Kay Forrester, David Lawson, Crowned Courtesy Queen and King

The crowning of the king and queen climaxed Christian Courtesy Week in the Madison College student association meeting, Monday, February 18. The reigning queen is Kay Forrester; the king of courtesy is David Lawson.

Amid trumpet fanfares and prolonged applause, the king and queen received their crowns and royal robes. Frances McKee, last year's queen, and Don Sullivan crowned the pair. The coronation ended with the new monarchs sharing a dual throne located in the center of the platform, surrounded by the four runner-ups.

The runner-ups were Louise Felt, first attendant to the queen; Bonnie Stuivenga, second attendant; Jim Wagner, first attendant to the king; and David Kingry, second attendant. Mrs. R. Kunau, who made the robes and crowns shared the platform with the attendants.

Trying to hide a few tears, Kay exclaimed, "I just can't believe it." Kay, a senior nursing student, comes from Pine Forest Academy in Mississippi. She plans someday to return to the school to teach and work.

When asked how it felt to be courtesy king, David Lawson said, "It makes you feel good, but it presents a goal of

Neil Douglas Presents The Iron Curtain

The Iron Curtain, daringly filmed at personal risk and showing conditions on both sides of the curtain in Russia, Finland, Germany, Turkey, and Czechoslovakia, was presented by Neil Douglas on Saturday evening Feb. 16. The film is not a travelogue, but an "experience of facts," according to Mr. Douglas.

Mr. Douglas, a graduate of Lafayette College in Indiana, is a writer, lecturer, explorer, glaciologist, and a Geographical Society Fellow in both the United States and England. He has explored over 30 countries and has made more than 8000 public addresses.

The film brings out not only the lack of material advancement, but also the progress of decomposition of the human spirit as human beings are enslaved in the meshes of Communism.

In his lecture Mr. Douglas stated that if all would turn to God, there would be no Communism. He also stated that in order to maintain this atheistic political governmental system, an iron curtain is needed and a thorough and constant re-education. People in the enslaved countries are longing for the type of freedom existing in the free West.

Personal contact and investigations in several Communist countries have enabled Mr. Douglas to know what Communists are and what they are doing. These intimate contacts with the people gave color and reality to his presentation.

ATS Announces Temperance Contest

Deadlines for the annual temperance contests have been set. "Each year the temperance society at Madison College conducts contests to foster an interest in the work of the temperance society. This year, as in the past, the oratorical, essay, jingle, and poster contests are open to students who are members of the temperance society," announces Mr. L. A. Watson, temperance sponsor.

Those who wish to enter the contests must do so according to the deadlines announced by the temperance society: posters, March 21; orations and essays, March 24; jingles, March 31. The orations will be given and the awards will be made at the program on April 13.

Sub-Zero Weather Brings Winter Recreation

Silvery ice, diamond-covered trees, an enchanting world of gleaming white everywhere—not to mention record sub-zero temperatures—made a new world of sunny, comfortable Tennessee and brought a happy enthusiasm to the campus.

The zenith of this enthusiasm was reached when the college and academy were closed on the coldest day. Both students and faculty, dressed in every imaginable color

Three-Week Campaign Begins

A campaign to raise money for a missionary bus and projector for student share-your-faith activities was launched as the 1963 ASMC project on Monday, February 18. M.V. exchange program groups, Bible study teams, orphanage visitation bands, and temperance touring teams are the groups most urgently in need of the bus and projector. The project totaling $2,800 includes approximately $2,200 for the nine-passenger bus and $525 for the 16 mm movie projector.

The project was enthusiastically accepted by the student body upon recommendation of the Student-Teacher Council. Lolita Townsend, Executive Secretary of the ASMC, who made the formal presentation of the project to the students, had this to say regarding the need and practical merit of this choice for the project:

"For some time Madison College has felt a need for an 'in-between type' of transportation. Oftentimes a group is ready to leave, and it is found that some last minute plan has been changed and transportation is not available. For Sabbath afternoon missionary activities we must call on the same people week after week for the use of their cars. Frequently students are turned away because of limitations beyond our control.

