temperance Awards

At the first chapel exercise Mrs. Catherine Thrall and Mrs. Betty Ball, were presented with awards by Mr. L. A. Watson, sponsor of the Madison College Temperance Chapter. During the same exercise Patricia Sheffield, who had also received an award from the National Temperance Organization last spring when she was affiliating at the Children's Hospital in Cincinnati, was formally presented to the student body along with the other two winners.

Mrs. Thrall, an education student, received a third award, a check for $15, for her essay on tobacco. Mrs. Betty Ball, a senior nursing student, was presented with a second award, a check for $12.50, for a two-line jingle, and Miss Sheffield was awarded a check for $15 for her poster entitled "Who Is the Ruler?" During the 1960-1961 school year, she received a third place award for a poster.

Other Contest Winners

Before the close of the 1961-1962 school year several other students received awards for their entries in other writing contests. David Martin, president of the Associated Students of Madison College, received an honorary award from the Youth's Instructor, a check for $15, for his Pen League Contest story, "Lift Up Thine Eyes."

Lolita Townsend and Robert Bowes were among those of the Madison College students who entered the essay contest sponsored by the Missionary Volunteer Society of the General Conference of the North

ASMC Conducts Workshop

David Martin, president of the Associated Students of Madison College, struck the keynote of the three-day student association workshop at Indian Creek Youth Camp earlier this month, when he stated that the true spirit of leadership is the spirit of service, and that the leader holds the position of servant to all.

Officers of the ASMC, staff members of the two student publications, the Madisonian and Cumberland Echoes, and several faculty advisers met at the camp from September 6-9 to formulate plans for the new school year.

David Martin led the general sessions with a discussion on plans for better student-faculty relations. In his remarks on how to be a better leader he said further, "You as student leaders on our campus should treat all the members of your organization with genuine respect, and they in turn will treat you with respect . . . The only ones who will stand the gruelling test of leadership in college this year will be those who possess the spirit of a learner."

Publication Plans

Connie Zanes, editor of the Madisonian, says her staff is planning that the college newspaper have a "new look" this year. The paper is to be five columns wide, longer, and is to be printed on newsprint instead of on glossy paper.

Eva Campbell, editor-in-chief of the college annual, Cumberland Echoes, with her group worked on plans for an even better annual than the fine publication produced heretofore.

On Sunday each publication staff met to discuss publication and production problems, while the Executive Committee of the student association worked out a budget for the current school year. The group discussions were guided by Dean Homer Lynd and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Watson.

Students From 11 Countries 34 STATES

The number of registrants for the fall quarter of the 1962-1963 school year at Madison College has passed the 260 mark. Although this is a smaller number than in former years, it is a considerably larger enrollment than was expected in view of the major reorganization of the college curriculum. In addition, it is felt that there will be a smaller percentage of drop-outs because of the higher acceptance standards which the college has adopted.

Of the 265 students registered, 146 are from the Southern Union. Of the 34 states represented, Tennessee boasts the highest representation, 102, with Florida in second place with her 20 students. The following foreign countries are also represented among the student body: Iran, Japan, Canada, the Philippine Islands, Colombia, Ecuador, Cuba, Mexico, Korea, Peru, Puerto Rico.

This year the academy has 89 students enrolled, while the elementary school has 123 students on its roster, a record high. Both the academy and grade school are demonstration schools where student teachers gain experience by practice teaching. Mr. Warren W. Oakes is principal of the secondary school, and Mr. W. D. Workman is principal of the elementary school.

New Printing School Established

Huse Aids Establishment

A new printing school is being established during the current school year. Elder G. A. Huse, Secretary of the Publishing Department of the General Conference visited the campus during the second week in September to aid in its establishment.

Commenting on the new printing school, which will offer two years of concentrated and detailed training in every phase of publishing, Elder Huse, an accomplished printer and publisher of over 40 years' experience, said, "This printing school will be not only a great asset to Madison College, but also a great help to the printing and publishing work in the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. The printers it will turn out will be able to fill denominational needs because it will give them training in every branch of the publishing work, such as business management, promotion, and an over-all knowledge of the exact art of printing. This type of education will also provide printing students with the knowledge which is so necessary for overseas service."

In addition to the usual basic freshman courses, the special

The Editor's Pen

The old quotation about "too many Chiefs and not enough Indians" may have its application in other parts of the civilized world, but, frankly, here at Madison College we are not too worried about it.

