California Chapter Meets

About one hundred Californian Madisonites met Saturday night, February 18, at Clifton's Cafeteria in West Covina, according to Mrs. C. E. Randolph, secretary of the chapter. Dr. Randolph is the chapter president and was chairman of the meeting. Mrs. Randolph gives further details as follows:

"Everyone passed through the serving line at the cafeteria, and we all joined in eating together in a reserved Kellogg Room. A joyous time of visiting and renewing old acquaintances was engaged in by all. The accommodations were really too small for our crowd, so we moved out into the main dining area for most of our program.

"Special music was brought to us by students of LLU. Mr. Tui Pittman, a graduate student, rendered two saxophone solos and Miss Faye Heath a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Carol Wittman. Speaker of the evening was Ogden Aaby, former Madison College student and staff member. He told us of his activities in the mission field and also his experiences in the making of soybean products. Mr. Aaby, presently on furlough, is under appointment to return to the Far Eastern Division as business manager of the Youngberg Memorial Hospital in Singapore.

"One of the highlights of the evening was the showing of Kodachrome slides of the new hospital at Madison, furnished by the P.R. Department of the hospital. It was with some nostalgia for old Madison that the pictures were viewed. We all rejoiced that so beautiful a plant has supplanted the old. Everyone wishes it well as it serves mankind in that area.

"The place for the next meeting was chosen as Loma Linda, the date to be in August, specific day to be chosen later."

Dorcas Building Dedicated

The Health and Welfare Center at Madison was dedicated February 26. Maybelle Vandermark was present from the General Conference, and Elder W. L. Mazat from the Southern Union. Mrs.

Lottie Stewart gave the history. A few thoughts gleaned from that paper follows:

"You might say that welfare work started at Madison in 1904 — the same year the institution was founded . . . There was no organization then, with officers, and designated duties, but there was a leader, fondly called 'Mother D.' In those days there were great needs in various parts of the world, and tender-hearted people sent clothing here to the Madison School. Even wealthy people in California and other far-away places sent dried fruit and clothing also for the mission barrels. Some of these garments were given to poor students who were anxious to obtain a Christian education. Some were packed in barrels and sent to the 'Units' and other places."

Tribute was paid to Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen (mother of Bernard) and Mrs. George Bartlett, among the early Dorcas leaders, and later Mrs. Julian Gant. This was before a building was erected. Much credit was given to Dollie Bowen for continually dreaming and agitating the need for a building. The foundation was laid in early 1960, and the building became a reality, although the building was not completed until February, 1967, just before dedication. The building is located on Sanitarium Road between the hospital and Larkin Spring Road. Miss Vandermark said this was the 2,763rd center established around the world.

REMEMBER HOMECOMING, APRIL 28, 29

Remember Homecoming at Madison the last week-end in April. Please write us if you plan to come, and wish overnight lodging. (Also write, even if you plan to stay with friends or at a motel.) Dr. R. F. Waddell, secretary of the General Conference Medical Department, will be the chief speaker. The Saturday night program will be in the hospital cafeteria this year, instead of Williams Hall. Tickets are $2.00 each, and space will be somewhat limited. It will be helpful if reservations are made ahead of time.

Class of '42 to be Honored

A goodly number from the Silver Anniversary Class of '42 have responded. Some plan to be present at Homecoming, and others have written letters. These will be printed in the next SURVEY after Homecoming. If you haven't responded yet, please let us hear from you.

New East Wing Opened

Patients were moved into the two upper floors of the new East Wing of Madison Hospital on January 24 and 25. Medical patients occupy third floor, and pediatrics patients are on the second floor. The first and ground floors will be ready in early April and will be occupied by Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, and Corrective Therapy.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard C. Seely have moved to Madison, where the doctor, a physiatrist, is director of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the hospital. He has the pleasure of heading up this new department in the new East Wing. Dr. Seely completed his residency in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the V.A. Hospital, Long Beach, Calif. He is a graduate of LLU, Class of 1953. Mrs. Seely is a registered nurse and is on the nursing staff of Madison Hospital.