"A bus will also provide some economy measures not only in limiting the number of cars, but also in its own economical value. Moreover, passengers and baggage can arrive at their destination all at the same time.

"On some occasions a projector is needed by some group on a trip; at present none is available. The new projector will solve this problem."

Only Students Solicit

The money for the project will be raised solely by the students and will demand a major team effort to attain successful completion by the deadline, March 20. Each student has an individual goal of $15. Eleven organized teams have been set up for personal and letter solicitation.

Students who raise exceptionally large sums of money for the project will be honored in various ways calibrated to the amount they raise.

The bus and the projector will be given as gifts to the college by the 1963 ASMC. The college administration will then be responsible for supplying drivers for the bus, for maintaining the projector, and for taking care of the insurance and upkeep of the bus.

Senior Class Elects Ed Smothermon President

The executive officers of this year's graduating class represent a balanced cross-section of the various classes. Ed Smothermon and Ross Clark, who were elected president and treasurer, respectively, by the 53-member class, represent the eight four-year Bachelor of Science graduates.

Frank Johnson, vice-president; Peggy Capps, parliamentarian; and Newell Brown, pastor, all serve their class as representatives of the 25 three-year nursing seniors. The one-year and two-year prospective graduates are represented by Janet Domke, class secretary. Mr. Miles Roy Coon, instructor in speech, is sponsor.

The class, which was organized in November, is comprised of all those who are completing any course of

From the Editors

As important in a student's adjustment to every-day life as in his helping him become a leader are the qualities of leadership listed below. ASMC president David Martin distributed a list of these qualities to members of the Student-Teacher Council of the ASMC at a recent meeting.

A leader should be punctual, orderly, accurate, a good loser, a lover of people, easy to meet and easy to leave.

He should speak in a low voice and use thoughtful speech; he should not show all he feels and thinks; he rarely interrupts, rarely says "I", looks you squarely in the eyes, rarely tells everything he knows, and is not afraid to have others think he doesn't know when he doesn't. What he does, he likes to do through others.

A successful leader quickly gets to his point; he likes to lead; he has assurance, a good memory, is not inclined to sit too long, and never takes himself too seriously. He dresses neatly, is rarely in a hurry, walks with an easy gait at a moderate pace. He laughs, but only when he means it, and particularly significant, he makes sure he knows the difference between his opinions and his facts.

How do you measure up? This is a good time to start lining yourself up as the potential leader you can be and that you ought to be.

C. Z.

Selecting the annual ASMC project is no easy task. Trying to find this year's project was no exception. Both students and faculty members, however, have given their support to the project which will purchase a microbus and a new 16 mm. projector for the school. These items are especially needed in the Share-Your-Faith activities.

It is inspiring to note the attitude displayed. The students unselfishly placed the needs of the MV Society, the temperance society, and other missionary groups before their own.

With the co-operation of all the students, we are certain that this campaign will soon be completed successfully.

J. C.

Encouraging the student members of the Student-Teacher council to act from pure and noble motives and to recognize that the faculty have an unusually burdensome load this year, ASMC president David Martin said, "Personal feelings toward other individuals were not to be expressed in Student-Teacher Council, for personal grievances prevent successful operation and reaching those ideals of development that should result."

"The high standards of the schools are to be maintained by all," he continued. "The main object of teachers is to prepare students with characters that will stand the test of trial. In this council students and teachers work together, and from this group will walk the leaders of tomorrow because the faculty through their influence in the students' association gave them opportunity to become leaders."

Fire Department Conducts Training Program

Chief Elmer Fast, of the College Fire Department, has been carrying on an intensive training program the last few months for the members of the department.

Regular drills are conducted every Thursday evening. These periods are devoted to lectures on various phases of fire prevention and control. Recently the team was instructed on how to extinguish large house fires with a very small amount of water in a minimum of time—using 16 gallons of water in 20 seconds.