Why? Because each year students, including leaders in campus activities, leave school—graduate, get married, or just drop out. Replacing these students is not hard. The dormitory deans have lists of persons eagerly waiting for an empty bed.

Replacing the lost talent and leadership, however, is another problem. The Admissions office has no similar list of persons waiting to be the Temperance chapter president, junior class pastor, or secretary of the Teachers of Tomorrow. There are no requests waiting in the Dean's office from persons seeking editorship of the Madisonian, or the presidency of the Associated Students of Madison College.

Instead, as each year begins, those who have been given the task of finding persons willing to accept responsibility must accustom themselves to replies like, "No, I'm sorry but I just couldn't," or, "No, I really can't; besides, I don't have the time." Every once in a while there are a few heartening, "Why, I'd be glad to, if you really think I could" answers, but this is not the trend. At the same time as the search for leaders goes on, there are students on the campus complaining, each time they see the names of newly chosen leaders for some campus organization, that "They always put in the same people for everything. Why don't they ever give someone else a chance?"

And then there are others who actually are interested, but are afraid to accept any active positions because they are too "scared."

Now is the time when those who have complained and those who are "scared" can be of service. Don't be afraid to let others know of your interests in some organization. You and your ideas are needed in the religious activities, in the Student Association, in the departmental clubs.

Join the activities that interest you. Don't be afraid to lead out or to suggest new ideas of your own, even if they haven't been tried before.

Above all, when someone asks you to take a position of responsibility or leadership, don't say, "I'm sorry, but I really don't think I can," but accept for a change, and do your best. You will find that campus life becomes a lot more interesting after you have made some contributions to it.

Thank You

The editor wishes to thank each reporter for his earnest and enthusiastic work on this first issue of our MADISONIAN. It is just such earnest, faithful, and willing work that will help the Madisonian to meet its deadlines, to help it give all the news, and to take its place along with the best of college newspapers.

Dear Editor:

The benches once dotted with students
Are now standing empty and bare
But for the little black particles
Which mysteriously fall from the air.

Shoes it is useless to polish,
For the white will not last on the foot
As long as the central heat smokestack
Is pouring out sticky black soot.

The dust seems to gather so quickly
On bedspreads, on dressers, and floors;
The clothes on the line just get dirty
So we have to dry them indoors.

Oh, what can be done for this problem?
Why must we live like we do?
Why must the students be standing,
And why can't we polish our shoes?

Betty Ball

1962-63 Dean's List Requirements

As in previous years students of Madison college have the privilege of having their names on the Dean's list if they come up to the standards laid down by the school.

Because a student who is on the Dean's list has demonstrated his maturity and ability to handle responsibility, he is given more responsibility. Such students are permitted special campus leaves and more social privileges.

The Dean's list is announced after each grade period. To be eligible for this list a student must earn a 2.5 quality point average for that grade period with an "A" in chapel and worship attendance, and citizenship (department and conduct) must be satisfactory.

All students are required to attend chapel two times each week. If a student is unavoidably absent from the chapel exercises, an excuse may be obtained from the Dean, and such absences are removed from the record.

WORKSHOP

The following students were delegates to the workshop: David Martin, David Reams, Lolita Townsend, George Smothermon, Connie Zanes, John Crowder, Carl Adkins, Eva Campbell, Arthur Berard, and Fred Neal.

Mrs. Barbara Sherrill, cafeteria matron and instructor in home economics, was in charge of the food during the retreat.

The busy week-end of hard work included time for some swimming, water skiing, boating, and a tour of scenic spots in the camp.

Dean's List

Chapel attendance will be graded as follows: Not more than 3 unexcused absences per quarter—A; Not more than 4 unexcused absences per quarter—B; Not more than 5 unexcused absences per quarter—C; Not more than 6 unexcused absences per quarter—D; More than six unexcused absences per quarter—F.

Worship: Not more than 3 unexcused absences per quarter—A; Not more than 4 unexcused absences per quarter—B; Not more than 5 unexcused absences per quarter—C; Not more than 6 unexcused absences per quarter—D; More than six unexcused absences per quarter—F.

Citizenship (department and conduct) will be graded as follows: no citizenship letter received during the quarter—A; no letter of counsel received during the quarter—B; no letter of warning received during the quarter—C; a letter of dismissal received—F.