A.D. Nurses' Dormitory News

Classes have been held for some time in the new brick educational building back of the E. R. Moore residence across from the hospital. The young women in the two-year A.D. nursing program moved into the new nurses' dormitory January 26, 1967. Fifteen nursing students are living there at present. The rooms are all carpeted and have a bathroom between each two rooms.

Mrs. Betty Ann Howard, dean of women, and her 11-year-old son, Frank IV, occupy the dean's apartment. Mrs. Howard attended Pine Forest Academy in the 8th, 9th, and 10th grades. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wheeler were two of her teachers.

Mrs. Howard attended Highland Academy and took her nurses' training and anesthesia at the University Hospital in Birmingham, Ala. She worked two years in the V.A. Hospital in Bronx, N.Y., taught anesthesia for nurses at University Hospital, Birmingham, and St. Vincent College, Worcester, Mass., and is now teaching anesthesia at Madison Hospital part time. She is the widow of Frank Howard, M.D., a graduate of U.T. College of Medicine, Memphis.

Alumni Donate Organ and Fireplace

The alumni voted sometime ago to allocate $2,500 of the building funds to furnishings for the new nurses' dormitory. Still later it was decided to spend this money on an organ and a fireplace for the dormitory parlor. The fireplace of craborchard stone was built at the time the building was erected. On February 24, a beautiful walnut Hammond organ was delivered to the parlor. Appropriate plaques are being installed to show the donors of these gifts.

Previously the alumni had furnished the E. A. Sutherland Memorial Chapel at the hospital, and the girls' parlor at Williams Hall.

Community Classes

Community people have opportunity to enroll in one or two classes taught in the A.D. Nursing Program at Madison. Elder Ray Hartlein taught such a class in Prophetic Guidance the first semester, and is teaching Principles of Personal Evangelism the second semester. Also being taught during the second semester is a class in Literature and Life by Elizabeth Cowdrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Riley moved to the campus in January. Mrs. Riley is the former Brenda Botts, and is teaching Psychiatric Nursing the second semester. She completed her work for a Master's degree in Psychiatric Nursing in December at Ohio State University.

Nursing Journals Still Needed

The Madison Extension Division of Nursing of SMC is still in need of certain issues of the American Journal of Nursing. Mrs. Del Watson reports: "We are attempting to assemble a second and third set of these journals for the library, so more students can have access to them when classroom assignments are made.

"The following issues are needed: November, 1958; April, 1960; May, June, August, 1961; April, May, November, December, 1962; February, March, 1963; January, May, October, December, 1964; November, December, 1966.

"Local people may leave journals at the Madison Hospital switchboard. The college will reimburse folk for postage on journals mailed to us. Mailing address, S.M.C. Division of Nursing, Madison Extension Campus, Box 336, Madison, Tenn. 37115."

Proper Postal Address

Many changes have been made on the Madison campus, but the name of the post office remains the same—Madison College, a branch of the Madison, Tenn., post office, and the zip is 37115. This is true for Madison Hospital, Madison Academy, and the Alumni office. (Box number for the alumni office is 396.)

Addresses Wanted

In the December, 1966, issue we listed names of Madison graduates whose addresses were not known. Our grateful thanks to those who sent in addresses of several of these, and helped us "find" them. Keep up the good work. We need more addresses.

Professional Pins Available

The Schools of Medical Technology, X-ray, and Inhalation Therapy at Madison Hospital have recently designed class pins which are now available to all graduates of these programs. (Earlier the School of Anesthesia designed a pin.) Each pin carries an appropriate symbol. The pins are blue enamel and gold plate. They are approximately the size of a quarter. The price is $5.00. Checks should be made out to Madison Hospital. Requests should be forwarded to the department head — John C. Ackerman, technical director, School of Medical Technology; William V. Campbell, technical director, School of X-ray; John Nickless, technical director, School of Inhalation Therapy; Bernard Bowen, director, School of Anesthesia.

Professional Nurses Pins

Now and then a graduate nurse writes the alumni office saying a pin has been lost, and wondering how to get another one. These pins have to be ordered through the Nursing Education office here at Madison. There are four choices, depending on the size and number of initials, ranging from $5.45 to $8.75, plus ten cents for each initial. Guards for either pin are $2.59 each.

