Alumni Weekend Coming Up

M. C. Homecoming, June 21-23

An outstanding program is on the planning board for Homecoming 1974 on June 21-23. Among the participants are Dr. George Akers, president of CUC, soon to connect with Andrews University, and Josephine Cunningham Edwards, noted author, storyteller, missionary, and teacher.

All meetings will be held in the new Madison Campus Church across from Madison Hospital, starting Friday evening, continuing all day Sabbath, and on Sunday morning a rural living and gardening workshop.

Meals may be obtained at Madison Hospital cafeteria for Friday evening supper and all day Sunday. A potluck dinner and supper will be provided on Sabbath for out-of-town guests by local alumni. (The hospital does not serve breakfast Sabbath morning.) Since it is difficult to provide enough food for all, it would be appreciated if those coming from out of town would either bring some food or make a donation to be used for this.

Some Williams Hall furnished rooms may be rented at low price, as arranged through the alumni office. A few unfurnished rooms could be used if you bring cots or sleeping bags.

Madison is ten miles northeast of Madison, just off Interstate 65. There are several motels and campgrounds near Madison and Opryland, and two K.O.A. (Kampgrounds of America). One K.O.A. is on Dickerson Road, off I-65 in Goodlettsville (Tel. 615-859-0075); and the other is off Briley Parkway on Elzie Miller Road. (Address: Box 40038, Nashville, Tenn. 37204; Tel. 615-889-0282)

There are two motels in Madison—the Madison Motel at 625 Gallatin Pike, tel. 615-865-2323; and the Madison Square Motel across from Madison Shopping Center at 118 Emmitt Ave., tel. 615-865-4203. (Please make your own reservation, but do let us know if you plan to come.)

You may wish to include not only Homecoming in your vacation plans, but also allow a few more days in the Nashville area. Nashville is now known as "Music

City, U.S.A." In addition to historical attractions, such as The Hermitage, The Parthenon, The Upper Room, Fort Nashborough, Children's Museum, and several wax museums, there is now Opryland, U. S.A. Opryland, not far from Madison (off Gallatin Road, the main street of Madison, on Briley Parkway) is one of America's most popular family entertainments, and attracted a million and a half people last year. It is open daily from May 26 through September 3 from 10 to 10 p.m. (Tel. 615-889-6600)

THE MADISON SURVEY & ALUMNI NEWS is our official organ. It helps keep you up to date with what is going on at Madison today and what your school friends are doing. If you aren't receiving it, please send in your sub today. If you have been receiving it and haven't contributed recently or at all, please send a donation to help with the expense. Also, how about your dues?

Mable H. Towery, Sec. M.C.A.A., Box 1303, Madison College, Tenn. 37115. Tel. 615-865-1615, or thru Madison Hospital, 865-2373, Ext. 4647. (Other secretaries: Dorothy Mathews, 865-5350; Edith Johnson, 865-6076.)

Honor Classes

Lists of names and addresses of those in the Honor Classes of 10, 25, 40, and 50 years ago (1964, 1949, 1934, and 1924) have been compiled and letters have been sent to each address known. (This is no small task.)

All Madisonites, whether a member of an Honor Class or not, and all Madison friends are urged to come. If you arrive Friday afternoon, come to the alumni office to register. The alumni office is over the old school chapel, Helen Funk Assembly Hall.

Madisonites come home June 21-23.
Be here to observe the 70th Anniversary of the N.A.N.I., founded in 1904.

Health Advisory Council

The Madison campus was honored this year by having Madison Hospital chosen as the location for the annual North American Health Advisory Council. Meetings were held in the parlor of the new nurses' dormitory April 23-25.

Among those who came, we were pleased to greet Godfrey and Gladys Duran ('55 & '56) of Kettering Memorial Hospital, and J. Wayne McFarland, ('34).

Dr. McFarland is associate secretary of the Health Department of the General Conference, and took his premed here. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McFarland, also were connected with Madison as workers in the food factory and in the library. Dr. McFarland walked around the campus between meetings and noted with surprise the many changes. When he saw the words, "Cricket Club, 1931," engraved on the sidewalk between the hospital and the school, he reminisced on how and why he and other members of the club put in the sidewalk in one day—quite a feat in those days without benefit of a cement mixer truck.

In connection with the Advisory Council, there were special TV and radio programs on Nashville stations. Dr. McFarland was interviewed on WSM radio and WLAC, Channel 5, TV. His presentation of the Five-Day Plan to stop smoking, of which he is co-author, drew a spirited response from listeners. Telephones during the interviews were kept more than busy, the lines were jammed, and many calls could not be taken.