Grade points: 4 quality credits per quarter—A; 3 quality credits per quarter—B; 2 quality credits per quarter—C; no quality credits per quarter—D.

If a student accumulates seven unexcused absences in any one quarter, he is placed on probation and the parents are so notified. The accumulation of five additional unexcused absences by a student on probation during the same quarter may subject the student to immediate dismissal from school. A student who is on probation and accumulates seven additional absences in a succeeding quarter may be immediately dismissed from school. A student who is dismissed from school due to excessive chapel and worship absences forfeits all scholastic credit for the quarter and is not entitled to refunds of tuition, fees, room, or board.

Mr. Gary Schueler Heads Printing School

"I am very optimistic about our new school of printing. These printing students amaze me!" Gary Schueler, head of the College Press was commenting on the readiness with which the students in printing are entering upon their training.

From 1933 to 1940 Mr. Schueler was superintendent of the Rural Press, as the Madison College Press was then named. He then served for four years as pressroom foreman at the College Press, Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Returning to Nashville, Mr. Schueler was assistant press room foreman for three years and then worked for two years as production foreman at the Southern Publishing Association.

Next the Schuelers were called to take charge of the College Press at Southwestern Junior College at Keene, Texas. After three years there he was again called to the College Press at Berrien Springs, Michigan, where he remained for six years as production manager.

For the past two years Mr. Schueler has been working as a pressman in a large publishing house.

STUDENT MISSIONARY TELLS OF BUSY SUMMER IN MEXICO

BY LOLITA TOWNSEND

Doorstep of a primitive people! This is Yerba Beuna Mission in Chiapas, Mexico, located about 75 miles from Tuxtla. John Bryant, student missionary, spent three months working busily in the clinic helping to treat from 45 to 60 patients a day.

John found his main interest in surgery. As general surgery supervisor, he set up the schedules and made up packs and major instrument sets. He was constantly fascinated by the customs and ways of the people. The Chimula Indians speak usually in the Sootile language. Because the people keep to themselves a great deal, each section has a different dialect, and thus presents a language difficulty.

Many Patients

As soon as word got around that an Americano had come to help in the clinic, many local village people came for treatment. Even the Mexican Governor, himself a doctor, sent one of his relatives to the clinic to be treated.

The Chimula Indians often journeyed for long distances to receive needed physical help. Sometimes their journeys took three days, sometimes a week. The sick were carried in by their friends. Often the Indian carrier wore a band around his head with a chair attached in the back, where the sick friend was carried over the long difficult miles. The Indians who came sought relief from the common parasitic infections such as amoebiasis, worms, tuberculosis, skin infections; some had cancer, and malnutrition generally was very common.

Spiritual Ministry

John not only ministered to the physical needs of these people, but also to their spiritual needs. John tells of one Chimula Indian who was caught stealing some coffee. His employer shot him several times in the abdomen. The Indian was almost dead, but his sister-in-law, who worked in the mission compound, suggested that he be taken to the mission clinic for help.

Upon the injured man's arrival his case was immediately diagnosed by Dr. M. K. Butler, and the man was taken to surgery. He was filled with lead and shrapnel, for he had been shot eight or ten times in the abdomen. The surgical team cleaned him up although he was almost dead. He came through successfully, but about a month later started downhill. (To next col.)

ing house in Benton Harbor, Michigan.

Mr. Schueler hinted of good things to come in the future as he talked of plans for the school of printing.

Mr. Schueler also expressed the opinion that the school of printing is most fortunate in being able to have James Aikman on its staff. Mr. Aikman has just come to Madison from many years of service in the U. S. Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C. He is an experienced linotype operator and has also had training and experience in other related skills of the printing industry.

The surgeon found that adhesions had formed so badly that it seemed as though the intestines were almost grown together. He was cleaned up again and treated with antibiotics. By the end of another month he was well.

John and one of his good friends, Elias, often talked with the injured Indian about Jesus and His love. The patient became intensely interested and began to attend church. John says he had to be carried in a chair because of the rockiness of the country. The Indian man's wife, who according to custom had also come along to help care for her husband, likewise became interested in the Gospel. Husband and wife are now preparing for baptism.

As far as the arrangement of the clinic is concerned, John says that the dental office is to the left of the entrance and the medical and dental consatorial on the right. Down the hall on the left is the X-ray department with its portable army unit; the laboratory and pharmacy are across the hall on the right along with the central supply, and the hydrotherapy department is located on down the hall.

