Joseph Wolff Papers (Collection 381)

Biography

Joseph Wolff (1795-1862) was a Christian missionary to the Jewish people. Born into the Jewish faith to David and Sarah Wolff, he took an interest in Christianity and spent his early years learning about the faith, eventually being baptized into Catholicism in 1812. He began studying theology and oriental languages in Vienna and then in Germany at the University of Tubingen in 1815. Ultimately, Wolff was accomplished in 14 languages and an expert in 6. In 1816, he became a student at Collegio Romano in Rome, but was later expelled on account of his criticisms against his professors and the Catholic doctrine of infallibility. After joining the Church of England, he resumed his studies at Cambridge University to become a missionary.

Starting in 1821, he began his missionary travels, becoming the first modern missionary to reach out to the Jews in Jerusalem. Joseph Wolff went on five major missionary trips throughout his life:

- 1821-1826 To Palestine, Egypt, the Sinaitic Peninsula, Mesopotamia, Persia, the Crimea, Georgia, and the Ottoman Empire.
- 1826-1830 To England, Scotland, Ireland, Holland, Germany, the Mediterranean, Malta, the Greek Islands, Egypt, Jerusalem, and Cyprus.
- 1831-1834 To Turkey, Persia, Turkestan, Bokhara, Balkh, Afghanistan, Cashmere, Hindustan, and the Red Sea.
- 1835-1838 Gibraltar, Malta, Egypt, Mt. Sinai, Jiddah, Masowah (Africa), Kamazien, Tigre, Abyssinia, Bombay, St. Helena, the United States (New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C. , and possibly more), and England.
- 1843-1845 To Bokhara and Constantinople.

Upon his return to England after his first missionary journey, he met Lady Georgiana Mary Walpole, of British nobility, whom he married in 1827. Later he traveled to the United States in 1837 where he was ordained as a deacon in Newark, New Jersey and received his D. D. from St. John's College in Annapolis, Maryland. During this time he also delivered a sermon before the United States Congress and met with President Martin Van Buren. In 1838, he was ordained as a priest in the Church of England and made rector of Linthwaite, Yorkshire; receiving an LL. D. from the University of Dublin the same year. In 1845, he was made the vicar of Isle Brewers in Somerset, England.

Throughout his life, he published the journals he kept during his travels as well as other works about his experiences.

Following Georgiana Wolff's death in 1859, Joseph married his second wife, Louisa Decima King, in 1861. While planning another missionary journey, Joseph Wolff died on May 2, 1862.

Scope

The Joseph Wolff Papers Collection contains Joseph Wolff's correspondence, journals, and other various writings from his time as a missionary. This is a combination of original material from the time of Wolff, along with much material compiled and copied by Wolff's second wife, Louisa, following Joseph's death. Wolff's annotated personal Bible can be found in this collection. Biographical materials about Wolff's extended family are also included.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged topically as follows:

- I. General and Biographical. About Wolff, his son, his two wives, and their families.
- II. Correspondence. 150 letters, either holographs (13) or copies (137)
- III. Writings. Eleven documents, ten by Wolff, and one by someone else.
- IV. Book One and Book Two, with their contents listed in sequential order. See below for additional information.

Book One and Book Two.

Over the years, Wolff and later his wife, Louisa, copied many of his letters, journals, and other material into these bound volumes with the apparent intention of publishing Wolff's autobiography posthumously. The locations of the original documents are unknown.

In this collection, though most of the content is in the bound volumes, we list in the register each item (from the bound books) where they would appear in the organized (topical) collection as if they were loose items and could be arranged as shown. We feel this is an aid to the researcher to be able to access the letters or other documents in the chronological order they appeared during Wolff's life and ministry. When the letter or other document location is in Book One or Book Two, the researcher will need to note the box and folder as well as the page or section to find the item they wish to see.

In series IV of this register, the contents of Book One and Book Two are listed in sequential order as they appear in the books.

Book 1 does not have sequentially numbered pages from the beginning to the end. The book is instead divided into three sections:

Section 1 has numbered pages from 1 to 23.

Section 2 lacks page numbers.

Section 3 has numbered pages, restarting from 1 to 253.

Book 2 has numbered pages, from page 1 to 224.

The contents of the two bound volumes are not always in chronological sequence. In some places there is a sequence while not in others.

In summary, the contents of the first three series: General/Biographical, Correspondence, and Writings, are arranged by either category or by date as described in this register.

Provenance

The Center for Adventist Research purchased the items in this collection from various rare book dealers in the United States and Europe in 2022 and 2023. Some of the items in this collection were apparently held by Joseph Wolff's descendants until purchased by Samy Hofmann (Magnus Books), a rare book dealer in Paris, France. The Samy Hofmann items forms the bulk of this collection.

During the summer of 2022, CAR purchased the following items from Hofmann: Joseph Wolff's Bible, manuscript books one and two, Emma King's diary, the "Three Dialogues" manuscript by R. W., the 1842 tract, A Description of the Villa of Mr. Horace Walpole, and an 1835 edition of Researches and Missionary Labours among the Jews, Mohammadans, & Other Sects that bears a stamp from Teheran.