Campus News

* Several new Adventist doctors have joined the Madison Hospital staff—Dr. Willis Marshall, a psychiatrist; Dr. Clifford Ludington, an orthopedist; and Dr. Owen Bell, OB-GYN.

* Thirteen L.P.N.s were graduated from Madison Hospital on Feb. 17, 1974. Mrs. Thelma Pitt '52 was their instructor.

* After serving two years as pastor of the Madison Campus Church, Elder E. R. Gienger accepted a call to the pastorate of the Yakima, Wash., Church. Elder Harley L. Schander, pastor of the North York Church, Toronto, Canada, was selected as a replacement.

JERRIEN SPRINGS, MICHIGAN
HERITAGE ROOM

Graduation exercises were held for 28 seniors of Madison Academy May 17-19. The new principal, Manford R. Simcock, of Pioneer Valley Academy, will be moving to campus July 1. Elder Oliver Maize will transfer from Family Life Services to the academy, as Bible teacher, and Jack Lounsbury of North Dakota will teach German and History.

James K. Herman, Jr. (MCA) was guest speaker at the church service, Sabbath, April 6, at the Academy Homecoming. Jim is now an ordained minister in the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference. His father, James Herman '47, is principal of Sheyenne River Academy, Harvey, N.D. His brother, Ron, is a church school teacher in Oklahoma City; Sister Jeanie is a student missionary in the South Sea Islands; and brother Gary is a theology student at Union College. Grandfather John Manzano '47 from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, was present for the occasion.

The M.A. choir sang Sabbath morning, and in the evening both the academy band and the elementary school bands gave a concert in the gymnasium, all under the able direction of Ralph Pironi.

LETTERS

* Ellus T. Williams owns a guest house for men in Riverbank, California. He is on the Stanislaus County Mental Health Advisory Board, also on the board of directors of the Drug Abuse Coordinating Council, and chairman of the technical advisory committee of the advisory board. He wrote: "We are trying to do what we can for the over six thousand alcoholics and drug users in this county . . . I first went to Madison in 1926 as a patient in the sanitarium and later came into the school as a student, and as a result became a member of the SDA church."

We learn from back numbers of the SURVEY that Ellus was a poet and an inventor.

While in the Army during World War II, he invented an electrically heated stretcher pad for treatment of shock and was used in transporting wounded men on the field of battle. This pad was exhibited at the largest medical assembly ever held in time of war and had the approval of the chief surgeon and others. His invention was adopted for use in hospitals and surgery tables.

* Coress King, formerly director of Occupational Therapy at Madison S-H, and presently assistant dean of women, CUC School of Nursing on the Glendale Campus, wrote that she is now a grandmother. "Nancy and Dick (Dr. English) have a baby girl. She is a darling, and I love her so much . . . My sister, Doris, and husband, Norman Clapp, of Takoma Park, visited me this year."

* Everett and Eunice Christensen are a physician team in Thomasville, Georgia. They never attended M.C. but are regular subscribers of the SURVEY. Dr. Everett is in E.R. at Archbold Hospital. Dr. Eunice is an aunt of Howard Welch, former dean of M.C., and is doing nursing homes inspection with the Georgia Medical Foundation. She wrote: "We are not alumni of Madison, but have always been interested in self-supporting work, and avidly read the SURVEY." The Christensens believe in rural living and have two country homes.

Paul N. Ulrich, Reinholds, Pa.

Paul Ulrich and family live near Reading, Pa., and had a good income from strawberries and eggs until Hurricane Agnes came along and destroyed his strawberry plants. "This was a severe trial and test to me and put me in a financial struggle ever since. I had to fight the battle of faith the best I knew how. But the Lord has helped in a mighty way, and He is bringing me through. Funds were sent my way to sustain me, and I could write a book on the dealings of the Lord in this difficult situation . . .

"We have planted 10,000 plants so far this spring, and we are not done yet. The plants we planted last spring look nice at this point, and are developing fast. We also started a new project here on the farm--a GREENHOUSE! This my wife and I enjoy so much. We sowed thousands of tomato plants plus cabbage, etc., also geraniums by the hundreds. Now we can raise our own plants for the garden, plus for sales. I also want to experiment with berry plants . . .

"A lot has happened in regard to interest in gardening. It seems others have been ahead of us again. We as Adventists feel we have all advanced light, and yet we see others take the lead time and time again. We should be the ones to bring people back to the soil . . .