In addition to these regular drills and lecture periods, there is a test drill once a month, in which all the equipment is tested to ensure maximum readiness.

The department stands ready to combat any blaze on the campus, as well as in the surrounding community if needed by the local fire departments. Though the department has answered many calls in the last few years, there has not been a major fire.

The department considers that its main concern and object is to prevent fires.

The following are members of the College Fire Department: Larry Stacey, Joel Craw, Fred Neal, Bill Wilson, John Aitken, Efrain Pineiro, John Sellars, Marlowe Coppage, John Butzman, Elmer Fast (chief), and Eugen Domke.

Library courtesy, discussed by David Reams, vice-president, disclosed many hints to create an atmosphere for study in the library.

Nancy Grotheer, chairman of the Scholarship Committee and president of the Teachers of Tomorrow club, spoke on exercising courtesy toward teachers and parents.

honor to live up to." David comes from Hylandale Academy in Wisconsin. A freshman theology student, he plans to enter the ministry someday.

Don Sullivan, chairman of the Campus Life Committee, and executive in charge of Courtesy Week, presented many tips on courtesy to college young people in the three chapel periods allotted to the week. His committee planned the details for the coronation. The thrones were set against a white background with colored streamers funneling down to the floor.

Decorators were Terry Hickman, Don Johnson, Lolita Townsend, and Esther Minesinger.

Spokesmen of long experience at Madison College say that this was one of the most successful courtesy weeks they have seen. Last years king and queen were Daniel Durchuck, and Francis Mckee.

Chapel Talks Presented

During the week six phases of courtesy were presented by ASMC officers and committee members.

George Smothermon, treasurer, presented dormitory courtesy in three divisions—courtesy to a roommate, courtesy to the dean, and general courtesy in carrying out dormitory responsibility.

"Talk with the visitors that may be sitting at your table," secretary Lolita Townsend stressed in her comments on cafeteria courtesy.

Lois Langford, MV leader, stressed reverence. In speaking of seeking to impress people, she asked the question, "How do you impress God?" One thing that should not be overlooked she mentioned was never to let the Word of God be quoted in jest or paraphrased with wit.

Parliamentarian Brian Edstrom emphasized campus courtesy. "At Madison College," he said, "you are always greeted with a smile—let's keep it that way." Brian discussed several phases of campus courtesy such as opening doors for others and avoiding chewing gum in combination, turned out to try their luck at ice skating and sledding on the pond behind Dean Lynd's home. While some watched from beside a bonfire on the bank, others glided smoothly along over the ice on gleaming silver runners.

There were also the beginners who found that the ice had a tendency to come up to meet them once in a while, especially if someone on a sled was trying the same place as they were.

A spirited hockey game was hampered only by an occasional stray novice who found himself unable to stop outside the boundary lines. Occasionally skaters would visit the fire to rest their weary ankles and thaw their frozen limbs, as well as to share their skates with some eager spectator who soon found out it wasn't quite so easy as it looked.

Happy faces, jovial laughter, plenty of snowballs, scooting sleds piled high with adults as well as with children—on every hand one could observe the holiday air which Old Man Winter brought with him.

MV Leaders Meet at Mammoth Cave

Four Madison College youth leaders joined Missionary Volunteer leaders from all over the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference at Mammoth Cave in Kentucky from February 8 to February 10 to consider plans for organizing, instructing, and saving the youth of the church.

Representatives from Madison College were Lois Langford, Elias Lopez, Lolita Townsend, and Pathfinder Director Mr. Wesley Winters.

April was set aside as "Youth Emphasis Month." That all the youth may have an opportunity to be friendly in a "share-your-faith" way both on the campus and with neighbors in the surrounding communities is the goal of the month.

Elder Rees Proclaims Challenge to Church

"As Seventh-day Adventists, we are called on both as a church and as individuals to proclaim God's final message to the world," said Elder Don Rees, president of the Southern Union Conference, in the morning worship service on Sabbath, February 3. "The message that we are to preach is unlike any other ever heard before, because it is the last message."