While ordering your professional pin, don't forget your dues ($2 a year, $50 lifetime) and/or donation to the SURVEY. If you wish to pay for your dues and your pin all in the same remittance, we will be glad to route the order and the money to the correct place. Address: Madison College Alumni Association, Madison, Tenn. 37115.

New S.M.C. Alumni Officers

Dr. DeWitt Bowen, cousin of Bernard Bowen, is the newly elected president of the SMC Alumni Association, and Wallace ("Buddy") Blair (Madison College '50) is the treasurer. SMC is the fastest growing college in the denomination, according to the SMC Alumni Bulletin of December, 1966.

A.A.C.P.A. Newsletter Makes Its Debut

The Alumni office was pleased to receive a copy of the A.A.C.P.A. Newsletter, Volume I, Number 1. This is the organ of the Adventist C.P.A.'s. Kenneth C. Knight is president of the organization; Ralph Davidson is chairman of the professional development committee; Wallace Blair is membership committee chairman, and his wife, Elsie, is editor of the Newsletter. At the time of publication there were 28 members in the A.A.C.P.A., but there are 70 known Adventist C.P.A.'s to recruit from. The paper is published at Collegedale, Tenn. (Box 9).

Corrections

In the December SURVEY it was incorrectly stated that Dr. Ethel Brownsberger practiced in Los Angeles County for over 30 years. She spent two years in maternity and child hygiene clinics of the L.A. County Health Department; and for 33 years practiced obstetrics and pediatrics in Asheville, N.C.

Also in the December SURVEY under Alumni in Hawaii, Todi Shinkawa was listed at Castle Memorial Hospital, a State institution for retarded children, with 150 beds in the hospital and a population of 790.

In the list of alumni in Hawaii we should have mentioned Marvin C. Midkiff, administrator of Castle Memorial Hospital since July, 1966. Previous to that he held the same position at Hays Memorial Hospital, San Marcos, Texas, and Memorial Hospital in Beeville, Texas.

Mr. Withers wrote recently with a bit of nostalgia for Madison. "We miss the 'old' Madison very much. We were new in the faith when we came to Madison, and our two years there helped us greatly. The nature classes, under James Ziegler, as we met at dawn, or noon, or late at night to study the Creator, helped us draw closer to God through His handiworks. To this day, I look forward to October, when I may again see Orion."

In addition to his triple duties, he has a spare-time business, "Village Industries," and makes rubber stamps. He wrote recently, "I gather from what I read that the Alumni Association is always a little short on funds, like the rest of us. If you wish to start a campaign for rubber stamps, I will give the standard commission of 25% of the retail price on all stamps sold through an announcement in the SURVEY."

We hope many of our readers will order stamp pads from Brothers Withers, and be sure to say, "I saw it in the SURVEY." See elsewhere in this issue.

"Our family has grown somewhat since we left Madison in 1961. We now have four children. Steven was born at Madison, while the other three are all natives of Saskatchewan . . . The Lord's work is progressing here in Swift Current. When we came here a few years ago, there was no church and only a few families as church members. Now we have a new church building, a church school in operation, and a $500,000 nursing home nearly completed."

"I appreciate the SURVEY. It serves a good link for the alumni who are scattered around the world."

LETTERS

Elder Felix Lorenz, C.U.C.

Felix Lorenz, former editor of the Madison SURVEY and faculty member of Madison College for ten years, is now connected with the Department of Religion at Columbia Union College. He writes, "Reading again the October-December SURVEY I noticed that The Madison School is available, free. I have many students here who get very much interested in self-supporting work when I teach 'Prophetic Guidance and S.D.A. Church History' classes, and I would like to coagulate such interests by giving them copies of this wonderful booklet. I am still teaching a full load here in the Department of Religion at C.U.C."

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Herrick, Hemet, Calif.

After working together as nurses for 35 years in several hospitals in California, Lee and Pearl (Hill) Herrick have retired and are living in Hemet, Calif. Mr. Herrick graduated from Nursing in 1931. Mrs. Herrick wrote recently: "I am glad there is some reason to hope the college will be reopened. To so many it seemed a tragedy that it closed. I am sorry about selling the farm land. Dr. Sutherland felt it would be a haven for Nashville S.D.A.'s in the time of trouble ahead. I just cannot believe Madison and all the sacrifices that went into it has outlived its usefulness. I am sure finances or lack of finances determined Madison's fate, but having seen what our organizational work has accomplished in mission work both in the U.S. and foreign fields, I feel that the powers at the head of the work should have been more understanding and charitable. After all, much of 'our' work in the South would not be there now, had it not been for Madison and its vision."