"Agriculture has had a back seat for many years . . . The motto has been, Take the farmer's son and educate him through the schools, and then he will be of benefit to the church and to the Lord. It was a disgrace to see anyone, especially young people, continue as farmers. Far better to send him through the higher schools so he might be found of worth to the church. But I say this, that anyone who works the soil is already working for God, and need not look elsewhere."

Rose McMains Haston, San Diego

It was stated in our December, 1973, SURVEY that Susan Walen Ard was probably the only person alive today who attended the first self-supporting convention at Madison in 1908. Two of our readers wrote in saying they were here at that time, and now we have two more names--Lucian Scott of Bryant, Alabama, and Rose McMains Haston of San Diego.

Rose wrote: "I was there too. I lived near the Wallace family in Healdsburg, and came to Madison with them. Mrs. E. G. White expected to attend the convention, but for some reason she could not be there. However, she and Willie White and John White came to the convention in April, 1909 . . .

"Rilla Boynton, who was at Madison long ago, came to visit me a short time ago. I had not seen her for twenty years. She is 82, and I was surprised to see how gently time had dealt with her. Her step is light and her figure is trim . . . I'd love to attend the Homecoming, but my husband is not able to make such a long trip."

Daisy M. Anderson, Bakersfield, Calif.

"I took premed there and finished all but organic chemistry. I got married in 1934 . . . I enjoyed the Dec. SURVEY no end! I have one daughter (Mary) overseas, now Mrs. Helton Fisher. Helton is director of the Adventist work in Cambodia . . . They spent six years in Africa. My daughter, Gracie, and Dr. Saleem Farag had a six-year term between New Guinea and Australia. They live in Sacramento, where he works as advisor to the governor on health and welfare legislation, and Gracie is taking nurses' training."

Daisy wrote later that she had retired in January from work in the community hospital. She had been asked if she would go to Blantyre, Africa, to work, and she planned to go for six months or a year on a volunteer basis. However, shortly after that she developed eye trouble, and she may not go.

Progress Report on Randy Dickman

As reported earlier, Randy Dickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Dickman ('52 & '55) was seriously injured in a truck accident near Winchester, Tenn., last year. After the accident, Randy was taken to Huntsville, Ala., where he was placed in intensive care. For 17 days his life hung in the balance. In order to take pressure off his spinal cord, surgery was performed and several vertebrae were fused together. Three weeks after surgery he was placed on a circle electric bed, strapped in and turned every two hours. He was placed in a special room, where he could operate everything with an eyeswitch, which he wore like a pair of glasses.

After three and a half months in Huntsville, he was transferred to Spain Rehabilitation Center in Birmingham, world known as a Spinal Cord Injury Center. Here he stayed two months. With physical, occupational, and gym therapy, he learned to use his left arm fairly well, and a little in his right. With devices he could feed himself. Just before Christmas he came back to Harbert Hills, and resumed classwork in an electric wheelchair. He was able to graduate with the senior class at Harbert Hills in May.

WDNX Educational Radio Station a "First" at Harbert Hills

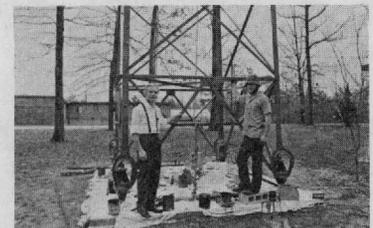

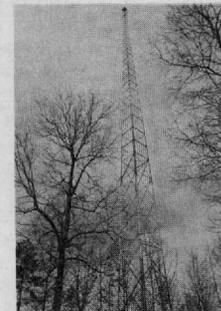

(The following letter was written by Albert Nielsen '53 to the Survey editor in answer to a query for captions and information on several pictures taken on the Harbert Hills Academy campus. Through the diligent efforts of Mr. Nielsen, this first FM Educational Radio Station at any Adventist academy was built.)

Work on our new FM Educational Radio Station, WDNX, is nearing completion, and we have applied for on-the-air testing. We anticipate five hours broadcasting time three days a week to start. The format will be strictly educational, which includes "approved" music and also sermons, lectures, on-the-air type of instruction, and public service broadcasts. News will be limited to local announcements.

WDNX will broadcast on 89.1 MHz with 1,500 watts effective radiated power. With our antenna height 250 feet above average terrain (which includes a tower height of 150 feet) and the hill upon which we are located, we should be able to get out quite well with our signal.

Other Harbert Hills News

The new boys' dormitory, Bransford Hall, has been occupied since the beginning of the 1973-74 school year. The dean's apartment and one wing is complete. Work on the second wing is progressing nicely, and should be ready for occupancy this coming school year. At present, 14 boys are housed in this new dormitory, as well as the dean and his family. The dean is Barney Bowers. . .