Quoting from Testimonies for the Church, Elder Rees pointed out that the Lord will diffuse the knowledge of salvation throughout the entire earth as His people work with the zeal, earnestness, and the intensity of the apostles. Seventh-day Adventists have the answers to the questions that people everywhere are asking.

Every church member must take part in this work, for all that the apostles did, every church member today is to do. The Holy Spirit will accom-

Classes Hold Parties

Games, a film, and plenty of food marked the class parties held on February 9. The freshmen saw the film "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell"; Paulette Banks and Nancy Rosenboom were responsible for the "sloppy joes" and the sundaes.

The sophomores played games, watched TV, and ate donuts, popcorn, and drank hot chocolate at the home of class sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Wilson. The evening was planned by Leonard Reed.

The seniors met in the gym. Lolita Townsend was responsible for the party plans. Ross Clark helped with the recreation and Carol Nystrom with the food.

TEMPERANCE CONTESTS

orations must prepare original speeches not less than six minutes nor more than eight minutes in length. The speeches should encourage the total abstinence of liquor, tobacco, or narcotics.

An essay must be 1,500 to 2,000 words in length. All materials and quotations must be from authentic sources and must be carefully documented.

A length of four lines is recommended for students planning to enter the jingle contest. The jingle must be original and must give solid counsel to those who read it.

Those who enter the poster contest should seek to portray up-to-the-minute ideas of interest in an original style, to attract attention, to provoke thought, and to appeal to the public in the field of temperance.

Students interested in the contests should contact Mr. Watson for further details.

Last year Madison College was represented in the national temperance contest in every category except orations. Mrs. Catherine Thrall won third award for her essay. Mrs. Betty Ball won second award in the jingle contest, and third prize in the poster contest went to Patricia Sheffield.

study, from the one-year Medical Records and Home Appliances courses to the four-year Bachelor of Science course and Anesthesia course for R.N.'s.

Activities of the class to date include a party earlier this month and the annual Senior Class Benefit, which took place on February 23.

When asked about the future activities of the class, President Ed Smothermon indicated that a large-scale fund-raising project was in the offing. He said no details for publication were as yet available.

Graduation is scheduled for August 17.

300 Hear Marley on Brinsmead

Over 300 people heard Elder E. L. Marley, president of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference, giving a two-hour Bible and Spirit of Prophecy study comparing the teachings of Robert Brinsmead, a young Australian farmer, recently disfellowshipped from the church, with the teachings recognized by the organized Seventh-day Adventist church. The meeting was held in the assembly hall.

In the discussion which followed, Elder Marley pointed out that the Spirit of Prophecy states clearly that new light will not be given to one person at the expense of the organized church, which is God's appointed channel of light to the world.

It was pointed out that the purpose of the meeting was to serve as a preventive measure against teachings that are not in harmony with the objectives of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and the Bible and Spirit of Prophecy.

Temperance Team at Narcotics Hospital

The "A" Temperance Team took a three-and-a-half-hour guided tour through the United States Public Health Service Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky, on February 15, while on a recent temperance trip in the state.

The institution, devoted to rehabilitating drug addicts, has more than 900 patients, most of whom are between 23 and 39 years of age. About two-thirds are men. The hospital treats only narcotics addicts; barbiturate addicts and alcoholics are ordinarily not accepted as patients.

Besides providing medical and psychological care, the institution maintains an industrial program for all ambulatory patients. They may work in one of four industrial divisions: woodcraft, needlecraft, agriculture, or printing.

The 1,040-acre federal reservation includes 32 acres of buildings. There are nine cafeterias.

The students spent an hour looking at slides and asking questions. Fred Neal, ATS president, said that the primary benefit of the tour was "the evident warning, which we realized, as we saw how a drug addict falls prey to the habit and the complications and agony which accompany 'shaking' addiction to any narcotic drugs."