● "I worked with Madison nurses many years at Harding Hospital and elsewhere, and enjoy seeing how some of them have continued and developed. My mother knew the first Mrs. Sutherland as a girl in Iowa—Sallie Bralliar." Mary J. Weber, M.D., Alhambra, Calif.

● Mrs. Irma Kelsey, former student and girls' preceptress of Cabin Court at Madison, sends a SURVEY donation from Hendersonville, N.C., and writes: "The Madison school has had a large part in my life. May the Lord continue to bless the work there."

Vanishing Security of "Good Old Days"

(At the Southern self-supporting worker's meeting in Fletcher, October, 1966, Leland Straw read an editorial by Ernest Lyon reprinted in the Knoxville News Sentinel. Since we are sure our readers who believe in rural living will find it of interest, we are reproducing part of it.—Editor.)

Historians of the future will say of us: "Theirs was the generation that saw the first jet vapor trails, the first blinding light of the unleashed atom, the first rockets carrying men into outer space—and felt more insecure than ever before. Outstanding changes of modern times are: Supersonic air-speed, ability to unleash the energy in matter and to harness it, putting men into orbit around the earth, sending probes to the moon and far planets—and worrying more.

But the biggest change from the "good old days" to the present has occurred within the lifetime of our citizens now in their 60's and 70's. They look back nostalgically to the horse and buggy, the mule and plow, the chicken flock, the family garden . . . A perspicacious chronicler might say that the 20th century separated millions of American families from the domesticated animals and plants with which they had been so closely associated. That was the most radical change from the ways of their fathers. The national insecurity, which so many have noted, may well be traced to the fact that most families have long been cut off from the only real security known to man for ages past—a direct link with the soil and ownership of the creatures which provided meat, milk, eggs, and transportation.

Poverty Is Dependence

The ultimate insecurity is not knowing where your next meal is coming from, now magnified by the fact that a constant flow of money must come in to buy the productive efforts of others. . . .

Poverty is not a new word—but it has acquired a new meaning—dependence. The squalor and poverty of the cities have always been with us, but now there are also the rural poor, small-town poor, mountaineer poor—all facing “instant poverty” if their money is cut off.

No one was absolutely poor who had his own food supply and could “make do” with his own hands. That’s why most Americans have admiration for the independent Amish of Pennsylvania, who cling to the old secure ways of making the earth be fruitful. There is no poverty among the Amish and no juvenile delinquent problem.

Gardens Gone Too

When the cackle of the hen faded in our small towns and countryside . . . when the garden patch no longer supplied a good part of the larder, we slid deeper. We have changed from the most independent people in the world to the most dependent. . . .

The real poverty is the universal substitution of dependence for independence. When we cut our ties with the earth and the animals, we gained many glittering things at the price of vexations, worries and a haunting question: “What will we do if the money runs out?” Inflation bothers us more than whether it’s going to be a good year for crops.

DR. BLANCHE NOBLE BEAKLEY

Dr. Blanche Noble, former student, teacher, worker, and physician at Madison for twelve years, died of pneumonia at Glendale Adventist Hospital, March 1.

Miss Mary Moore gives the following information regarding her longtime close friend: “Blanche came to Madison in 1915 and took the nurses’ course while working for Dr. Sutherland and Miss DeGraw, finishing in 1918. She and John Brownsberger and Elsie Peterson (whom he later married) became very useful and important figures on the Madison campus. She and Elsie both took the nurses’ course, besides teaching about everything that needed to be taught.

“During World War I, 1917-19, when most of the men were gone, she and Elsie ran the farm and raised everything the school family ate but flour and sugar. In 1920 she and the Brownsbergers went to Loma Linda, where Blanche and Dr. John graduated in 1924. In 1925 she interned at the Protestant (now Baptist) Hospital in Nashville. She then connected with the Madison Sanitarium, as lady doctor. She drew the plans for all the covered arcades that used to connect the various cottages of the sanitarium, and the plans for the main administration building.