ALUMNI NEWS

1936. Luella Doub '36 is presently at Harbert Hills Sanitarium, near Savannah, Tenn. After leaving Yuchi Pines Institute she went to Hinsdale to live with her daughter, Betty Berard. Soon after that Betty died, then Luella went to Memphis and stayed with her grandson, Arthur Berard (X-ray '64), for a time. Friends can write to Mrs. Luella Doub, Harbert Hills Sanitarium, Rt. 2, Savannah, Tenn. 38372.

1939. Mrs. Nina Bogar '39 of Portland, Tenn., was on the campus a few days while her sister, Mrs. Port, was undergoing eye surgery at Madison Hospital. She was at one time in charge of the student cafeteria (Kinne Kitchen) here, while her husband was in charge of the sanitarium kitchen. In 1940 they went to Glen Alpine, near Morganton N. C., where Mr. Bogar was director of work in the sanitarium kitchen, and Mrs. Bogar was matron of the student cafeteria. After leaving Glen Alpine they operated the sanitarium at McMinnville, Tenn. For a number of years she taught Home Economics at Highland Academy and was food director there.

1939. Julius Dietrich came to Madison in 1928. He spent seven years here, graduating from the academy in 1932, and taking his premed, then went to CME for his M.D. He married Elizabeth Vinson in 1934, who took one year of the nursing course at Madison.

The Dietrichs had three daughters. Donna died several years ago. Peggy is married to Benton Basham, a nurse-anesthetist, who took his training in Duluth, Minn. They live at Dunlap, Tenn. The other Dietrich daughter, Carol, married Dale Solomon, M.D., a nephew of the late Dr. John Solomon, who formerly practiced medicine at Madison.

In answer to a query, Dr. Dietrich wrote recently: "Roger Goodge and I went through high school together in the same class and graduated together. I came to Madison from a Catholic background, and Madison was the first school I went to outside of a parochial school. I am in general practice in McMinnville and have been there since 1947. Dr. Ralph Moore and I bought the local sanitarium from the Georgia-Cumberland Conference in 1955. Dr. Moore left to go to the mission field in 1960, and I operated the hospital alone until December, 1969, when because of Medicare and the building of a new Hill Burton County Hospital here, I felt it was time to close. Since that time I have been on the staff of the two other hospitals in town doing general practice and surgery . . ."

* 1939. Lyle Gray of Pine Forest Academy, Chunky, Miss., visited on campus. While at Madison as a student in 1934-9, he worked in the laundry, food factory, linen room, cannery, farm, dairy, and in the bakery with Mr. Kirkwood. He was connected with several self-supporting units before going to P.F.A., and taught elementary school ten years.

1940. Opal Hoyt (N'40) of Loma Linda sent for a copy of Dr. Sutherland's book on education, and reported: "I had both knees replaced last summer, and am walking quite well."

1946. Lyndell Rusk '46 wrote from Keene, Texas, to order two of Luella Doub's book on hydrotherapy, and asked for news of Mrs. Doub. She said she had not heard from her for some time. "She helped send me to Madison in 1941, and I have been in contact with her until the past two years."

1947. Margaret Jensen Adams (N'47) is assistant director of nurses at Imperial Manor Convalescent Center in Madison, and Ila Gurin (N'47) is director.

1950. From the ALUMNI JOURNAL, LLU, SM, Feb. 1974, we learn that Dr. Bryan A. Michaelis, formerly in general practice at Fredericktown, Mo., is now at Takoma Park, Md., associated with the Washington Adventist Hospital.

1950. Mrs. Grace Brooks (LPN'50), formerly on the nursing staff of Eden Valley Sanitarium, Loveland, Colo., is now working in Sequim, Wash. Her husband, Leslie, died in 1962. He was manager of Madison Foods for two years. She wrote of the aching void in the loss of the children's father, and her longing to share the achievements of their two children.

Son Vincent graduated from Dental School at Loma Linda in 1972, tying for top place in State Boards. He married Merleen Hoffman, R. N., and "they have darling identical girl twins," Grace writes. "Elizabeth, my beautiful daughter, has been a great blessing to me. She plans to attend SMC this September, and take either the two or four-year nursing program . . . We must all do our best to hasten the coming of Jesus; then partings will be no more."

(Mrs. Brooks wrote with great appreciation for her former teacher, Edith Munn.)