Sherry Wittenberg, Steve Yoshimura, Reign at Valentine Party

The crowning of Sherry Wittenberg and Steve Yoshimura as courtesy king and queen highlighted the Valentine banquet of the Academy Students' Association on February 17. These students were chosen by their own classmates because of their outstanding courteous ways.

The college cafeteria, the scene of the banquet, was decorated with hearts, cupids, and colored streamers. After a wonderful dinner Mr. J. Herman, was master of ceremonies of a program of music and readings. A film, Boys' Town, concluded the evening's program.

The following had parts on the program: Jim Herman, George Slater, Dorothy Maxwell, David Kingry, Edwina Nelson.

The members of the food committee were Nellie Campbell, Elizabeth Ann Larson, Loretta Sullivan, Martha Workman.

The decorating committee consisted of Lanetta Paddock, Sherry Wittenberg, Jim Herman, David Reid, and Ronnie Herman.

The students of the academy wish to express their sincere thanks to Mrs. R. Kunau and Mrs. B. Sherrill for helping make the academy Valentine banquet a real success.

The servers were Mr. and Mrs. John Butzman and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Smith.

The Queen

Only four feet and 11 inches! That's right. Yes, we are talking about petite Courtesy Queen, blonde and smiling Sherry Wittenberg.

Sherry was born on December 26, 1946, at Corona, California. Although she weighed only five pounds and six ounces, she grew so tall that by the time she was in the fourth grade she was the tallest of the girls in her class. After the fifth and sixth grades, however, she had quite a time trying to catch up with the rest of her classmates.

Sherry works in the hospital admitting office. She likes any type of sports, enjoys pizza as her favorite food, and enjoys playing the piano. She frequently plays for the Youth's Division of the Sabbath School.

The King

Steve Yoshimura was born on a bright sunny day in June, 1945, at Berrien Springs, Michigan. He has grown to be an interesting, courteous, and ambitious young man.

Steve has black hair trimmed in a short flat-top. He wears specs and a friendly grin. He is always neatly dressed.

Ambition? Though now he works as a courier in the admitting office of the hospital, he plans to be an engineer. His favorite hobby right now is driving his Dad's blue Chevy.

Steve has been attending Madison since the sixth grade. He has held the offices of superintendent of the Sabbath School, ASMA treasurer, and president of his junior class.

Because of being considerate and thoughtful of others, he was selected as courtesy king at the Valentine banquet on February 17.

Singers Chosen for Music Festival

Spring is just around the corner, and with it comes the excitement of school trips, one of which is of most importance. Each member of the academy choir has been anticipating the possible privilege of his being chosen to take part in the annual music festival held at one of the Southern Union academies.

Each member has been asking, "I wonder if I will be chosen?" The question was settled when each member was tried out in turn by the director, Elder Jack Just.

TASN To Choose New Officers

Charlotte Smith, president of the Madison Hospital Chapter of the Tennessee Association of Student Nurses, announced at the last club meeting on February 10, that the Madison Nursing Club has been successful thus far in raising its share of money for the bus, $50 per month.

New officers are to be selected at the next meeting, which is to be held at the Baptist Hospital on February 28.

Enthusiastic Welcomes for ATS Teams

Amid enthusiastic applause and many expressions of appreciation the students of the two Madison College temperance teams tour the Nashville and surrounding areas.

Reaching as far west as Memphis on the Mississippi River, and as far north as Lexington in Kentucky and Albany in Indiana, the two teams have presented their challenging program on smoking and drinking to almost 5,000 non-Adventist high school students in the last two months.

Most exuberant in acceptance of the program were the students of West End High School located in the Belle Meade section of Nashville. The Student Association president, Douglas Bethurum, and Mr. Ray Osborne, assembly chairman said that this was one of the most inspiring chapel programs ever held at West End High.

"This temperance message that you have presented," stated Mr. John Oliver, principal of the high school, is just what our students need."

During the trip to churches in the Memphis area the team was approached for willingness to present its program at Memphis high schools.

The latest tour of the teams extended to the Albany, Indiana, Seventh-day Adventist church, and included a visit to the United States Narcotics Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky.
