Jay Milton Hoffman Papers

Collection 164

Scope and Content

Jay Milton Hoffman (1907-1986), a former Jew, was a very active and outspoken proponent of evangelization of the Jews. He conducted many evangelistic efforts for them. Hoffman was a leading figure of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in New York City and at the Church's principle evangelistic center in that city, Times Square Center. He was also interested in health issues and became a strong advocate for the lifestyle practiced by the Hunza, a people of central Asia known for their longevity.

The papers in this collection reflect these two major interests of Hoffman. The Jewish work predominates.