John says that ministering to the primitive and likeable Chimula Indian people made a busy but very rewarding summer.

from Elder Don Rees, President of the Southern Union Conference, local conference presidents, and other denominational leaders.

Last year at the Bible Conference the delegates were strengthened in their religious experiences and were trained in personal Bible study in day by day preparation for coming events. The students attending this year will return with new ideas and plans for uplifting Christian ideals.

Student Fatally Injured

Just three days before his wedding to Correne Bunch, Eugene Slaughter, former Madison College student, was fatally injured in a two-vehicle auto collision on Thursday, August 23, near Westward, Oklahoma, the home of his fiancée.

Correne, a graduate nurse of the Class of 1962, was seriously injured, and Eugene's 15-year-old brother, Wiley, received a broken arm and other less serious injuries.

For Mrs. Slaughter, Eugene's mother, it was a double tragedy, for her husband died on August 26 from a long, serious illness. The double funeral was held in Macon, Georgia, on Monday, August 27.

The collision occurred when the three young people were on their way to town over a country road to accept a telephone call regarding the very serious condition of Eugene's father.

No one knew exactly when the accident occurred. Melvin, Correne's brother, on his way to check on his cattle, found the victims and the wrecked cars some time later.

Corrine is recovering from her serious injuries at the Shattuck Hospital in Fargo, Oklahoma.

PRINTING

ized printing student will also study Principles of Printing, Introduction to Business, Instrumental Drawing, and Art and Design. During his second year of training his curriculum will include such courses as Presswork, Machine Composition, Principles of Accounting, Journalism, Principles of Salesmanship, and Advertising.

Elder Huse is a former member of the board and of the constituency of NANI. Besides serving as manager of the Southern Publishing Association and of the Washington Missionary College Press before becoming world publishing secretary, he also served in France and in Spain for several years.

remain in college or not, but rather they give teachers and counselors information about the student so that they will be better able to counsel him as to what he should choose for his life work if he is still undecided, to help him set realistic goals, to determine the size load the student is capable of carrying, and to aid in placing him where he belongs.

Mr. Warren W. Oakes, registrar, says that those who took the tests may counsel either with him or with the English teachers whenever they wish to.

Orientation Week

Orentation Week, the week that introduces new students to the customs, practices, ideals, and purposes of Madison College, was conducted for about 75 freshmen from September 9 to September 13.

In his introductory speech President Ralph Davidson urged everyone to do his best to make the school year and his stay here an unqualified success.

Besides explaining to the new students the importance of the school's keeping complete student records, several faculty members discussed the aims and objectives of Madison, the spiritual values and ideals which the college seeks to instill in all its students. Miss Mary Ellquist, head of the Elementary Education Department, spoke of the history and the heritage of Madison College.

The American College Testing program and the Kuder and Otis tests were administered to the newcomers on Wednesday and Thursday of Orientation Week.

Blanket Fee

Mr. George Walper, personnel manager, explained that $100 of the $160 initial fee was a deposit which will be returned to the student at the close of the school year, and that the $60 blanket fee, a new thing at Madison, covers the student's insurance, lyceum, ASMC, and music fees. Each student is automatically entitled to the privilege of joining the band or choir; he will also receive the Madisonian for the year, and a copy of the school annual, Cumberland Echoes.

Always be eager to assume responsibility as it is often opportunity in disguise.

Faculty Entertain Students

The faculty entertained the students at a "welcome" reception on Saturday evening, September 15, in the cafeteria.

The evening's program included the introduction of the faculty to the students by Dean Homer Lynd, a welcome by ASMC president, David Martin, a vocal solo by Mrs. Lynn Bedford, a reading by Mrs. L. A. Watson, and a few games.

An unusual get-acquainted game calling for questions to be answered with a student's name or his home town was introduced by Mr. John Ryals, instructor in history.

Paulette Banks received first prize, and Arthur Berard and Sharon Sperry won second prizes at the get-acquainted game.

ASMC Social

A warm welcome and a friendly evening of such favorite games as the Prince of Paris, Musical Chairs, and Wink'em, and a grand march led by Dean Homer Lynd, introduced about 125 college students to each other on Thursday evening, September 13.

Those directing the evening's activities included Ross Clark, assistant dean of men, Wayne Hayes, and Dean Lynd.