“Dr. Noble was married about 1929 to Dr. Benn Nicola of the famous Nicola family of College View. Dr. E. A. Sutherland performed the ceremony on the porch of Miss DeGraw’s cottage near the present library. Dr. Nicola connected with Madison for several years. Then they went to California into private practice. After his death she married Mr. Beakley, who died a year later. She was still practicing in North Hollywood, Calif., when she was injured in a car wreck on Dec. 25, 1966. Two brothers survive—Harry Noble, of North Hollywood, a former Madison student, and Loren Noble of Yucaipa.”

Of interest to the present editor of the SURVEY Dr. Blanche wrote sometime ago: “As an English teacher, and in charge of the workers in the printing office, I helped print the first MADISON SURVEY. I had charge of the printing office during George B. McClure’s absence in World War I.”

LENA HOLDER GEE

Word has come that Lena Holder Gee (N '64) was in an auto accident and died February 6. Her husband, Glen, had just been employed by the Florida S-H Inhalation Therapy Department, and was en route there from Pensacola when the accident occurred. Glen received very little injury. They returned to Pensacola where she was hospitalized. She had fractures of the lower limbs, and it was thought she would have a lengthy convalescence, but none seemed prepared for the sudden turn for the worst, culminating in her death. She is buried in Orlando. Glen is continuing his work at Florida S.H.

LULU V. GREGORY

Lulu Gregory, wife of the late Dr. A. L. Gregory, died Sept. 17, 1966, in the Cumberland Mt. Rest Home, Coalmont, Tenn. She was the daughter of Elder and Mrs. Corliss, pioneer workers in the United States and Australia. Dr. and Mrs. Gregory spent seven years in medical mission work in Brazil, and more than forty years in Central America, chiefly in Honduras. Dr. Gregory died in 1949. Mrs. Gregory returned to the States, and made her home at Madison for a time. The Gregorays had no children of their own, but reared nine girls and one boy. One of the girls is Ivy Carrie, wife of Van Baldwin Jackson, who got his B.S. in Agriculture at Madison College in 1957. Mrs. Jackson attended Madison two years, and is an L.P.N.

AUGUSTA EZELLE BAIRD

Augusta Ezelle Baird was born in 1916 at Big Rock, Tenn., and died at Madison Hospital, Feb. 4, 1967. Mrs. Baird completed her nurses’ training at Madison College in 1938, and later entered into military service as an Army Nurse in 1942. She was with the 47th General Hospital in World War II, staffed with S.D.A. doctors and nurses. With a second lieutenant rating, she served in New Guinea, and other places in the South Pacific. After World War II she completed her tour of duty in 1946 with the rating of first lieutenant. She received several medals, the bronze star, silver star, and three overseas service bars.

She worked at Madison Hospital from 1948-51, then at Veterans Hospital in Nashville, and then returned to Madison Hospital, where she worked as a supervising nurse from 1960 until her recent illness.

Survivors are two sons, Douglas and Bruce, who are enrolled in Madison Academy, and her mother, Mrs. Nettie Ezelle, who lived with her since 1947. She was buried in National Military Cemetery, Nashville.

Baird Memorial Fund

In past issues of the SURVEY, we spoke of our Memorial Scholarship fund and our Book of Remembrance, listing those who have memorialized loved ones and the names of those memorialized. Following the death of Mrs. Augusta Baird, a memorial fund was set up to assist her two sons in their education. The response has been good from her classmates, fellow-workers, and friends. The amount of $550 has been received, $100 of which was donated by V.A.

If there are others who would like to donate money to this fund through the M.C.A.A., we will give a receipt, which is income tax deductible. All names (but not the amount) will be written in our Memorial Book under Mrs. Baird’s name. The money is being placed in a separate fund to draw interest. She expressed herself sometime before she died, that her great desire was to live until her boys got their education. This was not possible. How pleased she would be to know of this Memorial which has been set up for them by her many friends. Send donations to Madison College Alumni Association, Madison, Tenn., 37115.