1953. After her husband, Paul, died last year, Edythe Faust Downey (N'53) moved from Endwell, N.Y., to St. Petersburg, Florida, where she is making her home with her sister. Two years after Edythe finished the nursing course at Madison, she became a victim of bulbar pneumonia, losing the use of her arms. She wrote: "I very much enjoy reading the SURVEY. I wish I could go back and see the campus and my friends again. May God bless all of you."

1958. Cecil Hopps (N'58) is head of the Emergency-Trauma Center, a complex consisting of Emergency, Out-Patient, and Employee health facilities at Hialeah Hospital in Florida.

1961. Annabelle Simons (Anes.'60), of Whites Creek, TN., is doing anesthesia at General Hospital in Nashville.

1961. Henry Scoggins (X-ray '61), administrator of Empress Zauditu Memorial Hospital in Ethiopia, wrote Bernard Bowen about enrollment of another Ethiopian student, Teresa Djaleta, in Anesthesia at Madison. This young man is presently in charge of E.R. at the hospital. Henry wrote in glowing terms regarding Bereket Ogamichael, who came from Ethiopia to Madison, finished Anesthesia in 1971, and returned to his native land. "Bereket Ogamichael has really been an asset here, in fact one of the best and most dependable workers we have. Apparently you did a good job teaching him, for all the doctors are most pleased with his ability . . ."

"We are looking forward to returning to the States the last of August, and hope to visit Madison. It is too early to know where we will settle, but hope it is somewhere in the South . . . We surely owe a lot to Madison. I'm very thankful for the broad experience I got there. It has been of great value here in the mission field. Operating a hospital here requires many talents . . . Most of what I have learned at Madison."

1965. Marjorie Wheatley (M.R. '65) is executive director of the Mid-Cumberland Council on Alcohol and Drugs, with headquarters on Church Street in Nashville.

Technical and Professional Institute on a "Dispersed Campus"

There has been a long felt need among Seventh-day Adventists for a short course of intensive study for those who wish a place in basic human services and Christian witness. With this view, two established schools, Madison School of Industrial Services, Ed Heinz, director, and AVT Educational Laboratory, Frank Lang, director, have combined facilities and incorporated as Madison Technical and Professional Institute.

It is the purpose of the Institute to meet the need of many adults who wish to complete a program in one or two semesters, in order to improve earning power and increase potential for Christian service, but who cannot commit themselves to a longer period of training.

At present, work can be taken at Madison, Chattanooga, or in short institutes at various locations. Arrangements are anticipated to offer work in connection with other institutions that offer unique facilities for training in human services or vocational skills.

A charter for the institute has been drawn up and a board of eight selected. The matter will be discussed at Homecoming. If SURVEY readers desire more information or would like to be involved in this new venture, write the M.C. Alumni Association at Madison, or Frank Lang, 8115 E. Brainerd Road, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37421. (Tel. 615-894-3615)

* Two more names have been added to the Edith Moore Memorial Fund--Frieda Tanner and Beverly June Gregorius, M.D.

He continued his education at Union College, Lincoln, Nebr., where he received his bachelor's degree in 1933.

While teaching at Auburn Academy, he attended the University of Washington at Seattle, where he received his M.A. degree in music. In 1942 he accepted a call to head the music department at Auburn, Academy. After several years there, the Mitzelfelts went to Walla Walla College, where Mr. Mitzelfelt headed the instrumental department. Later, he moved to South Lancaster, Mass., to head up the music department at Atlantic Union College.

In 1950 the Mitzelfelt family, known as the "Musical Mitzelfelts," because of the musical ability of each member--each member playing, and playing well, two or more instruments--moved to Madison, where the father became head of the Music Department. He was exceptionally good at organizing and conducting musical organizations, and in no time at all, an enthusiastic band, orchestra, choir, chorus, and several instrumental and vocal trios were functioning.

Prof. Mitzelfelt, as he was called by his students, was an unusually good 'cellist, having studied under several outstanding 'cellists, and played in a number of symphony orchestras, including the Nashville Symphony Orchestra.

In 1956 he resigned to study medicine at Memphis. In 1959 he received his M.D. from the University of Tennessee. After receiving his degree, he connected with the Walker Memorial Hospital in Ellijay, Ga.

Survivors are his wife, Sylvia June, (daughter of the late W. E. Straw), his daughter, Patricia Silver, head of the music department at Forest Lake Academy, Florida; son, Vincent Mitzelfelt, M.D., a physician in Los Angeles and conductor of the Mitzelfelt Chorale; son, Richard Walter Mitzelfelt, of Calhoun, Ga. and daughter, Sylvia Eddings, of Madison.
